Vet Performs Rare Operation On Holstein

WELLINGTON (Special) — An operation, said to be rare in the annals of veterinary work, has saved the life of a valuable three-year-old pure-bred Holstein cow, it was learned here today.

The cow, owned by Lewis Wight, farmer residing near this village, appeared to be dying. Dr. James Clapp, veterinarian of Picton, decided to perform the delicate operation.

He removed a three-inch nail which was imbedded one-third of an inch in an intestine, also part of said eye-glass frame which was lodged in another part of the abdomen.

The eye-glass frame was one that had been lost by a farmhand when he was assisting in filling a silo last September. It is believed the cow swallowed the frame during fall or winter feeding.

The cow came out of the operation successfully and is now on the road to recovery.

The operation, it was stated, is seldom performed due to the danger of ensuing complications.

Several Budgets Approved At Special Council Meeting

Salary increases for members of the various city departments, including policemen, firemen and members of the city hall administration staff were under discussion at a special meeting of city council called Monday night as a special budget meeting.

Budgets of city departments and committees not reached at last week's regular meeting were decided and a special meeting will be called for Tuesday, February 16, to set the city tax rate.

Increases of approximately $100 per year for members of the police department were authorized with an amount of $2,500 being placed in the budget for this purpose.

Police in their original request asked for an across the board salary increase of $400 together with a 40-hour week and other fringe benefits. Council was told by Mayor J. Both and Alderman Angus Duffy, who had met with the police commission that police would refuse an increase of $100 and intimated that unless an offer of somewhere between $100 and $300 was made the police would go to arbitration.

Today a spokesman for the police association declined to comment on the possibility of arbitration, noting they had received no notification from the police association as to the amount offered by council.

Cost of a new fire pumper at approximately $15,000 together with a two-way radio for the department emergency truck at about $850, was taken out of the budget on recommendation of Alderman Angus Duffy. "We just can't afford them," he said.

NO ACTION TAKEN.

No action was taken on a recommendation to purchase a combined pumper-aerial truck to be paid for by debenture.

The first budget of $143,000 was approved by council. This is a decrease of $17,000 from the original budget of $162,000 as presented by the fire committee.

General salary increases of $100 for certain members of the city engineering office staff were approved. After considerable discussion the estimated cost of street oiling was left in the general rate.

Early in the year council voted to have street oiling done under the general rate instead of under local improvements as had been done in the past. In an effort to save the public works budget the matter was re-introduced but a motion to place street oiling under local improvements was turned down.

There was considerable discussion both for and against having the work done under the general rate. It was pointed out that doing oiling under the general rate allowed a freer hand in deciding streets to be oiled, advantage was taken of higher government grants, and there were fewer complaints from residents objecting to high local improvement charges.

Mayor Both and Aldermen Bradford, Countryman, Duffy and Safe supported the recommendation to have oiling done under local improvements, while Alderman Clarke, Keegan, Moxam, Smith, Temple, Thomas and Tice, were opposed.

The public works budget for this year will be $223,900 and this is the amount approved by the council. Alderman Bruce Smith noted last year's works budget was $225,085, but pointed out the same as last year would apply for this year.

A garbage collection rate of $4 a mile was approved. It being decided to call for tenders for the collection of industrial garbage which was approved at last week's council meeting.

The budget for the finance and executive committee was set at $62,000 but not before there was a spirited discussion on whether the $200 monthly pension for former city clerk Wilfred Holmes should be cut to $100 per month. Councillors generally were of the opinion that the city had a moral obligation to continue the pension at the amount agreed on by last year's council and a motion to continue the pension at $200 was carried.

Approving the motion were: Aldermen Bradford, Clarke, Duffy, Countryman, Keegan, Smith, Temple, Thomas and Tice. Opposing were: Mayor Both and Aldermen Moxam and Safe.

Alderman Countryman noted that last year's surplus account will be used to pay certain commitments made by council during 1953 and the balance of approximately $10,000 will be applied to this year's budget.

The city's share of the Bay of Quinte High School Area budget amounting to $159,508.80 was approved.

Before the budget was approved, however, Arnold C. Campbell, board chairman of finance, gave a resume of the board's organization, noting that with roughly 50 per cent of the students coming from the city, the city was called upon to pay approximately 50 per cent of the cost.

HIGHER GRANT RECEIVED

Actually the city was assessed for 62.5 per cent of the costs of school operation, but a much higher provincial grant was received by the rural municipalities.

Mr. Campbell said debenture payments on the new College St. school would commence next year with an additional two mills being required. After 1955 when debentures on the present collegiate would be paid off, school costs would fall off again.

He hoped that a surplus made up from payments of part tuition fees by Sidney and Frankford, could be used to offset the peak in school costs during the next few years.

Mr. Campbell said that high school teachers had asked for a $200 increase across the board. However, the board had offered an increase at the rate of $100, starting in September.

There were 49 teachers at the collegiate at the present time teaching about 1260 students, and eleven new teachers would be hired for September when the new school would be opened.

Roy Dulmage, board secretary, noted that if the schools opened as scheduled, the 1954 surplus for the area board would be very small.

The public school budget of $332,384.50 was passed without comment by the board, as was that of the Separate School Board. Both budgets would call for the same mill rate as last year, it was noted, the small increase in the budget being taken care of by increased assessment.

Suffers Facial, Knee Injuries in Crash

Borden Elliott, 40, of Desoronto, suffered facial cuts and knee injuries last night when the car he was driving crashed into the rear of an auto transport at Milltown, ten miles east of Belleville on No. 2 highway.

Elliott's driving east crashed into the rear of the car transport driven by Reginald Huffman of Kingston Mills, doing about $1,500 damage to his late model car. He was treated at the scene by Dr. D. C. McVicker of Desoronto who ordered the injured man to Belleville hospital.

It was reported that the transport driver was just pulling onto the highway, from a restaurant. Slippery highway conditions were said to be a factor.

Provincial Constable Harry Mackenzie, investigated.

SALARY ANALYSIS

For this purpose the Financial Post selected the figure of $4,000 per annum as an arbitrary yardstick of financial success. It is by no means without merit. Besides being a nice round sum, it is also translated with comparative ease into a weekly wage. Anybody getting $77 a week for 52 weeks a year is in the monied class, by four bucks per annum.

The Post reported separately on the figures for men and for women. This at least served to prove that women still have a major battle before them if they wish to win the campaign for equal pay for equal work. In almost every case the salaries for women are a lot lower than those for men in the same job classifications. Five and a half per cent of all men earn over $4,000 a year, but only a fifth of one per cent of all women surpass this figure.

The number of women earning over $4,000 is so small that, for all practical purposes, the statistics regarding women's salaries can be ignored. Dealing only with men, we find some 165,000 Canadians are in the upper salary brackets. Of this number approximately 62,500 are in managerial positions and 37,500 are in the professions. This leaves 65,000 monied men unaccounted for. It is fairly obvious that many of them will be found in the ranks of skilled laborers. Many a skilled mechanic or machinist, in larger centres, makes $77 a week or more. Yet over half the physicians and surgeons in the country, 70 per cent of the professors, 66 per cent of the teachers, 93 per cent of the draughtsmen and designers and almost 98 per cent of the clergymen and priests fall short of the $4,000 figure.

All we want to say is that if any managerial or professional group feels that income alone entitles it to occupy a higher plane in the social and business world than some of the so-called "working men" it had better revise its thinking.

A MEANS TO AN END

Only third reading, a formality, is required to provide increased remuneration for members of Parliament.

Bills usually introduced by members of Parliament, by political groups and by the general public—that this increase is merely a means to an end.

That end is better conduct of the nation's business. The higher remuneration will make positions as members of Parliament more attractive financially to men and women of ability.

Some of the present members have been serving their country at considerable personal sacrifice. The increase in remuneration will eliminate or reduce their financial loss.

But some of the members have been worth no more than they were being paid. In some instances this was the result of lack of ability. It is the responsibility of political parties and voters to remedy this condition at the next election. In other instances members were not providing the type of service of which they are capable. In view of the comparatively small remuneration they received this was understandable, if not commendable. But now there exists no excuse for members departing for long week-ends and neglecting their duties in the House.

LANGUAGE DIFFICULTY

Somebody ought to do something about the English language.

Wrestling with it six days a week can be an uncomfortably strenuous occupation.

For instance, we run into the word "compromised" on the other day. The collision has left us seeing stars. No dictionary will not cure the headache. It was the dictionary which helped give it to us in the first place. For the dictionary confirmed our belief that when something is compromised it is exposed to a risk or hazard. But it also revealed that, in this instance, the English language had decided to be logical and "compromised" could mean what any person aware of the meaning of the noun "compromise" might have supposed it would mean in the first place—namely to settle an issue by mutual concessions. If a dispute is compromised are the disputants compromised? Do you follow us?

The other words mentioned this little tussle had the same day not also brought to our desk "Unesco Features" in which there is a little note headed "A Problem in International Understanding: 3,000 Languages." If all of them are like English, no wonder the peoples of the world find it difficult to understand each other.

THAT NAVY GARAGE

Government agencies have retained a Halifax structural designer to investigate the collapse of a newly-built garage, constructed for the Royal Canadian Navy at Shearwater naval base in Nova Scotia at a cost of $304,000.

We have a perfectly reasonable explanation for the collapse, but we fear that the Government will insist on a costly investigation.

Surely it is obvious that some old salt, discovering that the Navy had to spend $304,000 just to house land vehicles, expressed his spleen in true nautical language. "Landlubbers and lumbers," he roared.

And the garage, new to naval discipline, promptly did.

GIFT AND GIVER

With money men can generous be
And of his gift may proudly boast,
But oft more generous is he
Who gives himself when needed most.

Alms neither time nor strength it takes,
But he who gives himself to aid
The harder contribution makes.

Money's not every need supply.
High purpose must have more than pelf,
However good, the cause would die
Without the man who gives himself.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

FEBRUARY 9, 1934

The Rev. W. A. Hunter was recently inducted as minister of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church in Madoc.

Merchants are requesting customers not to slam the door when leaving, as owing to the absence of the storm sash and shop windows is very brittle and may crack with the slightest jar. During the past week with temperatures considerable breaking of glass has occurred.

Mayor Geo. O. Tice is considering having telephone connection made with Simcoe Island, where about two hundred men are engaged on relief work, if the expected further grant from the government is received. Owing to the necessity of quick action following possible accidents, telephone connection with the city hall is necessary. This was found to be the case when an accident occurred on the job a short time ago.

There is quite a strong agitation in the city to change the name of Zwick's Island, and name it after one of the prominent legislators of the city or district. Mr. Ed. H. Tickell has taken exception "to any change being made. He claims that Mr. Zwick was one of the original settlers of the front section around here and he believes that in opening up this section he did a great deal to serve the honor of having the property first named after him as anyone else."

FEBRUARY 9, 1924

Mr. R. J. Garbutt of Thurlow township, has been elected as a director of the Ontario Yorkshire Club.

Mr. Fred Henderson, George St., has returned home from Detroit, Mich., where he visited his son Kenneth.

Mrs. Edward Baker, of this city, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Connolly, in Lindsay.

Mr. Knight McGregor is home from New York City on a visit.

Mrs. Wilfred Hebert, Brandon, Manitoba, is here on a visit to his mother and other relatives.

40 YEARS AGO

FEBRUARY 9, 1914

At Bridge Street Methodist Church on Sunday morning the formal consecration and acceptance took place of a memorial window which was presented by Mrs. Ella Bangroft Holden, of Detroit, Mich., in memory of her father, and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Jones.

A tablet in memory of William Johnson was formally presented on Sunday evening at Bridge Street Methodist Church. Mr. Johnson was superintendent of the church Sunday school for 39 years.

At a meeting of the Quinte City Official Board of the Tabernacle Methodist Church the pastor, the Rev. W. G. Clarke, was invited to remain for the fourth year. He accepted the invitation.

FEBRUARY 9, 1904

In a hockey match here between the Beavers of this city and the Rovers of Trenton, the local team won, the score being 4 to 2. The teams were composed of boys all under the age of thirteen years and were as follows: Beavers—Graham, Robb, Graham, Bennett, Turner, O'Flynn, and Spangenberg. Trenton: Severs — Armstrong, Ireland, Clarke, Armstrong, McComb, Clarke and Campbell. Referee Mc-Wass W. Armstrong of Trenton.

The city council has decided to raise the sum of $10,000 by debentures for the purpose of putting down granolithic sidewalks during the coming summer.

Mr. W. C. Springer is in the eastern part of the province on a business trip.

Mr. Gr. F. Ketchan, of Napanee, was in town today.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

"Illness as a rule finds its self instantly surrounded by kindness and every possible comfort. It is home, it is an instinctive response. But in the medical profession, the nursing profession and the ambulance services, and in a great variety of social service and charitable institutions, it is the antithesis to be sick and take everything that is offered, and everything for granted!

This question is posed by the case of an old friend of mine who has lately been confined to bed with his gall bladder. He had a stagger in it. He is to be operated upon as soon as he is fit; but he keeps spoiling off the evil day by catching cold, or getting up for a few days and going to a hockey game and immediately having a relapse that puts him back in bed. To be operated upon is to get him himself into the pink of condition.

But he avoids the pink, by sundry small devices.

His devoted wife is growing a little tired of these repeated takings-to-bed. Especially is she weary of carrying a tray up to him three times a day.

"I don't mind carrying trays," she says, "But what makes me mad is, he is never ready when I get there. There he lies, sprawled all over the bed. And not until I come into the room and stand there beside his bed, does he make the first move to start sitting up. He has heard me coming upstairs. I even call to him: 'Here I come!' But he takes no notice. Nope. There I stand, trembling with the tray, while he, moaning and groaning, starts the slow, laborious business of pulling himself together, turning to pat the pillows up . . . I could scream. One of these days, I'm going to just drop the tray and all on top of him!"

I mentioned this to an R.C.M.P. friend of mine, and he was most excited.

"Look!" he cried. "That's the kind of thing that incites murders!"

Using Hitler As an Alibi

(Windsor Star).

As a military mastermind Adolf Hitler probably was not so hot. But there is something to be said about life efforts of German generals, and others, to put all the blame on him for losing World War II.

Behind this, as in the alibis offered after World ar I, is the old theory of the master race that couldn't be beaten unless someone had bungled. The allied forces defeated Germany in World War II as in World War I. Germany was beaten on both occasions because she should have been beaten and the allied forces had the power with which to do it.

Moose Is Elk, Elk Is Wapiti

(Ottawa Journal).

We keep throwing doubtful glances at a calendar given us, it says, by "Bert R. Leboe, Caribou, Your Member of Parliament". Mr. Leboe we found agreeable and it was only right that a member for the far-flung Yukon Columbia constituency should have on his calendar pictures of the Yukon background, a snug cabin in the trees and a great mountain smiling down.

Until now moose had never bothered us much, but the picture reminds us of uncertainty. Mr. Leboe on Saturday noticed a photograph in The Journal of an Alberta deer which was identified as an elk. We thought it was an elk, too. Mr. Leboe, reaching for a dictionary, said it was not an elk but a wapiti. The dictionary said that a moose was the same as a European elk.

Mr. Leboe had a satisfying memory of going to Yellowknife when in BC and pointing out that some day someone was going to kill a wapiti (Elk) there and escape punishment because he would be incorrectly identified as "moose, elk or caribou." The game laws now provide good reason for illegal killing of "wapiti (elk)".

We commended mildly that Mr. Leboe referred to "moose" instead of elk or European elk as it appeared would be correct.

"Oh, that's all right", said Mr. Leboe. "It's quite correct to refer to 'moose' as long as you are using the Indian word to describe the elk. Just always remember that what we have been calling an elk is a wapiti."

Mission To Dublin

(Christian Science Monitor)

Unofficial Australians and unofficial Irishmen are chuckling over official tugging to run up the curtain on Australia's assignment as ambassador to Dublin. Somehow the curtain stuck, and Australia is now host to envoys on what ought to be done next.

It now appears that the hitch was caused by failure of the joint Irish Government statement to agree on the precise wording of the billing which the ambassador-designate was to carry in his credentials to Dublin.

Since 1948, when the Irish Government announced final link with the British Commonwealth, Southern Ireland has been known as the "Republic of Ireland." And until Australia decided to enter diplomatic relations she had the form of title suited the Dublin government, since the six counties of Northern Ireland remained Commonwealth members.

But when Australian Foreign Minister Richard G. Casey, who is classed as an Orangeman, informed the Irish that the letters of credence to be borne by Australia's ambassador had on the lin replied that these must be addressed to "The President of Ireland."

Tactfully, the Australian Government decided to let it go. Australia diplomatically to recognize President Sean T. O'Ceallaigh as "President of Ireland" would raise too many eyebrows and offend Irish pride. Dublin which, incidentally, still remains geographically a fairly large "Republic of Ireland."

The Australians tried "Ambassador to Eire," but that also was not acceptable. "Ambassador to Southern Ireland?" No. The Australians then proposed a simple exchange of letters between the respective Governments, to send an ambassador was Dublin-bound, as was the British envoy, but not to Eire.

Instead of wondering what next to call Australia's ambassador, Dublin decided to call off the whole embassy project. Becoming an ambassador to Dublin isn't simple. You first have to find a title.

When Niagara Ceased to Fall

(Carcnat Magazine)

Particularly heavy storms marked the arrival of spring that year of 1848, but the good people living along the Niagara River were not concerned.

Gale after violent gale lashed Lake Erie because the covering of ice into great chunks and driving huge masses of water into the river, but that was the everyday event of the falls became even louder. Still there was no concern.

Niagara Falls could take care of itself.

Everyone went to bed peacefully on the evening of March 30. In the early hours of the night they awakened, uneasy and fearful. The wind had died down and everything was quiet. Too quiet.

At first, the people felt only an uncomprehending dread. Then, still not knowing what had happened, they crawl into the nearest hotel and never come out again.

I do not identify the persons I call knucklebeads, but fifteen or twenty years ago I overestimated the liberality of the average profession and suggested that it might be worth a good deal of combined if dentists would adopt as their trademark a term about the size of foot—never mind now what the term was, but I still think it was a good one. I allocated many of the profession and, although I believe and preach that care of one's teeth by the dentist is the No. 1 key to vita, that, health, functional efficiency, good looks and long life, dentists stood at the mention of my name.

In a letter to follow I'll differentiate real specialists from what I call "trick specialists." But shortly I offer you a simple test by which you can tell a clinic from a bracket. If medical men is free or if you pay only the actual cost of medicines or materials used, it is none fide clinic. On the other hand, if you pay a substantial fee, possibly more than an honest doctor would charge for comparable service, you—name is Fatsy, that is, you are the boob if the outfit calls itself a clinic.

b—An institution or station, often connected with a hospital or medical school, for the examination and treatment of outpatients.

The trouble with so many of you customers is that you indulge in your childish way that when several doctors go into a huddle they do no more than beat their heads by installing a machine and calling it a clinic. Such a clinic they can do more for you than they could if they confined their practice under their own names.

I hope you will remember the hallmark of the fake clinic is—a

Dr. Brady

Maybe my name-calling rubs the fur the wrong way and makes people look for a wrong meaning, but there's an excessing circumstance here which anyone with a functioning brain can comprehend: the persons I call names are all hypothetical. If any person I have called an obectionable or derogatory name should materialize I'd crawl into the nearest hole and never come out again.

HALLMARK OF THE FAKE CLINIC

A nice lady takes me to task for, as she says, "belittling the efforts of some doctors to do what they can for people living along the Niagara River were not concerned.

Baby Bonus Statistics

(Winnipeg Tribune).

During the recent debate on family allowances in the House of Commons, Hon. Paul Martin, minister of health, gave MP's some interesting statistics. He said that since the inauguration of family allowances, more than $2,480,000,000 had been paid from the federal treasury. This total is at the very month $29,370,000 flows into the 2,060,000 families on behalf of 4,860,000 children."

Mr. Martin went on to say that the Canada Pension Plan, for the age of 16 years, family allowance cheques" on his behalf have totaled $1,188.

This substantial sum will probably cause surprise in mothers who wonder where the $1,188 has gone. It will not occasion as much surprise in father who as a lawyer has been the real source of the $1,188 during the 16 years.

Big Diamond Unrecognized

(The Commercial Appeal)

Felice Mazza, an Italian employee of the Memphis Street Railway, came down at Dar Es Salaam, Aanganyika, Africa, has lived a simple, quiet life. He was found in possession of a chunk of stuff that caused him to be the second biggest diamond ever found in that area. Experts estimated it at $85,000, worth $20,000 uncut and $65,000 cut.

After an extended trial, Mazza was acquitted of the charge by the local court of illegal possession of the stone. He proved to the satisfaction of the court that he did not know what he had was a diamond. Incidentally, it is not unprecedented for human beings to be unaware of the value of what they have around them. Diamonds and other valuables in the rough are often not recognized.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THIS WAY OUT

The fifteenth chapter of Luke contains three parables—the parable of the lost sheep, the parable of the lost coin, and the parable of the lost son. The sheep was lost because it wandered from the fold. The coin was lost because somebody was careless. The son was lost because he was self-willed and indulgent.

Christians talked with an old shepherd in one of our western states one time and asked him why sheep often stray from the fold. "Why", he said, "they just nibble their way out." They keep their heads down to the ground, they take their eyes off the shepherd, they go wherever there appears to be anything that will taste good, and at last they are removed from the shepherd and flock and lost in some defile or among the briers.

There are plenty of lost sheep in modern society. There are the people who just gradually drink themselves into the gutter. There are perhaps crime, or alcoholism. There are people who nibble at the carnal pleasures of life. One gay little flirtation which never seems to get serious and is followed by another which leads to sin, to divorce, to disillusionment. Some people nibble their way out of the church. Everything else tastes so much better than the Sunday sermon and the fellowship of a group of imperfect people. Explanation:

WINDOWS

Nothing is so important in a home as windows—many of them, and large ones. I like this modern idea of great windows overlooking gardens and beautiful vistas. These big windows inspire us to look beyond. We gain the richness and meaning of life when we do.

I recall, as a boy, the homes with little, and curtained, and most always drawn. An atmosphere of gloom and darkness was presented. Strange how we fit ourselves under such conditions. In the open view we are given a book to read—Nature's great library beckons. Some people have a library of books, but his "study" was in the out-of-doors.

We have loved friends and outside friends. Windows are the go-betweens that help to unite our thoughts and give us cheer and outlook. My happiest reading and writing is always at my desk before my windows I took upon the traffic or cars and people. I glory in the great trees. I watch the grey squirrels leaping and hopping from limb to limb. I pause many a time to listen to some friendly bird in song. If it snows I watch the flakes of countless designs fall to the earth and if it rains I note the raindrops quench the dry soil's thirst.

Everybody thinks, works, and lives happier where there are windows. I note that all modern newspaper plants have great rooms with walls of windows for their writers and reporters. People cannot do their best work in dark corners. There is a great skyscraper in New York City that has almost all its exterior in great panes of glass. Our newest automobiles are furnished with greater window space. The more we look out the more we invite within our minds.

TRENTON (Special) — It was 25 years ago this year that the first actual work started at the Trenton air base two miles east of the town on highway No. 2. Flat farmland, involving 13,000 acres was expropriated for the development of an air force training establishment which grew year after year until now it is one of the largest in Canada.

Fred Rose, popular Trenton grinding mill operator here was one of the Sidney township farmers affected by the transition. Other farmers who sold their property to the government to make this great project possible included: William Westfall, Jim Mallory, Sam Jenkens, Harry Hess, Fred Meyers, Gordon Frost, the Harry brothers, James Sandercock and Alfred Hood.

Many small pieces of land were needed to add to the larger tracts to give the government the necessary space for a suitable landing field. Those small land owners who contributed were John Carr, Percy Gauen, Joe Meggison, George Forge and Mrs. William Hutton.

Commenting on the location of the government air base in the Quinte district, Mr. Rose said: "There is no doubt but it has brought a great source of prosperity to Trenton." He recalled that the first excavation work and construction started in either October or November 1929. The first land survey was made earlier with Mr. William Wilson, chief engineer for the Department of Public Works at Ottawa, supervising.

Their untiring efforts and long hours or travelling and talks played no small part in the decision of the Federal government to choose the site near Trenton.

Mr. Rose figures that the first building erected on the base is the aircraft hangar now designated No. 2 hangar.

Council Asks $75,000 Extra For Auditorium

TRENTON (Special) — Council meeting following a committee meeting with the Police Commission passed a resolution advising the Ontario Municipal Board to include an extra $75,000 in the estimates for the proposed new Trenton High School. This additional outlay has been appropriated for a spacious auditorium in the planned educational centre. Providing the expenditure is approved debentures to the amount of $333,500 will be issue to cover the cost of construction and equipping the new school.

Council estimates that $83,500 will be necessary for the maintenance of roads and highways belonging to the Provincial government and passing through the town of Trenton. A by-law was sanctioned requesting this amount of money for expenditure.

A by-law was passed petitioning the highway's department for the balance of the subsidy due the town for 1953 expenditures. This sum totals $12,000.

At the meeting with the Police Commission it was announced that Ken White of 10 Charles Street, Trenton, had been hired as a regular constable with the Trenton Police Force. Constable White recently left the Royal Canadian Navy after five years service.

Slippery Roads Cause Heavy Damage to Cars

Slippery roadways caused by last nights light fall of snow were indirectly responsible for a number of motor accidents in the city this morning with extensive property damage resulting in two of the mishaps.

Damage amounting to close to $1,000 resulted on Dundas Street West, when an eastbound car, driven by Wilfred Cronk, of Bloomfield, was in collision with a westbound auto driven by John Morris, driver for Swift Canadian Company.

Police said the accident occurred as Cronk attempted to make a left-hand turn onto Mary Street. The Cronk auto was knocked against a hydro pole, and was damaged to the amount of about $800, while the other car had about $100 damage.

Three hundred dollars damage amounted to two cars at Church and Foundry Streets. William Howell, R.R. 6, Belleville, was southbound on Church when his auto was in collision with an eastbound car on Foundry St., driven by Leonard Goulon, Geddes Street. The Howell auto had $100 damage and the Goulon car $200.

Clive White, of Stirling, was southbound on North Front St., when his car was in collision with that of Vernon Foster, of North Front Street, as it was being backed from a private driveway. Damage of about $150 resulted to the White car.

At least half a dozen other accidents resulting in minor fender damages occurred during the past 24 hours.

Fashion Critics, Buyers View Spring Styles

BY MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The world's fashion critics and buyers settled in gilt chairs in a dove grey salon to see the spring styles presented by Norman Hartnell, Britain's best-known designer.

Perhaps the Queen's visit "Town Under" was responsible for the biggest Hartnell collection in several seasons. With time off from royal commitments, the designer showed about 100 models, including simple town suits, elegant day dresses, short evening styles and court gowns lavishly trimmed with mother of pearl.

The severe plainness of the first design was typical of Hartnell's show. It was a beige tweed dress and long loose coat that some elegant woman might soon wear for a three-figure fee. The simplicity of its tailored styling was broken only by stitched braces running down the back of the dress to a matching belt.

FORMAL ELEGANCE

Sophisticated afternoon and cocktail dresses followed, interspersed with town and country tweeds, summer silks and bird-of-paradise ball gowns elaborately embroidered for a queen and her court.

Hartnell was out to prove to the women who pay upwards of $200 for an embroidered gown that nothing can challenge the floor-length gown for grand occasions.

He relegated even the most elegant short evening dresses to a middle place—although some of London's "top 12" showed no long gowns. "Perfect medium dresses for perfectly medium occasions," was Hartnell's summing-up.

SIMPLE DAY DRESSES

Day dresses are simple, mostly collarless, with straight skirts softened by loops of big draping and side panels. There are unpressed pleats coming from the hips, wide flares, accordion and barrel pleating for soft wools and silks. Much lace is used for garden party and Ascot outfits.

In contrast with most of the "top 12" Hartnell uses the moulded or "long-legged look." This means an unbroken line and natural waist from bust to hips. Intricacies of design come above and below this girdle middle.

Any comment rippled through the audience as names such as "same old sweetheart" heralded a black dress embroidered from neck to hem in floral emblems. "Cherie" was a gigantic lace embroidered ball gown, its 1920 V-neckline and sleeveless armholes embroidered with ruby-red jewelled "motifs. A white satin evening dress glittered with jewelled sprays of peacock feathers.

Mrs. Reg. Wallbridge, who was convener for the "Citizenship Activities and Public Relations," then took charge if the meeting. Mrs. Barber read a short item on this subject taken from the Reader's Digest, after which, with the help of her mother, Mrs. J. Wallbridge who acted as commentator, Mrs. Barber showed slides which had been taken by Mrs. Wallbridge and her party on their trip to the west coast of Canada and parts of the United States during the past summer. The slides were very interesting.

In the conclusion, Mrs. B. Anderson moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Barber and Mrs. Wallbridge for showing the slides and also to the hostesses for their hospitality.

After the meeting closed the hostesses served refreshments, during which time the ladies enjoyed a social half-hour.

HEAT BY-LAW PASSED

TORONTO (CP)—A new "heat by-law" was passed unanimously by city council today requiring landlords providing heat for rented dwellings to keep the temperature at least 68 degrees between Oct. 15 and May 15. If approved by the legislature, the by-law will take effect next Oct. 15.

Congregational Meeting

REDNERSVILLE — A splendid group attended the Congregational supper in the Centre United Church, last night. Friday evening Representatives from the Rednersville-Victoria, Centre and Albury churches were invited to attend. After the supper fellowship hour the Rev. T. J. Townsend, B.A., B.D. opened the program. Stories of the year were brought by Mrs. Hazel Weese of Albury, Mrs. Leon Ward of Rednersville, Mr. Donald Switzer from Hillcrest Church and Mrs. Victoria. These were of deep interest to all and showed a year of progress and growth.

Four new groups were formed during the year. The Young Married People, The "Re-Alls", the Canadian Girls in Training, the "Tyros", and The "Explorers". Mrs. Lorne Brickman, as representative of the official board, brought greetings and words of encouragement and congratulations.

The Women's Missionary Society had exceeded their Advance in givings, and enjoyed a fine year together. Victoria Mission Band reports a gift of $10, Centre Band $50, and Rednersville Band $60. The Presbyterial Treasurer, Mrs. W. Howell, of Centre, pleased all with her report of $1,000 as will and fellowship which exists in the congregation. Mr. Donald Spencer noticed the appreciation of the parents for the work being done by the children and the interest in the public schools each week.

Mrs. R. Hall and Mr. Department shows an increase which is indicative of the spiritual life of the

Lunch-Box Menus For Factory Workers

By Mary Moore

THE RESENTS BEING "TAKEN FOR GRANTED"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For two and a half years I have been going with one boy, and we have talked a lot about getting married when I graduate from school next year. He graduates this year.

What is bothering me, though, is that he seems to take me for granted and, where he used to ask me for dates two or three times a week, he now only asks me for one date during the weekend, and then he waits until they very last minute to ask me. I'm always saying that the next time he waits to 11 the last minute, I won't go with him, but I always do anyway.

We also have a lot of arguments about various things, and keep patching up, but pretty soon everything starts all over again.

My friends tell me I am foolish to take all this from him, but I like him too much to break up with him. I know, though, that if we did break up I could have dates with some of the other boys around here.

Please give me your advice as soon as possible, because our junior prom is coming up soon and I need it before then.

A.H.

Dear A. H.:

If there are all these boys with whom you could have dates, why don't you break up with him for the prom and give your boy friend a jolt? It seems to me that if you and he have so many arguments, and you're so resentful about his attitude toward dates, you're about at the point where you're getting on each other's nerves, anyhow. The very fact that you talk about these other boys whom you could go out indicates that you might really LIKE them, were free to do so.

If a friendship can't be happy and free from quarrels, it's not worth much, and if you want to go out with others for awhile you might find your friendship with this boy taking on a new lease on life.

HER BOY FRIEND IS MOODY SINCE LEAVING THE SERVICE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Ever since my boy friend came out of the service a few months ago, he has been moody, and I don't know why. It seems especially noticeable when he is down at my house, but I can't see why that should be, because my parents like him and try to make him feel at home.

I haven't mentioned this moodiness to him because I wanted to find out first if I was right.

Helen T.

Dear Helen:

Even though your parents are friendly with the boy, he still may feel a little self-conscious in their presence. Many young people feel a bit awkward when older people are around, even though the adults do their best to put them at ease. If your boy friend's moodiness is apparent chiefly under these circumstances, try to give no attention to it.

On the other hand, if he is moody most of the time, that is a different matter and not a healthy state of mind for any young man. Possibly this chap's experiences in the service have dampened his spirits and left him more thoughtful and quiet than he used to be.

My advice to you would be to wait a little while and see if these moods don't gradually disappear. If they don't, then if might be a good thing if you did discuss the matter with him and see if you can find out what is troubling him. If he can't put a finger on any specific thing, but just tells you there's the way he feels, then you might suggest he pay a visit to his doctor who could find out just what is wrong and make suggestions accordingly.

The factory worker who carries his lunch must be clever and deserves special attention from his beloved and loving lunch packer, be she mother, wife, sister or daughter.

Remember, at best a carried lunch is cold comfort—even if it does contain a thermos full of hot soup or coffee. The luncher's hungry is satisfied but he is not with his own loved ones, sitting in his favorite dining chair, at ease and relaxed. So fi is the duty and the privilege of the lunch packer to make his lunch a pleasant daily surprise.

I'm strongly against last-minute rush lunch packing. This is not a makeshift meal. If it is impossible to pack the lunch the night before and keep it in the refrigerator, at least have your sandwich fillings planned and ready.

Now the next preachment concerns the whole wheat bread. The husband of one of my friends will not eat wheat bread. His reason: he's always eaten white. Now this young man is highly intelligent and if he knew how he could keep his own good health and vigor by eating bread which he is threatened with) if he would switch from white to whole wheat. 100 per cent whole wheat contains nutrients that are lacking in white bread, even does not. Some of these nutrients are only trace minerals but nevertheless these are indispensable to good health and flavor and enjoy the blessings of whole wheat bread. If you are seeking good health and flavor whole wheat bread is your dish.

FACTORY WORKERS' LUNCH BOXES

(1) In thermos tomato soup; sliced, canned, chilled corned beef with French mustard and lettuce — two 2-slice whole wheat bread sandwiches; 1 raw carrot cut into slivers wrapped in wax paper; celery heart; 1-2 pint milk, banana;

(2) Two 2-slice whole wheat bread sandwiches, with chopped hard-cooked eggs (2) and green relish and mayonnaise; 1 fresh tomato; 1 apple; two oat cake squares; coffee in thermos.

(3) Two hard-cooked eggs peeled and wrapped in wax paper; (occasionally "devil" these eggs); two 2-slice peanut-crush sandwiches on whole wheat; 1-3 head hard lettuce; 6 radishes; 1 tiny orange, 2 brownies; tea in thermos.

(4) Consomme in thermos; two 2-slice salmon and chopped pickle sandwiches on whole wheat; 1-3 small cucumber; bunch of grapes, piece of cheddar cheese 2 slices buttered nut bread, 1-2 pint milk.

(5) Two fried chicken legs; celery hearts; 1-2 green pepper cut in strips; sandwich relish and red lettuce sandwiches on whole wheat (2); white cream cheese and apple pie (place this pie on wedge-shaped piece of cardboard to fit bottom crust of pie, then wrap in double wax paper); hot cocoa in thermos.

(6) Liver-spread sandwiches (see recipe) — two 2-slice on whole wheat; shredded cabbage and carrot salad in covered salad container; table flag; butter knife in thermos cafe au lait, ready.

LIVER SPREAD

When I make liver spread for special occasions I use chicken livers. Calver beef will do of course, but is more expensive. Also beef or pork liver but flavor is not as good. In 1 cup water simmer 1-2 lb. fresh chicken livers for 15 minutes. Drain. In 2 tablespoons butter gently sauté 2 tablespoons chopped onion until soft but not brown. Add cooked livers and sauteed onion, through finest knife of food chopper twice. Add 2 tablespoons mayonnaise (or a little more) 1-4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1-8 teaspoon pepper and 1-2 teaspoon salt. Other additions might be Worcestershire sauce or crumbled crisp bacon. Work the paste until it is soft and of smooth spreading consistency. Store in covered jar in refrigerator.

Remember to: (1) occasionally add little treats to the lunch box such as nuts or candy in wax paper twists; (2) add surprise soup (like clam chowder or thin chili con carne in thermos; (3) substitute meaty baked sandwiches for meat in sandwiches occasionally. At such times make cream cheese or peanut butter sandwiches.

FIGHTING YALE MEN

He fined each of them $20 for breach of the peace. One student was acquitted in the case of another, who did not appear, was put off until Feb. 11.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it ever really correct to thank a hostess for her "delicious dinner?" This question arose in our sewing club meeting. As we see we very often "swap" recipes and talk about various good dishes. So it was natural, I suppose, that some of the members thought they should be "thanked" for a particularly delicious dinner. Others didn't believe in manners so thank for the good time they had at the party, rather than thanking for the food. May we please have your answer to be read at our next meeting?

"Our" Club

Thank-you to the hostess should not be said for the food only. That is, we should not say "Thank you for the delicious dinner', or "I enjoyed your delicious dinner very much; thank you." Rather, we should say is our thank-you for the good time we've had at the party, and then add some appreciative comments about the food, either "the delicious dinner", say, or specifically about some food that is a specialty of the hostess. For example, as we are leaving we may say, "I've had a most delightful evening. It was a wonderful party, and you and Bob are perfect hosts."

When the occasion is an informal dinner—as most dinners are today), the hostess who is also cook will naturally be delighted to add to your thanks for the party: "And what a wonderful way you have with fried chicken and lemon meringue pie!"

Kiwanis Kweens Enjoy Cosmetic Demonstration

The regular monthly meeting of the Kiwanis Kweens was held Thursday. The Program was excellent and members and guests spent a pleasant evening. Reports from the various committees, summing up their month's activities were read. The Ways and Means committee have been working hard finalizing the plans for the annual Valentine tea and bridge next week.

Mrs. W. Cook emphasized that bridge will begin at 8.15 p.m. in order to permit ample time for a good bridge game prior to the serving of tea. The members will be contacted for their contributions of delicious sandwiches and cakes.

Helena Duffy reported on the help extended by the Welfare Committee. Help is needed in both the city this winter, and the families helped were nearly desperate. A letter was read from Mrs. H. Reed asking the co-operation of the Kiwanis Auxiliary in an Opportunity Market day bake sale to be held next week. Various clubs have been asked to contribute their support so that money might be raised to help people in the city who badly need relief but are not immediately eligible for city relief. A motion was made and carried that the auxiliary support this worthy welfare project. The members were reminded that the next month's meeting is to be a pot-luck supper, husbands invited.

Pink New Color Trend

Iris Allan introduced the speaker, Mrs. Bryan Edwards, of the Rose House of Elizabeth Arden, sponsored by Laitimers. Mrs. Edwards spoke of the trend in New York towards pink in all tones from the palest shell to a deep vibrant hue in new fashions this year. Gloves and hats are being shown in exact matching colors. Hair styles in general remain short, beautifully waved with the head with soft curl in the ends. The importance of using color in cosmetics to enhance and blend with the color of the tones was stressed. Mrs. Bruce Allen asked Mrs. Edwards if she would be a model. Mrs. Edwards graciously submitted to being dressed and patted and made up. The effect was soft and natural looking. Everyone enjoyed the demonstration and the thought, intriguing to all women, to bring out their own natural loveliness.

Allaneen Murray expressed to Mrs. Edwards members' wholehearted appreciation of a fascinating talk.

Mrs. Bruce drew numbers for the lucky winners of the prizes. Joan Lutz received a lovely fitted case of cosmetics, and Mary Cooper and Peggy Drydale won smaller but equally delightful gifts.

Coffee and refreshments were served, drawing to a close another successful meeting.

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. W. L. Scott on Thursday last with an attendance of twenty. After the opening hymn, Mrs. Charles Woods, group leader, read the Scripture lesson from John 13, and led in the responsive reading from the Missionary Monthly.

Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Arthur Houston, Mrs. Charles Kleri and Mrs. Russel Wescott presented a skit which was most interesting and showed the great good radio programs are doing in South America.

Mrs. Wood dedicated the offerings and thanked her group for their help.

Mrs. Lorne Laize sent thanks for the cards she received and Mrs. Ben Elliott expressed thanks for the same, and Mrs. K. R. Vinson for the flowers she received. Letter was read from Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Rose when he was in hospital, and the new year from the W.M.S.

The secretary read a letter from the finance committee, also one from Mrs. McLellan, regarding the Presbyterial to be held at Grace church, Napanee on March 24. Readings were made for the World's Day of Prayer, and letter to the W.M.S. ladies of Melrose, and the Anglican church. Guild meet with the W.M.S. in the church hall on March 5th, at 2 p.m. to observe the day.

Mrs. Scott thanked the group leader and Mrs. Wood thanked the hostess for opening her home for the meeting. Mrs. Scott closed meeting, after which a social hour of home cooking and other useful articles was held. Over $11 were added to the funds in this way.

Mrs. L. W. Scott, assisted by Mrs. Wood and members of her group, served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

THE MODERN BEAUTY

Ideas of feminine loveliness change with the times and they have certainly been changing for the better these last few decades. The baby-doll type was the idol when Mary Pickford was at the height of her movie fame. But the modern girl is a far cry from the girl who is smartly dressed, hustles for her pay check and cringes before the stern eye of no man.

The string-bean shape, which was top when the twenties frank wore dresses that were cut like pillow cases, has developed natural curves—as it should. Reducing was the favorite topic in those flapper days. Now there's little talk, but plenty of action against excess weight.

The modern idea is to be in perfect form physically, to be capable and interested in what is going on in the world, to be animated and to make an endeavor to be interesting and charming. All this is an expression of vitality. We are learning more and more about mental hygiene to help protect us from the ravages of modern day discontent.

Even the less enthusiastic homemakers are learning about food values. Newspapers give more space to home-keeping subjects, especially in the important consumery department. If women read papers at all, they can't help but see them. Many women are grateful to cook who have discovered that the preparation of food has a certain charm to it. It is a satisfaction to produce an appetizing, nourishing meal, well balanced. All of which makes for healthier complexions, fewer digestive disturbances and fewer grouches. It is an era of natural effortless-ness and the use of make-up is the use of make-up and casual attire.

Interest in outdoor sports increases every year. Look at the bathing beauties in the summer time. Not just lazy land loungers there, but girls who break the waves, air-wash their lungs and strengthen their muscles. Their aim is to have strong bodies, keen minds, high spirits, the will to work, the desire to keep young and pretty despite the stress and strain of modern living.

Women's Institute

SPRINGBROOK W.I.

The Springbrook Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. J. W. Barlow, Secretaire for the January meeting with a good attendance of members and two visitors.

Mrs. Charles Gordenier, president, presided over the meeting and opened in the usual manner. Mrs. W. J. Barlow, secretary, read the correspondence, Mrs. McPhalter, letters of thanks from three funds, for donations of money received. A letter from Jess Barlow, who is stationed in Germany, thanking the W.I. for the lovely Christmas box, which he had received, and thanks from Bob Bateman, who is in Halifax, for his box; also greetings from the new provincial president, Mrs. McPhalter.

The Guelph conference to be held in May was discussed, but the matter of sending a delegate was left over for the next meeting.

It was decided to hold a progressive euchre party in Springbrook Orange Hall on Wednesday evening, February 24th with Mrs. McPhalter in charge of arrangements.

The program was in charge of Mrs. George Thompson, convener of Home Economics. The motto "Take pains with your meals and avoid pains afterwards," was given by Mrs. Carman Sine.

Mrs. Carman Sine gave the topic "Facts on buying for the Consumer."

Mrs. Harold Stiles gave an interesting demonstration on tieing flowers from old nylon hose. Mrs. Barlow assisted by serving refreshments.

AUSTRALIAN BUSHMEN DO NOT WEAR HEARING AIDS!

A HEARING AIDS represent progress in civilization. They are a badge of intelligence and consideration on the part of the wearer, and that's too much to expect of an Australian bushman.

Now here's the important question: Are you or some hard-of-hearing friend suffering a Bushman by not wearing a hearing aid?

Some people in our highly civilized society refuse to wear a hearing aid because of their embarrassment at personal visibility. Even otherwise intelligent men and women think that they can hide their hearing loss. They don't realize, or want to admit, that their deafness is obvious—and a tremendous burden—to friends and associates who have to repeat and shout to make themselves understood. Their deafness is more obvious without a hearing aid than with one.

Because they cannot hear, these people give the impression that they are dull and backward . . . many lose their friends . . . their jobs . . . even jeopardize their lives and the lives of others because while driving autos and crossing roads they miss the warning sounds and signals that guide us safely through our everyday life.

We are sure you'll agree: that's an enormous price to pay for false vanity!

If you have been a "hesitant" hard-of-hearing person, we urge you to join the hundreds of thousands of progressive people wearing Zenith Hearing Aids. You will be helping yourself to a fuller, happier life. And you will be removing the burden of your hearing loss from others around you—they will appreciate your consideration.

Canada's Exports About the Same As Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's exports, while multiplying more than 50 times in volume since 1900, were just about the same last year in proportion to the country's output as they were at the beginning of the century.

Trade department economist, O. J. Firestone, reviewing the country's growth in the 50th-anniversary issue of the department's magazine, Foreign Trade, says that in 1900 commodity exports amounted to $177,000,000, or 17 per cent of the country's output—gross national product. By 1929 exports were $1,268,000,000, 23 per cent of output. By 1950 exports were substantially higher than in 1923 at $3,118,000,000, but their proportion to output had slipped back to the 1900 ratio, just over 17 per cent.

"In 1953 exports were in the order of $4,100,000,000, with the proportion little changed from 1950," he said.

"What happened was that in the first two decades of this century, exports of agricultural products, and later forest and mineral products, rapidly increased Canada's dependence on world markets."

But since the 1920s, "the domestic market has grown even more quickly than Canada's foreign markets. Even the serious depression of the 1930s could slow down the growth of the domestic market for only a limited period."

DEVELOPING STRENGTH

He said that though Canada's prosperity still depends heavily on a high level of trade, "there are some indications that the economy is developing a growing domestic strength and resilience."

Mr. Firestone also said major shifts have occurred in the destination of Canadian exports.

"In 1953 the bulk, 58 per cent, went to the United States and 16 per cent went to United Kingdom. At the beginning of the century, the position was reversed.

"The United Kingdom was Canada's best customer then (52 per cent) and the United States followed (38 per cent)."

Another important development over the 50-year period was the expansion of the Canadian overseas market to some 120 countries other than the U.S. and U.K., he said.

"Trade with these countries," Mr. Firestone said, "is now relatively more than twice as important as it was at the beginning of the century."

"Our reunion started two years ago!"

"I came out from the old country nearly two years ago, to work in a big aircraft factory. I was making a fresh start in a new country, and, of course, I wanted to bring out my wife and little boy as soon as I could.

"My pay cheque said 'The Dominion Bank', so when I took it to The Dominion Bank branch near my lodgings, I decided to open a savings account there. I found the manager and his staff friendly and eager to help me. Making regular deposits became a pleasure, and I saw my account grow, week by week, until I had enough to bring my wife and son to Canada.

"My family's here now . . . and we're all looking forward to a happy and prosperous future. We have a new objective for our savings account at The Dominion Bank—a home of our own!"

This is typical of the experience of our many depositors. They have found, as you will, that thrift is a pleasure at The Dominion Bank. Remember, every savings account is an important account at The Dominion Bank.

Come in and talk to the manager. He will be happy to tell you about the Bank's many services . . . or offer you financial advice.

Uranium Road

The mining community of Uranium City in northern Saskatchewan has shown remarkable progress since the provincial department of natural resources began carving the townsite out of the wilderness in June, 1952. When the hunt for uranium started, incoming prospectors threw up haphazard rows of flimsy shack-tents and one-room shanties. These have been replaced by well-planned business sections and modern homes and schools. Uranium Boom Town

This is an aerial view of Uranium City in northern Saskatchewan which has taken on a new look since the township was first settled in the wilderness in June, 1952. At first the only buildings were tent-and-shack affairs. These have been replaced by well-planned business sections and modern homes and schools. This view taken from the uranium bank dominates those parts of the business section which form part of the townsite reserve. — (CP Photo.)

Mining Community in Sask. Shows Remarkable Progress

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP)—The mining community in northern Saskatchewan has shown remarkable progress since the provincial department of natural resources began carving the townsite out of the wilderness in June 1952.

When the hunt for uranium started, incoming prospectors threw up haphazard rows of flimsy shack-tents and one-room shanties. These have been replaced by well-planned business sections and modern homes and schools.

But residents—they expect a population of about 2,600 by the end of the year—have given the bustling town individuality. Street signs expected to appear soon will bear such names as Nuclear Avenue, Fission avenue and Uranium road.

Most of the townsite's 624 surveyed lots have been taken up or spoken for. Business men and home builders invested more than $1,000,000 in development last summer, bringing total capital investment here to about $1,500,000.

With an eye to the future, the people of Uranium City are beginning to talk of incorporation. At present, the community is part of the Beaverlodge local development area—a municipal administrative branch of the resources department.

Two of the biggest champions of incorporation are Jock McKeehan, editor of Uranium Era, one of the community's two weekly newspapers, and tall, Gus Hawker whose name was once well suited to his sage advice to visitors: "Stake some claims and make your fortune."

The men were among the first community leaders here. Uranium City now has electric power, street lighting, schools, fire protection equipment, road and street grading and a waste disposal ground. A start on a water and sewage system is expected to be made this summer.

Uranium City, almost 500 miles north of Saskatoon, was first planned to accommodate men and their families working for the federally-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Corporation, and its smaller independent company which serve it.

The Ontario legislature's 1954 session opens Thursday but Mr. Letherby must wait until next week to take his seat. He cannot be sworn as a new member until after the official count next Monday.

Mr. Letherby took the lead as soon as tabulation started after the 181 polls closed at 7 p.m. His election was reported by The Canadian Press at 4:06 p.m.

In the 1951 election Dr. McPhee received 8,644 votes, Liberal James R. MacIsaac 5,096 and Mr. Hoult 1,741.

Although roads were snowclogged in rural areas, the turnout was 63 per cent of eligible voters. The polling was slow in the morning and reached a peak after stores and factories closed.

In campaign discussions of the highway contracts, Liberal and CCF speakers called for a royal commission investigation so that all evidence would be made public. The Progressive Conservatives said they had uncovered the situation, charges had been laid against several employees of the department and an investigation by a private firm of management consultants was ordered.

The Commons spent the entire day on clause-by-clause study of the legislation to increase the rate on one-ounce letters to five cents from four on mailings between postal districts. The rate on each additional ounce will be increased to two cents from one.

CASUAL WORKERS

Mr. Cote said the increases will yield about $14,000,000 to meet an estimated, $13,500,000 in additional costs, including implementation of the five-day, 40-hour week for postal staffs in some areas.

Mr. Cote's announcement that the five-day week will be put into effect by using casual workers, including high school students, for Saturday deliveries drew criticism from opposition speakers.

The minister said regular carriers will be given a chance to work spare time on Saturdays, and indicated that he will be at standard pay rates rather than overtime rates. He said a delegation from the Letter Carriers' Association has endorsed the plan.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Hamilton West, Progressive Conservative labor spokesman, said the change will cause "terrific dislocation" in mail deliveries. The present postal staff should be used in building a five-day service.

"To discharge experienced employees to take on casual help, . . . seems to be just asking for trouble."

Thomas Barnett (CCF—Comox-Alberni) said the government will "stir up a hornet's nest" by encouraging employees to work Saturdays. Blood had been shed in union campaigns for the 40-hour week and the government should not take the matter lightly.

Opposition Leader Lesage said that new issues of stamps which appeal to stamp collectors would be one way to increase postal revenues to offset the need for a postage rate increase, Canada was far behind other countries in printing attractive new stamps.

Mr. Cote said he does not propose that Canada has the world's most attractive stamps, "certainly not in regard to the last issue." But he expected there would be attractive new issues in the near future.

Sons of Freedom Children Like Attending School

NEW DENVER, B.C. (CP)—Children of parents who belong to the Sons of Freedom branch of the Doukhobors are attending school here and appear to be enjoying their new experience.

Although the children's resistance to Canadian ways and customs is still high, and they cling to the ways of their parents, the youngsters are beginning to take an interest in school life.

"Under the circumstances, they seem reasonably happy," Robert Ross, welfare superintendent, said. "But, like normal children away from home, they miss their parents."

The 32 children, whose parents are serving penitentiary terms for nude parading, range in age from five to 14 years.

NORMAL REACTIONS

In the class-room they react like any normal children, said Mrs. A. M. Steven, one of the teachers. "Their intelligence varies as it does in any school—and they need a lot of watching as all Canadian youngsters do."

They reflect their parents' teachings in the prayers they chant morning and evening. But they also like English songs which they sing for their teacher.

They now are translating a Doukhobor song into English, a step toward mutual understanding between children and teacher.

The food is Russian and is prepared by Japanese women who were taught by Doukhobor women.

Although they may have visitors every Sunday, the youngsters miss their parents. The interest taken in them by those responsible for their welfare compensates to some degree.

PRIME MINISTER ST. LAURENT WITH SIR WINSTON IN BRITAIN

EXPATRIATE.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons has been asked to amend the Post Office Act to speed deliveries of periodical newspapers and magazines in Canada.

An amendment was proposed Monday night by Postmaster-General Cote during study of government legislation to increase first-class mail rates a cent an ounce.

He said the amendment was requested by the Periodical Press Association, Agricultural Press, Business Newspaper Association and Magazine Publishers Association. No request was made by "newspapers," Mr. Cote said, and Finance Minister Abbott added that it is "of no value to daily newspapers at all."

Mr. Cote said the act now provides that second-class mail privileges can be enjoyed by a newspaper or periodical if a price "within the postal area in which the place of its office of publication is situated."

Under the amendment newspapers and periodicals could be posted in some other postal area approved by the postmaster-general if the change were for added convenience in distribution and did not reduce postal revenues.

PROTESTS LENIENCY

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said the amendment is "an act of impertinence." It was proposed at a time when the CCF party was protesting the leniency, laxities and subsidization granted publishers of periodicals under second-class postal rates.

Earlier, Angus MacInnis (CCF—Vancouver East) urged the government to abolish free mailing privileges for weekly newspapers in communities with fewer than 10,000 population. Present legislation grants such free mailing rights up to a distance of 25 miles for 2,500 copies.

Mr. Cote said "it has been suggested to us" that insisting a newspaper or periodical to state only in its place of publication "in some circumstances" delays reception of the newspaper or magazine "in some quarters."

By permitting a newspaper or periodical to be mailed in a postal area other than that of its publication, the post office would be "spared the transportation in some circumstances."

"It does not involve any money at all," he said. "It is only a minor amendment. It would have the effect of speeding the delivery of newspapers in some areas."

Mr. Cote did not explain the reasons for it.

Mr. Knowles protested that the government had given no indication that the amendment would be proposed.

"We had no suggestion at any point in the remarks of the postmaster-general that anything like this was up the government's sleeve."

NOT REQUESTED

Any changes to be made to section 11 of the act, which sets out second-class mail rates, should be "to reduce the extent to which the government subsidizes publishers and periodicals and subsidizing advertisers in those newspapers and periodicals."

The newspapers were not making the request to save money for the government. It was something that would suit their convenience.

"I am not reflected by the newspapers at all," Mr. Cote said. "It was requested by the periodicals. It is merely a case of facilitating the circulation and transportation of the newspaper or magazine."

Girl Friend Says Ritchie Was Coached

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The woman who lived with Donald Ritchie as his wife Monday issued a statement that Ritchie was coached by a private investigator paid by the United Automobile Workers' union when he named four men involved in the attempted murder of Walter Reuther.

In an affidavit to Joseph W. Bartlett, Detroit lawyer defending Carl Reeda, one of the men named by Ritchie, Betty White of Windsor said Ritchie was coached by Sam Henderson in answers he gave to Detroit officers during a week of questioning.

The 26-year-old Canadian named his uncle, Clarence Jacobs of Windsor, as the man in the attempt. Others named were Reeda, Santo (Sam) Perrone of Detroit and Pete Lombardo. Lombardo is serving a prison term and Perrone is at large. Reeda will come up for another hearing in March.

Ritchie, a Windsor native, is scheduled for extradition hearing on a charge of attempted murder Feb. 16. Jacobs faces extradition on the same charge Feb. 17.

KNEW OF ARRANGEMENT

The statement by Miss White claimed Wayne county (Mich.) prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien had full knowledge of the arrangement by which the UAW paid Ritchie $5,000 for the information. Ritchie walked out of the Detroit hotel where he was questioned and is using the money, led police a merry chase across Ontario before he was captured.

Bernard Cohn, Ritchie's attorney, filed notice of motion Monday demanding the state of Michigan produce any statements made by the police concerning the attempt on Reuther's life. The demand also asks that he be allowed to see the statements and copy them. It also says certain state attorney Bruce Macdonald who will act for Michigan at the hearing.

Miss White claimed the contract between Ritchie and the union was reviewed by Ritchie's hotel visit Henderson and O'Brien in attendance. Zwerdling, the union lawyer, Ralph Winstead, and O'Brien. They went to the hotel where the contract was read. She said Ritchie saw Henderson regularly for the next 10 days and received about $200.

During this time "he was wined and dined like a king," Miss White said.

QUESTIONED IN HOTEL

The statement said the next time she saw Ritchie was after he called her to come to a Detroit hotel Dec. 31. She found him suffering from a "terrific hangover" and "very sick." She said he was being questioned by seven or eight men including Detroit police.

It took her six hours, between questioning periods, to sober him up, she said. During the sobering-up periods, Henderson coached Ritchie on what to say when the questions began again. She said Henderson was not satisfied with some of the answers.

Miss White said that in her opinion the whole thing was a hoax. "He just got paid for a job. He doesn't know a thing about it," she said.

Louisell said his investigation showed Henderson approached Jacobs for information about eight months ago. He also tried to procure Donald's brother, Gordon Ritchie, and only turned in Donald when he was turned down, Louisell said.

"It is also an odd coincidence that attorney (Donald) Morand, who handled the details of the payoff, is Henderson's brother-in-law," said the lawyer.

Top-Level Reds Are Shifted But Reasons Are Not Clear

By TOM WHITNEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Important shifts of Soviet Communist party executives are taking place in the Soviet Union, but so far there is no clear indication what they mean.

There's the apparent possibility they reflect conflicts within the Soviet leadership and jockeying by factions for better position.

There's also the hint that they may be the result of the discovery of bad situations in important localities which require the urgent dispatch of trouble-shooting bosses by Moscow to the spot.

Copies of Soviet newspapers reaching here report the appointment of Nikolai G. Ignatov as head of the Communist party organization in the Voronezh region, several hundred miles southeast of Moscow.

Ignatov is a former secretary of the party's central committee. His appearance in Voronezh is of major interest — clearly he has been sent there either to correct a bad situation in that industrial province, or because someone is afraid to be there himself Moscow.

REPORTED FIRED

Soviet radio stations broadcast Monday that a man named Puzanovskio had been named to head the Kazakhstan party as first secretary and one Brezhnev was his deputy.

The previous first secretary, Churbai Ibrayhimov, was reported fired.

Though there was no clarification, the shift is a development of major importance.

"Puzanovskio" can hardly be other than Panteleimon K. Ponomarenko, minister of culture of the U.S.S.R., a member of the clique of a dozen or so men which runs the Soviet government.

"Brezhnev" obviously is Gen. Leonid Brezhnev, former chieftain of the party in Moldavia, former secretary of the central committee of the Communist party in Moscow, and now deputy chief of the political administration of the Soviet defence ministry.

Neither Ponomarenko nor Brezhnev are Kazakhs. Both are men whose career has been made in the party apparatus, and both have had powerful protection in Moscow.

Why have they been sent now to distant central Asia? Is there trouble there and more important Moscow jobs? Does this mean there is a crisis in Kazakhstan and if so of what sort? These will have to remain unanswered questions for the present.

Ghost-Like Birds, Snowy Owls Migrating South for Food

By HENRY BAKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — This is a "snowy owl winter," with the ghostlike birds of the Arctic migrating south in search of food.

Every four years the snowy owls are starved out of their tundra home by the disappearance of the lemming, an arctic rodent. Every four years the lemming virtually disappears in a plague of mass migrations to the sea.

And in those years the snowy owls are forced southward, most of them to stay.

Some fly as far south as Texas, Georgia—or southern California, according to the gay mice and rats. A few have even turned up in Bermuda. Most of the migrants stop on the eastern side of the United States or in the Great Lakes region.

STATELY FLIGHTS

James Baillie, assistant director of ornithology at the Dominion Museum of Natural History, says Ontario and Quebec observers this winter have spotted some of the biggest flights of the owls ever seen in this part of the country. In the Toronto area alone, 17 birds were sighted in one day around Christmas.

With five-foot wingspread and a fresh of white feathers making them from claws to beak, they're impressive creatures and often frighten superstitious people by their ghost-like appearance. Actually they're the only arctic night bird in the world, they see equally well by day.

In their flight South, some of them stop in farmlands of the Canadian provinces. Others continue to the open country of the middle United States.

Known as "garfant" to ornithologists, the snowy owl differs in several respects from his cousin, the horned owl. He has a completely rounded, smooth head; the horned owl, like most other types, has ear tufts. The garfant's lifespan is only five to 10 years.

ARCTIC HUNTER

South of the Arctic, he feeds in the daytime, though lemmings are his bread and butter dish, he won't pass up a hare or a fat ptarmigan. Shore birds of the north and wild ducks also are his prey.

Down a farm field he stalks the snowy owls are ridiculously tame and are easy prey to sharp shooters.

In the winter of 1926-27, Mr. Baillie says, an estimated 1,500 birds were slaughtered in Ontario alone.

Dr. C. H. D. Clarke, supervisor of wildlife, Ontario lands and forests department, says the birds are not protected by law anywhere in Canada. Sportsmen societies in some U.S. states, however, have successfully sponsored a bird legislation passed. Dr. Clarke doubted, nevertheless, if the snowy owl would ever become extinct.

G. Marshall Bartman, executive secretary of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists, said the federation wishes to encourage the naturalist clubs across the province, has been trying for years to get protective legislation for the birds.

He said the owls are "in no way injurious to man—rather they are beneficial and of great interest to naturalists." Public support is needed, he said, to protect the beautiful, white birds of the north which some hunters price as mantel-piece trophies.

WOUNDED WHILE HUNTING

SIMCOE (CP)— Duncan Walsh, 11, of Victoria was in fair condition here today after he was wounded in the hip Saturday in a hunting accident near his home. Walsh, his brother, Gordon 17, and two other youths were walking through a farmer's lane with shotguns when one of the guns accidentally discharged. The pellets struck Duncan Wash in the hip.

WOLF ATTACK FATAL

BELGRADE (AP)—Hungry wolf packs forayed out of Yugoslavia's snow-clad timberlands Saturday, attacking peasants near cities and towns and killing at least one of them. The newspaper Politika reported packs even entered the outskirts of this capital.

Mervyn Hutson Pays With Life For Sex-Slaying

NORTH BAY (CP)—James Mervyn Hutson, 29, was hanged early today for murder in the sex-slaying last May of three-year-old Susan Hutchings. Less than an hour later Hutson, once spoiled of killing his mother with an ax, was buried in the jail courtyard.

Hutson, a former lumber camp cookee, walked the dozen paces from his death cell to the scaffold, erected over a trapdoor in a corner of the Nipissing district jail, shortly after midnight. At 12:15 the hangman sprang the trap and seven minutes later Dr. J. F. Brennan, jail physician, pronounced Hutson dead.

On hand as witnesses with sheriff J. J. Dennis and jail governor Anthony Celentano were Rev. Canon Frederick North Bay Presbyterian church, who spent most of Monday with Hutson, Celentano and four police officers.

No newspaper men were admitted to the jail. However, at 12:45 a.m. sheriff Dennis posted a notice on the jail door to the effect that the hanging had taken place. The sheriff then talked with reporters and said Hutson faced death bravely.

CURIOUS WATCH

At the time of the hanging, about 25 automobiles carrying curious citizens were parked near the jail on Highway 63 on the northeastern outskirts of the city. The temperature was near zero and an icy wind blew from the northwest.

There were no claimants for the body.

Hutson's father was killed 19 years ago in a hunting mishap which was first described as murder, then declared an accident. Five years ago, Hutson's mother was found beaten to death with an ax in her Timmins home and Hutson was tried for murder in her death and acquitted. Hutson himself was wounded in a hunting accident in 1951.

Jail officials reported he remained stoical throughout the months from his conviction last Nov. 5 to his gallows walk. Only six days ago he refused to see a clergyman.

WHERE SHOPPING

The killing for which Hutson paid with his life occurred last May 29 in Timmins-Porcupine area. Mrs. Frank Hutchins, left the child in the downstairs room in the care of Hutson, whom she knew as a friend of her husband.

When she returned afterwards, the child's body was found near the home, lifeless and stripped. Raped and raped, Hutson was arrested in Cochrane, 300 miles to the north, three days later.

Hutson, a former lumber camp cookee at Englehart, who was wounded by mortar fragments while overseas during the Second World War, claimed during his trial that a head injury caused him to "black out" at times. His defence counsel said that during such a blackout Hutson was with Susan Hutchings.

Hutson was convicted and sentenced to death. An appeal for a new trial on grounds of mental unfitness was rejected.

Will Name Boats

OTTAWA (CP) — The navy is to name boats after birds in addition to names of bays and rivers in future instead of identity them by numbers.

The announcement from naval headquarters Monday said six Fairmile motor launches on the Great Lakes for training have been christened Gull, Mallard, Cougar, Beaver, Moose, Reindeer, Wolf and Raccoon. A seventh at Esquimalt, B.C., has been named HMCS Eagle.

The animal names perpetuate the names of large yachts taken over by the navy early in the Second World War and converted into patrol vessels.

The change to names from numbers is being made because it is easier to identify the ships in ordinary usage. Each ship will have her own badge bearing the name.

Triple Shift in Canada's Representation Abroad Expected in Next Few Months

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A triple shift in Canada's representations abroad is expected within the next few months.

Hon. Robert W. Mayhew, 73, is believed ready to retire. He now is Canadian ambassador to Tokyo, a post he has held for more than a year.

He probably will go succeeded in Japan by Hon. Thomas C. Davis, 64, Canadian ambassador to West Germany who has served previously in the Far East.

The Bonn post is expected to go to C. A. S. Ritchie, 47, now special ambassador and chief adviser to Prime Minister St. Laurent on his world tour.

His appointment to Bonn would signify Canada's growing concern with one of the West's major cold-war problems—what to do about Germany.

Mr. Mayhew, a native of Cobden, Ont., has been in public life for more than 20 years. In 1935 he was elected reeve of Oak Bay, near Victoria, and became a member of Parliament in 1937. He was minister of fisheries from 1948 until 1952, when he went to Tokyo as Canadian ambassador.

SERVED IN CHINA

Mr. Davis, a native of Prince Albert, Sask., was called to the Saskatchewan bar in 1915. After the First War he was mayor of Prince Albert, he was elected to the Saskatchewan Legislature and was appointed first municipal affairs minister and later attorney-general.

He became a justice of the Saskatchewan appeal court in 1939, returning briefly to ministry of national war services in Ottawa in 1940 and high commissioner to India in 1942. From 1947 to 1949, he was Canadian ambassador to Nationalist China and went to Bonn in 1950.

Mr. Ritchie, a native of Halifax, joined the external affairs department in 1934 and had since served in Washington, London and Paris.

Duplessis Plans Move to Prevent Strike Excesses

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis said Monday Quebec government plans to study means to protect society from possible excesses of strikes.

He told a delegation of the Provincial Association of Industrialists that strikes are a serious undertaking. The right to strike will become, in certain cases, the right to cause disorder.

Mr. Duplessis promised to co-operate with employers and employees to avoid the evil, but said the community would not be threatened by strikes.

The delegation asked in a brief that measures be taken to assure that, if industry was to be at service to the public, it would not suffer from the exaggerations and abuses of strikes."

Pearson Declines To Comment On Senator's Speech

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said Monday there has never been any objection from the United States government, concerning the size of Canada's war effort in Korea.

But he declined in the Commons to comment on a speech by Senator William E. Knowland (Rep.-Calif.), U.S. Senate majority leader, at Washington Saturday.

Senator Knowland was quoted as saying that the United States had furnished 90 per cent of the United Nations forces in Korea and that this was "not a fair distribution."

It would be a disservice, Senator Knowland was quoted as saying, if "we let dus Allies believe that we approved that performance."

"I wish all our Allies were as stout as the Turks and the South Koreans," he was reported to have said.

Mr. Pearson was asked by John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert), opposition external affairs spokesman if he would care to comment.

Though there was no official comment, responsible government authorities were known to be annoyed, it was said, at Senator Knowland's statement.

STICKS WITH DOG

Mrs. Elsie Schelthauer, 36-year-old German immigrant who landed in Halifax en route to join her husband at Edmonton, refuses to leave her pet Dalmatian "Mushie" who was placed in port quarantine for 90 days under immigration rules. She said the dog would "die for sure without me." Mrs. Schelthauer vows she won't join her husband in Edmonton until the dog is released. An Edmonton veterinary is trying to arrange for the dog to be shipped westward without waiting the usual 90 days. (CP Photo.)

Child Critically Burned By Gas Lamp Blast

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Critically burned in a gas lamp explosion and fire in his home, John Dubeau, 2, is fighting for his life in hospital here after a 30-mile auto dash from Havelock.

Three cars were used by Mr. and Mrs. John Dubeau to rush their son to Peterborough hospital. Mr. Dubeau's car was ditched, a neighbor's car blew a flat tire and the third vehicle, belonging to a stranger, just made it, stalling at the hospital entrance.

The child had been sleeping in an arm chair Sunday night when Mrs. Dubeau from a can his father was using to fill a lamp caught fire.

When the gas exploded the toy awoke, got up and fell into the fire. His father beat out the flames, bundled the child, his wife and two children into his car and headed for a doctor.

The youngster has been dogged by ill luck throughout his short life. When he was three months old he nearly died due to sickness. Then when he was two, he jabbed a jagged saw near his right eye, was hit with a baseball bat over the left eye and smashed his right eye again when he ran into the table—all within a three-week period.

WELLINGTON-ON-LAKE

Vividly Recalls Ralph Connor And His Message

By HELEN B. ANDERSON.

Among the notable Canadian authors I have heard speak in Belleville are Miss Carmichael, "Ralph Connor", (the Rev. C. W. Gordon), and L. M. Montgomery, but the most impressive personality was that of Ralph Connor. I have not forgotten "The Man and His Message" who impressed me so favorably some twenty odd years ago, and of whom I wrote the following:

It was our privilege to hear and see "The Man from Glengarry," Major the Rev. C. W. Gordon, who conducted anniversary services in John Street Presbyterian Church, Belleville. Arriving early for the Sunday evening service, we were accommodated with a seat conveniently near the front. Gradually the church was filled to its utmost capacity. In the congregation were people of all ages, from the men with silver hair to the hopeful young student and even to the young school girl who had enjoyed reading Ralph Connor's stories. But it was not the people we had driven fifteen miles to see, but the preacher and author whose books had thrilled us for many years.

Expectantly we waited, and presently there entered a tall man in the black gown of the Presbyterian clergy — a man whose face had looked at us from the pages of books and periodicals — a face strong and thoughtful with the features cast in neither a rugged mold, the lower jaw expressive of determination, the eyes deep-set, the brow high and expansive, and the shapely head crowned with greying hair. Eye-glasses with black cord attached recalled pictures of another Canadian author, Chas. G. D. Roberts—these glasses requiring occasional adjustment by a hand, which in its long slender lines, revealed the writer. The face when in repose was expressive of deep thoughtfulness, but the occasional rare smile seemed to indicate a very kindly nature. A wonderful magnetic personality—such as one might expect in the writer of such marvellous books as "The Man From Glengarry" and "The Sky Pilot".

His message we shall not soon forget; with a voice clear and distinct and with splendid enunciation, he launched on his theme—the story of Zacchaeus, the little, despised publican, who being small of stature, climbed a sycamore tree in order that he might see Jesus. He based his remarks on Luke 19:9, "And Jesus said unto him, This day is Salvation come to this house, for as much he is also a son of Abraham. The son of man is come to seek and save that which was lost. Vividly he described the little mean publican, the most despised person among the Jews, who, collecting taxes and extorting money from the people, became rich. He brought shame and disgrace on his wife and family. Sometimes he himself was dead sick of it all. He was a lost man. Money cannot buy the finest things of life. Don't all your boys say that the biggest thing is to make money, Zacchaeus had money but nothing else.

But it was a great day for the publican. Our lives pivot around great days — birthdays, wedding days, first day at school. This day to Zacchaeus brought salvation. It was a sudden conversion. Some don't believe in this—some Presbyterians don't, but Methodists did, because they were an odd bunch, (this humorously). There were many instances of sudden conversions in his own preaching experience.

How was Zacchaeus saved; not by the terrors of hell nor by the expected reward of heaven. He had met a friend—not a hope in the world. Love saves a man—the love of God through the heart of some good man or woman. "Oh! it was love, it was wondrous love, the love of God to me, that brought the Saviour from above to die on Calvary".

In listening to the Rev. C. W. Gordon it was impossible to dissociate the preacher with the noted author — his habitual thoughtful expression and his flair of portrayal engaging the artist. That this eminent preacher is very fond of music was evidenced in the pleasure he took in urging all to join in the singing and his appreciation of the choir of eight male voices with Mr. Rigg as organist. Before the singing of the second hymn "Sing of My Soul" the speaker alluded to an experience at the front in the Great War, when after terrible slaughter, the meagre remnant of soldiers sang the hymn. And when they came to the words, "So every mourner's sleep to night, like infant's slumbers pure and light", the boys with misty eyes, sang very softly, thinking of the many bereaved hearts that would receive the awful message of the casualty lists.

A pleasant drive home brought to day to a close — a day that shall remain in memory as one of the "great days" round which our lives pivot — a day when we had been thrilled by the magnetic personality of "Ralph Connor" the wonderful man from Glengarry.

Dick Irvin Blames Detroit Official Scorer For Gordie Howe's Record

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"HELLO THERE'S LIFE . . ."

If the Memos can rise to some superhuman heights and defeat the Orillia Pontiacs in the four games they have left with the guys from Lake Couchiching, it would help considerably the nearly-forlorn hope of grabbing a playoff berth in this frenzied Senior "B" scramble. The Memos have four dates with the Pontiacs out of their eight remaining games, two of them at home.

They have washed the schedule slate clean with the super-charged Petes, winning four and losing six to the Littlecok laddybucks in the scheduled ten games. They have home and home games with Kingston and Oshawa and they wind up the little ball of yarn for the schedule season.

The Pontiacs have four games left with Belleville and home and away fixtures with Peterborough and Oshawa.

Oshawa has twin dates with the remaining four teams before they wind up the schedule.

It is a "must win from here in" for the Memos or they'll be doing their packsacking from the sidelines. They meet the Oshawa Truckmen here tonight in a do-or-die affair and if they live up to form against the Motor City crew they should wrap this one up. They have been one of the sharpest thorns in the side of the Ernie Dickens crew all season, and tonight will be one of their severest tests, for the Truckmen are stalemated at the top of the heap with the Petes, but have travel to Orillia and this one should be a battle. The Petes have whupped the Pontiacs in their last two clashes, one at home. They too, have no intention of relinquishing the top perch, so much hinges on tonight's frays.

This is the fateful week for the Memos for they have no less than four games scheduled. They trek to Kingston tomorrow night and on Thursday go to Orillia where they catch up with a home and away game early next week. The Pontiac hike right back on Saturday night for an appearance with the Memos in Memorial Arena.

The team has definitely been the "hard-luck" aggregation of the five-squad set-up. They have not been blessed with an overdose of smiles from Lady Luck, nor that intangible gremlin of sports, "the breaks."

As one well-known coach in the loop remarked, and it was not "Red" Doran, although he concurred in it, "your Belleville team is as good as any in the group, if it plays the hockey it is capable of playing." We'll buy that one. The Memos have proved it time and again with victories over win-streaking opponents. They have been in overtime games over far too many in the group, nor do they intend being a stepping stone to other squads who may be jockeying for positions.

It is interesting to note that the Memos have lost eight of their games by a single goal margin and three by two-goal margins, one of these a shot on a "goalie-less" net.

However, the Memos will be the last to cry over spilled hockey milk, if and when they are eliminated. Other sports editors have already taken it for granted the Memos are "out," but while there is, life there is hope, albeit the "life" is hanging by the sheerest of threads.

Kingston's defeat at the hands of the Orillia Pontiacs and the Memos' setback by Oshawa Saturday night was a dire blow to playoff hopes, and the Memos must needs embark on a win string starting tonight. Everything hinges on the Orillia series.

EVENING CHUCKLE!

A visiting Texan was telling his Minnesota host about the big fish he had caught in Texas.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "I caught one that was eight inches long."

Seeing a chance to place Minnesota ahead of Texas for once, his friend said:

"A fish of eight inches is small around here. We call them pan fish."

"Meebbe so," the Texan said, "but down in Texas we measure them between the eyes."

Gorman Sells Goalie to Leafs

OTTAWA (CP)—T. P. Gorman, owner of Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Hockey League announced the sale of netminder Ray Frederick to the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

This is Frederick's second year with the Senators. He leads the QHL goalies with eight shutouts to his credit. He will stay with the Senators for the remainder of the season unless Leafs' Harry Lumley suffers injuries.

THE BARBER SIGNS

NEW YORK (AP)—Pitcher Sal Maglie passed some good news to New York Giants Monday along with his signed contract.

The 36-year-old righthander forwarded his contract from Niagara Falls, N.Y., with a note saying "I'm feeling better than I have in two years. I hope to have a good year."

Back trouble plagued Maglie last season when he fell off to an 8-9 won-lost record. In the three years previous he posted marks of 18-4, 23-6 and 18-8.

The Giants didn't mention terms but said "Maglie was satisfied."

'Every Time Wings Get Goal Howe Gets Automatic Assist' Growls Colorful Habs' Coach

NEW YORK (AP) — Montreal coach Dick Irvin has angrily called any comparison between the Canadiens' Maurice Richard and Detroit's Gordie Howe "ridiculous" and blasted the Red Wings' official scorer.

"Richard is the greatest player in the game," Irvin said here. "He's eight years older than Howe and he's still got more goals. I can't imagine anyone trying to compare the two. Just look at the record."

Through Sunday's games, Howe led the National Hockey League in scoring with 38 points with Richard the runner-up with 32. The Rocket, however, has 32 goals to 21 for the Detroit ace.

Richard has 378 goals in the 13 seasons he's played in the NHL—more than any other player in the circuit's history. Howe has 230 goals in eight campaigns.

"Howe never would be leading the league if they had an impartial official scorer at Detroit," Irvin added. "Every time there's a Wings' goal while Howe is on the ice he almost automatically gets an assist."

BLASTS RANGERS

Irvin also had some unkind words for New York's Rangers who dropped a 4-1 decision to the Canadiens before a capacity crowd here Sunday night.

"Every time we play those guys we lose a man. First Jean Beliveau gets a broken leg against them. Then Bloom, Boom, Geoffrion is hit in the head and suspended for eight games, Ron Murphy the guy who had a leg cut while playing regularly in the Western League. Does that figure?

"How Dollard St. Laurent is out. I think we've got a better team than Detroit, but how can we catch them it our players are always hurt."

St. Laurent suffered a shoulder separation in Sunday's game and will be sidelined for an indefinite period.

"I'm not looking forward to them," Irvin said, "but when we get all the lousy breaks."

"OL' WENTWORTH

Former big bruising defenceman of the once mighty Montreal Maroons, Jr., Wentworth, will show his stuff" at the National Hockey League Oldtimers game here on February 16. That, it hasn't forgotten "how to hit 'em" in 1932 in the Ice Carnival game played last Saturday in Guelph when he drew a penalty for "unnecessary roughness" against the big fog bumping such smacked little fellas as Lionel Conacher, Harvey Jackson and the like.

Brisebois Loses Welter Crown To Claude Fortin

Brisebois, who weighed in at 143½, was never hurt by his 144-pound opponent. But he was confused as Fortin back-pedalled and used his left jabbing in Brisebois' face for a controversial decision.

Fortin, only two years out of junior amateur competition, used his southpaw left throughout the televised bout. Brisebois, pressing for a knockout, trekked stolidly after the dancing opponent but never succeeded in landing a payoff punch. He was strongest in the early rounds.

Judge Sandy Ed gave Fortin seven rounds, Brisebois three, and had two even. Rock Bouchard saw it 8-3-1 in favor of Fortin, Johnny Gow dissented and gave Brisebois the edge, 7-4-1.

THIRD SECOND MATCH

The victory was Fortin's second in a row over Brisebois, a stablemate of two-time champion Jimmy Carter. Fortin won a non-title decision over the champ in Quebec City last December.

The victory brought about the match with the crown at stake.

Brisebois, a 24-year-old Montrealer who fights extensively in the United States, was making his third defence of the title he won in 1952 in a non-title bout against champ Johnny Greco, another Montrealer, retired.

The new champion, a 5-7 underdog in the pre-fight betting, was presented the championship belt immediately after the bout.

Canadiens Lose D. St. Laurent

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens announced Monday night that defenceman Dollard St. Laurent has been declared out definitely because of a shoulder injury that he received in Jim MacPherson.

St. Laurent was injured late in Sunday's 4-1 triumph over the League game in New York, when Canadiens defeated the Rangers 4-1. Reports reaching here said St. Laurent was boarded by Nick Mickoski and it is feared the Montreal defenceman suffered a chipped bone in his shoulder.

MacPherson was recently sent to Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League subject to immediate recall. He will rejoin the NHL club for Thursday night's game in Chicago.

NAME DUTCHIE MANAGER

HAMILTON (CP)—Harvey Johnston, backfield coach with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four football league last season, has been signed as head coach and manager of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union, it was announced Monday.

Richard Still Showing Pack How to Put Puck in The Net

MONTREAL (CP) — If Maurice "Rocket" Richard keeps to his present goal-getting clip he will have a total of 43 at the end of the current National Hockey League season.

Montreal Canadiens' 32-year-old right-winger, now in his 13th campaign, is still showing oldsters and youngsters alike the art of putting the puck into the net. This is the sixth season in his career he has scored 30 goals or more.

In 52 games this season the Rocket has fired 21 goals, an average of .53 a game. That's the pace he maintained the 1945-46 campaign when he scored 43 goals in the full 70-game season.

Richard's record-making all time total, now at 379, is far ahead of any other active player in the NHL.

HOWE IN LEAD

However, Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings is showing the way to the Rocket and all others in the tussle for this season's point-scoring honors. The NELL's official statistics, released today, show Howe with 58 points, made up of 32 goals and 26 assists. Richard has only 20 assists to put with his 32 goals and 52 points for 84 points.

Howe failed to score in three games but each puck picked up four assists, while Richard's point-making was confined to two games in three games.

Ted Lindsay also of Detroit, highest point-getter with two goals and three assists, slipped into third place with 47 points, one more than Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal.

Red Kelly of Detroit, with two goals and two assists, moved into a fifth-place tie with his teammate, Earl Dodich Reibel, who had one and one. Each now has 46 points. Jean Beliveau of Montreal, with three assists for a 29 total, stepped up one notch to seventh place displacing Ed Sandford of Boston Bruins who went pointless.

REGAIN POSITION

The league-leading Detroit Red Wings stretched their margin advantage point by winning two games and tying one—all with Boston Bruins—for five of a possible six points. Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs each won two of three, and in the process Canadiens tied and regained second place. Canadiens, with 61 points, trail Detroit by one and are only one point ahead of the Leafs, who have two games in hand.

The close battle for fourth place, last playoff spot, continues between Boston Bruins and New York Rangers. Glad to be finished with that three-game series with Detroit, in which they salvaged only one point the Bruins managed to hold on to fourth place. They have a three-point margin over the Rangers, who defeated the cellar-dwelling Chicago Black Hawks but then lost two in a row to Montreal.

Harry Lumley of Toronto Leafs lost ground to Terry Sawchuk of Detroit in the goaltending battle for lead. Lumley still leads, with a goals-against average of 1.68 to Sawchuk's 1.73. But a week ago Sawchuk had 1.82 and Lumley 1.76. Gerry McNeil of Montreal holds third place easily with 2.13.

Remember When

Joe Louis, continuing his reign as world's heavyweight boxing champion, defeated Arturo Godoy of Chile in 15 rounds at New York 14 years ago tonight. It was Joe's 10th straight victory including the 1937 bout when he won the title from James Braddock. He retired in 1949, and was beaten by Ezzard Charles in his attempted comeback in 1950.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

This is a week which should furnish memories, good and bad, but certainly vivid, for the greatest heavyweight champion of modern times, the Manassa Mauler, Jack Dempsey.

On February 13, 1917, Jack Dempsey suffered the only knockout defeat of his career, when Fireman Jim Flynn, a rough-and-ready character out of Pueblo, Colorado, flattened him with one devastating punch. But on February 14, 1919, a Dempsey who had found himself and was blazing up-ward took revenge. He dropped his erstwhile conqueror, also with a single punch, in a match that was scheduled for 10 rounds, but ended in the second canto.

"I wasn't much more than a middleweight the first time I fought Fireman Flynn" Dempsey told me years later. "I was 22 years old. (Dempsey was born 24, 1895.) I didn't know much about boxing, really, I started fighting in 1915, won some fights under the name of Kid Blackie, some more under my own name. But I was just a journeyman fighter, not too much interested in boxing. Then one day when I was knocked out by Flynn, a powerful fellow and a crazy fighter who knew much too much for me, I was just on the verge of quitting the ring game entirely.

"Then Jack Kearns came along. Under Kearns I learned how to fight, how to box a little; how to use a left hand. Then I began to really fight. I found a style, a bob-and-weave type of fighting that was something different. I scored a lot of knockouts but I scored a lot on Willie Meehan, but I was on my way, taking on bigger and better foes."

The fact is that the miraculous Dempsey fought for four years before he finally rose to look like somebody of importance. In his early days he had some terrific fights with specimens like the burly Norse John Lester Johnson, Sailing Jim Johnson, Andre Anderson, Wild Bert Kenney, Andy Malloy and many other tough foes. Some of his battles lasted 20 rounds.

His later battles are still remembered as epics, the mad assault on the giant Jess Willard, the furious melee with Luis Angel Firpo, the Wild Bull of the Pampas, and those two fights with Gene Tunney in which Dempsey made more friends in defeat than he ever had in victory.

That's the fantastic Dempsey story, one of the great legends of sport in our times, a legend we recall, because this is the anniversary of the week when he was on the verge of giving up the game in which he became an unforgettable figure.

Statistics Reveal Canadiens Are Most Injury-Beset Club In National Hockey League

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens have the unenviable distinction of being the most injury-beset club in the National Hockey League, a statistical review by the league showed today.

Since the start of the 1947-48 season to the two-thirds mark of the current campaign, 364 games of player-games missed by Montreal players stands at 87%. In contrast, players of Detroit Red Wings have lost only 264 games.

The compilation is based on records of the National Hockey League Pension Society, which was formed Oct. 1, 1947. These records are computed game by game.

Total number of games missed through injuries during the six and two-thirds seasons is 3,317 for all six clubs in the league. The missed player-games are divided in this manner: If two players miss a game because of injuries, two missed games are recorded; three players, three games, etc.

CHICAGO HAS RECORD

At Jan. 27, the two-thirds point, Montreal's missed player-games stood at 194 and Detroit's at only seven. Boston had 47, Toronto 58, New York 60 and Chicago 20.

The worst season was 1951-52 when 645 games were missed. Heaviest full-season loss for one team was 168 in 1952-53, suffered by Chicago. The Black Hawks also hold the record for the least injured—only 51 missed games in the 1952-53 season.

The league's review doesn't attempt to explain the wide variations but points out the question of whether styles of play and training camp routine have any bearing. The review says the Red Wings are always the first club to open fall training camp and have a heavy schedule of exhibition games prior to the NHL opening.

Mulholland Leads Point Anne To 12-3 Victory

By GARRY ALEXANDER.

The Point Anne Cementmen, led by Sam (the Man) Mulholland with five goals and two assists outscored the Campbellford career in every period to carry home an easy 12-3 win from the Campbellford Community Centre in a Trent Valley game last night.

The Ox Pointers went out front early in the first period and led 3-1 at the end of the period, 6-2 in the middle stanza and poured in four more in the final twenty minutes to one reply from the home team.

Mulholland put on a show by himself as he got one in the opening period, two in the second and flashed the red light twice more in the third as well as setting up Jackie for a pair.

Bob Hunter also had a good night as he banged in three goals while Strachan and Gilmour completed the scoring. Simpson, Payne and Kemp were the Campbellford marksmen.

The ice was very soft, even before the game started and it prevented much stickhanding but lack of this was made up by some fine netminding in the first period at both ends of the rink. Three goals were scored out in this period with the Pointers drawing two of them.

Mulholland opened the scoring at 1.38 of the second period with his team had built up a 4-1 count before Payne beat Bates on a close in drive at the 12.30 mark.

Point Anne scored twice more in the final session before Kemp pulled the trigger on a three way passing play with Simpson and Eady at 12.45. They thought they scored again at the 19 minute mark but the referees ruled that it hit the post and stayed out so no goal was allowed.

Nelson, tending the Campbellford twine was not at fault on the 11 pucks that went by him as the Pointers went right in on his doorstep before shooting and five of the goals were breakaways.

Six penalties were given in all with each team getting three.

The teams:

Point Anne: Bates, J. Green, Mulholland, Stewart, Jacklin, Gilmour, Hunter, Brandigan, Strachan, Tws. Williams, Strachan, Tws.

Campbellford: Nelson, Free, Baker, Blair, Pace, Simpson, Kemp, Eady, Payne, Herrington, Way, Jeffrey, Flint.

Referees: Cousins and Scriber.

Golf Rules 'DownrightStupid' Says Talbot

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—In no other sport is the competitor so completely at the whim of the fates as in golf. We have long felt that the rules of the game, scarcely changed since the days of the Gutta Percha ball, are downright stupid in some cases.

The latest exhibit is the story of Bob Hunter, a youthful dark horse who quite probably was beaten out of first prize in the $10,000 Phoenix Open because of a sheet of paper blew across his victim just as he was driving off on the 94th hole.

All the time Iuman was leading his closest rival, Cary Middlecoff, by one stroke with nine holes to go. Startled by the paper, Iuman shanked into a grove of trees. He took a seven on the hole and, thoroughly shaken, wound up with 72 for the round and five shots behind Middlecoff and Ed Furgol, who won Monday's playoff.

It was an incident, why should the youngster not have been permitted to second whack from the tee? It was a lot of money to ask him to surrender simply because some careless person permitted a paper to blow.

FATAL FOOTPRINT

We have many times seen two players send their shots into the same sand trap, maybe only feet apart. Yet one would find his ball sitting up nicely while his rival's would be deeply imbedded in a lie that left no spectators.

We have seen a player penalized a stroke in such an important event as the National Open because his ball, insecurely perched, chanced to move slightly as he prepared to address it. We have always regarded that as downright silly.

We saw Lloyd Mangrum blown right out of an open playoff at Merion a few years ago because he instinctively reached down and blew a bug off his ball on the green.

Scarcely a summer passes that some prominent player is not booted out of a tournament because he is found to be carrying one club beyond the bag limit.

Yankee Football Drive Will Help Canada--Voyles

TORONTO (CP) — Carl Voyles, coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four football league said Monday the National Football League's big campaign to sign players will materially help Canadian football.

In a telephone conversation with The Globe and Mail from his Vero Beach, Fla., home, Voyles said:

"The National League is putting on the biggest drive they ever made to sign players early. But it's going to backfire and help Canadian football."

He said each NFL team had drafted 30 players from college teams and apparently intended to sign them all. Voyles said that eventually there will be a lot of boys cut from the rosters.

"It may come too late to help us next year," he added. "But when they do cut them, it's going to hurt their chance a lot. The boys will realize then that they were sold a bill of goods and those teams will really have to do some talking the following year."

Northern Electric Hockey Playoffs

The Bunzers and the Jerks evened up the best of three games series in the Northern Electric hockey playoffs with Bunzers beating teh Idiots 9-3 and Jerks downing the Elbow Benders 4-1.

At present both series are tied at one win and one loss for each team with the deciding games to be played next week end.

Day and Bell led the Bunzers to victory with three goals each. Singletons went to Hurst, Bedard and Pucanvic while Hurst had two assists, Bedard, Bell and Tatton one each.

Dave Jones scored both the Idiots markers with assists going to Philp and Ewart.

The Jerks attack was spearheaded by Pete Jones with a pair of goals and Locke with one goal and no helper. Lynch also scored and Wetherall assisted on one.

Billy Burridge two minute was the lone scoring play for the Elbow Benders.

Play in both games was rough with referees Barrett and Jones handing out two match miscoducts, four majors and several minors.

Andre Corriveau Still Tops In Quebec League

MONTREAL (CP)—Andre Corriveau of Valleyfield was held off the score-sheet during last week's play in the Quebec Hockey League but still headed the scoring race by eight points.

The 135-pound speedster, who missed a week's play with the Braves three weeks ago to try out with Montreal Canadiens, has 53 goals and 39 assists for 70 points in the 35 games he has played. Another tiny player, Skippy Burchell of Montreal Royals, is in second place with 51 goals and 41 assists for 62 points.

Rip Hagerman of Ottawa Senators leads the league in assists with 42. He also has 17 goals for 59 points to put him third place in the standings.

One point behind Riopelle is team-mate Leo Gravelle, former Montreal and Detroit player in the National Hockey League. Gravelle is the top goal-getter with 35, four more than Corriveau.

Ray Frederick of Ottawa, purchased by Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL, is the top goalie with a goals-against average of 2.62. Bob Perreault of Montreal is second with a 2.82 average. Frederick also has eight shutouts.

Record-Breaking Entry Features Dog-Sled Derby

By CECIL SMITH H
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The largest entry list in the history of the international sled-dog derby matches speed and stamina today in the first leg of the annual two-day 66-mile classic.

Some 26 drivers will mush their yelping dogs over the marathon course in two daily 33-mile heats for a chance to capture the gold challenge trophy and $1,000 cash prize.

The course starts and finishes on the frozen Rideau canal in the heart of the capital.

He is expected to get stiff competition from big Bill Shearer of East Jaffrey, N.H., who captured the prize in 1949, and Emile Martel of Lorettaville, Que., winner in 1951.

The international was not run last year because of poor snow conditions.

Youngest musher entered in the race is 17-year-old Sandra Silles, an Ottawa high school girl, who will line up with two other women to compete with the men drivers.

MARINO THIRD TRY

Sandra, who made her debut in dog racing this year has taken over from her father, Herbert Silles, who has been racing and breeding dogs for a number of years.

Mrs. Bunty Dunlop of Burlington, Ont., is making her third appearance while Mrs. Jean Lane of Lunenburg, Mass., is racing for the first time in the international.

Mercs Appear to Have Inside Track For First Place in Senior League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two weeks from Wednesday the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series winds up its 1953-54 schedule and that's about the only sure thing in the league.

First place is still a toss-up but Owen Sound Mercurys, who are tied for the top rung with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, appear to have the inside track.

The Mercurys have 11 games left while Kitchener has eight. And if home ice is any advantage the Mercurys have a greater advantage. Six of their 11 games are in Owen Sound. The Dutchmen play three at home and five on the road.

The Mercurys have a chance to slip into sole possession of first place tonight when they play the last-place Niagara Falls Cataracts in Owen Sound. The Dutchmen are idle.

Chatham Maroons, who dropped a 9-1 decision to the Indians in Stratford during Monday night's only game, play the Bulldogs in Windsor tonight.

Stratford's victory over the Maroons moved them to within three points of the fourth-place Bulldogs. The Indians outplayed Chatham in the first period when Fred Pletsch and Billy Flick gave them a 2-0 lead.

After a scoreless second period Jim Gilmour narrowed the margin to 2-1 but the Maroons couldn't get the tying goal.

Only a single Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern Ontario contest Ed Harrison counted twice in overtime to give Sudbury Wolves a 7-6 victory over Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Greyhounds in Sudbury.

Mauno Kauppi also scored twice for the Wolves. Lennie Speck and Red Barrett notched singlers. Terry Blocchi, Jim McBurney and Johnny Ubrisco were the snipers for the Greyhounds.

'Irish Lizard' Grand National 100-9 Favorite

LONDON (AP)—Irish Lizard, an 11-year-old jumper owned by Lord Sefton, Monday night was made the 100-9 favorite for the March 27 Grand National steeplechase.

Irish Lizard finished third in the grueling race of four miles, 856 yards last year when he was won by J. H. Griffin's Early Mist, Early Mist, a nine-year-old gelding, shared the second favorite's role with Coneburrow at 100 to 8.

Bookmakers at the preliminary call-over at the Victoria Club liked Irish Lizard because of his light weight impost. He will carry 145 pounds, Early Mist 168.

Other odds quotes included:

Queen's Taste and Whispering Steel, 100-6; Ordnance and Royal Tan, 20-1; Mont Tremblant, 22-1; Legal Joy, Mr. Cipperdale, Clashing Tudor Line and Wot No Son, 25-1; Glen Fire, Southern Coup and Stormhead, 33-1; Overshadow and Knock Hard, 40-1.

Puck-Chasing Russkys May Surprise Pack at World Hockey Tournament

By ARCH McKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The world hockey championships at Stockholm Feb. 26-March 7 include Russia for the first time, and European hockey circles are speculating that the debut may be momentous.

From tales of visiting teams and from second hand information a picture has been built up of hard-skating, helmeted Russian players who do a lot of passing and ignore body-checking.

Visits to Russia by Norwegian, Swedish and other national teams including Czechoslovakia invariably have ended in a sound trouncing for the invaders, consoled by lavish hospitality.

Canada, which passed up the 1953 world competition, is represented by Toronto East York Lyndhurst of Ontario Hockey Association Senior B grouping. The Canadians will square off with Sweden, Czechoslovakia and Russia.

STIFF COMPETITION

The warning is that the Canadians had better be good. Expatriate Canadians here and some European hockey folk have long felt that Canada deals too lightly with the matter of representation at the world championship.

This year, they're arguing that European hockey has improved a lot—and that nobody knows how good the Russians can be.

The Russians observed themselves capable of playing really "great hockey," the captain of a Swedish team reported on returning from a 13-1 lacing in Russia. "Personally, I believe the Canadians . . . have to pick their very best team to hold their own against them."

From all reports, the Russians don't use the red line in hockey, although they must at Stockholm. They also wear lighter pads since they don't body-check, and their sticks are apparently shorter and lighter. Some say their skates have bigger blades and are sharpened differently.

One team reported meeting a squad of Russians who got with one hand. Hospitality included the best hotels, visits to the theatre, including ballet, and formidable arrays of food.

WORRIED FORECASTERS

Bob Giddens, former Ottawa resident who edits the London hockey newspaper Ice Hockey World, said he and one or two coaches here as well as players in the English League, had written Canada urging that Lyndhurst be strengthened.

The Ice Hockey World reported that trainloads of supporters are scheduled to arrive in Stockholm from Russia, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Sweden, Germany, Norway, Yugoslavia and Switzerland.

Many a defeated bridge contract could have been saved with the slightest know. And you need not think that such losses are too often due to lack of knowledge of difficult card play.

Usually failure is due to some simple oversight or lack of some plan. In too many cases it is due to neglect in anticipating an entry to the opposite hand when that is most needed.

A deal that involves stunting for safety is shown here:

NORTH
	♥A 10 7 5 2
	♦6 4
	♣10 9 6 4
WEST	EAST
♠K Q J 10 9 2	♠A 7 6 5 3
♥K 9 4	♥Q J 8
♦J 10	♦9 5
♣8 3	♣A J 7
SOUTH
♠None
♥6 3
♦A K Q 7 6 5 2
♣K Q 5 2

South is the declarer at a contract of five clubs. The best lead from west is spade king. South ruffs this with a small trump and his immediate consideration is to pump opponents dry of trumps.

So, he starts drawing them out fast by shooting club king into the east ace and jack. If east refuses to take this he must not then lead the queen. He should have dummy lead the next trump.

A heart to ace enters dummy. Trumps there give east a trump and a heart trick. Nothing more. So, east should take the first trump.

If east then returns a heart it goes to dummy ace. Clubs back from there are killers of east trumps. So, before trump ace the opponents get only a heart or a spade. Nothing more.

When east has trump ace at once his best return seems to be another spade. If south ruffs small he will never make the contract. The last remaining trump in his hand is then the queen.

East still has jack and seven of clubs. He will take another trump trick and a heart to kill the contract. Declarer can prevent this defeat. How? By ruffing second spade with trump queen.

Then he can lead his small trump to dummy. East wins this with jack. But north gets in with a heart lead or spade and ruffs the last east trump is pulled, South has what is left with diamonds.

Know-how bosses cut down losses.

Don Newcombe Signs Contract With Dodgers

BROOKLYN (AP) — Don Newcombe, Brooklyn Dodgers' pennant insurance" for 1954, celebrated his release from the United States Army Monday by returning his signed contract to the Dodgers.

Discharged last week the giant Negro pitcher had telephoned him earlier with the glad tidings. Dodger vice-president E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi did not announce terms of the contract.

"Don got a well deserved raise," Bavasi said. "He's had the contract for some time now but couldn't sign it until he was discharged from the army."

Newcombe won 20 games and lost nine in 1951 when the Dodgers were nosed out of the National League pennant by New York Giants in a three-game playoff.

West Indies Bests England

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters)—England's cricketers, chasing a West Indies total of 382, lost two first-innings wickets for 53 runs before rain ended Wednesday's play in the second test match here Monday.

Once again it was the little spin bowler, Sonny Ramadhin, who struck the blows for the West Indies. With the total at 35, he dismissed Willie Watson and 10 runs later he had Peter May caught.

In a friendly match completed before the second test, the tourists defeated the Barbados eleven by one wicket. Barbados scored 289 and 179 while England scored 275 and 196 for nine wickets.

PIONEER STAMPS

The first postage stamps were issued in the provinces of British North America in 1851.

AT THE CAPITOL—Grilled in sensational murder case. Suspect Jack Elam is grilled by Attorney Macdonald Carey in an attempt to find the killer in "Count the Hours", RKO Radio suspense drama. Teresa Wright co-stars and now having its first Belleville showing at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program MGM's all-thrilling new "Prisoner of Zenda" in glorious Technicolor starring Stewart Granger, Deborah Kerr and James Mason.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—With Clark Gable checking out as "king" of MGM, the crown falls on the unwilling head of Robert Taylor.

"None of that 'king' business for me," laughs Taylor, who thinks it clear that he'll just keep on doing his job without any regard for royalty. A 35-year man in films, he still has 2½ years to go on his MGM contract.

Taylor is appearing in another epic, "Valley of the Kings," the story of finding a fabulous Egyptian tomb. He says he's like to do pictures in which the dramatics are not so overpowered by massive production values. But he probably won't get his wish. The Taylor-made epics are too successful at the box office.

It was the birthday season on the screen of "Betrayed." Vic Mature celebrated his 38th while working last Friday, Gable his 53rd Monday of this week. Lana Turner will be 34 next Monday.

Another birthday celebrant this week was pretty Susan Ball, who isn't letting her leg amputation slow her down. She has been hobbling around on crutches and says she's doing fine, "although it's a little hard to balance." She goes for long drives in the afternoon and glowed about seeing her studio again. "I drove past it the morning ever looked so beautiful to me," she remarked.

Capsule review: "Hell and High Water" supplies enough movement and heroics to please even the most avid action fans. It's a fanciful tale of a group of peace-lovers who volunteer on a submarine mission to investigate an Arctic A-bomb installation. There is violence galore and another hard-bitten performance by Richard Widmark. With a defter touch, the film might have reached the peak of Hitchcock thrillers. Bella Darvi makes a notable debut.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The title of this story is "the good goes west," as concerns two Belleville lads Charles Addams character, Peter Lorre, who is back in filmville after a considerable absence. A little man with a large sense of humor, he takes a wry view of his own fortunes.

Lorre left town four years ago for a number of reasons. For one thing, the climate was in a slump. Also, he had long wanted to set up his own film team to make movies but couldn't manage to do it here. But most of all he left because of a feud with Peter Lorre type.

"In England, where I went highbrow and did some readings of Edgar Allen Poe and others, they billed me as 'the world's most imitated actor,'" he reported. "And it's true, I guess. I'm easy to imitate. All you need are the soft-boiled-egg eyes and the high room voice. The imitators would be run out of business if it were not for myself, Edward G. Robinson, Jimmy Cagney, Ronald Colman and a few other easy marks."

He laughed about the old Spike Jones record, "My Old Flame."

AT THE McCARTHY—"Call of the Wild" is sung by Valerie Bettis in Columbia Pictures' Technicolor musical, "Let's Do It Again", starring Ray Milland, Jane Wyman and Aldo Ray opening Wednesday at the McCarthy Theatre.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, FEB. 10, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You were born to aspire to and achieve as high a place in life as possible. Today you could start that climb afresh and, with forethought, continue on the long trail to success.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Merchandising, building and manufacturing matters should be handled cautiously now. Strong dislikes and likes have no place on today's agenda. Proceed carefully.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Get affairs organized. Lay plans with your usual keen intelligence, but don't slow up on routine work. Be patient, kindly, so that disputes won't occur to impede progress.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Make no abrupt changes in schedule. An element of disappointment may tend to cause trouble. Avoid too much amusement, pleasure while neglecting essentials. Strike that happy medium.

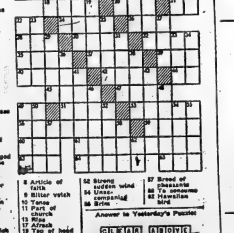
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Cover expenses of financial and business matters carefully if you would preserve attitude; some uncertainties these days.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Wishing and talking seldom bring results unless followed by well-executed action. Today demands action, some new ideas, leadership and originality to combat cross-currents.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—This day may lead to new experiences. Aspects are generally favorable but you will need to protect employment, business, interests with sound thinking, reviewing.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—You cannot back into success; initiative and well-planned endeavor are needed. Some unexpected gains, favors if you are deserving, sincere in purpose.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Your own judgment may not be quite adequate to carry you over hazardous jumps today. Safeguard your interests with more thought, seeking advice from others better informed.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Some contacts previously made but forgotten will unexpectedly further your advancement. Be ready to take the right step, and move forward appreciably. News.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Influences stimulating to romance, marriage, social life in general. Improving conditions, happier outlook. It may be necessary to make slight adjustments.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—You may experience delays in some long cherished plans. Don't get a wrong start in the hours before noon. P. M. brightens, with fine prospects of good return for worthy efforts. Bear good will.

YOU BORN TODAY are outwardly quiet and patient but oftimes inwardly anxious and restless. Desire for knowledge and the willingness to work for attainment of learning are among your most desirable traits. You can be practical as well as theoretical and, if you learn to control and properly direct the desire for change, you can be of great service to mankind—giving variety to ideas and methods that can be productive, aid in organization and civic affairs. Prayer, determination are essential needs. Birthdate: Charles Lamb, noted essayist, poet, critic.

Four Knockouts Feature Card At Palace Pier

TORONTO (CP)—Four knockouts were registered in the nine-bout card of the Palace Pier's Amateur boxing show here Monday night. Three were technical knockouts.

In the five-round main bout Jerry Durette of Toronto and Johnn Ahopelo of the Northland Athletic Club fought to a draw. The pair boiled in the 140-pound division.

Pat Campbell of Guelph decisioned Johnny Lapshuk of Toronto in the 145-pound semi-final.

Other results included:

150 pounds—Con McCullaugh of Toronto scored a technical knockout over Pat Cavanagh of Cobourg at 1:40 in the first round of a scheduled three-rounder.

Eskys Officials Confer With Kansas Coach

Various meetings were held throughout the day and evening, Eskimo officials said. A statement may be issued later.

"He wasn't signed," said an official. "You don't sign a coach in 10 minutes."

Meek, like Royal, an exponent of the split-T formation, was in Edmonton on a "look-see" basis. He left Edmonton by plane at midnight to return to Kansas State.

Last year he led Kansas to its first successful season since 1934.

FREED OF MANSLAUGHTER

KITCHENER (CP) — Harold Harron of Drayton Monday was freed of a manslaughter charge arising from the traffic death Dec. 10 of Mrs. Victoria Laskowski. A grand jury decided Harron should not be required to stand trial.

Biltmores Edge Dutchies 3-2 In Junior Game

GUELPH (CP)—Birley Dimma scored with four seconds remaining to give the Biltmores a 3-2 victory over Kitchener - Waterloo Green-shirts in a Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game Monday night.

Guelph moved into a sixth-place tie with Hamilton Cubs.

After a scoreless first period, defenceman John Muckler scored to give the Blits a 1-0 lead. That stood up until 11:13 in the third when Rod Horne and Bruce Jones scored within 78 seconds to reverse the lead. With Kitchener-Waterloo playing four men to six, Muckler banged in his second goal.

Twelve of the 20 penalties went to Kitchener.

Ontario's Entry Can Play Draw, Knockout Game

By FRED WHEELER
Canadian Press Correspondent

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—Ontario's entry in the Dominion schoolboy curling championship opening at Hamilton Feb. 22 will fight fire with fire when it clashes with western rinks.

The Sarnia rink skipped by 17-year-old Bill Fraser uses the western style of long-sliding delivery, but is also proficient at draw or take-out. It was the rink's draw game that gave it a 15-5 victory over Owen Sound in the provincial finals at Toronto Jan. 31. It downed Oshawa 15-9 and Orillia 19-1 in earlier play.

VETERAN COACH

The western-style delivery was taught by coach M. J. Chilton, veteran skip from the Sarnia Curling Club. Chilton has been chairman of the schoolboy curling organization here for six years and now is coaching 30 boys.

Other members of the Sarnia team are lead Rod Brown, 18, second Ed Fraser, 18, and vice-skip Carl McCleery, 18. All are students at the Sarnia Collegiate Institute and Technical School.

Skip Bill Fraser is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Fraser. He has been curling for three years. His father was a halfback with University of Western Ontario football clubs from 1928 to 1931 and was a member of Sarnia Imperials who won the Grey Cup in 1934.

Brown, also an ardent golfer, has been at the curling game for two years. His father, Roy Brown, was a back with the mustangs and Sarnia Imperial clubs in the late 1920s and early 1930s. He managed the 1936 Imperial Club which won for Sarnia its second Grey Cup.

Ed Fraser, no relation to the skip, has been curling for three years. His father Jack Fraser was in his youth a prominent softball and hockey player. He has played football for Sarnia Collegiate Blue Devils.

Madery, also a collegiate football player, has been curling for three years. His father, Vaughn Madery, played for Petrolia Hard Oil football teams in the 1920s.

Schoolboy curling in Sarnia was started seven years ago by W. A. Watson, a past president of the Ontario Curling Association, and W. H. Kenny. Annual competition is held for the Lucas Trophy, donated by Fred Lucas of Toronto, a past president of the Dominion Curling Association, and his brother Gordon of Sarnia.

NOT TOO CLUMSY NOW

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Lloyd Brown, a senior centre who didn't play high school basketball because—in his own words—he was "too clumsy" poured in 72 points Monday night to lead Aquinas College to a 100-43 victory over winless Cleary College.

Teammates fed the ball steadily to Brown in an effort to break the Grand Rapids scoring record. They succeeded—by 20 points.

The six-foot-four Negro, made 27 field goals out of 41 attempts and added 18 free throws.

'Hap's Happy' Will Sign Another Goalie

BARRIE (CP) — Hap Emms, coach of Barrie Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, said Monday he has received permission from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to sign another petmulder.

Barrie's regular goalkeeper, Jack Spencer, was injured in a game with St. Catharines TeePees last Friday and will be out for the rest of the season. He suffered a fractured skull when he was hit on the forehead by a puck.

Emms said he doesn't know yet who the new netminder will be. Barry Smith, a junior B goalie, has been filling in.

BELLEVILLE,
February 8th., 1954

Alderman Arthur Keegan,
Chairman of Planning,
City Hall,
Belleville, Ontario.

Dear Alderman Keegan:

On February 4th last, you wrote asking my opinion regarding the sale of beer in the area of the City east of MacDonald Avenue and possession of beer in such area. I advised you that my interpretation of the Liquor Control Act and the regulations made thereunder made it unlawful to pay for beer in the above area, but that beer could be delivered to the houses in the area if paid for at the time of purchase.

You have again requested my opinion in view of the statement made by Mr. J. L. Jones and published in today's paper.

I have again perused the Liquor Control Act, and the regulations, and to confirm my opinion, I phoned the solicitor for the Liquor Control Board in Toronto, and there is no regulation of the Liquor Control Act as stated by Mr. Jones, and it is quite obvious he is in error, and in my opinion, it is unlawful to deliver beer to the area east of MacDonald Ave., and collect payment at the point of delivery; certainly there is no such regulation as quoted by Mr. Jones.

Yours very truly,
ROBERT A. PRINGLE,
CITY SOLICITOR

40-Year-Old Wife Of B. Macfadden Seeks Separation

NEW YORK (AP)—The 40-year-old wife of Bernarr Macfadden complained Monday the 85-year-old publisher slept on a pallet in their bedroom, accused her of trying to poison him and of being unfaithful.

Mrs. Jessie Lee Macfadden testified in her Supreme Court suit seeking a separation from the physical culturist on the grounds of "cruel and inhuman treatment."

Macfadden previously brought suit for separation, but withdrew it as the juryless trial opened before Judge Henry Clay Greenberg. Macfadden set a few feet from his wife as she testified.

She declared he had a series of "obsessions."

"Shortly after our marriage (in 1948) we returned to my apartment," she related. "As is his custom, I made a pallet for him on the floor. I slept in the bed."

On another occasion, she said he accused her of poisoning him at dinner.

"I tasted the food and ate it. But he kept raving. He took the food and threw it in the kitchen sink."

She related Macfadden also accused her of leaving "the window open for my lover to come in at night" although they lived in a 13th-floor penthouse.

"I said I couldn't understand it since his pallet was only a few feet from me," she said, "but he still raved."

Fishing Boat Sails Unmanned Into Port, 3 Lives Lost

Winter's Worst Storm Lashes Atlantic Coast

HALIFAX (CP) — A fishing boat, her three-man crew lost at sea, sailed unmanned into her home port of Glace Bay, N. S., today. The crews of two other vessels turned up after surviving the worst Atlantic storm of the winter.

The battered Liberator followed into port, her hull and cabin broken, her rigging and lights that were torn from her by 85-mile-an-hour winds and heavy seas. There was no sign of her crew.

The vessel's captain was Tom Barrett, a grandson of fishermen who was regarded in Glace Bay as one of the best in the business. His crew members were Neil Macleod Paul Ford and Jake Burke.

Barrett was the son of Silby Barrett, an executive officer of Local 90 of the United Mine Workers Union in Cotabish.

CREW PICKED UP

The 138-ton auxiliary schooner Keith V. Collins out of Lunenburg, N.S., had her seams opened by pounding waves and sent distress calls 60 miles east of Halifax. The trawler Cape Smoky picked up her crew and is heading for Halifax.

The Jens H. of Port Morien, N. S., slipped into Sydney after riding out the storm 30 miles at sea.

The weather office here says that skies will clear today in the western Atlantic provinces. Storm warnings in this area have been replaced with small craft warnings.

Third Victim Of 'Copter Crash Found in Quebec

TROIS-PISTOLES, Que. (CP)— Search parties early today found the body of a third victim of Tuesday's mid-air explosion of a huge American helicopter near this south shore St. Lawrence river town.

The remains were found buried in deep snow about 500 feet from the strewn wreckage of the craft.

The body was identified as that of a civilian named William M. Blankin. His home-town was unavailable but Quebec provincial police believe he was employed by Morton Engineering Company of Pennsylvania.

It could not immediately be established why he was aboard the helicopter, believed property of the United States Army and flown and operated by the U. S. Air Force.

START INVESTIGATION

Blankin was identified by two USAF officers who were escorting the remains to a Washington Grumman aircraft, police said.

The bodies of the copter's pilot, Lieut. Thomas Hall, 28, of New York City and Texas, and co-pilot, Capt. Edward D. Dixon, believed from New York, were recovered shortly after the crash.

Provincial police and Investigators of the USAF and RCAF are expected here later today to start an official inquiry into the cause of the mishap, which occurred just before noon Tuesday. A coroner's inquest was held last night for identification purposes and was adjourned pending the investigation.

The giant machine was en route from Quebec City to Sept Iles, Que., when it exploded in the 150 miles east of Quebec or half way to its destination. The craft was to have scheduled to go on to Goose Bay, Labrador, where the crew was believed stationed.

First on the scene were a group of farmers and lumbermen who were working in the woods nearby when they heard the craft flying precariously overhead.

They heard one of the engines burning unevenly and then saw two explosions that sent parts of the craft twisting and flaming into the fields and the surrounding brush.

PAY INCREASES FOR MP'S SAFELY PASSES COMMONS

Conservative, CCF Members Split Vote

OTTAWA (CP) — Government legislation providing a pay increase to members of Parliament is safely through the Commons, but on its way it split both the Progressive Conservative and CCF parties.

A majority of each party voted in the Commons Tuesday against giving third and final reading to a bill doubling the $4,000 yearly indemnity of members of the Commons and Senate.

Four members of each party, however, backed the measure as the House approved it 153 to 46. The bill also was supported by the Social Credit members.

The pay increase, retroactive to last June, when the legislation was given second reading—approval in principle. At that time a total of 10 PC and 11 CCF members and by 15 CCF members, while 10 PC members approved the principle of the pay increase.

Elsewhere, only four of the seven CCF members who supported the measure last week voted for third reading. They were: Joseph W. Noseworthy (York South), Thomas Barnett (Comox-Alberni) and Hazen H. Argue (Assiniboia). The three others, including party leader M. J. Coldwell, were among the 18 CCF members voting against third reading.

Eisenhower Says Every Move Aimed At Avoiding War

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower said today every move the U.S. government takes with respect to aid to Indo-China is carefully calculated to keep the United States from getting involved in a hot war there.

The president told a press conference he could not conceive of a more urgent task than for the U.S. to get involved in an all-out war there or anywhere.

Eisenhower made the statements after Senator John Stennis (Dem., Miss.) urged speedy U.S. sharpening of American techniques to help French units fighting Reds in Indo-China might lead to U.S. involvement in the fighting.

Eisenhower said every step he authorizes in world affairs is taken as a means of preventing war.

ALWAYS SOME RISK

He added, however, that can be done in international affairs involves some risk, he added.

He said the recent assignment of 200 American technicians to take care of complicated equipment sent to Indo - China, Eisenhower said they will not be in combat and that they are expected to be withdrawn by next June 15.

Collective Security Is For All Europe Is USSR Plan

BERLIN (Reuters) — Russia's Vyacheslav Molotov today submitted to the Big Four conference a proposal for a general European treaty on collective security in Europe.

The East and West German governments would be parties to the treaty with equal rights, thus ending the establishment of a united Germany.

SEE ALLIANCE NULLIFIED

(The Associated Press said the Soviet treaty, if adopted, would annul the North Atlantic alliance.)

Signatory states would refrain from attacking one another or from having recourse to the threat or use of force.

The proposal gives what are called the "basic principles" of the treaty, one purpose of which would be to set up:

"To prevent the formation or groups of European states directed against other European states . . . and;

The treaty would bind the parties "not to enter a coalition or alliance or conclude any agreement the purposes of which would contradict the purposes of the treaty."

Molotov proposes that the governments of the United States and Communist China should send representatives to the "bodies set up under the treaty" as observers.

Farm Implement Workers Seek Federal Aid to Halt Recession

OTTAWA (CP)—Spokesmen for workers in Canada's farm implement industry said today the industry is in a "serious recession" and asked the federal government for broad measures to rehabilitate it.

Joint delegation from the UAW Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) and the United Steelworkers (CIO-CCL), Canada's two biggest unions, told a cabinet meeting that employment in the industry has been drastically cut.

It proposed action aimed chiefly at increasing the purchasing power, slackening of which it blamed largely for declines in the implement trade.

Delegates from the Ontario implement centres of Tyrone, Hanover, Brantford, Woodstock and Smiths Falls presented the union views in a brief. The group was led by Canadian directors George Burt of the UAW and Charles H. Millard of the steel union.

The auto-steel brief said that at last October government figures showed 3,500 out of work in the industry, which had a total development peak of around 15,000. It did not indicate today for the figures were above the seasonal normal.

FIVE-POINT PROGRAM

1. Protection for farm prices so farmers can plan ahead and not be financed from federal funds to hold down consumer prices.

2. Extension of marketing organizations such as the Canadian Wheat Board, to give farmers a greater control over marketing of their products.

3. Stricter action against combines and monopolies, which had "dominated" the processing of farm products.

4. Government purchases of surplus food, which should if necessary be given away to underdeveloped peoples.

5. Lower interest rates under the Farm Improvement Loans Act, used by farmers to buy machinery. The unions suggested reduction of the 19 per cent sales tax, which they said would help enlarge the market for the current bad rural dwellers.

The recession in the farm implement industry," they said, "cannot be considered apart from the great danger of a general recession throughout the Canadian economy. Since 1952, falling farm incomes has frequently been the forerunner of just such a general recession.

"In the face of a recession, all possible steps should be taken to get added purchasing power into the hands of farmers and industrial workers so as to create better markets for their products."

FIRM WORLD MARKETS

World markets also must be developed, the unions said, for farm implements. This would involve Canadian trade with the Soviet bloc countries and, in many cases, long-term loans to them.

Other proposed steps:

1. An investigation into the business practices of the farm implement companies. Appointment of a joint labor-management advisory committee—representing farmers, labor, industry and government—to study the these practices and make recommendations on them.

2. Immediate measures to provide jobs for the men laid off from defence contracts for plants where there now are serious layoffs, and a six-point public works program to aid communities where unemployment is now serious.

3. Larger benefit payments to laid-off workers from the unemployment insurance fund.

Rhee Insists He Will Reopen War to Unify Korean People

Kelman Pat Meets, Associated Press special correspondent, interviewed President Syngman Rhee of South Korea today and here is exclusive report. Kelman Meets, who won the Pulitzer prize for his dispatches from Korea in 1950, has been in the Far East three weeks and has been in Japan and Korea. Before the Second World War, Meets was AP chief of bureau in Berlin. Since the war he headed AP bureaus in Paris and Washington before being appointed to his roving assignment.

By KELMAN MORIN

SEOUL (AP) — President Syngman Rhee warned today that he is determined to reopen the war against the Chinese Reds occupying North Korea, and that if necessary he will go ahead without U.S. support.

"I am not bluffing," he said. "The president and the people of Korea have made the statement in an interview with this correspondent. Excerpt in general terms, it is:

"Time is rapidly running out. We shall have to act soon or perish."

In both manner and speech, Rhee gave every evidence that he means what he says. He repeated several times: "I am not bluffing. I can't bluff now."

He criticized U.S. policy as "mistaken" in discussing peace with the Chinese and said: "Unification through a political conference is not practical."

He gave these reasons for the position he has taken:

Firstly, he is convinced the Chinese themselves will reopen the fighting when they are ready.

"They have not given up their ambition for the rule of Korea. They will attack again."

Secondly, he believes the present lull, more like the talks in 1951, is merely to gain time for the military build-up.

Thirdly, the build-up is in progress "This time Russia may have new weapons from the Soviets, including a strong air arm and many jet planes."

Fourthly, even assuming the Communists take no attack in the future, which he does not assume, a reinvested Korea could not live. "We have any fear that South Korean attack on the Chinese mainland would start world war."

WHY START IT NOW?

"If Soviet Russia was not ready for war in 1950, when we were sure we went to the Yalu river in 1950, why should it start now?"

The president conceded that from a standpoint of supplies and armament the South Korean armies have "a hard time." He hoped that the least he could expect was support in the form of ammunition, gasoline and the like.

Most competent U. S. military observers in Korea do not believe the South Koreans could press an offensive for long without both supplies and air cover from the United States.

Rumored Snap Election May Be Called In Ont.

Legislature Opens In Toronto on Thursday

TORONTO (CP)—The 1954 session of the Ontario legislature opens Thursday and some members say they "wouldn't be surprised" if Premier Frost calls a snap election when it is over.

The likely issue would be alleged irregularities in the highways department. This is expected to be a major topic of the new session which may last seven weeks.

Premier Frost's Progressive Conservative government has been under fire of Liberal and CCF party leaders since disclosures last month of alleged road-contract frauds in the Fort William division of the highways department. The government, with 80 supporters in the 90-member house, has the support of its five-year term to run but some opposition members say the Liberal party is in a first-class reason for Mr. Frost to seek a renewed mandate.

PCs WIN BY-ELECTIONS

The disclosures of alleged irregularities in highway lands in Mackay's Simcoe East by-election which saw Liberal Duncan Ross defeat the for the Progressive Conservatives. It was the second by-election loss for the government had won since it was returned to power in the general election of 1951.

The standing of the Liberal party in the house was reduced from three to two with the resignation of Walter Thomson who was Niagara Falls for the government's majority of 14. With their six members and support from one Labor-Progressive, the Liberals form the official opposition. The CCF has two members and the remainder Labor-Progressive party one.

The Liberals again will be led by house leader Farquhar Oliver. A party convention will be held in April to name a provincial leader to succeed Walter Thomson who resigned after the 1951 election. The new provincial CCF leader, Donald MacDonald, will be one of the youngest men in the legislature when he opens the session from the throne read by Lieutenant-Governor Louis Orsi Thaupt outlining the government's legislative program. It will be expected to disclose officially that the government will introduce a bill, similar to the Conservation Act, the result of the provincial government's use of a gas pipeline from Alberta.

CONTROL GAS

The government will be aimed at giving the province power to control sale and transmission of gas by private companies.

It is expected any gas that may be imported from the United States through the province.

The Child Welfare Act is also expected to be amended as the consolidation of three acts—the Children's Protection Act, the Children of Unmarried Parents Act and the Adoptions Act.

Amendments to the Disabled Persons' Allowance Act are expected to be among the other legislation that the government will pass at this session. The federal government has announced that the province will share the cost with the provinces on a 50-50 basis.

Premier Frost, also provincial secretary, is reported planning to open the legislature on March 2 or March. It is forecast that the budget calls for increased spending and now is in almost final form.

During the session reports of the house committees, including reforms and Indians affairs, are expected to be presented.

Agriculture Minister Thomas will be absent at the house opening as he lies ill in bed with several months.

Canada's Economic Activity Soared To Record High in '53 Says Tower

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor Graham Towers of the Bank of Canada said today that Canada's economic activity soared to a record high in 1953 but showed "disturbing trends" towards the end of the year.

The stockpile of unsold goods in the hands of manufacturers climbed during 1953. Spending by governments increased by one-fifth, but there was a bare fraction of the jump in the previous year. Employment towards the end of the year did not keep pace with the annual increase in the labor force.

In all, however, Canada had a prosperous year, national production showing a 3½-per-cent rise in volume to a peak of $24,200,000,000, Mr. Towers said in a $-page annual report tabled in the Commons by Finance Minister Abbott.

Consumer spending reached a new high of $15,600,000,000, up from $14,500,000,00 in 1953.

And while consumer prices averaged 99 per cent of the 1949 level, industrial wages rose 4½ per cent to $1.30 an hour on Nov. 1, 1953, compared to $1.34 on Dec. 1, 1952, and $1.24 on Dec. 1, 1951.

Capital investment, including an increase in inventories, swelled to $8,200,000,000, a 13-per-cent rise from 1953 and equal to 36 per cent of 1953's national production.

"The large increase in investment was financed in part by increased domestic savings, but in greater part by a large net import of capital from abroad," Mr. Towers said.

Seven Children Burned to Death In Man., Quebec

All Under School Age Had No Chance to Escape

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — A railway worker's four children died here Tuesday in a fire which came close to claiming the lives of their mother and a fireman who was attempting a ladder rescue.

The four, all under school age, were the children of Mr. and Mrs. John Pilchar.

Firemen arrived at the height of the blaze and saw Mrs. Pilchar smash a second storey window. Fireman John Stouffer climbed a ladder to the second floor in an attempt to rescue the woman.

Stouffer was overcome by smoke and nearly fireman Joe Waynick, donned a smoke mask and made his way up to the second floor and brought the unconscious man down via the ladder.

The mother, upon regaining consciousness, had to be restrained by firemen as she attempted to rush back into the flaming dwelling. The father was at work.

Thief Snatches $1,800 Payroll From Sales Clerk

Barbara MacAuley, 22, told detectives she was bringing the payroll from the bank to the company office.

She was walking back with another store employee when the attack was made.

Miss MacAuley said that as she was passing the Zimmerknit plant, a man who had been walking in front of her suddenly stopped, turned, kicked her in the leg and snatched the payroll. He struck her in the face with the parcel, then turned and ran north.

Scelba, bitter foe of Communists and neo-Fascists alike, formed the government of the republic to fight to maintain his cabinet list.

Fanfani, also a Christian Democrat, failed to get a majority of the House to support him.

He takes over as premier at a moment when Italy's powerful Communist party is applying pressure to form Socialist - Reds coalitions across the country in a move that has put Scelba's premiership as an offensive against the new government.

Largest Docket In Recent Years Listed for Trial

One of the largest court dockets in recent years is listed for trial at the spring sessions of the Supreme Court, which opened here Monday afternoon at the county court house building before His Honor Mr. Justice Moorhouse. It is the first court which Mr. Justice Moorhouse has presided over in Belleville.

Jury cases actions were originally listed for trial along with 31 non-jury cases, but many of the jury cases including the Cooney vs. Empson case and the Empson vs. Cooney cross-action claims, arising out of a fatal motor accident on Highway 2 near Brighton in May last year, were settled out of court.

One of the non-jury actions, that of the Belleville Public Utilities, vs. the City of Belleville, was withdrawn from the court on recommendation of the utilities commissioners. All of the non-jury cases are divorce actions.

Practically all the cases up for trial, both jury and non-jury, of the divorce actions are damage actions involving motor accidents.

Jury Criticizes Heating System At Court House

Improvement in the ventilating and heating of the Hastings County court house, together with redecoration of the court room, and replacement of seats, particularly those used by the jury, was recommended by the Grand Jury at the conclusion of their duties at the Supreme Court sittings here this week.

The jury also commended the personnel responsible for the housekeeping of the jail and the courthouse and reported they had found everything clean and neat. "This, we feel, is well deserved great credit on jail governor, Robert Scott.

The jury reported several of the prisoners had been interviewed and that no complaints of any kind were registered.

The jury report noted that the present heating system in the building caused a great deal of dust, which made it difficult to keep the building clean. Also the heat was uneven and not properly distributed about the building. It was recommended that a competent heating engineer be consulted.

It was noted that the courthouse was over 100 years old and was in need of modernizing. It was recommended that an architect be retained to draw up plans for any future changes contemplated. The court room was in need of decoration and new seats were needed to replace present ones, particularly the jury seats.

NEED OF DECORATING

The crown attorney's office was said to be in need of modernization and redecorating. The office is over the furnace and is over-heating and receives most of the dust. A new floor or floor covering was recommended.

New front doors for the court house were recommended.

Jurors noted that parking facilities at the courthouse were inadequate and it was recommended that a parking space in front of the courthouse be widened.

Windows should be examined and repaired where necessary, the library plaster and front steps need repairing.

The cell ceilings were found to be in bad condition and it was recommended they be lowered.

The Grand Jury was interested with the excellent conditions existing at the Hastings County Home. The patients were found to be happy and contented under the care of superintendent and matron, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth York.

"Hastings County should be proud to have such a fine county home," the report indicated.

Engineers Hear Address About Shell Moulding

Members of the Belleville Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada heard an address on "Shell Moulding" by W. A. Campbell, Sales Development Manager of the Rakelite Company of Canada, at their monthly meeting held Monday in the Masonic Temple.

Shell moulding, a term applied to a new method of casting metals, is a process by which a synthetic resin, mixed with a foundry sand, is cast on a hot metallic pattern. The resin melts and acts as a binder for the sand forming a shell on the hot pattern.

Shell moulding has been recognized as one of the major technical advances in the foundry industry and perhaps the first basic change in the method of mould construction since the inception of the foundry art.

Mr. Campbell was introduced by C. A. Bradford and thanked by J. Lawn.

A. E. Argue spoke briefly to the Branch on the possibility of undertaking a second professional development course for junior engineers.

A resolution in favor of the incorporation of the Association of Professional Engineers and the Engineering Institute of Canada was passed unanimously.

C. Whittemore was chairman of the meeting.

Capitol Theatre Installs New Giant Screen

The Capitol Theatre's new giant Panoramic screen will be used for the first time this evening at the final showing of "The Prisoner of Zenda."

The screen, 32 feet wide and 18 feet high, was installed by two crews working round the clock after the final show Tuesday evening. Installation is under direction of Lorne Greer, 20th Century Theatres' superintendent of projection.

A new lens has also been installed on the projector to accommodate the picture to the new screen. From now on all pictures shown at the Capitol will be for the wide-angled screen.

The screen, a $1,500 beauty, is made of a rubberoid base with a seamless plastic coating impregnated with silver and aluminum for high reflectivity. A gentle 20 inch curve is necessary to provide the huge picture with a setting that is free from distortion even to patrons in the side seats. In addition to its bigger picture, the new lens provides 40 percent more illumination.

The screen is mounted on a platform eight feet wide, that can be rolled back on 15 casters to provide room for stage shows.

Within the next few weeks all new drapes will be installed in the theatre with electrically controlled overhead travellers to open and close the curtains.

Kinsmen Told About Growth Of Magazines

The growth of the modern magazine was the subject of an address by Lloyd Van Alstyne, vice-president of the Curtis Distributing Company of Canada Ltd., to a meeting of the Kingsmen Club in Hotel Quinte Monday evening.

He told members of the remarkable growth of the Curtis publishing empire behind its famous magazines. The Ladies' Home Journal, started December 1st, 1883, was an offshoot of three columns of material printed in Cyrus K. Curtis' Tribune and Farmer the preceding summer. When the Tribune could not fill its columns from issue to issue it printed material specially devoted to women.

In 1889 Edward W. Bok, 36, was named editor of the Journal and he soon established a number of firsts in the publishing industry. He was the first to have a changing cover. He was the first to separate the ads and put them in the back of the book. He was first to use color; the first to publish plans for houses—he introduced the bungalow to America. He was first to have a garden and a kitchen department in his magazine.

OUTLINES DEVELOPMENT

Mr. Van Alstyne outlined the development of "Country Gentleman" magazine, with its 2,400,000 circulation from the lowly Genesee Farmer of 1831 and its merger with the 'Cultivator' in 1839.

The Saturday Evening Post, started in 1728 by Benjamin Franklin as Pennsylvania Gazette, was sold as recently as 1897 for $1,000. It has a circulation of 2,000. Before it was a paying proposition its publisher poured more than a million dollars into it. It took five years for the struggling magazine to show a profit. Today the Post is a healthy giant with an annual revenue from advertising alone exceeding $50,000,000.

Today the Post pays its cover artists $10,000 for a single cover, and major serial writers like Maurice Buddington Knox received $75,000 per serial. Frances Shelly Wood (who was written up in yesterday's Ontario Intelligencer) receives about $8,500 for a complete six-section story.

Strong editorial content, revenue from advertising, an alert circulation policy, and sound management has enabled the Post independent in the production of a superior magazine, Mr. Van Alstyne said.

He was introduced by Emile Collette and the appreciation was the club was expressed by Don Bacon.

The business meeting followed the dinner.

Women's Organizations Pool Interests to Lend Assistance To Needy Unemployed Families

Members of several women's organizations in the city will pool their interests to lend effective assistance to needy unemployed families finding it difficult to meet grocery bills, clothing, insurance, or who have exhausted their benefits.

Delegates from these women's organizations have met twice at the national employment office here, where office manager H. H. Reed pointed out that the number of unemployed has gradually increased and in the face of continuing layoffs it was becoming difficult for persons out of work to secure jobs. Some of the unemployed, who were receiving unemployment insurance had now exhausted their benefits.

To assist these families a drive is being made amongst members of the women's organizations to secure good used clothing and bedding for infants, women and adults.

Funds to raise funds to be able to provide food and other necessities for the needy, five organizations are holding a sale of home cooking at the market building on the mall on Friday, February 19th. The sale will start at two in the afternoon and continue until six.

SECOND SALE IN MARCH

The balance of the groups will hold a second sale in March, if further assistance is needed.

Organizations sponsoring the home cooking are: the University Women's Club, Y's Men's Club, Kinette Club, and the Kinwanis Ladies' Club. The support of other women's organizations is asked for the home cooking sale.

By pooling interests it was thought a better coverage of the needy cases would be possible. The group of organizations will call themselves the Women's Amalgamated Welfare Association.

Secretary is Mrs. Gertrude Cross, 81 Purdy Street, phone 3547; treasurer is Miss H. Pomeroy, 21 Lime Street, phone 3588-J. H. H. Reed, manager of the local employment service is acting as president.

STAFFS INADEQUATE

Members of the association report that welfare departments of the city or district are the proper authorities to look after welfare, but it was pointed out staffs were inadequate to handle all cases with result that some families were finding themselves in straitened circumstances for a week or more until investigation had been made and authorization made for such departments' to take over.

"These women are to be commended for their interest in children and in home life and for their willingness to give their time and money for the assistance of the needy in our city," Mr. Reed noted.

He went on to say he had been contacted by several other women's organizations whose bylaw permitted doing only direct welfare by their own organization. These have offered to take care of one or two families per week if the need arises, paying for food and food out of their own funds.

Scarlet Fever Outbreak Said 'Over the Peak'

The outbreak of scarlet fever which has closed the Stonebury public school for the week that runs far been confined to the one family of Cecil Defoe and is "over the worst" according to Dr. S. E. Beatty, of Madoc, medical officer of health.

Dr. Beatty said today that the outbreak was not of a severe type and he did not expect the Stonebury school would be closed more than the one week.

However, as a precautionary measure 223 pupils in four other public schools in the area were inoculated Tuesday morning. The officials where pupils were inoculated were Grimsby, St. Ola, Greenbush and Gilmour.

Ex-Councillor Gunter New Plant Operator

TRENTON (Special) — Clifford Gunter who served as a councilman for two terms is leaving the service of B. W. Powers and Son and accepting the position of operator at the new filtration plant at No. 1 dam. Mr. Gunter retired from municipal life in December of last year due to ill health.

On retiring from the employment of the Powers' company Mr. Gunter is the senior trucker and oldest in point of service. He was starting his 23rd year with the firm.

When the former Chairman of Public Works joined Trenton's longest established coal distributors the founder Bruce W. Powers was alive.

At the time O. G. "Buster" Ares the present proprietor was the company manager.

The new filtration plant where Mr. Gunter is going to work is a project recently completed for the Trenton Public Utilities Commission to assure both R.C.A.F. establishments and Middleton Park ample fresh water reserves.

Mr. Gunter has lived in Trenton for 25 years. He is an active member of I.O.O.F. Lodge No. 113, Trenton. He is a Past Noble Grand of the Order.

Mr. Gunter's interests have always been in Trenton although he spent many years in western Canada prior to Trenton.

In later years Mr. Gunter has served as an elder of the church board of North Trenton United Church.

He married Agnes Price of Trenton and raised two sons Keith employed at No. 6 Repair Depot and Gene at home.

Ritchie Hearing Set for Tuesday

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The U. S. request for the extradition of Donald Ritchie, signed by President Eisenhower, was expected to reach Windsor today.

An extradition hearing has been set for next Tuesday.

Ritchie implicated "four other men in the 1948 shooting of Walter Reuther, United Automobile Workers president and now president of the CIO, and was himself charged after fleeing police "protective custody" in Detroit. Ritchie has since denied his statement about the shooting.

Charged with the attempted murder of Reuther, after Ritchie made his statement to Wayne county authorities, were Clarence Jacobs, Ritchie's uncle; Santo (Sam) Perrone of Detroit; Perrone's son-in-law, Carl Renda; and Peter Lombardo, now serving a term in a federal penitentiary in the U. S.

Truck Kills White Wolf

Several wolves have been captured in this locality, according to officers of the lands and forests department. Some live specimens have also been sent to Toronto for research.

BOYS DROWN IN QUARRY

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two four-year-old boys were drowned Tuesday when they fell through the ice in an abandoned quarry. Michael Collins and Michael Mitchell had been chasing a golf ball on the thin ice when it broke and Mrs. Alice Collins and Mrs. Betty Mitchell, their mothers, jumped into the 80-foot-deep quarry and were nearly drowned in the rescue attempt.

Dishwasher Admits Slaying Author, Wife

NEW YORK (AP) — Harold Weisberg, 23-year-old dishwasher, admitted today that he shot exotic writer Max Bodenheim, found slain last February with his wife, police announced.

The announcement came a few minutes after Weisberg, a fugitive since the bodies were found in a squalid rat-filled room, had been hustled into a police station.

The prisoner had not yet been questioned concerning the fatal stabbing of Bodenheim's wife, 35-year-old Ruth Fagan, police said.

RAILROADS SPEED UP

MEXICO CITY (AP)—An official government statement today said it is "incredible but true" that all railroads on the Mexican Pacific coast are running on time now. The statement, in the form of a press release, added that for the first time in many years there is not even any delayed freight piled up in railroad yards.

COMMITTEE APPROVES

HALIFAX (CP) — The civic health and welfare committee has approved fluoridation of the Halifax water supply, and the proposal now goes to city council for decision.

delegation also proposed a resolution suggesting interim measures to be taken in Germany pending the conclusion of a peace treaty and a reunification of the country. These were:

1. Simultaneous withdrawal of occupation forces within six months with the exception of limited contingents for "protective functions" under strength to be agreed upon by the four powers.

2. The occupation powers to retain the right to return their forces in case the security of either part of Germany is threatened — the Soviet Union in regard to East Germany, the Western powers in regard to West Germany.

3. East and West Germany to be allowed police forces for the maintenance of internal order and defence, their strength and armament to be agreed upon by four-power exception powers. Inspection groups of the four powers would be formed in East and West Germany to supervise the execution of this agreement.

(These provisions, called the Russian proposal, are intended to assure the neutralization of Germany and the creation of conditions favorable to the settlement of the German problem.)

Any attack against one nation in Europe would be regarded as an attack against the entire treaty bloc. All parties would be bound to go to the rescue of the nation attacked, including use of armed forces.

Molotov had promised the west a "concrete" plan for ensuring the safety of Europe at today's session of the talks, the 15th to date.

WINTER MOTORING CAN BE FUN

Winter motoring can be enjoyable. There was a time when snow-plugged roads and chilly cars made motoring west during the months an ordeal. Thanks to snowplows and car heaters, that time has long since passed.

Actually, the contrast between city and country is greater during the winter than at any other time of the year. In spring, summer or fall, Nature manages to search with her beauties through the city streets. But winter sets about its man to his own artificial environment and withdraws to prepared positions around hill and dale, lake and wood. The city lies naked, dirty and ugly, looking from his window, man sees nothing to call him outdoors, as the yellow daffodils lure him in the spring, the green lawns in summer and the swaying crimson robes in autumn. But in fall, in fall, if disbelieving his eyes and trusting his heart, he will ealy forth nevertheless from his ugly citadel and seek Nature in her own abode he will find her beauty as changeable and changeless as ever.

Town and countryside are wedded in nudity and yet between them there is a vast difference for while the one is stripped by its ugliness the other has its beauty laid bare. The curve of hillside against the blue horizon, which in summer is lost in the landscape's welter of color, emerges before the eye in all its fall appeal. The snow, which in the city is besmirched by grime, here clothes in dazzling white the debris left by man and by Nature herself. The copse on the hilltops, swathed till the valley floor the trees lies sere and dead as a strange contrast to the surrounding snows.

Where lake waters still toss unfettered by the winter's chill there is a vast, and even sharper contrast with the encroaching snow than it made with summer's greenery.

Nor does Nature offer pleasure to the eye alone. Her moments beautiful to the mind. If the territory be well known, she teases the onlooker to recall the exact contours of the same scene when clothed in summer's dress. Or the landscape is unfamiliar and challenges the beholder to imagine the changes a few brief months will bring.

Man, too, has dotted his queries throughout the countryside. The passing motorist is confronted by the sign of his curiosity. Why should all the houses here be tumble-down structures, sprawled out and musing desondently over a better past, while a few short miles away prosperity paints the homes and painted barns?

And the most delightful puzzles of all, of course, are provided by the roads in a strange countryside, which seem to set off together. Where do they go? What lies beyond yonder hill? They ask the same questions in summer, of course, but winter adds to them a spice of danger, for it lies in wait beside the highway, ready to entrap the unwary adventurer who dares to stray from the narrow paths man has pushed into Nature's winter fortress.

To lay up the car for the winter? Don't be foolish — this is the motorist's best holiday season, when beach and picnic ground cannot snare him and drag him from the open road into some futile and frustrating battle with candles or ants!

AUSTRALIA'S WELCOMING TECHNIQUE

Reports from Australia would seem to indicate that the Queen and Prince Philip have been receiving a "rowdy" reception in the Antipodes. Daily reports on the activities of the crowds read like a casualty list. The numbers of those fainting, quarrelling with best friends and breaking things to police lines are dutifully recorded as if the Australian people were waging war on Their Highnesses.

We are quite sure that the newspaper accounts have misinterpreted the true situation. Undoubtedly the Australians are jubilant at welcoming the reigning monarch for the first time in the country's history. That the Australians are an enthusiastic and somewhat unorthodox people is well known. They are not renowned for their impassive nature or stoicism. However, they are not well known as "rowdies."

It might seem, of course, to British observers that any spontaneous demonstration of public joy should be disciplined for centuries to the English with a minimum of emotion. Restraint and precision characterizes the actions of British crowds, regardless of what is ascribed to cheer the monarch. Any instantaneous response to the directions of the police is more the rule than the breaking of police lines. And again, the British are more accustomed to seeing the monarch than are the peoples of the Commonwealth and a royal procession is therefore less of a novelty to the crowds in England than anywhere else.

Different peoples have different ways of expressing themselves. In some of the south sea islands it is the custom to greet important visitors by total silence. In such circumstances even a weak cheer might be construed as an exhibition of "rowdiness." In fact, those assisting the Royal tour found it necessary in the Fiji Islands to train school children to cheer and wave flags when the Queen and the Duke drove past.

The more voluble welcome accorded the Queen and her husband in Australia is no less respectful because its decibel content is greater. Indeed, if the Australians were less enthusiastic than accounts would have us believe, we would begin to wonder if they were extending a royal welcome to the Royal couple. However, we can all rest assured that the Australians are enjoying Her Majesty's visit and the Royal Tour will be a complete success.

THE PERFECT BLOSSOMS

I know a place where roses bloom
And pink petunias grow,
And proud from the window of my room
All that I see is snow.
The icy gift glitters on my vines.
No song of bird I hear,
But in this pleasant spot, no signs
Of wintertime appear.

All things are beautiful to see
Wherever I may stray,
And I know that the flower of every tree
Is at the moth ware May.

The peonies, standing straight and tall,
Reflect God's care divine,
And I confess that one and all
Are lovelier than mine.

My garden is beset by foes
That, day and night attack.
But here each bud to blossom grows,
Perfect—from front to back.
No scar of biter wind or rain
Or scratching cat and dog,
But all in full bright bloom again
In every catalogue.

Mr. Gerald Vance, Murray Street, was knocked down by a surprise party recently on the occasion of his birthday when 35 friending gathered at his home and enjoyed a very jolly evening. During the evening a basket of some fountain pen was presented to Mr. Vance by Mr. C. Traylor on behalf of the friends present. Mr. James McDonald read an address expressing congratulations and good wishes. The presentation was a surprise to all follows: ladies' first, Miss Hilda Taylor; ladies' second, Mrs. James McDonald; consolation, Mrs. S. McDonald; men's first, Mr. C. Traylor; consolation, Mr. Cecil McFee.

Miss A. M. Sagburn has been elected chairman of the Tweed Council this year, being the first she is the only woman member who has ever been a member of the Board and she served the ratepayers most efficiently for a considerable time. She is a deep interest in the welfare of the children.

Bostonians Forget Tea

(Manchester Guardian)

Sometimes a single leaf falling from a tree is the end of an era. It comes as a slight shock to hear that the Boston Tea Party, which now seems to know what tea is for.

So, at least one may conclude from the dismissal of George Farmer, the Boston tea engineer from Bath, by a Boston building firm, Mr. Stevens, or any British tea man alleges, disrupted the work of the office by taking tea every afternoon and causing all other employees to cluster about him, fascinated and puzzled by the mysterious ritual.

To be sure it is a long time since the tea chest was cast in parties, and it was always unwise to take the expression New England too literally. But surely all those Lowells and Cabots had a sipping acquaintance with tea? Henry James was sometimes vague about snuff rightly matters as food and drink, but what was it that his characters conducted so many tentative skirmishes over?

Can Boston Hill shed no light at all, and is Back Bay wholly a back number? Mr. Stevens, at all events, is serious about the case for tea; he has taken it to court.

It would be improper to comment on its legal aspects, since the original jury upheld it, the judge dismissed it, and the court of appeals has now ordered a new trial. But on the level of emotion rather than of law the old song put it more succinctly: "Can love be controlled by advice?" Bath's answer is clear.

We need not expect Boston to

Humor Sign Of Civilization

(Montreal Gazette).

One of the sure signs of civilization is humor and Canadians have been beginning to produce their Earle Birney's "Turvey" is a delightful parody of James Joyce; Hugh Garner's "Storm Below," though essentially a dramatic tale of life in the trenches, has its own excellent humorous scenes in it.

The comparison of these two books gives some idea of how delicate a thing is humor, how difficult to achieve. The writing of humor can properly be considered one step further than the writing of drama. Drama can be achieved from a newspaper report; humor must present life, then turn it upside down.

Essentially, humor is contrast, the skilful representation of common causes bringing uncommon results—that is why most comic strips are based on. One, the "straight man," represents the ordinary, everyday. The "comic" represents the revolutionary, the unexpected. Both are necessary for the comic's actions gain most of their strength from their contrast with the straight man's background.

Canadians, too, have a tendency to feel solemn about themselves. True humor is the pure opposite of solemnity, not only at others but at yourself. In Stephen Leacock, Canadian humorists have a great ancestor. May his descendants be many, for Canada can do with a lot more laughter than she has.

agree, but anyone with a feeling for tradition must hope to find some Bostonians who still realize that there is a case to answer.

Leftovers

New York Times

It can be granted, of course, that the stores are growing a little testy about the bills run up during the Christmas shopping. This can be granted, too, that income tax day is rolling down the calendar like a monstrous juggernaut, and that due to the cold wave the furnace has been lapping up more as though it were candy. Granted these things as the bank balance vised retrenchment, yet why must retrenchment start where it truly hurts, with the food on the table? not it begin with, say, a denial to herself of the new arts winter hat and late winter matching handbag? Why cannot it begin with continuing to use the old reliables and not buying new, or in not concluding that the kitchen, of all places, needs a coat of paint? Why begin with the meals? Why, this year, as it is done every year at about this time of ,ear? Why set up a dimness in the kitchen that for the rest of the week there will be nothing on the table but left-overs? Retrenchment is desirable, to be sure, but retrenchment that begins with leftovers. Ask the dog, who used to get them, but who now gets nothing.

What is a leftover? A leftover is a dish of soggy rice covered with watery tomato sauce, the leftover inedible bones from a once brave casserole. The night before, this casserole was a thing of joy, steaming, bubbling and sending off a delightful aroma of finely blended herbs. There were shrimps in it that night, and tender pieces of mushroom, and the whole contained mightily upon it that night, and the blood thinks and the nerves are all true. What if the server did, in an abstract way, dish out the shrimps and mushrooms and pieces of mushroom for his own third helping? A man must be strong to work both tired and hungry, and he is entitled to a little something extra. Then that casserole—

But what remained that night. But what remained was shared for lunch by the cook and the dog, since they are the only two people in the household would have been left with a happy memory. But no, there is to be retrenchment, and for the main course tonight there is to be a dish of rice in watery tomato sauce A can of shrimps could have been thrown in to brace it a bit, but this has not been done. This is a leftover in full sense.

What is a leftover? A leftover is a small blister of bones, consisting of bone bones were attached to something worth eating, maybe called roast was excellent. It was a thing of beauty as it reposed on the platter surrounded by potatoes, decorated by parsley. It was highly appreciated by the people home from work, tired and hungry and entitled to a little considerable. The cook, it was good the second night as well. On this second night it could not be called a leftover, for there was still honest meat on it, to which relish was applied. The third night it became stew, and were it third night be called a leftover. Well, call it a leftover, with the exception of the fourth night being a leftover's leftover. It is playing strictly fair with this product of retrenchment and a deep gash down one side of the casserole, which was done during the day it had been given to the cook and the dog indeed. The things that must go on at home, by day.

What is a leftover? A leftover is a sort of Frankenstein which a porcupine would admire and camouflaged with a few fresh vegetables. On such nights, this was a beautiful fish, fried golden brown. Then there were made fleets of the meat, seeing carefully that no small scrap of flesh was left on the fish. Last night the remains of the fish rested in the interior of the family refrigerator—and not on leftovers, either, at that kind qualified as leftovers. There was a piece of fish bait. Where the server of two nights ago carefully picked out the bones, the cook concoter of this prickly porridge has tossed them all in, to keep them company. This is a leftover to and all leftovers, the ultimate, the last word. Into it the cook makes the mouth feel that it has been chewing cotton batting, and the throat is poisoned at their tips, and that a fish with so many bones could do so little. Let stand and walk erect. Walk to the kitchen, for example, and chew on that leftover cook.

Love Makes Better Rats

(New York Herald Tribune).

Scientists undoubtedly are wise to use caution in applying to human ailment in animal behavior experiments. Yet most parents would behind a man not to learn from the work of the universities of a Toronto scientist in his experiment with rats, says the Hollings in a study of human orphans.

Reporting to the American Society for the Advancement of Science at a meeting in Boston, Dr. Otto Weininger, of the University of Toronto, says he has found that infant laboratory rats which were petted for a few minutes a day developed their early babyhood grew up to be smarter and healthier than rats which got the same strain which were not petted.

Coincidentally his studies of orphaned human babies placed in asylums and foster homes, he says, showed that those in institutions were less healthy and had a higher mortality rate than those in foster homes, where they got the love and affection of foster parents.

Dr. Weininger, excreising a proper caution, does not suggest that he was pleased to note a relationship in his findings between rats and men. He will see in this further confirmation of what they and the psychologists have been saying for ages have sensed instinctively, and what is now considered by the most scientific as a fact increasingly emphasized in recent years. The sense of security, insecurity, and the effect of health associated with them, are important to human infants during their very earliest development; and the quality of love and affection given factor.

COMMUNISM ALWAYS FAILS

We read in the Book of Acts (2:44-45), that the early church of the Christian believers held all things common, and had all things common goods and parted them to all men, as every man had need.

Many call this communism and say that the reason why the Holy Spirit led the believers to do was to form a communistic society. But that is not so, as is that even if this was a communal form of society, it was, in the first place, voluntary, and in the second place, nonpolitical, and accordingly it was not different from Russian communism today as heaven is different from hell. But there are two other things also which need to be said.

The first is that this communism soon failed. It engendered murmuring and discontent. It was one of the few great failures in the early Christian movement.

The second thing to be said is that we should always remember that the early Christians believed Jesus would return in a few weeks, or at most in a few years. Under the influence of such a belief, all earthly possessions lose their value. It was of little use in the speedy Second Coming of our Lord which caused the early Christian believers to go all out for a communal ownership of goods.

It may be that this failure was divinely ordained in order to warn people that communal schemes such as this do not work even among the most devoted Christian believers, and so could not be expected to work in the world at large.

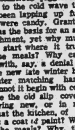
Man of Future Is Described

(Owen Sound Sun-Times).

Evolution is thought to be a continuing process, and it is believed to have affected mankind as well as all other living creatures. Therefore some scientist has used an idle moment in speculating on what man will evolve into. Here is what Prof. Wilton Marion Krogman of Graduate School of Medicine, a teacher of physical anthropology, thinks: Man will presumably have a mouth no larger than an ant's, but he will have teeth as elephant's, and hardly any digestive tract. His telephone and radio messages will come about because future man will live on very small diet.

Man will eventually have no need for digestion. But the future man will continue to be long-lived because it will no longer be necessary to talk. Instead, the thought reading communication will replace conversation as well as telephone and radio messages.

All this will eliminate warfare, because it will no longer be possible to direct a battle if every man could read any commander's thoughts. This would do away with a great deal of the need for fighting anyway. Man will then be long-lived, the professor believes, because he will have reports in pedestal style.



Science-fiction fans may not be interested in Prof. Krogman's ideas depict a species much like the celebrated men from Mars. Since it is expected to take people on earth another five million years to evolve into the shape the professor expects, the future is not going to be very useful to us. We were more immediate.

Personal Health Style

SECOND HAND TOBACCO SMOKE

Mrs. A. says her husband, retired, and, I suppose, always on the poor woman's nerves because of his smoking cigarettes and doing something to relieve the monotony, smokes cigarettes almost constantly. Lately the room chokes her. If she stays in the same room with the smoker she seems to struggle. Can it have an untoward effect upon her heart?

Dr. Brady

It can. Much the same effect as though she herself were a tobacco hog.

It is the carbon monoxide in tobacco smoke that accounts for the ill effects of excessive smoking, in my opinion, and not the hypothetical "nicotine."

As little as one part carbon monoxide per thousand of breathed air, while causes headaches and other symptoms. Two parts per thousand would be dangerous.

In an ordinary heated room, especially one not freely ventilated, small animals, babies, young children, invalids and elderly people are very liable to trouble and consequent oxygen deficiency. They are likely to suffer from carbon monoxide anoxia from breathing air polluted with the carbon monoxide present in tobacco smoke, from the smoking of one or more persons.

This carbon monoxide anoxia (oxygen starvation of cells and tissues by carbon monoxide), whether from the first smoke or from breathing air heavy with tobacco smoke, explains the famous effects of excessive smoking—tightness across forehead, headache, flushing of skin, throbbing in temples, dizziness, faintness, dizziness of vision, "vicious" poisoning is the bunk. Chemical analysis of tobacco smoke show carbon monoxide, all right, but no nicotine—the nicotine is' tobacco is destroyed by the burning. The carbon monoxide in cigaret smoke (I have found no reports of analysis of cigar or pipe smoke) is a by-product of burning.

Carbon monoxide, which increases the demand for oxygen, makes the individual more sensitive to lack of oxygen anoxia from second hand tobacco smoke. The reasons for this, for that matter—one reason why the moron who smokes can't be trusted in athletics.

Anyway, smoking should be forbidden in any room where there is a canary, a puppy, a kitten, and invalid or pachaee a baby.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In large world-cities like—New York, Paris, London, it is commonplace for people to drive their motor-cars into the outskirts, where they leave them and take train, bus or taxi into the city proper. And Canadian cities are rapidly approaching the same situation; for people it has already arrived. Who wants to be encumbered with a motor car in a city where parking is so tight in which it is difficult enough to nip about on foot?

In New Orleans, there are taxi stands on the outskirts of the city, surrounded by parking places for such as we see now around our smarter super-markets. And take a Taxi into Town."

In New York, Chicago and even in London), where they have no such number of motor vehicles as we have, there are incorporated companies that specialize in carrying areas adjacent to suburban railway stations and bus terminals, which have covered-in parking stations on the grand scale, with service and repair attachments of an ambitious sort; and they do a profitable business in much besides the mere parking of the window next door.

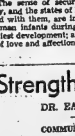
During the tourist season here in many parts of Canada, it is well-nigh impossible to park within miles of beaches or on the highways, where cottagers from miles around, in addition to the travelling public, are trying to shop. On the outskirts of one of these tourist areas, a widow living in a neat white cottage, but with a couple of garages, decided to put a road about the way they do things in New York. She put up a sign "Parking Space for Two Cars—Two Dollars per week."

In a week, she had to put cinders all over her lot, to accomodate the cars. Next she got the idea of a refreshment booth on her property. The first Saturday day, automobile after automobile were coming into her house for a minute, asking for food and that. So a friend of hers, expert in handicrafts, souvenirs and knick-knacks, helped her get in a stock of little things to sell.

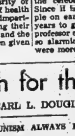
Last week, I am told, cleaned up $1,100 on the season's operations and is planning to buy the property of the window next door.

TODAY'S TALK

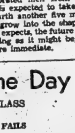
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS



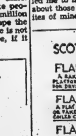
MAGIC IN DISCOVERIES



The thing that I like most about life, I believe, is that it is so full of discoveries.



We are constantly learning something from books, all sorts of people, conversation, and just by keeping our eyes wide open and covering our ears to new sights and new ideas.



How little the average person knows about nature—the life and habits of birds and animals, the history and formation of the earth, and this great universe. How comparatively few are the facts we have in our mind to grow younger as the body grows older. There is so much to be learned and stored in the mind!

Edwin Kieran and Edwin Way Teale are two friends with whom it is a joy to be, and listen to them tales of discovery about birds and flowers. You learn to be observant after hearing about their talk and reading their books. It has been a blessing for me to have been associated with the atom can be diverted to the uses of peace and to benefit life, not to destroy it.

Income Tax Bill for Quebec Is Introduced

The measure, setting basic exemptions of $3,000 for married persons and $1,500 for single persons, will affect 300,000 of the 512,000 persons in Quebec province who now pay income tax to the federal government.

The provincial rate is fixed at 15 per cent of the federal rate.

EXEMPTIONS SCHEDULED

Taxpayers can claim a $400 exemption for each child under 21 not in receipt of family allowances and $150 for each child receiving the allowances.

Exemptions of $400 are also allowed for children over 21 attending university.

Most of the clauses deal with the manner of computing revenues of persons engaged in business.

Corporations doing business in the province are not affected by the measure.

TAXATION STRUGGLE

Announced three weeks ago as a measure to meet increasing costs of education and public health, the measure is read as another move in Quebec's struggle with the federal government over taxation rights.

In the preamble to the act the Quebec government states the Canadian constitution "concedes to the provinces priority in the field of direct taxation."

Premier Duplessis has consistently refused to negotiate a federal-taxation agreement similar to that signed by the other provinces.

Quebec taxpayers will be able under federal law to deduct five per cent of the federal payable in income tax to Ottawa and apply it towards the provincial tax.

STARTED IN JANUARY

The tax, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1954, is for three years.

Observers indicate choice of the three-year period leaves the way clear for negotiation of a tax agreement with Ottawa in 1957, the year when current federal tax rental agreements expire.

The provincial tax provides for setting aside $12,500,000 from the consolidated fund for education, public health and social services.

The government is reported to be planning grants to Quebec universities out of the monies to make up for funds lost through the provincial administration's ban on acceptance of federal education grants.

Believe Queen Feeling Strain Of Travelling

By GORDON TAIT

LISMORE, Australia (AP) — A change in the royal tour program for Thursday, announced today, indicates that Queen Elizabeth may be feeling the strain of travelling.

Premier Joseph A. Cahill of New South Wales announced that the Queen will return the 32 miles from Wollongong to Sydney Thursday by train instead of by car.

Cahill said the royal visit committee felt that after the heavy program, including a drive to Wollongong, the Queen might find too great a strain on the Queen to ask her to undertake another by road. The journey is a long, slow drive.

The premier's announcement was made before the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh appeared in Lismore, where they spent the night, for another big welcome on their tour.

WAIT IN RAIN

Fifty thousand people stood in rain and steamy heat for several hours to see the Queen. The crowd cheered lustily as the tall, well-tanned monarch came to the council chambers.

Later today the Queen and the duke visited the town of Casino, then made a brief flight to Dubbo, in western New South Wales, and ended the day with a 33-minute flight back to Sydney.

When the Queen returns to Sydney tonight she will have travelled 1,000 miles by air, rail and road in two days.

Bill to Increase Postage Rates Passes Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's controversial bill to increase first-class postage rates to one cent per ounce April 1 has passed the Commons.

Final approval came late Tuesday after recorded votes of 137 to 77 and 136 to 75 and rejection of two amendments to the bill, one proposed by the government. The bill now goes to the Senate.

The legislation was opposed at every stage by the Progressive Conservative, CCF and Social Credit members who joined forces on both votes, first on a Progressive Conservative attempt to kill the bill and later before the bill received third reading.

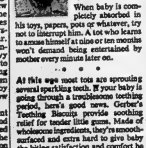
An opposition amendment to defer third reading until the post office could implement recommendations in the J. N. Woods and Gordon report on post office administration was ruled out of order by Speaker Rene Beaudoin on grounds that it was not relevant to the bill.

W. A. Robinson, deputy-speaker, ruled out the government amendment. It would have allowed periodical newspaper and magazine publishers to post their publications in postal areas other than the one in which the publication office is located.

Mr. Robinson said the amendment was not relevant and did not come within the scope of the bill's principle to increase postal rates.

Immigration Minister Harris, government house leader, accepted the decision.

INCREASED RATES



The legislation would increase first-class postage rates on mail going outside a postal district to five cents from four for the first ounce. The rate would remain at two cents from four cents.

Postmaster - General Cote announced during the debate on the measure that the rate on post cards will be increased to four cents from three. It will be established under a clause in the Post Office Act giving the postmaster-general authority to set rates not included in the legislation.

Mr. Cote also said that the rate on first-class mail to Commonwealth countries, the western hemisphere and France will be increased to five cents from four for the first ounce. No increase is scheduled on the rate for unsealed letters, including Christmas cards.

This rate will continue at two cents for the first two ounces and one cent for each additional ounce.

The increase in first-class rates is expected to boost post office revenues by about $14,000,000 a year and the new post card rate will be about $3,000. The revenue will be used to offset higher operating costs and implementation of the five-day 40-hour week.

When baby is completely absorbed in his toys, papers, pots or whatever, try to interrupt him. A cat who learns to amuse himself at nine or ten months won't demand being entertained by mother every minute after.

Argument Rages Over Adoption Of New RCAF Badge

OTTAWA (CP)—An argument is still raging in the RCAF over adoption of a new cap badge.

No less an authority than the air force's historian, Wing Cmdr. F. H. Hitchins, has come to the defence of "other ranks" who wanted to keep the old badge.

The old badge is still worn by only two small groups in the air force—the security police and volunteer bandsmen. This is because they wear bigger hats, something like an officer's, with a black peak. Badges on officers' hats, excluding wedges, are crowned.

The official explanation for the new airman's badge is that it is "neater, more appropriate" and "lighter in appearance."

SAID BADGE HEAVY

But directorate of personnel administration decreed that the large "RCAF" badge was "too heavy and complex," arguing that the word "Canada" is worn on shoulder patches and that most buttons bear the letters "RCAF."

Wing Cmdr. Hitchins stands stoutly on the side of tradition and, writing in the current issue of The Roundel, official RCAF publication issued on authority of the chief of air staff, attacks the official explanation for adoption of the new badge.

He says the old badge was worn for more than 25 years by the RCAF and the RAF an identical badge, without the "C", has been in use for 35 years.

As to the old badge being "too heavy and cumbersome," he said, the new one weighs four grams less.

Of the badges being "more suitable for women personnel," he wrote: "More evidence that this is a woman's world . . . May we anticipate now a pattern for airmen's tunics minus belt and with a pinched-in waist?"

He concludes: "change merely for the sake of change, is not necessarily progress."

Tougher Competition Cutting Steel Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Tougher competition is cutting steel prices and American consumers are benefiting at the rate of many thousands of dollars a year, Iron Age, the national metal-working weekly, said today.

Base prices have not been cut so far, said Iron Age, except by companies that had been charging premiums. Freight-rate absorption is mounting steadily, however, which cuts into earnings are "rippling through the industry."

Sun Life Ups Policyholder Dividends to $24½ Million

Continues to sell more life insurance than any other Canadian company — $576 million new business written in '53.

A higher dividend scale, which for the fifth consecutive year will again reduce the cost of life insurance for the holders of five million Sun Life of Canada policies, is announced by George W. Rooks, President, in his Annual Review of the Company's business for 1953. Dividends to policyholders during 1954 will amount to $24½ million, 11% more than in 1953, and an increase of more than 50% over the last five years. Most policyholders may carry out profitable plans with the Company will benefit by this increase. Although the largest payments being distributed in respect of policies issued in force. New life insurance issued during the year amounted to $576,846,000, an increase of $31 million over 1952 and the largest amount for the year of any Canadian life company. The $700 million increase included in the above figure amounted to $700 million, an increase of more than 45 million over the preceding year. This rising volume of business was spread over world-wide territory in the nearly 30 countries covered by Sun Life services.

In his survey of the figures for the year, Mr. Rooks commented on the manner in which life insurance meets the responsibilities of its purpose. The Sun Life of Canada, he said, had paid out during the benefits since the first policy was issued in 1871, and during 1953 no less than half a million dollars was paid out by the Company each working day. Total amount paid during the twelve month period was $125,057,000.

GROUP BUSINESS UP 17%

New annuity sentiments during the year included individual annuities and group pensions guaranteeing payments of more than $4 million per annum. Total annuity payments by the Sun Life Company of Canada to beneficiaries, through group pensions plans and individual contracts, increased to $12 million per annum. Total Sun Life insurance in force at the end of 1953 amounted to $5,678,000,000. Group insurance included in this figure is $1,781,000,000, an increase of 17%. The growth of Group insurance and pension plans reflects the business and industrial expansion of recent years during which time the Company, a pioneer in this form of insurance, has retained a leading position, protecting many hundreds of thousands of employees of business and industrial organizations throughout North America.

The total amount of life insurance and annuities in force in the various countries in which the Sun Life operates is now: Canada, $3,334,535,000 or 45% of the total; United States, $2,628,581,000* (36%); Great Britain and other Commonwealth countries, $1,169,539,000 (16%); elsewhere through out the World, $115,915,000 (3%).

Total assets of the Company reached $1,829,790,000 at the year end, being an increase of $67 million during the twelve-month period. These assets, carefully invested and well diversified, are made up of: Bonds — Government, Provincial and Municipal, 58.3%; Bonds — Public Utilities and Industrial, etc., 41.4%; Preferred and Common Stocks 0.3%; Mortgages 14.4%; Cash and Miscellaneous Assets 5.8%. Interest rate earned on the Company's funds during 1953 was 3.9% as compared with 3.84% in the previous year, an increase for the 15th successive year.

LIFE INSURANCE AIDS HOME BUILDING

During 1953 the Sun Life bond investment portfolio increased by more than $55 million, mainly in the industrial and public utility fields. The amount of mortgage loans expanded by almost $30 million making a total mortgage investment of $262,960,000. Of this amount, $176 million is invested in 41,700 home mortgages. During the last eight years, the Sun Life has loaned $335 millions on mortgages.

Commenting on the function of life insurance as reflected in the assistance it gives to the Sun Life, Mr. Rooks mentioned that life insurance ownership today is more widespread, and on a broader basis than ever before. Canadians now own more than $28 billions of life insurance — more than double the amount at the end of World War II. Here also the amount per capita is not yet sufficient to give fully adequate and necessary protection, and there is still great need for the average family to own a larger amount of life insurance. "Time has proven that it is only Queen's life insurance that the majority of individuals can meet the problems which old age and old age brings in less of income", summed up Mr. Rooks. "There is no substitute for life insurance."

A copy of Sun Life's complete 1953 Annual Report to Policyholders, including the President's review of the year, is being sent to each policyholder, or may be obtained from the Company, Branch Manager, 7 Water Street, Peterborough.

Christ Church Evening Branch W. A. Holds Business Meeting

The regular monthly business meeting of Christ Church Evening Branch of the W.A., was held on Monday evening in the parish hall with 30 members present.

Mrs. A. Cooper, 1st vice-president, conducted the business and Mrs. H. Ingram read the Scripture.

Reports were given by Mrs. W. Edwards, Miss F. Reid, Mrs. A. Spencer, and Mrs. W. Lancaster. Miss Reid explained the purpose of the thank-offering envelopes.

Announcement was made of the spring tea to be held in April, rummage sale in March and the Valentine party next week.

The sewing convener, Mrs. G. O'Brien spoke of the group plan for work projects.

Mrs. M. Button tendered thanks to the members for their help for the Scouts and Cubs in their recent candy sale. She also spoke of the "Variety Night" to be held next week.

Mrs. G. G. Wright was asked by Mrs. Cooper to speak on the work of the W.A. which had its beginning in 1885, when Mrs. Roberts E. Tilton and six others first organized a group, and of its growth until now it has 100,000 members. Mrs. Wright spoke of the aims and accomplishments of the organization and its fine work.

Mrs. J. Cooke expressed appreciation to Mrs. Wright for her enlightening address.

The Reverend E. P. Smith closed the meeting after which Mrs. A. Bongard, Mrs. J. Cooke and Mrs. C. Musclow served refreshments.

Melrose W.M.S. Holds Interesting Meeting

The regular meeting of the Melrose Woman's Missionary Society was held recently at the home of Mrs. Russell MacFarlane with ten members present.

The president, Mrs. George Morgan, was in the chair and conducted the worship service, which was "The Church of the Open Book." Miss Mary McLaren read the Scripture lesson, John 12:46-50.

Miss Margaret Bailey led the intercessions for all men everywhere who take the truth of the Holy Scriptures lightly; for all to whom the Bible is still a closed book; and for those in countries that have not freedom of religion.

INTERESTING ADDRESS

A most interesting and instructive address was given by Mrs. Roy Badgley on the Bible. She said it was not one book but a whole library. She urged all to study the Bible more closely and to read it more often. It taught about God and the way to Heaven.

A short business session followed, then Mrs. Badgley, and Miss Mary McLaren, reported a balance of $53.00 on hand, and a letter thanking the society for their donation of $5 towards the cost of postage on books sent overseas. The United Church of Canada has published eighteen over one million dollars overseas; a large portion having been sent to Korea.

The president read a letter from the Belleville Presbyterial president stating that the allocation for the year 1954 would be $240.

Mrs. E. Badgley, Christian Stewardship convener, gave a short reading, stressing the poverty and food shortage among the people of other countries and the over-abundance and consequent wastefulness in America and Canada.

The group leader, Mrs. E. Badgley, took charge of the program, the topic being "The Ministry of Radio." Mrs. Badgley read some interesting extracts from the book "Wherever He Sends."

Protestants in South America call themselves 'Evangelicals'. A whole continent is hovering indecisively between the evangelical faith and communism, but one or the other must prevail. Which will it be?

SHORT PLAY

Four members put on a short play, with Mrs. E. Badgley, Mrs. Jack English, Mrs. Roy Badgley and Miss B. McFarlane taking part. These four ladies represented four members of the Southern Cross Radio Station, South America, preparing a radio program on the subject of "Evangelism in South America", to be used in Canada for missionary education purposes. The South American radio broadcasts not only to all that continent, but also to the United States, Mexico and Cuba.

The reports given by these workers proved beyond a doubt the value of radio work in missionary education and the excellent results that come from the ministry of radio.

Mrs. C. Milligan gave an interesting reading on radio preaching in Saskatchewan by the Rev. J. R. Tate.

The hostess served refreshments, and a social hour was spent by all.

V. C. Wansborough To Speak Here

V. C. WANSBOROUGH

Mr. V. C. Wansborough, vice-president and general manager of the Canadian Metal Mining Association, who will address the Women's Canadian Club, Friday evening in the Sunday School auditorium room of Bridge Street United Church, on "New Frontiers in Canada's Expanding Economy," is an expert in mining and metallurgy. Under the post of portfolio he will cover recent developments in Canadian aluminum, iron and other base metals, and the important part Canada is playing through titanium, uranium, and the jet and atomic age.

Mr. Wansborough was born in England, being educated at St. Dunstan's College. He received his B.A. in 1927 from Oxford, later coming to Canada where he became headmaster of Lower Canada College in Montreal, in 1934.

Mr. Wansborough was one of the speakers on a recent panel discussion concerning Canada's expanding economy in oils and minerals, selected by the Association of Canadian Clubs, which is indicative that his talk on Friday evening will be stimulating, timely and most interesting.

Christ Church C. C. Holds Auction Sale

The Contact Club, Christ Church, held one of its ever-popular auction sales on Monday evening. A large number of members and their friends bid fast and furiously for the numerous articles offered for sale. Dorothy Sloan, auctioneer, held the interest of the buyers and kept them in high good humor with her witty sales-talk.

The group responsible for the success of this most entertaining and profitable evening was the "Bayview Queens", Evelyn Wareham, Dorothy Sloan, Margaret Wiggins, Shirley Boyce, Edna Nix, Jean Flindall, Doris Stewart, Isabel Murray, Shirley Amos, Margaret Shappee and Marnie Meades who acted as treasurer for the auction.

The Contact club president, Florence Lennox, thanked the group and especially the auctioneer for their fine effort and announced the coming rummage sale and asked for full co-operation. Next meeting will be an important business session.

The evening closed with refreshments being served by hostesses Catherine Roulet, Diane Settle; Helen McCormick and Jean Ross.

'Animals at Night in Color' Unique Film Shown at Collegiate Institute

Thrilling and colorful was the film, "Animals at Night in Color," presented last evening in the Collegiate auditorium, under the sponsorship of the Quinte Field Naturalists, by Howard Cleaves, noted naturalist, and wildlife photographer.

Mr. Cleaves, who was introduced to an intensely interested audience, by Mr. J. C. Hall, superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf, and his lieutenants by narrative and picture, "through forests and beyond, with powerful floodlights and powder," as he recorded in color pictures the night life of deer, raccoon, muskrat, osprey, the great blue heron, the clouds of circling chimney swifts, the bats, owls and Cicada—an amazing revelation of the nocturnal activities of varied animals, birds and other wild life creatures, most of which were taken on Stolen Island and other southern points.

MANY MISS OUTDOOR BEAUTIES

"Many people miss the beauties of the out-of-doors," said Mr. Cleaves, "and it is a pathetic that so many are so ignorant and unable to enjoy what it is all about. To them it is like going to an opera without knowing music, or to an art gallery without any knowledge of art. Animal life can be very dramatic."

Mr. Cleaves began taking black and white stills in 1933 with a tri-light photo flood, which he designed himself and carried by means of an iron harness on the back with the lights in front. Later, he used a similar set, with aluminum harness which made the whole set-up weigh not over one pound, but which possessed an even higher degree of bright light, generated by a generator which carried the current, equal to the city's lighting, by means of a long extension cord. The steady hum of the generator did not appear to disturb the wild creatures. This latter design enabled him to take the color films which he showed.

BACKYARD MIRACLE

The backyard miracle showed the metamorphosis of the cecropia, by locust in the stages of sloughing its shell or outer covering, emerging as the creature with delicate, pale green wings. The whole process of change occupying but two hours.

Among the many lovely pictures were those of the little downy screech owl which had fallen from the nest, and tenderly cared for by a kind lady whose every act was watched by the mother owl above on the tree, with the little green frog sitting on the leaf; the rabbit nibbling the plants of the garden; then along the river, the gulding in New Jersey; the ghost crab emerging from his hole in the sand; deserted bird nests among the cattails in the marsh; the wild mallard duck nest with its nine lovely eggs; the blue heron with its long legs; and the fish hawk.

LOVELY SCENERY

Lovely scenery was shown along Lake Minnewaski; bathing girls, with the ever-growing retinue guests which grew from one to whom a "hand-out" had been given, to 23 which found shelter in many corners, hiding their masked eyes in holes to avoid the light from the powerful reflector bulbs.

The thousands of chimney swifts were shown circling into the last chimney, and later shown clinging for their nocturnal rest on the interior sides by their sharp claws; the Canada goose in large flocks, and a flock of 2,000 whistling swans; the little golden owl which had been shot by a lad who 'didn't know what it was.'

Of all the lovely scenes, those taken from the cruising skiff, 10 foot punt through silent, wooded waters; past huge Cypress trees with knees in the fern mile lake, beneath great waving veils of Spanish moss; where the pileated sap sucker and the yellow bellied sap; and where the sea hare like a dragon-fly, the globular fish swims with waving brown and white covering, looking almost human, were unforgettable.

WILD LIFE REFUGE

The Federal wildlife refuge on the Okefenokee Swamps in Georgia, where the great barred owl, the buzzard, the lizard chameleon, the pure-white American egret, then through the swamp, lovely with water lilies, which later joins the Swanee river. Here, too were seen the beautiful hunting herons, the wood ibis, the king birds roosting on branches over waterways, all birds go for safety from night prowlers; the yellow warblers; the glorious red cardinals, and then on to the Florida Everglades with its lovely sunsets.

At Palm Beach a love bird sanctuary was seen where several thousand dollars worth of these pretty creatures were housed. At night, they sleep hanging by their toes to the wires of the large cages.

CLOSE-UPS

Other interesting views were close-ups of the yellow grasshoppers; tree snails which lay their eggs on the bark; the fiddler crabs; the slithering copper heads and the alligators in salt water; the man-o'war bird roosting on the mangrove branches; these birds have wing spreads of seven feet; and the skunks and the needle fish; the horseshoe crab which swims on his back and the whip fish.

Near the Gulf of Mexico some gorgeous sunsets were seen, and as the sun sank beneath the horizon, thousands of big birds sought shelter for the night in the mangrove trees which lined the water's edge. Other birds were the blue heron and the white ibis.

NATIONAL RESERVE

At the Great Smoky Mountains there was the National Reserve Park, and the native making wooden bowls. Lastly, the big black bears, which had been a 'must' for Mr. Cleaves. Here, he lured them by jams, and marmalades which were soon found, and eagerly devoured in spite of the bright light which revealed every lick of the long tongue which wiped the jam-pot and jar clean.

In all, an exceptionally fine film, unique and beautiful, portraying wild life in all its intriguing loveliness, a treat for every citizen's viewing.

Mr. Harold McNab presided at the console of the organ. Mr. Hedley James acted as master of ceremonies.

BIG FAMILY

Sir Richard Arkwright, inventor of cotton-spinning machinery, was born in 1732 as the youngest of 13 children.

Women's Activities

JOHNSTOWN W.A.

The Women's Association met recently at the home of Mrs. Glenn Stickle with 18 members and four visitors present. Mrs. E. Bush, the president, opened the meeting. The Scripture reading from Corinthians 2:1-11 and Galatians 5:22, was taken by Mrs. Earl Stickle. The lesson story was "Did anyone see Christ in you today." That is the way one should aim to live so others will know that he or she belong to Him. This was read by Mrs. J. Ferguson.

Thank you notes were read from Mrs. Puttenham and Mrs. J. McEwen Jr., who have been sick and from Mrs. McConnell of Trenton, thanking the W.A. for the canned goods for the pantry shower for Trenton Memorial Hospital.

An invitation was received from White's Church Women's Association inviting the Johnstown W.A. to meet with them at their next meeting at the home of their president, Mrs. Frank Sandercock on the night of the 17th. Their husbands are also invited.

What to Have for Lunch at Noon

By Mary Moore

THREE PEOPLE WITHOUT A SENSE OF RESPONSIBILITY

Sometimes I think that if a person has a sense of responsibility, he is equipped with the quality most necessary for successful living. For one thing, it makes him impossible without what we call "character," and the man or woman who has character is the man or woman who meets life as it comes, realistically, courageously and dependably, and handles it the same way.

The person with a sense of responsibility never lets anyone down. On the contrary he fully realizes that those who have rightful claim on him are entitled at all times to his understanding and his help of whatever kind. It is the person who lacks this all-important trait who fails those in need, and who is the first to offer alibis for others the duties he should himself perform.

Take, for example, the following situation, brought about by three members of a family who are deficient in responsibility.

The story comes from a woman who begins by telling me that her husband's parents have been married for many years and gave up:

BEFORE OBLIGATION

"At the time of the separation the father refused to acknowledge any obligation, financial or otherwise, to either his wife or his six children. All the children are now married, except one sister who lives with the mother and is having a great struggle maintaining the home for her mother and herself.

"It was decided in the family that each of the other five would contribute a set amount to lighten the burden of the sister left at home, since it was felt that the support of the mother shouldn't fall on the shoulders of one person alone.

"As this has worked out, how ever, three out of the five of the five who have lived up to the agreement. Two of the other three prefer to send money to their father and feel no obligation toward their mother. A third refuses to contribute his share on the ground that he can't afford it, although his income is no smaller than the others. The fourth part is that my mother-in-law has nothing but criticism for the one sister who is doing the most for the one who lives with her.

"The problem is that the amount we are able to get together doesn't seem to be adequate. Do you think it would be out of place for me to suggest to my mother-in-law, and this daughter with her, that their contributions might be supplemented by their renting out a room in their home, or space in the garage, or even by figuring out some kind of livelihood which could be carried on at home, inasmuch as my mother-in-law isn't senile or incapacitated in any way?

AGE-OLD PROBLEM

"I know that this is an age-old problem which is being met every day by many others, some of whom might have reached satisfactory solutions. I wonder what these who have been able to handle the problem satisfactorily decided to do. Have you any suggestions you could offer?"

So here we have three people who, because of their irresponsibility, are piling burdens to other members of their family all along the line. The price these shirkers will, of course, pay, is to lose the respect and, almost certainly affection also, of their brothers and sisters. Not only that but, inevitably, as times goes on, bitterness and resentment on the part of the others will begin to flow in the empty space where respect and affection may once have been.

Perhaps these others do not care. But perhaps, some day, when they themselves may happen to need help of some kind, they will discover that their decision to remain outside the family circle was a boomerang.

Be that as it may, it is now left up to the one who do have a sense of responsibility to work out a way to meet the financial needs of the mother and the daughter living with her, which brings us to the question asked by the writer of the letter.

RENT GARAGE OR ROOM

To begin with, my answer is that I see no reason at all why she should not make the suggestion she has in mind to the mother and the sister at home. If renting out a room in their home, or space in their garage, will take up the financial slack, that would seem the simplest and easiest way to do it. It could, also, be the quickest and best. For while plenty of women have supplemented their incomes by developing some kind of small business within their homes, this is something that takes time while renting a room can start bringing in money practically over night. My own suggestion would be that renting the room or the garage space, or both, should be the immediate step taken, and that the mother and the daughter at home then begin to think along the other line that of earning money at home I should like to add the writer of this letter, to pass on to her mother-in-law, my list of books which discuss a large variety of ways to set up home businesses. If she will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope I will be glad to send it immediately.

Possibly some of those readers who have, as my correspondent suggests, faced and solved a similar problem in a satisfactory manner, will care to tell us how they did it. I am sure what they might have to say would interest all of us.

LETTER:

This is my first letter to your column which I read and thoroughly enjoy every day. also clip many recipes,—especially find your cookie recipes good. Your cocoa quickies I serve over big and are so simple to make. My problem these days: I seem to be at a complete loss for ideas for my family at lunch. I have my husband and children ages four and two. We like and often have soup and sandwiches. I would like some suggestions for hot luncheon ideas. ...would it be possible to mail me a copy of "Julia Works Wonders on $15.00 per week"—Mrs. M. J. M.

I had so many requests for copies of the release entitled "Julia Works Wonders for Four on $15.00 Per Week" that I have set to make a new printing and will forward copies to all who asked for it as soon as it is ready.

SIMPLE WEEKDAY LUNCHEON MENUS

No. 1—Clam chowder; individual salads; lettuce, (cream hearts, carrot sticks, tomato slices); brown bread toast; stewed pears; milk.

No. 2—Pancakes and maple syrup (if desired serve with bacon or sausage or sliced process cheese); bananas or sliced oranges; cocoa.

No. 3—Chili con carne (mild for sake of children); cole slaw; applesauce; cookies; milk.

No. 4—Homemade split pea soup; toasted rye bread; celery hearts; fruit cup; milk for children; tea for adults.

No. 5—Hamburg on a bun with sliced tomato and green relish; half grape fruit; cocoa.

No. 6—Scotch woodcock (cheese and bacon spooned on toast); shredded lettuce and tomatoes; chocolate blanc mange; milk for all.

No. 7—Homemade vegetable soup; toasted rolls (preferably whole wheat); celery and carrot sticks or coleslaw; canned peaches; cookies; milk for children; tea for adults.

There are so many not luncheon dishes that I like and that I think are universally popular that I do not have room for them. Don't forget poached eggs on toast with tomato sauce, hard-cooked eggs with curry sauce; cream salmon or tuna on toast; spaghetti in tomato sauce with grated cheese sprinkled on at table; cheese fondue.

I have suggested clam chowder for No. 1, but Canadian housewives do not commonly make this, so since it is full of rich flavor and nourishment and quite economical I will give you the recipe.

CLAM CHOWDER

Finely chop 3 oz. fat salt pork or side bacon and slowly saute until fat is rendered out but do not brown this much, then add 1 onion chopped finely and gently saute for five minutes. Add 1 1-2 cups raw potatoes cut into very small dice (or same amount of drained kernel corn), 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup hot water. Drain the clams (whole or minced) from 1 20-oz tin clams, cut them up a little and add to pan, cover and simmer gently until potatoes are just tender. Add 2 cups whole milk, 1 tablespoon butter, the liquor from the clams and heat through.

Like almost every Canadian housewife I keep a 1-lb. can of salmon on my emergency shelf. When you are completely stuck for ideas and money this is wonderful:

SALMON AU GRATIN

Drain the liquid from a 1-lb. can of red or pink salmon. Gently flake the salmon with a fork. Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, stir in 3 tablespoons flour until smooth. Add enough milk to salmon liquor to make it up to 1 1-2 cups and stir this into the butter-flour mix until thick. Add flaked salmon, gently stir, turn into buttered baking dish. Sprinkle top with 1-2 cup buttered crumbs and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 20 minutes.

Beauty

BEAUTY BEFORE BREAKFAST

After a restful night's sleep every woman's face should be fresh and blooming. Yet many wives and mothers say they haven't time to pretty themselves for breakfast. Husbands must be fed and hustled off to work. Children must be bundled off to school. Mama must hunt up lost articles—caps, gloves, school books! It's a mad rush and she heaves a sigh as she sits down later to her own breakfast almost too weary to steal a glance at the morning paper.

Yet, without wasting more than five minutes, any woman can make herself fairly presentable in the morning. It is just as easy to slip into a fresh, pretty house frock as to appear in the old bath robe of uncertain appearance. The shoes she usually wears are no help. Old party slippers, most likely, or maybe soiled tennis shoes.

Then there is the matter of her hair, which ranges from a "glorious crown," at that time of the day. But by combing her wave set the night before the holding it in place with a net, she can avoid a wild and wilder look. Or she can bind her locks with one of those cut bands that are used to keep the curls in place, and which can be purchased at any notion counter.

How long does it take to powder the nose and to tint the lips? Mere items at all. That hearty rinse actually gives one courage to face the day's activities. Look well, feel well. Look scrubby; feel scrubby. You know it.

Sloppy appearance lets a woman down. Yes, with a sickening thud. The fastidious woman can get through a house-cleaning upheaval and still look quite fresh and spandy every minute of it. It is a matter of habit.

Neatness in the home is important, of course. But the main consideration is the neatness of the habit should be kept in mind. The devoted husband won't notice a little dust under the beds, but he will notice if his wife is neglecting her appearance.

GOOD MANNERS

TO SERVE WINE WITH THE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY CAKE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. For the 30th Wedding Anniversary of our parents, we are planning an "At home." We are planning to serve tea and coffee, small sandwiches, they cookies. For the Anniversary Cake we have a nice tiered fruit cake with gold-and white decorations. Do you approve of this menu? With the Anniversary Cake we had thought of serving wine. We are sort of dubious about this, and wonder if it would be proper. Maybe it isn't necessary? Anyway, would the be better idea? Please advise us.

2. When should the friends sign the Guest Book—as they enter or as they depart?

M.

1. This is quite the usual menu for that kind of party. I'd suggest the addition of a few items-for-nibbling, such as salted nuts; popcorn, perhaps; one or two kinds of novelty tidbits, mints or other candies. These are, of course, not necessary, but many guests do enjoy them, particularly the younger ones.

And indeed it would be proper. and decidedly festive to serve wine (or punch, if you prefer) with the Anniversary Cake. Then you can make an even more gala feature of the cutting-of-the-cake by the tiered bridegroom's when all present gather 'round as your mother and father (the right hand over her right hand) cut the first piece and share it. Then toasts are drunk as the climax.

You should be definite about who is to be custodian of the Guest Book. The relative or friend should see that every guest signs, either as she or he enters or during its part, or on departing. If you think naming a definite time is safer, have the book on a table near the entrance and have the departing guests sign it.

Committees Study Fuel Problem In This Country

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Three top-flight government committees are studying Canada's immediate and potential fuel problems.

The studies are being made by the cabinet's defence committee, headed by Prime Minister St. Laurent before he left on his world tour, and by inter-departmental groups of officials of near-cabinet calibre.

The most pressing question is that of a change in the basis of the government's long - standing program of coal subventions, treasury contributions of about $6,000,000 a year to help meet the cost of moving coal to market. This is being handled by a committee from five departments.

The cabinet's defence committee of ministers is looking into the prospects of Canada's fuel setup in the event of war, and it is understood to have received a report from the Dominion coal board expressing concern over Canada's growing dependence on fuel transported here by sea.

LONG-RANGE SURVEY

The third group is making an unofficial and long-range survey of the outlook for all types of fuel in this country. It is trying to forecast the estimated demand for power, and how it will be filled by coal, gas, oil, hydro electricity and atomic power.

One of the matters causing most anxiety, both in reports before the defence committee and in the subvention planning, is that of keeping the coal industry stable in the face of such developments as Canada's increasing oil production and the prospect of Alberta natural gas reaching central Ontario in the next couple of years.

The coal board is proposing a new subvention arrangement with these in mind. Its nature undisclosed, and its recommendations are to be laid before the cabinet shortly.

On the defence side, officials say a major recommendation of the coal board is for measures to keep Canada's coal industry healthy and decrease the vulnerability of the country's fuel position in the event a war menaced seaborne supplies from abroad.

Want Reserve Pay Exempt From Income Tax

OTTAWA (CP)—The army has before it a recommendation that reserve army pay be exempt from income tax, it was learned.

The recommendation is contained in a report prepared by three officers of the conference of defence associations, which represents all reserve army units in Canada. The report, made on the recommendation of Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the general staff, was submitted to Defence Minister Claxton and Gen. Simonds last month.

However, an army officer pointed out that the national defence department does not set taxation policy.

During the last few years, army reservists have made representations to the revenue department to have their reserve pay exempted from income tax. Taxation officials said, however, there have been no recent protests.

Privately, some regular army officers said tax exemption on reserve pay would be a benefit to the reserve. Reserve pay force adds to a reservist's annual income and can boost him into a higher income tax bracket. This created hardship in some cases for men who were voluntarily giving up two nights a week to reserve training.

EIGHT WORKMEN DIE

TOKYO (Reuters)—Eight workmen were killed and four seriously injured when a concrete mixer overturned on the Sakuma dam project in central Japan, police said today. More than 20 men have been killed by accidents since work began on the dam in 1950.

Nine-year-old Raymond Badger of Weston, Ontario, was today selected as the 1954 TIMMY to represent the thousands of crippled children in Ontario during the forthcoming Easter Seal Campaign which will be held from March 18th until 28th. Campaign which is sponsored by over 190 Service Clubs associated with The Ontario Society for Crippled Children has an objective of $500,000 for the province.

Bridge Costing Great Deal More Than Estimate

HALIFAX (CP) — A mile-long suspension bridge is being built over Halifax harbor, but nobody knows exactly where all the money is coming from.

The bridge is costing a lot more than the estimated $8,000,000. By the time the toll wickets are clicking late this year it may be at least $2,500,000 more.

Halifax and the town of Dartmouth said they would each guarantee a quarter of the cost four years ago, and the province of Nova Scotia the remainder.

But steel and labor costs have risen since then and the bridge commission has asked Halifax to guarantee 25 per cent of an additional $2,500,000 bond issue.

On top of that, the city is also being asked to guarantee 25 per cent of any loss the toll bridge may have after Dec. 21 this year.

The city discovered last month that actually it has never entered into any formal agreement about helping guarantee the $8,000,000 borrowing, passed by the legislature two years after the city agreed to guarantee 25 per cent of $7,000,000.

BRIDGE MIX-UP

As a result, the three parties are in a mix-up. They've got a bridge that's costing more money than they figured, and they don't know who's going to guarantee the cost.

Mayor Richard A. Donahoe has asked the Halifax - Dartmouth bridge commission to clarify what the city is supposed to do. For instance, will it be necessary for the city to issue its own bonds in order to live up to the guarantee?

If there were a default, which is believed unlikely, the city would pay 25 per cent of it, and would be paid back when the bridge had a surplus.

The province would reimburse the city and later take control of the bridge.

Democrat Says Eisenhower Violated Pledge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator John C. Stennis (Dem. Miss.) contended today that the Eisenhower administration violated a pledge by sending 200 United States Air Force mechanics into Indo-China before consulting key congressmen.

Stennis, a member of the Senate armed services committee, said in an interview that he favors immediate recall of the U.S. mechanics as a move to avoid possible direct involvement in the long arm Communist war there.

Declaring that "I'm no isolationist," Stennis said he believes a majority of his Senate committee opposed sending the mechanics into Indo-China. He himself favored increased U.S. aid in money and equipment to the anti-Communist forces.

Senator Harry F. Byrd (Dem., Va.), in a separate interview, called it a "risky step" to send the mechanics. He, too, said members of the committee were not informed in advance, and that they were told the plan by Admiral Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, at a secret session Friday.

MORE TECHNICIANS SENT

That followed publication of newspaper accounts saying 125 or more technicians had been sent.

Byrd said the next steps would be requests by the French for U.S. pilots and ground forces in Indo-China, and added that he would oppose that. Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson told a press conference Tuesday that the fighting is going satisfactorily, and that he sees no need to step up U.S. aid.

Wilson said Tuesday that unless the Red Chinese intervene or some similar new factor enters the picture, he thinks chances are good for a military victory in the seven year-old war the French and native forces have been fighting.

Vietminh Forces Gather Supplies Before Assault

By MAX CLOS

SAIGON, Indo - China (AP)—Some 1,500 Vietminh rebels today were reported six to 12 miles from Luangprabang, royal city, and said they appear only to be lining up supplies for the bulk of the Communist-led forces threatening the royal capital of Laos.

The French maintain that most of the 12,000 rebels who invaded the Indo-Chinese Kingdom of Laos last week still are 50 miles north of Luangprabang, resting up in the valley around Nam Bac.

Military observers believe the invaders, after covering 120 miles through mountainous jungle, have stopped to recuperate and replenish their supplies. There was speculation today that any assault on Luangprabang might not come before early next week.

Both in Saigon and Hanoi, the two major French command centres, the belief is flourishing that the Vietminh have been given attack the city of Laos' aged king Sisavang Vong. The rebels this spring marched up almost to the royal doorstep, then withdrew without an assault.

FORCED WITHDRAWAL

But the French concede that even if the Vietminh don't follow through on their current threat, they already have forced the French-Laotian forces to withdraw from the northern part of the kingdom, and have demobilized several battalions in Luangprabang.

The Vietminh advance troops were reported today at Pak Hou, 12 miles north of the capital, and at Pong, six miles northeast.

Meanwhile, the French for the first time today announced that 150 United States Air Force technicians and mechanics arrived a week ago at the north Indo-China port of Haiphong to help maintain U.S.-furnished planes for civilian cargoes."

These presumably are in addition to 125 USAF technicians previously reported in Indo-China to aid the French.

Again Report Pope Improved

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican again today reported improvement in the condition of Pope Pius, confined to his apartment for the last 20 days with a serious stomach ailment.

The Vatican press office said the pontiff now is able to take some "semi-liquid nourishment orally" and also was able to walk about his apartment Tuesday.

Previously the Pope had difficulty retaining even liquids and had been able to sit up only for a short while daily.

The 77-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church has spent most of the last three weeks in bed, gravely weakened by a stubborn gastric ailment that was accompanied for much of that time by persistent hiccuping. Pills during the last three days he has been reported taking effected improvement.

He is still too weak, however, to resume saying his daily mass at his private chapel in his Vatican apartment. Again today he listened as mass was celebrated at his bedside upon a portable altar put up there in 1950. Figures of the amounts sold were not given, but the broadcast said brisk trade developed with marked intensity during the second half of 1953 due to an expansion in the production of consumer goods and a reduction in state retail prices.

Records disclosed that Wright and Rebecca Johnson, 47, Etta, applied for a licence last Friday. The clerk's office said the license had been used, but had no other details.

Earl of Athlone, Princess Alice Wed Fifty Years

LONDON (Reuters) —Hundreds of telegrams and bouquets poured into Kensington Palace today, congratulating the Earl of Athlone and Princess Alice on their golden wedding anniversary.

It is the first 50th wedding anniversary in the Royal Family for nearly 40 years and one which the Queen has not forgotten. She and the Duke of Edinburgh sent her great-uncle a cable of congratulations from Australia.

The 79-year-old earl, who served as governor-general of both South Africa and Canada, is recovering from influenza, and plans for a golden wedding party had to be cancelled.

He and Princess Alice, 70-year-old granddaughter of Queen Victoria, were to have held a reception at St. James' Palace tonight.

Instead there was a luncheon party for 15 guests—all close members of the family, including the Queen Mother, Princess Margaret, the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester, the Duchess of Kent, Lady Abel Smith (Princess Alice's only daughter) and other grandchildren. Ann, Elizabeth and Richard Abel Smith.

EDITOR MUST PAY

VIENNA (Reuters) — A court Tuesday ordered a Vienna newspaper editor to pay 1,000 schillings (about $40) to a railroad mast's daughter who, the judge said, was accused in an article of an "adventure" with ex-king Farouk of Egypt. Lydia Wendl, who claimed that her reputation was harmed, had asked for 25,000 schillings damages from the editor of the paper, Welt am Montag.

Russian Efforts to Disrupt NATO Evidence of Worth Says St. Laurent in Address

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PARIS (CP)—Louis St. Laurent said that Russian efforts to disrupt the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are evidence of its effectiveness.

The Canadian prime minister, made the statement in a brief address in both English and French to staff officers at Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe.

He spoke to the military representatives of 14 Western powers bound together in NATO during a brief visit to the headquarters, eight miles from the outskirts of Paris.

He lauded the co-operative atmosphere inspired in the European defence organization by Supreme commander Gen. Alfred Gruenther, the cheerful American general whose multilingual headquarters is a beehive of cheerful activity.

Gruenther greeted the prime minister on the broad stone steps of the Intercontinental one-story group of command offices where 30 Canadian service men are on duty.

PROUD OF CANADIANS

In his address before the SHAPE staff the Canadian leader said he is proud of a remark by Gruenther that all the Canadians are "top-notch."

He compared the easistenance of SHAPE to household fire insurance, saying a man doesn't give up his fire insurance just because his house hasn't burned down.

The prime minister paid his visit to the headquarters just before a meeting with French Premier Laniel and Maurice Schumann, foreign affairs secretary. The talks were followed by a luncheon given by Laniel at which Ottawa's thanks were offered for the Canadian prime minister's visit, part of his round-the-world tour.

The prime minister replied that he will report to the Canadian people, when his world tour concludes March 17, on the "encouraging" recovery of France from the war.

He said the memories he will take home of an economically active France will be added reasons for Canadians to remain busy within the framework of the "grand defence alliance which has been set up."

LAST DAY

The Canadian leader started the second and final day of his visit to Paris with a call at the Canadian embassy where the staffs of all Canadian offices in Paris were assembled.

He gave a brief outline of the goodwill idea behind his tour and said a prayer for its success would do no harm.

Throughout the afternoon he whipped back and forth through Paris on a round of formal calls and receptions required by diplomatic procedure. He kept to his schedule by speedy automobile travel with a police escort.

The visits included calls on President René Coty and Premier Laniel, and lunch with the new president.

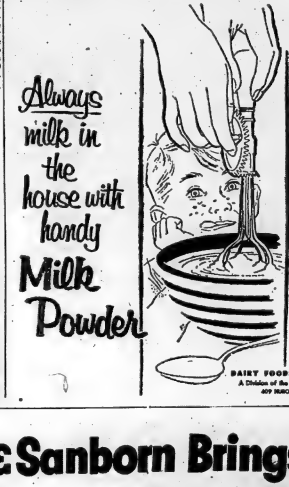
Ayrshire Breeders Oppose Toronto Meets

DUNDAS" (CP)—The terrors of motoring and finding parking space in Toronto and Montreal are proving too much for farmer members of the Ontario Ayrshire Club.

The annual meeting here Monday approved a resolution sponsored by Brodie Ness of Kildrston requesting the Canadian club, going to Toronto for its annual convention Wednesday, to change the constitution to permit conventions "in smaller cities of Ontario and Quebec."

High metropolitan hotel costs were also listed as a reason for wanting "to go back to the agricultural districts for our conventions." The club "has a revenue of $35,000 and spends about $6,000 setting up conventions in Toronto and Montreal," Mr. Ness said. "This cost could be halved."

Policy of the Ontario club has been to meet in smaller centres, a reason it chose Dundas.



Everest's Conqueror Does Not Mention Feat

OTTAWA (CP) — Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of Everest, addressed the Canadian Club for 12 minutes here Monday and didn't mention once the climb which brought him a knighthood and world fame.

The tall, wiry New Zealand beekeeper talked mostly of the "very charming" and "pleasant" Sherpas who do most of the packing for Himalayan expeditions. He also mentioned a few incidents of a 1953 climb in the Himalayas.

Sir Edmund said he plans to tackle other Himalayan peaks later this year and possibly make an expedition into Canada's northand scale time in the future.

Sunday, February 14 Is Valentine's Day

Valentine's Day Dates Back To Time of Roman Empire

Each month of the year has its own special holiday and some months have more than one. May, "the merry month of May", when flowers burst forth in bloom and the world seems to breath easier after the long winter, has its May Day. June has the first day of summer and even March has the first day of Spring. But what of cold and bleak February? Perhaps the warmest day of the year really comes in February—February 14, or St. Valentine's Day.

Every year for many centuries there has been a St. Valentine's Day, a day when greetings of mutual affection are exchanged by children and adults the world over. To trace the origin of St. Valentine's Day one must return to the days of the Roman Empire. The encyclopedia tells us Saint Valentine was a bishop and martyr of the Church, who was put to death at Rome for his faith during the persecution under Claudius II. Valentine was killed on the 14th of February in the year 270.

The custom of choosing Valentines on the anniversary of his day is of considerable antiquity, and it was an old belief that birds began to mate on this date. In olden times, on the eve of St. Valentine's Day, young people of both sexes used to meet, and each of them drew one of the others' name from a hat or similar receptacle. Each gentleman, therefore, managed to get himself a girl for his valentine and likewise each girl became the valentine of him who drew her name.

All will recall the little poem, which might be easily so old as St. Valentine's Day itself, which went something like this: Roses are red, violets are blue, I can row a boat, Canoe? That may not be exactly the way it started out, but that's the way we heard it. Shakespeare inserted a little valentine in his play, "Hamlet", to wit:

"Tomorrow is St. Valentine's day,
All in the morning betimes,
And I a maid at your window, .

To be your Valentine."

Samuel Pepys wrote the following words in his famous diary on February 14, 1668: "I am, this year, my wife's Valentine and it will cost me five pounds; but, that I must have laid out if we had not been Valentines."

From Pepys we travel to the old salt and vinegar valentine of a bygone age. The following poem was clipped from a mosh-eaten valentine sent, apparently to some unattractive person in the year 1696: "All ye outrageous woman, you go from shop to shop, and pester all the clerks, until from sheer fatigue they drop. Your purchases are trifling, for your purse is very lean, but your airs would be sufficient for an empress or a queen. A tiny spark of decency such conduct would prevent, but decency's a think for which you plainly have no best."

Whatever way Valentine's Day is celebrated by the public, whether they be young, old, middle age or teenage, it all boils down, to the interchange of three little words, never spoken too often and of a greater which allegedly makes the world go round.

Denies Advocating Any 'Wildcat' Strike

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Sam Lore, local 200 delegate to the recent Ontario Federation of Labor convention at Niagara Falls, denied Tues., that he advocated a wildcat strike at Ford of Canada.

"I said at the convention that I felt some international union should test the present conciliation law in Ontario. Local 200 could do the job since it was ready for conciliation. I in no way advocated wildcat action. My proposal was that the international UAW authorize a strike before conciliation after the constitution had been adhered to, that is, a two thirds majority vote of the membership by secret ballot.

"Everyone knows wildcat strikes are not authorized by the international."

St. Laurent Is in Germany After French Conferences

BONN (CP)—Prime Minister St Laurent today conveyed the "cordial and friendly greetings" of the Canadian people to West Germany's President Theodor Heuss.

He went straight to a reception by the West German head of state after arriving here—the third foreign stop in his 23,000-mile world tour which began last Thursday—from Paris in the special Royal Canadian Air Force C-5 plane.

The prime minister underscored Canada's close collaboration with Europe by saying he hopes there will be fruitful co-operation with West Germany toward the mutual aim of lasting peace.

In his talks with German leaders, he will learn at first hand the problems surrounding the building of joint European defences with German divisions.

CORDIAL GREETINGS

The prime minister said at the airport that he brought "most cordial and friendly greetings" from the people of Canada.

"We are very grateful of the past but are looking forward to a future co-operation to bring all our people a better way of living.

"I know that your aim is as our aim—a lasting peace."

In a statement issued earlier on the Canadian leader's departure from France, Premier Laniel said Canada is in the best position to interpret the French position to member countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He said the conversations between the two leaders had dealt mainly with the current Berlin foreign ministers' conference, but also covered France's difficulties in regard to European integration.

French diplomats thanked the prime minister for the part Canada had taken in supplying arms to France, and especially for the retention of Canadian troops in Europe.

French conferees also discussed the Far East situation with the prime minister, whose tour will take him to that area.

The prime minister's last day in Paris, he arrived Sunday night, was a busy one. He wound it up with a broadcast to the French people and a dinner for French leaders at the residence of Dana Wilgress, Canada's NATO ambassador.

ADDRESSES NATO HEADS

During the day he visited Allied military headquarters just outside Paris and addressed military representatives of the 14 NATO powers. NATO leaders, including U.S. Gen. Alfred Gruenther, supreme commander of Allied powers in Europe, attended the evening dinner.

The prime minister also called on the French parliament, where he was applauded by the Chamber of Deputies. Laniel, in an address of welcome, referred to Canada as "occupying a privileged place" in the heart of France.

The German part of the tour, which lasts until Friday, will include a visit to the Canadian infantry brigade. The prime minister will go back to France to visit the RCAF base at Gros Tenquin before going on to Rome, next capital in his itinerary.

Canada Jay Is Canny Bird

At Mobert, 150 miles northwest of Sault Ste. Marie, forest rangers last week saw two Canada jays resting on the edge of a garbage can and leaning against each other. Closer investigation disclosed the birds each had only one leg.

Both birds, handicapped as they were, put on a wonderful show of co-operation, hopping around and leaning against each other when they started to feed. Officials set out plenty of food in hope the birds will become regular visitors.

Appeal Hearing Opens

TORONTO (CP)—Hearing began Tuesday of an appeal by five rubber companies against an order of Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven restraining them from continuing or repeating operation of a combine in the mechanical rubber industry.

The companies contend that an amendment to the 1952 Combines Investigation Act, under which the prohibition order was made, has no legal effect.

The five companies appealing the Sept. 24, 1953, ruling are Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada, Ltd., B. F. Goodrich rubber Co. of Canada Ltd., Dominion Rubber Co. Ltd., Dunlop Tire and Rubber Goods of Canada Ltd., and Gutta Percha and Rubber Ltd.

The companies pleaded guilty April 6, 1953, to operating a combine in the mechanical rubber industry—which includes manufacture of hoses and rubber belting—and were fined $10,000 each.

Wrong to Give Headache Tablets To Small Babies

TORONTO (CP)—Doctors at the Hospital for Sick Children say there has been a "frightening" increase in the number of cases of babies being given headache tablets.

Five such cases have been reported here since last Christmas. One unidentified child was in critical condition at the hospital Tuesday night.

One doctor said: "What must be recognized by mothers, as well as many physicians, is that the salicylic tablets, which are of great value for other purposes, can be dangerous and a fatal factor in treatment of infants."

Five-Year-Old Boy Found Dead In Water Hole

ANGUS (CP)—A five-year-old boy was found dead Tuesday night, frozen to his armpits in a waist-filled hole a few hours after he wandered away from home.

Police and searchers found the body of Glenn Kearn in the ice-covered hole behind a garage. He was the only son of L. Cpl. Fred Sharp and was last seen by his mother at noon as he played near his house. The boy was found about 300 yards from the house.

Police believe the child was playing with dogs, fell into the hole and was unable to get out. His head and shoulders were showing above the ice.

Foundation Says 70 Per Cent Of Canada's Adult Population Drinks Liquor, Beer or Wine

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Seventy per cent of Canada's adult population drinks liquor, beer or wine, the Alcoholism Research Foundation of Ontario reported today.

In a survey on the drinking habits of Canadians, first of its kind undertaken in Canada, the foundation found that:

Public taste has switched from spirits to beer;

British Columbia's rate of alcoholism is the highest of any province;

Ontario leads in the per capita consumption of absolute alcohol;

Beer consumption is greatest in Quebec;

Canada ranks sixth among the countries of the world in rate of alcoholism;

The survey covers the period from 1871 to 1953 and studies each province and Canada's relationship to the rest of the world.

CONSUMPTION INCREASE

Foundation officials said the survey will supply the basis when considering the problem of alcoholism in Canada.

The survey says consumption of spirits has been on the increase since 1921 when the average was .54 gallons of absolute alcohol per person. The rate of alcoholism in that year was 732 per 100,000 population and the rate of convictions for drunkeness 460 per 100,000.

In the five-year period 1948-53 consumption rose to 1.37 gallons per person and the rate of alcoholism to 1,810 per 100,000. The rate of convictions for drunkenness was 772.

Consumption levelled off in 1951 and 1952 with an average of 1.48 gallons for both years. In 1951 the rate of alcoholism was 1,581 per 100,000 and the rate of convictions for drunkenness 861. In 1952 the alcoholism rate reached 1,629. The figure for convictions was not available.

Canada's position as sixth among world countries in alcoholism is based on 1948 figures when there was an average of 1,804 per 100,000. The United States led with 2,953, followed by France with 2,850, Sweden 2,580, Switzerland 2,385 and Denmark 1,850.

WESTERNERS DRINK MORE

The 1953 figures indicated a greater proportion of drinkers in western Canada than in the east. British Columbia, with 81 per cent of its adult population listed as drinkers, topped the list. The percentage was 72 in the eastern provinces, 71 in Quebec, 69 in Ontario and 59 in the maritimes.

B. C. led in the number of alcoholics with 2,532 per 100,000 population. Figures for other provinces: Quebec 1,813, Ontario 1,587, Nova Scotia 1,286, New Brunswick 1,278, Manitoba 1,172, Saskatchewan 1,167, Alberta 980, Prince Edward Island 675 and Newfoundland 501.

In Quebec, 71 per cent of the alcohol drunk is beer, the highest ratio in the country. In Nova Scotia beer accounts for .50 per cent of alcoholic consumption but the consumption rates for spirits and wine are the highest in the Dominion—39 and 11 per cent, respectively.

Ontario's per capita consumption of absolute alcohol in 1952 was 1.62, the country's highest. The Canadian average was 1.48.

ALCOHOLISM RISES

In 1901, there were 2,084 male and 425 female alcoholics per 100,000 population. In 1931 they reached 2,827 male and 325 female.

The survey says 76 per cent of the male population and 64 per greatest incidence of drinking occurs in the 21-29 year age group —75 per cent. Seventy-one per cent of the Roman Catholic population Tuesday. He succeeds Hobert Avery of Brockville.

Robert H. Saunders, Ontario hydro commission chairman, told the 230 plowmen that Ontario's rural residents are paying less for power now than they were in the pre-war period.

"I know that you are saying the cost was less in 1938 and that you are the ones who pay the bill, but don't forget that you are using over 12 times as much power as you were then," Mr. Saunders said.

Mr. Saunders added that 88.1 per cent of the province's farmers now are using electric power.

It was announced that the 1954 international plowing match will be held at Streiau in Waterloo county. The 1955 match will be in Essex county near Leamington.

The 1956 match will be in Ontario county and the 1958 match in the united counties of Glengarry, Stormont and Dundas.

Peterborough Man Will Head Ont. Plowmen

TORONTO (CP)—H. A. Quinn of Peterborough was elected president of the Ontario Plowmens' Association Tuesday. He succeeds Hobert Avery of Brockville.

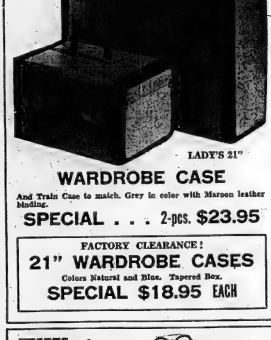
Acquitted by Jury



TORONTO (CP)—Sigmund Jan Norton, 21-year-old Polish-born mechanical engineer, was acquitted by a jury Tuesday of fraud charges in connection with an alleged $28,000 crown land swindle.

Norton had been charged with former department of highways land evaluator James L. Cutell of defrauding the Ontario government of $28,000 in the purchase of an estate in suburban Etobicoke.

Cutell now is serving a three-year penitentiary term for his part in land swindles.

Memos Cling To Playoffs Hope With 5-2 Victory Over Oshawa Truckmen

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WACKEY, WOT?

Picking winners in this Senior "B" hockey hassle is harder than selecting the shell the pea rests under. Any galoot who bets on the outcome of a single game from here in, should have his head read, and given free parking in a padded cell until it is over.

Statistics and form are as dependable as a politician after the election.

Take last night frinstance. The Memos, coming up with a brilliant display of both-way checking and effective offensives, handed the pace-setting Oshawa Truckmen a decisive 5-2 defeat while up in Orillia the Indian Headers, wearing the Parish of Fenelon, gave the heretofore stinging Petes a 9-1 shellacking and left them colder than a landlord's heart.

Wirrah, wirrah, we're not long for this world!

Now the Memos can switch their elimination affections. Up to this point it was the Orillician they were after, but now their sole transfer their "rubbing out" activities to their arch-fiendists wearing the Kingston Goodyears uniforms. And they may as well start tonight when they are guests of the Reddenfellis pirates.

At the moment the standing situation at the top of the heap is unchanged with the Truckmen and Petes stalemated with 38 points. The Pontiacs, however, stole a march on the Goodyears and are now in third spot with 35 points, while the Goodies boast 33, nine in front of our side.

The Memos were full value for their victory over the Truckies and every goal they scored was well-earned. Duke Doran came up with his best display of the year, scoring a pair and helping with another. Peter Jones also turned in a fine exhibition going both ways with the rest of the team backing them up in good style. Sarrault kicked out a lot of Oshawa rubber and Courtney in the opposing nets, was another star of the game.

Jackie Wardhaugh will be lost to the Memos for the rest of the season, no matter how long or short it is. He suffered a fracture of the left leg just above the ankle when he was tripped by Oshawa's McBeth and sent crashing into the boards.

What happened to the Petes is not known at time of writing. Those Pontiacs are harder to knock off in their own igloo than Eskimo Babies in Moscow. They have shot their bolt, or are they coasting for the playoffs? In any event it appears the Grigg galoots gave them a fancy lesson in the art of puck-dunking, their worst defeat of the season.

BASEBALL HUDDLE!

What promises to be a mighty interesting session for official baseball buckaroos of the province takes place in Chatham on March 19 — when the Ontario Baseball Association holds forth at its annual get-together.

One of the most important items on the agenda is the proposed formation of an Ontario Baseball Association Umpires' Association. Date of the meeting will be set later. All clubs under the aegis of the OBA are requested to notify registered umpires in their district of the meeting so that an all-out attendance can be assured.

President A. E. Stirling of Chatham, reminds all baseball men interested to review and study the old constitution and bylaws, etc., and send in nominations for officers and executive plus any proposed changes, amendments or objections they believe will be of benefit to clubs, players or the OBA in general.

At the 1953 convention held in Simcoe, the president was authorized to re-write the new constitution and to choose a committee of three to assist him. Some work has been done on this but it cannot be completed until after the 1954 convention in order to incorporate the new amendments.

President Stirling, along with third vice-president, Jim Millman, have arranged a fine program for the visiting baseball firemen. The conclave will be held in the William Pitt Hotel, one of the better hostelries in the western part of the province. A top of the city will take place on Friday at four o'clock, p.m., that is, and at six the boys will sit down to a delicious fish dinner. Special entertainment has been arranged for after dinner, at which between 500 and 1,000 are expected to be present.

BASEBALL!

Speaking of baseball, Cec Bint, secretary of the Oshawa senior club, writes to say that Oshawa will be represented at the proposed meeting of the Central Ontario Baseball League, tentatively set for Belleville February 21. Cec also advises he received as yet from Peterborough, Kingston or Watertown. Manager Jack Carson, of the Belleville club, says he'll be there with his official henchmen.

The Peterborough sports writer deflates his Senior "B" hockey chest long enough to remark that he doubts if the Watertown entry will join the ranks. He adds further doubts that the district cities will want 'em, with the possible exception of Kingston. In fact Cec urges very strongly a re-birth of the four-team loop, Kingston, Belleville, Oshawa and Peterborough, that made baseball history in Ontario there or four decades ago. How about giving those baseballers up your way a reminder, Cec, and let's get crackin'.

HOPE-LESS!

For some solid belly laughs read Bob Hope's life story in this week's Saturepost. Hope, who was a boxer of parts, mostly parts after the fights, relates hilarious experiences while an amateur headbanger. Says he would have made the lightweight division but forgot to take the apples out of his pocket when weighing in. Claims he is the only fighter who was carried both in and out of the ring. They called him "Hembrandt" Hope. He was always on the canvas. It's good!

RE-SCHEDULE NHL GAME

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings will play a regularly scheduled National Hockey League game in Omaha Feb. 25.

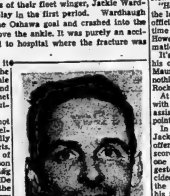
The game was transferred here from Chicago and is billed as one of several special sporting events her on the 100th anniversary of the city's founding.

Chalk Up Four Goals in Row Before Foemen Score in Third; Jack Wardhaugh Breaks Leg

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

A win-hungry Belleville Memos' team, fighting desperately to retain a slim hope of making the playoffs, defeated the Oshawa Truckmen 5-2 here last night in a spirited, hard-fought Senior "B" tussle.

The Memos, playing a fierce both-way checking game, were full value for their win and blanked the pace-setting Truckmen until seven minutes had elapsed in the third period. They whipped home three goals in the first period, added another in the second, and were outscored 2-1 in the third set.

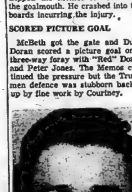


The Memos lost the services of their fleet winger, Jackie Wardhaugh, after eight minutes of play in the first period. Wardhaugh was tripped by McBeth near the Oshawa goal and crashed into the boards breaking his left leg above the ankle. It was purely an accident. Wardhaugh was rushed to hospital where the fracture was reduced.

In fairness to the Truckmen it must be said they were minus the services of playing coach Ernie Dickens, Berwick, Thaler and Ray Colvin, Courtney did not get chores and came up with an outstanding effort.

However, the Memos were not to be denied. They played stellar hockey throughout with Sally Sarrault starring in the nets. Duke Doran came up with one of his best games of the season scoring two goals and assisting in another. Doug Day, Ted De Gray and Vern Goyer scored the rest. Scoring for Hooper and Harry Sinden accounted for the Truckmen's goals, with Hooper drawing an assist.

The game was cleanly fought with Referees "Moose" Flanagan and Jim Crombie doling out ten minor penalties evenly split to the Truckmen with McBeth drawing four of them.



Goyer and McBeth drew roughing penalties after two minutes of a slow-starting first period, Hooper missed from close in and the Memos put on the pressure with Doug Day opening the scoring at six minutes on a power play. The Oshawa shooting was off and Samolenko missed from the goalmouth. Wardhaugh broke into the clear chased by McBeth who tripped the Memos forward near the goalmouth. He crashed into the boards incurring the injury.

JACKIE WARDHAUGH

SCORED PICTURE GOAL

McBeth got the gate and Duke Doran scored a picture goal on a three-way foray with "Red" Doran and Peter Jones. The Memos continued the pressure but the Truckmen defence was stubborn backed up by fine work by Courtney.

DUKE DORAN
. . .Good for Pair

McBeth drew twin penalties for elbowing and hooking after 13 minutes of play and Hooper followed him 35 seconds later. Duke Doran drove the puck past Courtney but the referees claimed he was in the crease and the tally was disallowed. The Truckmen held off the Memos attacks until Hooper returned. Vern Goyer put the Memos three up when he drove home Peter Jones' pass from ten feet out on a power play.

Oshawa drove to the attack in the second period with Samolenko and Hooper bouncing hard-driven packs off Sarrault's pads. They ripped around the Memos nets but hard checking kept them off the scoresheet. Ted DeGray got the only goal of the period after three minutes slamming home the rubber from Duke Doran's pass.

Holden hit the post with Sarrault three feet out of his net and Samolenko missed from close in. McBeth dumped Red Doran and drew his fourth penalty of the game and the Memos swarmed around the Oshawa net. Goyer got the gate with a minute to go.

Duke Doran and Peter Jones swept in on the Oshawa net early in the third beat with Doran's drive missing by inches. DeGray broke into the clear but Courtney outguessed him and the Truckmen rushed back to the offensive.

They swarmed around the Memos citadel and Sarrault came up with some brilliant saves. They were finally rewarded after seven minutes of play when Sonny Hooper flipped the puck in an open net with Sarrault sprawled on the ice two feet away.

Play veered from end to end and both goals had narrow escape. Courtney nestly deflected Duke Doran's drive from three feet out and it was the Memos turn to attack. With five minutes to go Duke Doran flung home his second goal of the night to give the Memos a 5-1 lead.

The Truckmen led by Hooper, and Samolenko rallied but their thrusts hemming the Memos behind their blue line. Out of a mass of players in front of the Memos goal, the puck trickled in a corner and the light flashed. Sinden was given credit, with Hooper drawing the assist.

Irvin, Adams Foment Howe vs Richard Duel

DETROIT (AP)—Is Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings leading the National Hockey League in scoring because he gets cheap assists on his home ice in Olympia Stadium? He says coach Dick Irvin of Montreal Canadiens.

"Nothing Mr. Irvin would say or do, would surprise or disturb me," said Jewell. "I call them the way I see them."

"Howe would never be leading the league if they had an impartial official scorer at Detroit. Every time there's a Wing goal while Howe is on the ice, he almost automatically gets an assist."

It's no secret that Irvin idolizes his own high-scoring right winger, Maurice Richard, and thinks Howe is nothing better than to see the Rocket lead the league in scoring. At the moment, Howe is on top with 38 points—21 goals and 37 assists. Richard is second with 32 points—20 goals and 30 assists.

In New York general manager Jack Adams of the Red Wings offered to bet Irvin that the Detroit scorer is "twice as good as the one at Montreal." Adams suggested a cheap wager, to be decided by an impartial judge, with the winner giving the money to his favorite charity.

Barrie Gets Weston Goalie

TORONTO (CP)—Doug Hardy, a junior B goalkeeper, has been sold to Barrie Flyers for the remainder of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A schedule.

Stafford Smythe, manager of the Junior Toronto Marlboros said Hardy will be sent to the Flyers by Conn Smythe, an affiliate of the Marlboros. However, Hardy goes back to Weston after this season. Smythe did not reveal the price.

Harry Watson Has Sights Set On Exclusive 200-Goal Club

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Any big-league hockey fan can tell there isn't a mean streak in Harry Percival Watson just by looking at him. His cheeks could, if they didn't like it at one time, be 15 years in the National Hockey League, Watson has never made headlines for belligerent or any antics but Toronto Maple Leafs always looked on him as one of the best lefthingers in the business.

"I wasn't born to be a tough guy," Watson says. "Everybody tells me I'm too soft."

That's what some coaches said when the Leafs got Watson in a trade that sent Billy Taylor to Detroit Red Wings 11 years ago. They told him to throw his 200-odd pounds around to stay up with the super Selkes.

But Watson made them like his style of play. It wasn't a bad idea, the family who saw plenty of scoring in the National Hockey League years ago. Roy will be here with brothers Charlie and Lionel when the N.H.L. Oldtimers stage their puck battle in Memorial Arena, Feb. 19.

Roy Conacher is a member of famous Conacher sports family who saw plenty of scoring in the National Hockey League years ago. Roy will be here with brothers Charlie and Lionel when the N.H.L. Oldtimers stage their puck battle in Memorial Arena, Feb. 19.

Watson, a native of Saskatoon, Sask., has scored 15 goals so far this season and at the rate he is going he may get the three goals this week because the Leafs play four games in five nights.

Quebec Musher Leads Pack In Sled-Dog Derby

By CECIL SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Ernest Brunet, a lean, hyper-cool musher from Grosses Point, Que., carries a slim 30-second margin into today's second and final heat of the International 40-dog derby.

Racing competitively for only two years, the pint-size[d] postman finished the first 33-mile heat of the annual, 66-mile race Tuesday in three hours and 38 seconds to edge out another Quebec musher, Emile Martel, 48, of Lorettesville, winner in 1951. He finished in three hours and 58 seconds.

Starting in eighth position in a field of 22, Brunet drove his six crate-bred hounds past seven other drivers and came home first.

Brunet was hailed by hundreds of spectators who lined the banks of the Rideau canal in downtown Ottawa as his dogs, tongues lolling from the cold, made a dash down the home stretch.

AMERICAN THIRD

Dr. Charles Belford of Deerfield, Mass., finished third with a time of 3:05.10. Alex Garneau, Quebec City, was fourth in 3:05.45. Don McFaul, Manitou Que., fifth in 3:13.32, and Dr. Roland Lombard, Auburndale, Mass., sixth in 3:17.12.

Mrs. Jean Lane of Lunenburg, Mass., a newcomer here, completed the 33-mile course in 3:31.02 to place eighth. She had a spectacular upset over Dr. Lombard's wife, her nearest woman competitor, Mrs. Ruth Lombard.

Sandra Silles, 17-year-old Ottawa high school girl, was close behind in 14th position with a time of 3:56.08, and Mrs. Bunty Dunlop of Buckingham finished in 16:29 for 18th position.

Wilf (Bill) Lepine of Quebec City, champion in 1950 and 1952, dropped out of the race before the halfway mark. Trouble with his dogs is believed to be the reason for his quitting.

Britain's Pirie To Pass Up Empire Games

LONDON (CP) — Gordon Pirie, the lean young distance runner Britain regards as her athlete of the moment, Tuesday dropped another bombshell into the lap of the British Amateur Athletic Association when he said that he will pass up the British Empire Games at Vancouver this summer.

The holder of some 33 records at various distances following his return from a Belgian track meet where he conferred with his coach, German Waldemar Gerschler.

"I am not unduly perturbed," commented one AAA official. "The games are a long way away yet and Pirie has been known to change his mind."

Jack Crump, England's team manager, was of the same opinion and said he hoped Pirie will change his mind.

Pirie's decision was based on what he called the strain of travelling to Vancouver at a time when he wants to guard his physical development and build for a meeting with Emile Zatopek of Czechoslovakia. It followed by a month or two a national furore caused when Pirie let it be known that he might be going to United States college.

Shortly after, Pirie gave up his banking job to' sell paint at an increased salary. He gained free down to train, during the day plus other improvements.

With The Minors

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Bantam and Pee-wee games were featured by a couple of upsets last Saturday morning as the Black Hawks of the Pee-wee league saw their hopes for an undefeated season go down the window when they dropped a 3-1 decision to the second place Rangers.

The Bantam Maple Leafs are undefeated but they blew a 2-0 lead and had to settle for their second tie of the season with the Canadians. The final score was 2-2.

Goals seem to come in groups in certain players as no less than four got two or more goals each. Boulter claimed all three of his team's markers as the Pee-wee Bruins won 3-2, while Jim Sprague, Bob Fullwell and Everett Keller each had two goals.

With something like twelve games per week played in the different divisions it is not possible to write a complete account of each game. The score and the point getters are always made clear but seldom do we find space to mention the fine play turned in by the backbone of any hockey team: the goaltender.

So far this season we have witnessed in the vicinity of 115 minor hockey games and a lot of them have been marked by the fine work of the padded lads in the nets.

In the Midget, Bantam and Pee-wee series there have been 21 shutouts. On 41 other occasions only one puck went by the twine protector.

It all adds up to the fact that, although the goalie may get his name in print as often as the goalgetters, he is quite as important and probably always will be, one of the most important players on any hockey team.

* * *

The playoffs for city tilts will start next week in the Midget, Bantam and Pee-wee sections, with the first and fourth place teams meeting in one series, second and third in another, while fifth and sixth will complete the circuit. All series will be two-game, goals-to-count affairs.

In the Juvenile-Junior group there will be no city playoffs, but rather an all-star team from each division will use the time allotted to their division for practising in preparation for the OMHA playoffs. All players in either of these age groups who wish to play for the Belleville representatives, regardless if they played during the regular Thursday game or not, are asked to get in touch with Jim Ethier or "Red" Doran.

* * *

There is a possibility that the Belleville teams will meet Kingston in the first round of the OMHA playoffs sometime near the end of the month, but this is not yet official, says Jack Gilbert, OMHA secretary.

Last year these two cities battled it out with Kingston winning the Juvenile round 11-9 and the Midget 11-2, while the Belleville Bantams came out on the long end of a 13-7 total.

Tomorrow evening the Midget and Juvenile-Junior city hockey all-stars close out the regular season with five games on the Memorial Arena ice. Maple Leafs and Black Hawks, will play their usual game at 6 p.m. followed by Midget with Big 'A' vs. Robb Royals, Moose Lodge vs. Webb Rollers and Rebels Regents tangling with Stewart Warner, in the 7-9 group. In Aluminum Stars vs. School Boys in the first game with the BMHA team meeting Oakland Juniors in the nightcap.

Saturday morning will complete the dual Bantam and Pee-Wee schedule with Rangers meeting Bruins in the Pee-Wee fans at Black Hawks and Maple Leafs vs. the Bruins.

Teeps Wallop Hawks to Extend Lead As Marlies Nip Barrie Flyers 2-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines TeePees may be on their way to their first Memorial Cup. If they win it they'll have to give a lot of the credit to a brother act from Ottawa.

Brian and Barry Cullen, the latter a rookie, are the two top snipers in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A setup.

Brian, a veteran in the OHA, leads the league in both goals and assists. His 54 and 56 assists give him 122 points, a comfortable cushion over his closest competitors, who have not yet reached the 100-point mark.

Brother Barry, playing his first year in the OHA Junior A series, has the next best total with 84 points with 47 counters. He has also chalked up 23 more PP points.

Barry maintained three counters Tuesday night as the TeePees increased their first-place margin by whipping Galt Black Hawks 8-2 in St. Catharines.

The second-place Toronto Marlboros helped the TeePee cause by allowing Barrie Flyers to edge them 2-1 in Toronto.

ONTARIO CLUBS WIN

In two other games, both interlocking clashes with Quebec Junior Hockey Association senior teams, OHA teams won.

Toronto St. Michael's College Majors drew to within six points of Montreal by downing Canadiens of Marlboro by 6-3 decision.

Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen edged Marquis of Toronto and Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts took a 4-3 homeless victory from Montreal Royals.

Jack Armstrong added two goals to Barry Cullen's three for the TeePees. Singles went to Ron Bullock, Hugh Currie and Hank Ciesla. Pete Kowalchuk an Chick Chalmers rounded out the list.

Barrie was never headed. Danny Pollizzi gave them a 1-0 lead in the first period and George Razicki scored the winner before Mike Nykaluk counted the only Marlboro goal in the second.

Only four minor penalties were called during the dull St. Michael's-Jonquiere contest. Each team took two.

Paul Knox, with his second goal of the night, rounded out the Irish total by scoring into an empty net with five minutes remaining in the game. Jonquiere netminder Andre Bouchard was hurt in the left arm just before the goal and started to leave the ice before the play was stopped.

Defenseman Armando Delbosco finished in goal for the Marquis.

Bill Golden and Ken Gribbons scored the other St. Michael's goals. Gerry Normand and Jean Rousseau tallied for Jonquiere.

Bruce Gamble clicked twice for the winners with single goals going to Beryl Klinck, Buddy Horne, Graham Cook and Grieg Hicks.

Lyndhursts 'Living Down' First Loss, Whip Italians for 5th Straight Win

MILAN (CP) — Canada's representatives, the world's hockey championships, victims of a horrendous beating in their first exhibition game on European soil, have just about lived it down.

Toronto Lyndhurst, a club regarded with relaxed eyebrows by some hockey experts who felt their senior B rating made them unworthy representatives in international competition, now boast a five-game winning streak against Swiss and Italian teams.

And if the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association gets around to picking three promised players to reinforce their standard-bearers before the Stockholm competition opens Feb. 26, they'll be even stronger.

The Lyndhurst locked anything but impressive in Paris 10 days ago by trouncing from a team of expatriate Canadians who play professional hockey in France.

But since that game, just two days after they disembarked from a rough Atlantic crossing, the tourists have picked up considerably.

They walloped Neuchatel 10-0 and Davos 13-4 in Switzerland in successive days, then whipped Swiss all-star teams 4-2 and 6-3, Switzerland has always rated as one of the toughest contestants in the tournaments.

Carrying their campaign into Italy Tuesday, the Lyndhurst squad with the Internationale club of Milan, Italian national champions for the past 10 years, for an easy 9-4 victory.

Top scorers for the Canadians over the six games have been Moe Galand, a 22-year-old right-winger who played junior A hockey for Stratford and Oshawa of the Ontario Hockey Association, and left-winger Earl Clements, 22, who also played for the Stratford club.

Both have chalked eight goals, including two each at Milan.

Merc' Burlington Needs 12 Points To Break Senior A Scoring Record

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tommy Burlington, veteran with seven Sound Mercurys, needs only 12 points to shatter the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A scoring record. He has 10 games to do it in.

Burlington, 33 - year - old centre with the Mercurys, chalked up his 100th point of the season Tuesday night as Owen Sound defeated Niagara Falls Cataracts 9-3 in Owen Sound. The victory gave the Mercs sole possession of first place in the standings.

Burlington, who is shooting for the 113-point record set by Mickey Roth of Hamilton Tigers during the 1951-52 season, appears to be a cinch in the league scoring title even if he doesn't break the record.

His one goal and two assists gave him a total of 39 goals and 61 assists for a 25-point lead over Jack Taylor of Hamilton Tigers.

In the only other game last night Windsor Bulldogs defeated Chatham Maroons 6-1 in Chatham.

MERCS HEAVIER HEADED

Gerry Reid and Buck Forslund each scored two goals for Owen Sound. Bill McComb, Harry Kasarian, Doug Gillespie and Ralph Hocking, as well as Burlington, notched singles. Owen Sound led all the way.

A crowd of 3,800 fans, apparently lured out by the last Windsor-Chatham clash, watched the Bulldogs outscore the Maroons in every period. A minor riot broke out during the last time the two teams met here.

Wally Kullman sparked the Windsor attack with two goals and two assists. Clarence Jaster, Fred Chartrand, Alec Birukow and Gord Haldy scored one each for the Bulldogs. Bill Lee got the only Chatham goal.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen play the Indians in Stratford tonight. The Indians are at Pembroke and Sudbury Wolves meet the Greyhounds in Sault Ste. Marie Ont., in the NOHA.

Don Hogan Scores Pair

NORTH BAY (CP)—North Bay Trappers defeated Sault Ste. Marie Mich., Indians 4-2 in a Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group game here Tuesday night.

The victory put the Trappers three points ahead of the lacklustre Indians and two points ahead of Pembroke Lumber Kings in the three-way struggle for the final two playoff berths.

Don Hogan scored twice for the Trappers with Eddie Marineau and Bill Dwyer adding singles.

The Indians' markers went to Laurie May and Henry Backus.

Cooke Fails To Turn Paige

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Kent Cooke, owner of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League, said Tuesday that he has failed in his attempts to sign old Satchel Paige, former pitcher with Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Browns of the American League.

Paige hasn't been signed yet but it is rumored he will play for a Pacific Coast League team.

Joe Louis' colorful story, his battles and his victories, both in the ring and outside, are colorfully portrayed in the picture "The Joe Louis Story," opening a three-day run at the Capitol Theatre Thursday. It is full of excitement, adventure and thrills and no boxing fans should miss it.

Remember When

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ernie Schaaf was knocked to the canvas by Primo Carnera in the 13th round of their heavyweight bout at New York 21 years ago tonight. Schaaf never regained consciousness; he died in hospital four days later. Carnera went on to win the world title from Jack Sharkey, and lost it to Max Baer in 1934.

Good Eating!

NEARLY EVERYONE LIKES A GOOD STEAK OR A GOOD PORTION OF FRIED CHICKEN

STEAK

To do it justice, a steak should be about one inch thick of the best quality (Red Brand) beef and hung from 3 to 4 weeks prior to cutting. Then cooked to taste.

FRIED CHICKEN

Should be Grade "A" well cooked to good shortening and a substantial enough portion so that you can really enjoy it.

MARMORA

Trenton Flyers Trim Marmora By 7-4 Score

MARMORA—The RCAF hockey team of Trenton tried conclusions with Marmora on the latter's rink on Monday evening to retire winners of a fast and exciting game to the tune of 7-4. The homesters lacked the services of Leonard injured in the last game, Gray, Darrah and Smith.

The visitors took the lead in the first period Gillan opened the scoring on Cowick's assist. Later Rochan added another, assisted by Beatch.

Before the period closed Mantle registered for Marmora on an assist from Brooks. Early in the second the Flyers got going again and scored four goals in the following order. Rochan from Beatch, Veiina unassisted, Cowick assisted by Rochan and Gingras and Adams assisted by Cowick.

Between these goals was a counter for Marmora, Loveless beating Dr. Paul, visiting goaler on Parmalk's assist Marmora rallied in the third after facing a further goal deficit through Cowick's score on Raccoco's assist. K. Trumble registered on Jones' assist and Lavender got the final goal with an assist from K. Trumble who started the locals.

The nine penalties meted out by referees J. Aquino and V. Goyer were for minor offences. Once again the attendance failed to soar above the usual three hundred mark.

'Lockjaw' Colt May Be Future World Champion

STRATFORD (CP)—Locust Song two-year-old colt stricken with lockjaw last March 23, may be on his way to becoming "world champion trotter," owner David Pinkney claims.

The colt has been nursed back to health by veterinarian Dr. J.E. Johnson of Waterloo. "He is the one who saved his life," Mr. Pinkney said.

Locust Song, sired by Victory Song out of Honey Locust, has been in training for two months now. But even though the colt is in robust health, Dave said he'll wait until 1955 before the "real test.

"It may take a bit of doing," said Dave, "but I believe the colt has it."

Yankee Bigwigs May Expel 'Rah-Rah' Boys

TORONTO (CP)—Two Big Four football coaches say they wouldn't be surprised if the National Football League forces the United States college players with permanent expulsion if they sign with Canadian teams.

Coach Frank Clair of Toronto Argonauts said:

"It wouldn't surprise me a bit. I know they're really putting pressure on the kids and most of them are scared to death of Canada."

Ralph Sazio, coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, said in a telephone interview from Vero Beach, Fla.:

"I don't know whether they threaten to bar the boys now, but I know they have threatened them like that in the past," I know (Bob) Snyder (former Calgary coach in the Western Interprovincial Football Union) has been telling a lot of lies to the boys down there.

AT THE CAPITOL—Joe Louis, the great ex-heavyweight champion, meets with Hilda Simms, who plays Marva, his ex-wife in "The Joe Louis Story", which opens Thursday at the Capitol Theatre through United Artists release. With them is producer Stirling Silliphant. Coley Wallace (insert) plays the role of the Brown Bomber. On the same program James Oliver Curwood's "Yukon Vengeance" starring Kirby Grant and Chinook the Wonder Dog. Both hits are first showings.

80,000 Persons from 18 to 40 Getting Kick Out of Curling

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Whether it's by a knockout, or a draw, nearly 80,000 persons between 18 and 40 are getting a kick out of swishing a broom and sliding a 40-pound rock these days. At 10 cents a head they help keep Canadian high school curling on its feet.

From Newfoundland to British Columbia, the rhythmic action of brooms across glassy ice and cries of "sweep" are familiar sounds in arenas and artificial rinks as Canada's curling season nears the end of another great year.

One of the country's most popular sports, the old Scottish pastime has come a long way since it was first played in Canada in the 18th century—when soldiers fashioned their stones from melted down cannon and played on the St. Charles river in Quebec.

CANADA'S CLAIM

Today, many agree with Canada's claim to the title of the best curler produced in the world and that the Dominion championships produce a world beater. This year curlers will shoot for the title at Edmonton March 1-6. The Canadian high school tournament will be held at Hamilton Feb. 22-25.

The game has made its biggest advance in the last five years. In 1948, for instance, there were 62,263 curlers registered with the Dominion Curling Association.

That figure was increased to 70,504 in 1952 and last year there were a record 73,952 registered with 1,331 clubs.

Most of the curlers registered with the Canadian association are assessed 10 cents a year, with the funds earmarked to promote and provide facilities for high school curlers. An association with more than 500 members is assessed $500.

PRACTICE COUNTS

"It's not much but it helps," Ernie McMurtry of Toronto, secretary of the Ontario association, said in an interview. "After all, there is no coaching problem such as you have in hockey, football and other sports. There are no established styles or rules. Just you throw the stone and develop through practice."

Ten years ago the province had 18 clubs affiliated with the New Brunswick branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club. Now there are 21, and the membership is 2,250. Nearly 500 women are in 27 clubs. In 1943 they had only three or four. About 500 high school boys have taken to the sport.

Such growth is not uncommon across the country.

Nova Scotia curlers have doubled their numbers in the last 20 years and more and more clubs have found it necessary to install artificial ice. In 1940 there were not more than half a dozen artificial ice plants in the province. In 1953 there were 19.

The Ontario district, the last stronghold for iron curling in Canada, is gradually changing to grass play.

TOPS IN WEST

In the more "frigid" provinces, curling has caught like wildfire. The history of the game in Alberta dates back to the mid-1880s when the game was played on river ice sheets. At the end of 1953 there were 204 clubs with a membership of 14,055.

In the Maritimes, Newfoundland has only two clubs with 248 members, Nova Scotia has 27 clubs and 2,971 members, Prince Edward Island four clubs and 350 members.

One of the largest memberships is in Ontario, with a total of 187 clubs and 16,326 members. Quebec has 21 clubs and 1,858 members.

The largest is in Saskatchewan where 16,587 persons belong to 457 clubs. In British Columbia, where winters usually are mild and short, there are 38 clubs with 2,427 curlers. Manitoba has 281 clubs with 15,507 members. There are seven clubs in the Northwest Territories with a membership of 525.

Curling interest may be countrywide but it's the West that breeds the top-notchers. Since the Canadian championships were started, in 1927 western Canada teams have won 18 times. Manitoba has captured the title 11 times, including last year when Ab Gowanlock skipped his Dauphin rink to victory.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Now look who's becoming a movie star—decathalon star Bob Mathias.

The great Olympic athlete is the latest sports figure to submit to the film biography treatment. Or maybe it should be called an autobiography, since he'll play a boy named Bob Mathias.

"Me act?" he laughs. "Not on your life. I'll just be playing myself. The script will be true to life, so I won't have to do any heavy dramatics or anything like that. I think I ought to be able to handle it."

Bob has done most of his performing on playing fields from here to Helsinki. He says he never even appeared in school plays. That's understandable when you consider the amount of time he spent practicing the many sports in which he is skilled.

Bob is a handsome giant who talks in the same slow drawl he remained modest despite his fame. He looks forward to the acting experience as "something new and exciting."

TV SERIES CONSIDERED

"My agent, Jim Fallon, and I have been discussing some kind of picture for some time," he revealed. "At first we thought it might be some kind of adventure series in TV. You know, something like Tom Swift or the Rover Boys or a spaceman idea, with me playing myself. But the series was out because that would take 52 weeks. I don't have that much time."

"So we decided on the story of my life. We'll try to keep it authentic; we've got a lot of real football from football games, plus some terrific shots from the 1952 Olympics in Helsinki. There is a 6,000 feet on the decathalon alone. That's the kind of material it would cost millions to reproduce here."

Bob, who is 22 now, said his days as an athlete are just about over. Pro football doesn't interest him, and he said he's not big enough for pro basketball. He's a mere six foot three.

"There's no money in professional track," he observed. "And I think the statement that track athletes don't reach their peak until they're out of college."

ARGOS SIGN LINE COACH

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Carpenter Toronto Argonauts have been signed with Argos as a playing line coach. He will assist Chuck Klein under head coach Frank Clair, the Big Four football union club announced Tuesday.

And many westerners go for the automobile hospitals, frowned on by the curling associations.

"The automobile hospitals aren't good for the average players," McMurtry says. "They haven't got a chance. A few hot-shot players get together and that's that. How can the average curler buck competition like that? And the entry fee is very high—more than $100 in some events."

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, FEB. 11, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A few restrictions evident, most likely before 5 p.m. Be on guard in both business and personal affairs. The most attractive proposition is not always the most worthy.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — A fine period in which to set forth with firm, well-directed will. Gauge the tastes and temperament of those with whom you deal; rather than try to make them bend to your way of thinking.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Steady and continuous effort is healthier, more successful than alternate periods of inactivity and rushing. Avoid overindulgence, suspicion; protect family as well as budget.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — This could be a tantalizing day. Being forewarned should lessen pain, the possibility of mistakes. Denying hurt may bring immediate satisfaction but it will ultimately turn the tide in your favor. Faith.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — If you respond to good and sincere suggestions you can expect favorable results. Buying, selling, legal affairs, property transfers, signing favors require forethought.

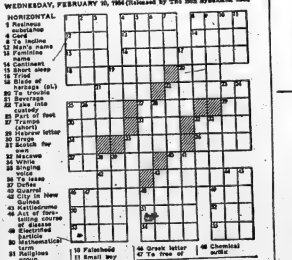
August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — This day's outlook may not please your wishes or whims. Rather it stresses self-development; correcting hampering faults, tendencies that dull one's ability to think rightly.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Steer away from a ready-to-wear attitude. Be guided by those outside family, loved ones. Anticipating trouble is another temptation today. Security begins with self.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Determining basic possibilities before acting is essential. Market values fluctuate without notice, therefore be alert. Uninformed. This applies to personal affairs also.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Some things that stumped you yesterday should be easier today. Be discriminating, but not fussy. You may be able to gain more through the advice and help of elders.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Focus of interest is on you particularly though it may concern others generally. Look and be sharp when opportunity knocks. Contact with friends, business associates could favor you.



January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Watch trend of others' plans and decide; be careful in all matters calling for correct judgment, good taste. Quality will reach its level and increased knowledge speeds up true progress.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Improvement in influences should spur you on to a successful day if you manage well. Take time to do things right whatever they may be—In a manner befitting your ability. Heart interests rate.

YOU BORN TODAY under Aquarius are sympathetic, intuitive. You seldom are dismayed by disappointment, but can be hurt by unappreciative people. Well-educated and trained, you could make a high mark in business, a profession; may be the arts, music, in the literary world. Develop concepts and fancies, since they affect your progress and rightly-directed, can help you solve problems.

SECRET EQUIPMENT SALVAGED AFTER "FLYING LAB" CRASH

Military authorities salvaged some of the secret equipment from the U.S. air force Super Constellation "flying radar station" which crashed in San Pablo Bay, near San Francisco, while attempting a ground control landing in a thick fog. The huge craft, valued at $5,000,000, was crammed with radar gear that "is still secret," officers said. All 13 crewmen were rescued. (Central Press Canadian.)

Lou Marsh Trophy Presented To Vancouver's Doug Hepburn

TORONTO (CP) — Husky Doug Hepburn of Vancouver, who overcame a physical deformity to become the world's heavyweight weight-lifting champion, was named winner of the Lou Marsh Trophy as Canada's outstanding athlete of 1953.

Previously he won the title in the annual Canadian Press yearend sports poll among the country's sports editors and sportscasters.

Hepburn was the unanimous choice of the five-man board of judges for the award set up in 1936 to honor the memory of Marsh, for many years sports editor and columnist of the Toronto Daily Star who died that year. It is awarded annually.

The judges considered nearly a dozen Canadian men and women athletes, amateurs and professionals, before they chose the 200-pound Hepburn who went on heralded to Europe last summer, won the title at Stockholm with 30 with a total lift of 1.030¼ pounds and returned practically unnoticed to Canada, except in Vancouver where he was given a civic reception.

SECOND WESTERNER

Hepburn's feat at Stockholm brought his home town its first world title since Percy Williams won the 100 and 200-metre sprints at the 1928 Olympic games. Hepburn also is the second athlete from western Canada to win the Marsh Trophy.

George Genereux of Saskatoon, who won a gold medal in ten-pin bowling at the 1952 Olympics, was awarded the trophy in 1952. The Stringer of Sudbury, Ont.

Other placings behind Hepburn were announced but the list included men and women from many sports including golf, riding, paddling, boxing, football, track and field and squash.

High in the judges' voting—the seven and the points given each speed skater announced—was Marlies Stewart, the Fonthill, Ont., golfer who won the British women's amateur tournament last June at Porthcawl, Wales, the only Canadian to do it in the 50-year history of the tournament. Miss Stewart was voted the outstanding female athlete of 1953 in CP's year-end poll.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings and Maurice (Richard of Montreal Canadiens, high-scoring right-wingers in the National Hockey League, received consideration for the award. Howe scored 30 with a total lift of 1.030¼ pounds and returned practically unnoticed to Canada, except in Vancouver where he was given a civic reception.

Six Members of Family on One Team

ORONO (CP) — A 47-year-old father and his five sons will be the starting line-up for Orono Orphans hockey team when it plays Lakefield tonight in Port Hope.

Father Jib West is proud will have a total of seven family members on hand when he steps on the ice with the team he has helped form. It the team in first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate A Lakeshore League.

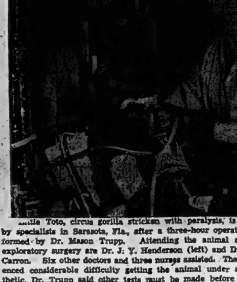
Sons Junior, 24, Dean, 22, Keith, 19,Ray, 20, and Rop, 17, will occupy forward and defence spots. Ab and Ron, mainly because of age are not regular team members but have signed OHA amateur certificates and are listed on the team's roster.

Dean Found, manager of the team from this village of 700, said he has asked OHA officials if they'd ever heard of so many members of one family on one team.

"They said there's nothing in the hockey records like it," Found said.



In an exhibition game in Whitby Monday night, the West and Junior scored to help give the Orphans an 8-7 victory over Markham Millionaires of the OHA Senior B series.

Father Ab used to play centre for Orono team, but he has been relegated to the goal for the Port Hope game. His sons have taken all the other spots.

Junior played the last four years with Peterborough Petes of the OHA Senior B league, but this year decided to return to Orono to play with his brothers.

The Orono team is actually an OHA Intermediate C group. But with few C or D teams in the area, they have been playing in the Lakeshore A group and now lead the five-team league with 29

BRAIN SURGERY ON GORILLA

...mille Toto, circus gorilla stricken with paralysis, is X-rayed by specialists in Sarasota, Fla., after a three-hour operation, performed by Dr. Mason Trupp. Attending the animal after the exploratory surgery are Dr. J. Y. Henderson (left) and Dr. Harold Carron. Six other doctors and three nurses assisted. They experienced considerable difficulty getting the animal under an anaesthetic. Dr. Trupp said other tests must be made before reaching a final decision on the exact nature of the growth in the gorilla's brain, but it showed no ill effects from the operation. (Central Press Canadian.)

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—A maiden visit to a first class dog show such as that of the Westminster Kennel Club, which attended every year at Madison Square Garden for two days of blue-blooded yapping, can be both interesting and rewarding if one keeps his ears and eyes open and doesn't get into any arguments about dogs.

It is quite all right just to see the floor of the garden around the judging rings packed to overflowing from many states, with the overflow extending high into the balconies, and realize that every last one of them is there because he thinks his dog is the man's best friend.

Tightly clutched in most fists is a copy of the official program, which retails at $1.50, without pictures, and most of those sitting or standing six deep around the rings have their copies opened at the right page and spend their time studying the small type with the aid of rapt absorption seen in a race-track special out of Penn Station.

Except for the murmur of voices, it is a quiet gathering. The only sounds, anyone's ever taught to keep their yaps shut when they are being picked over by the judges. Now and then a brief splatter of applause is heard when a blue ribbon is awarded.

PROBLEM OF IDENTITY

To one whose education in canine conformity has been somewhat neglected, the showdown in the ring at a given time look pretty much alike. The judge, though, cannot accept this if he expects to be asked back, and so he spends a lot of time making up his mind. One lady judge still was staring pensively at her group of apparently identical dachshunds when we came back past an hour later.

If you've ever wondered, as we had, how they teach show dogs to stand without their legs stretched out behind them like they were looking for a fight, the answer is that they don't. At least, not the ones we saw.

What happens is that the handler squats beside his animal and keeps tweaking his legs back every few moments as he sees the judge coming. Most of the high-toned dogs did not appear to like this any better than the one in our house does.

If it is possible after only one session to generalize about handlers, we would suggest that anyone thinking of entering his pet in a dog show should get himself in fairly good shape, too. At a certain point the judge is going to ask each dog and master to take a couple of fast turns around the ring, and 20 or 30 pounds of extra suet on the latter can be a handicap.

We saw only lady handlers finish this ordeal in bad shape. While the judge almost certainly is not supposed to take this into account, we could not help noticing that in each case first prize went to a dog whose handler looked as if he could run all day.

Red Runners May Visit US Next Spring

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia is interested in sending a track team to the United States this spring and have U.S. athletes visit the Soviet Union, a government official said yesterday.

Dmitry Pozdnyakov, deputy minister of health and chief of the central board of physical culture, also announced the Soviets would send its champion chess team to New York next June for a match with top U.S. players.

Pozdnyakov added in an interview that the moves are part of a long-panded program of international competition arranged for Soviet teams this year.

No specific track plans were announced. The official said he had asked for a schedule of events and these were being studied.

In New York, Dan Farrell, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, said he had conferred with a representative of the Russian embassy in Washington over the prospects of a Soviet team visit and had received a favorable response.

"It's too late now for our indoor championships but latest word I have from the Russian embassy is that they hope to come here for a series of meets in March."

Farrell said he had no further action.

Sport in Brief

VANCOUVER (CP)—Tackle Annis Welzmeister, who recently left New York Giants of the National Football League to sign with British Columbia Lions, has been named line coach of the Western Interprovincial Union team.

Appointment of the 215-pound tackle from Seattle was announced by coach Annis Stukus who signed Welzmeister to a two-year playing contract last month.

Welzmeister he replaces George Brown, who has been named assistant head coach. Brown will also play guard.

BROOKLYN (AP)—Carl Erskine who set a record of 14 strikeouts against New York Yankees in the 1953 world series, signed his 1954 Brooklyn baseball contract Tuesday.

Salary terms were not disclosed but the 27-year-old righthander is believed to have received a substantial increase over his reported $18,000 salary of last year. The 1954 figure probably is close to $25,000.

Erskine became the 19th Dodger to come to terms, leaving first baseman Gil Hodges as the only Dodger regular not signed.

Residents Reject Beer Licenses In Annexed Area

'Drys' Obtained Over 60 Per Cent on One Question

By an overwhelming vote residents of the area yesterday voiced opposition to the issue of any beer licences in the area.

The vote had been sought by Belleville Properties Ltd., which had purchased the former Hastings County Home from the City of Belleville and converted it into a tourist unit into a modern hotel and motel.

Three questions were before the electorate, on the question of a licence for a men's beverage room, a licence for a women's beverage room and a lounge licence. The vote on the men's beverage room question was: Yes—413; No—679. On the women's beverage room the returns were: Yes—451; No—650. The closest vote was on the lounge licence: Yes—481; No—618.

NEEDED 60 PER CENT

Because the area, annexed by the city in 1952, was originally dry, 60 per cent of the vote cast would be in the affirmative to authorize the issue of the licences. Thus on the men's beverage room question, with 1,079 valid ballots cast, an affirmative vote of 648 would have been required to carry the question. The "wets" thus fell 243 votes short of the number required on this question. On the women's beverage room question, the "wets" were 199 votes short of victory and on the lounge question 176 votes short. The "drys" obtained well over 60 per cent of the vote cast on one of the three questions, the one concerning the men's beverage room licence.

Actually, though, the contest was not a straight "wet" versus "dry" fight. One of the major arguments used by opponents of the issue of licences was that the area concerned is primarily residential in character and that a hotel licensed to sell beer should not be permitted to open in the area.

VOTE VERY HEAVY

The vote was very heavy. Of the 1,355 eligible to vote in the area, 2,101, or 87 per cent, cast valid ballots on the women's beverage room question. On the men's beverage room there were 1,092 valid ballots cast and on the lounge question 1,094 valid ballots. Besides these valid votes, there were also an unusually large number of unmarked or spoiled ballots, perhaps fifty in all. The total number of voters who cast ballots at the polls was thus well over 90 per cent of the total eligible.

The intense interest in the vote which these figures indicate was clearly demonstrated by the flood of telephone calls which were received at the Ontario Intelligencer office during the evening, commencing shortly after the polls closed at 7 p.m. and continuing long after the final returns were received. Within a half hour or so after the first returns were received, the known there was no let-up in the steady stream of telephone calls, the result of the heavy vote, the first returns showing a close contest. In First returns, from the northern part of the district, gave the "wets" a substantial lead, but the larger polls in the central portion of the area easily wiped out this margin when they reported.

NO PATTERN EVIDENT

There was no pattern or reason to some of the returns. The most northerly of the four polls in the area gave the "wets" a 107 to 56 margin on the lounge question in Poll A to N portion of the poll, but the L to Z half of the poll divided the votes exactly evenly, 78 apiece for the "wets" and "drys." Yet on the women's beverage room the same L to Z half of the poll voted "wet", 91 to 63. On the other hand the Bayview poll, which gave the "drys" a 14 vote margin on men's beverage rooms and produced a tie vote on women's beverage rooms, provided a 12-vote "wet" margin for the lounge.

Impressive evidence of the varied feelings of those enquiring about the results, or learning the figures, was provided by their comments, at times involuntary ejaculations, varying from "Oh, Goodie" to "For Gosh Sakes!"

The number of calls received was far in excess of those received at civic elections.

FIGURES BY POLLS

Following will be found the figures for the three questions, Men, Women and Lounge, in each of Bayview area, south of Dundas Street, Poll 5X consisted of the annexed portion of Poll 5 in Samson Ward. Poll 6X was the annexed portion of Poll 6 in Ketcheson Ward. Poll 11X, 11X and 12WE consisted of the annexed portion of Poll 11, Ballenden Ward, the annexed portion of Poll 12, Bleecker Ward and Churchill Heights. There was also an advanced poll.

BRITAIN DEMANDS DAMAGES

LONDON (AP)—Britain Wednesday served another demand on Red China for £20,000 compensation for the machine-gun attack on a Royal Navy motor launch near Hong Kong last September. The government previously had said that a Chinese Communist naval vessel fired on the launch and killed seven of her crew. The Chinese later offered some damage and said the launch was at fault.

Men's 'Pen' Is No Place for Vernon Because He Is Really Violet Marie

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—The case of a woman masquerading as a man exploded in criminal court Wednesday after a judge had sentenced her to Ohio Penitentiary for embezzlement.

Vernon N. Bradshaw, 25, of Norwood, W. Va., was arrested last summer on a charge of embezzling more than $1,500.

Bradshaw was held three days before bail fell and released under $1,500 bond.

Bradshaw was brought to trial Tuesday and sentenced to the penitentiary.

Then Mrs. Violet, a man among the spectators in the courtroom waved frantically.

"Your name is Patrick Bradshaw and I'm the defendant's brother," he said. "You've made a terrible mistake. Vernon is really Violet Marie and she is a woman."

The prisoner was ordered examined. Matron Elsie Taylor and Dr. Ralph Michael confirmed that the prisoner was a woman.

"This is the most amazing case I've ever heard of in my years on the bench," said Judge D. F. Ning." was the reply.

PLOT TO BLOW UP TORONTO BUILDING FOILED BY POLICE

Find Nitro-Glycerine; Four Men are Charged

TORONTO (CP) — Nitro-glycerine, gasoline and dynamite was found in the basement of a rented storey downtown building Wednesday night and four men have been charged with conspiracy to commit arson in what police describe as a plot to blow up the big structure.

There's no doubt they intended to blow up the building," police inspector J. Semple said today.

Two suspects were picked up by police and two by the time police who said they have been patrolling the area for some days after getting anonymous tips that "something was going to happen."

Charged with conspiracy to commit arson, attempt to commit arson and possession of explosives are Harry Chernick, 36, Victor Chernick, 34, and Clifford Chernick, 30, brothers, and George/Davison, 24. All are from Toronto.

Police said the nitro-glycerine held said the explosives were the most dangerous they had seen in any such attempt in the last 35 years.

NAB TWO, THEN GET ANY

At 9 p. m. Wednesday, detectives Alvin Sproule and Norman Topp saw two men "acting suspiciously" in a lane beside the building. Police kept the men under custody and phoned for reinforcements when they found a heavy package among a fourth-floor window.

Police surrounded the building and went to the fourth floor, where they found six cases of nitro-glycerine, four gallons of gasoline and four detonator caps spread over the floor outside of the interior Pant Company.

The two suspects from which the rope was hanging, two men were found and arrested.

Police said they believe the men planned to escape down the rope after setting the fire. They said the fire was to have been set within 15 minutes and say that it would have been fierce enough to threaten a whole block of buildings.

Deported Alien Falls Into Luck, Goes Home Rich

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Michael Konizo, 42, a sailor who decided he would like to live in the United States, has gone back to his native Greece, is going home $18,000 richer than when he jumped ship in Baltimore three years ago.

Konizo came to Pittsburgh secretly — a job as a painter. On the same day a deportation order was issued against him, he fell from a scaffold, suffering serious injuries.

Consequently a damage suit was filed. And Wednesday came the settlement—a total of $18,000. He received $18,000.

Then with the deported as soon as he picks up his cheque.

St. Laurent Sees Time Ripe For Non-Defence Integration

By WILLIAM STEWART

BONN (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent, in the major address of his West German visit, Wednesday night suggested a concept of integration of the Western powers much broader than the North Atlantic Treaty Organization or the European Defence Community.

In a dinner speech; while a guest of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer before nominally the West German cabinet, the Canadian leader put forward the idea of an economic, economic and defence system of countries on a scale to safeguard the "great basin of the Atlantic."

The 25-minute speech at the Palais Schaumburg suggested the European unity may not be the answer to western European problems.

Newspaper men were not present and the text was issued later by the prime minister's staff at Ottawa, where he went to visit the Canadian infantry brigade in Germany.

"Perhaps the time has come now to consider whether some steps towards closer integration in ... should be taken within the larger framework of the North Atlantic community," the speech said.

"I suggest we should perhaps be seeking some new kind of association ... continuing to face you of achieving greater unity in Europe in a wider context and possibly in pursuit of Article Two of the North Atlantic Treaty."

(Article Two provides for cooperation in the economic fields of the member powers of the Atlantic pact).

CLOSE INTERNATIONAL BARRIERS

"It has become increasingly clear, I think, to all members of NATO and of the European countries associated with us throughout the world that our very survival and our continued development in freedom and peace depends upon our ability to go beyond national barriers and to make them somewhat less artificial and more satisfactory."

"We believe the proper solution to the economic, cultural and political betterment of all free peoples is to be found in an even closer integration of their activities and in a greater sharing of their energies.

"More particularly, many of us believe the peoples living about the great basin of the Atlantic ocean might well seek the solution of their problems of economic betterment, political stability and self-help in the closer integration of their national resources and machinery of government."

The speech was not issued to reporters on the special train which took the prime minister's party through the Ruhr to inspect the bridge at Soest, near the Indus Canal city of Dortmund.

"The troops, most of them veterans of Korea, put on a sparkling display to honor their prime minister," the Canadian Artillery fired a 19-gun salute.

RETURNS FOR DINNER

Mr. St. Laurent, at the parade of 1,800 men, the prime minister came back to this capital, where he met Chancellor Konrad Adenauer at a dinner given by Canadian Ambassador and Mrs. Petaza.

On the eve of his visit to the Canadian Army, the prime minister announced that 1,000 men will soon free the last two German war criminals still in Canadian jails of them serving terms for their parts in the shooting of Canadian soldiers during the Second World War.

FAREWELL JAIL

The two, former Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer, and Johann Neitz, now are serving 15-year terms in the Dorchester penitentiary.

They were originally given life terms but their sentences were commuted to 14 years by the Canadian Government. They are due to expire in 1959.

Mr. St. Laurent, speaking about their fate, the prime minister replied: "I understand that very shortly these men will have served their sentences."

OTTAWA (CP)—The army is looking for better, and possibly bigger, tanks than those it completes its conversion to the 33-ton British Centurions.

The estimates for the 1954-55 fiscal years, tabled in the Commons last week, show an appropriation of $29,064,000 for tanks and armoured fighting vehicles. It is $254,000 increase over the amount earmarked for such equipment in the year ending March 31.

The army has a later model of the Centurion—or the monster British Conqueror, a new tank which has passed tests and is about the same size as the Centurion and 70-ton tanks in the Russian army. British tanks are considered the best available.

The Canadian army has been equipped with American Sherman tanks with British Centurions and delivery on orders placed about a year ago are expected to be completed in March or April.

CHINAMEN IN KOREA

The 1st Canadian infantry brigade in Germany is equipped with Centurions. And the infantry brigade in Korea still has Shermans, Lieut.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, chief, Lord Strathcona's Horse of Calgary, now serving in Korea with both brigades—D squadron in Germany and A squadron in Korea. The squadron is to be relieved in March by the royal Canadian Dragoons of Petawawa, Ont.

At home, Canada's two armored regiments, Lord Strathcona's and the Governor General's, are equipped mostly with Shermans, but they also have some 65 Centurions.

Each regiment requires about 85 tanks and extra are needed for training and reserve.

The Centurion, which mounts a 20-pounder and travels 20 to 30 miles an hour on the flat, is heavier than the Sherman, which carries a 17-pounder. The U.S. Army has 500 centurions on order.

Ousted Tenant Faces Murder Charge in Slaying of Landlady

OTTAWA (CP) — Hugh Conrad Hayes, 53-year -old unemployed father of two, was charged Wednesday after a charge of murder in the fatal shooting of his landlady who evicted him last Saturday.

Blond, blue-eyed Hayes showed no emotion while the charge of slaying Grace Currie, 61, was read to him in magistrate's court.

Magistrate Andrew Leslie remanded Hayes, native of Toronto, a week to fix date of a preliminary hearing.

Hayes, who was evicted for non-payment of rent from the two room apartment in which the crown alleges the shooting occurred, was asked to enter a plea.

RESENTED 24 HOUR

Hayes was taken into custody about an hour after Wednesday's mid-afternoon discovery of Mrs. Sandy Hill apartment block owned by Miss Currie. She was not a resident of the block.

An unemployed radio technician, he was arrested at the home of friends. Police found a Luger pistol in the pocket of a coat believed to belong to Hayes. They said the pistol had been fired.

Hayes, who had found lying face upward, her hand outstretched toward the telephone in the vacant apartment she owned. She is believed to have died from a single bullet that pierced her wrist when she apparently raised her arm in an attempt to protect herself and then passed through the lower part of the chest. A bullet was found embedded in the wall just above the body.

MOTHER GRAZED

The slaying was reported by Archibald Grice, tenant of the apartment block, who told police Hayes tried to enter his apartment Wednesday morning. "I won't."

He slammed the door and then there was a shot. The bullet tore through the door and ripped my coat lapel. I got the door shut and left 'ing."

A few moments later, he said, he heard a shot in the next-door apartment and called police. They arrested Hayes at his home.

Hayes' wife later told a reporter he had been employed at a dime store, but was discharged some weeks ago.

"We came to Ottawa about three years ago and have lived in several places and for several years in this area."

CANADA TO GIVE $700,000 BOOST TO U.N. PROGRAM

Aimed at Helping Poorer Countries

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada plans to give the United Nations technical assistance program a $700,000 boost.

External Affairs Minister Pearson announced in the Commons Wednesday that Canada's contribution to the program, which is helping poorer countries to improve their lot, will be increased to $1,500,000 this year from $800,000.

Canada had promised the increase last fall, provided other countries increased their support and a practical, sustained program was assured.

He said it is clear that those conditions have been met. Canada's promise had played a part in bringing that about. More than $2,000,000 had been firmly pledged so far, compared with $22,000,000 contributed last year.

The increase will mean a substantial increase in Canada's contribution for UN technical assistance.

The resolution was supported by all parties and by a debate which took up the full half-day sitting.

Mr. MacDonnell, a non-Conservative observer at the 1949 UN General Assembly, said Canada should support this technical assistance program "to the limit of our ability."

These expenditures should not be considered as a charitable donation, but should be considered as an important part of our defence program."

Technical assistance helped underdeveloped countries through research and education, better farming methods, public health and rural public works.

Security Pact Plan by Molotov Spurned by West

By PRESTON GROVER

BERLIN (AP)—V. M. Molotov's proposed security pact, although opposed by the Western foreign ministers, appears to have considerable popular appeal for the west German people, particularly the French.

French observers say Wednesday's Big Four meeting was called mainly for calling for the neutralization of Germany will mean France's abandonment. Premier Bidault in his fight to get the European Defence Community through has had to fight France's balking parliament.

The foreign ministers Consider's favored aim is to do away with both that treaty, which would arm west German troops with France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg under unified command, add the 14 - country North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The Soviet proposal for a Big Four conference, with Russia, China, and rival Soviet and French proposals for a world collective security conference, were up for renewed discussion today at the second meeting of the foreign ministers' conference here.

South Korea Offers One, Possibly Two Divisions to Indo-China

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Korea has offered to send at least one and possibly two army divisions to Indo-China to help battle Communist-led rebels.

Informed diplomatic officials said today South Korean President Syngman Rhee personally made the offer during a visit to the American Far East commander, who arrived here today for conferences at the Pentagon.

The French embassy said it knows "absolutely nothing about" news about any such offer."

An embassy spokesman indicated France probably would reject any South Korean bid for fear of causing Communist China to intervene openly in the war.

The state department declined to comment, but it is unlikely that top American officials would favor sending South Korean troops into the Indo-China war.

Ont. Plans Early Action on Power Project, Pipeline

Lieut.-Governor Reads Speech from The Throne

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario plans early action to prepare for development of St. Lawrence river power and a natural gas pipeline from Alberta, it was disclosed today in the speech from the throne read to the Ontario legislature by Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt.

The 1,200-word speech, opening a session expected to last several weeks, confirmed statements that government plans the first redistribution of House seats since 1933, when the number was cut from 112 to 90.

It also listed at important plans for agriculture, a new policy on provincially-owned parks and a busy program of legislation on public works, health and welfare.

Seeds of a full-dress debate on the thorny problem of municipal annexation were contained in the speech: "Legislation to cure the Municipal Act will be revised." That part of the act which deals with annexation, subject of hot controversy in many parts of Ontario where growing cities are trying to annex space from adjoining townships.

The impending construction of the St. Lawrence river power project, for which contracts will be signed "as soon as all details have been prepared," the speech said, "The low-cost hydro-electric power which can be developed from this project will greatly augment our power resources and facilitate our economic expansion."

Start This Summer

OTTAWA (CP)—Acting Prime Minister Lapointe told Commons it is "almost certain" the St. Lawrence seaway will be started next summer.

He did not elaborate on the statement, but there is a united delegation asking for federal measures to stem unemployment. He made the remark in connection with a request that federal public works be stepped up.

Seaway legislation now is pending before the United States Congress. Also, opponents of the power project to use the U.S. Supreme Court to reject the proposal. A court decision may be obtained by early summer.

Vietminh Force Two Days' March From Laos' City

By OLEN CLEMENTS

SAIGON, Indo-China (AP)—Ten thousand Vietminh invaders of Laos advanced today to a point on the Hou river only 37 miles northeast of Luangprabang, the royal capital that the French and ailing old king Sisavang Vong have vowed to defend.

A vanguard of 1,500 troops is within nine miles or less of the town, screening the advance of the select regulars of Vietminh division 308, but so far have not opened an attack.

The main force of the division, diverted last week from the siege of Dien Bien Phu for the drive into Laos from north Viet Nam, advanced only 15 miles in the last 24 hours. At that pace, it now is only two days' march from Luangprabang.

The garrison of Luangprabang has been reinforced in the last few days. Military observers speculate that any assault might not begin for at least a week.

FRAIL BUILDINGS

Aside from the palaces of the king and crown prince Savang, the town is a collection of frail wooden buildings and huts on the Mekong river. The Hou, on which the rebel division is massed, flows into the Mekong north of the town. A jungle path leads 135 miles southward to Vientiane, the administrative capital of Laos.

Luangprabang has little strategic value, but the Reds could make much propaganda in southeast Asia if they could take it and capture the king or his son.

In southeast Viet Nam, where French Union troops landed last month to regain a rich strip of coast rice country from the rebels, army headquarters announced that 36,000 inhabitants have returned to their homes.

Residents Reject Beer Licenses In Annexed Area

'Drys' Obtained Over 60 Per Cent on One Question

By an overwhelming vote residents of the area yesterday voiced opposition to the issue of any beer licences in the area.

The vote had been sought by Belleville Council and the council had purchased the former Hastings County Home from the City of Belleville and converted it to convert it into a modern hotel and motel.

Three questions were before the electorate, on the question of a licence for a men's beverage room, a licence for a women's beverage room and a hotel licence. The vote on the men's beverage room question was: Yes—413; No—679. On the women's beverage room was returns were: Yes—451; No—650. The closest vote was on the hotel licences: Yes—481; No—613.

NEEDED 60 PER CENT

Because the area, annexed by the city from Thurlow township, was "dry", 60 per cent of the vote was required. So as to get an affirmative to authorize the issue of licences. That vote on the men's beverage room question, with 1,079 valid ballots cast, an affirmative vote of 658 would have been required to carry the question. The "wets" with only 543 votes short of there required vote on this question. On the women's beverage room question, the "wets" were 216 votes short of victory and on the lounge question 178 votes short. The "drys" almost obtained over 60 per cent of the vote cast on one of the three questions, that concerning the men's beverage room licence.

Actually, though, the contest was not a straight "wet" versus "dry" fight. One of the main issues advanced by opponents of the issue of licences was that the area concerned is primarily residential in character and that a hotel licensed to sell beer should not be permitted to open in the area.

VOTE VERY HEAVY

The vote was very heavy. Of the 1,285 eligible voters in the area, 1,101, or 87 per cent, cast valid ballots on the men's beverage room question. On the women's beverage room there were 1,092 valid ballots cast and on the lounge question 1,094 valid ballots. Besides these valid votes, there were also an unusually large number of unmarked or spoiled ballots, perhaps fifty in all. Those entitled to be voters who went to the polls was thus well over 90 per cent of the total eligible.

The intense interest in the vote which the ballot question was was clearly demonstrated by the flood of telephone calls which were received at the city hall election office during the evening, commencing at 6 o'clock when the polls closed at 7 p.m. and continuing long after the final returns were received. Within a half hour and within a half after final results were known there was a let up in the steady stream of enquiries. As the result of the heavy vote, the first returns came in early in the polls. First returns, from the northern part of the district, at 7:25 p.m. gave a substantial lead, but the larger polls in the central portion of the area easily wiped out the margin when they reported.

NO PATTERN EVIDENT

There was no rhyme or reason to some of the returns. The most northerly of the seven polls in the area gave the "wets" a 107 to 56 margin on the lounge question to the A to Z portion of the poll, but the L to Z half of the poll divided the votes exactly evenly—25 apiece for the "wets" and "drys". Yet

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Cold weather will return to Northern Ontario tonight and Friday as a large mass of Arctic air now over western Alberta and all of western Canada continues its westward and southward sweep. Some cloudiness and a few snowflurries will precede the arrival of this coldair air in southern regions but skies will clear tonight as silow temperatures begin to near the 16 degree mark along the lower lakes. From Georgian Bay northward temperatures are indicated for tonight in the Kapuskasing area. While River area again expected to be the cold spot for Ontario, on the women's beverage room the same L to Z half of the poll voted "wet", 91 to 82. On the other hand the Bayview poll, which gave the "drys" a 14 vote margin on men's beverage rooms and produced a tie vote on women's beverage rooms, provided a 13-vote "wet" margin for the lounge.

Impressive evidence of the varied feelings of those enquiring about the results, on learning the figures, was provided by their comments, oftentimes involuntary ejaculations, varying from "Oh, Goodie" to "For Gosh Sakes!"

The number of calls received was far in excess of those received at city election polls.

FIGURES BY POLLS

Following will be found the figures for the three questions, for each poll. Poll 1WH consisted of Bayview area, south of Dundas Street. BRITAIN DEMANDS DAMAGES

LONDON (AP)—Britain Wednesday served another demand on Red China for £20,000 compensation for the "unprovoked attack" on a Royal Navy motor launch near Hong Kong last January. The government previously charged that a Chinese Communist naval vessel fired on the launch and killed seven of her crew. The Chinese admitted firing on and said the launch was at fault.

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—The case of a woman masquerading as a man exploded in criminal court Wednesday after a judge had sentenced her to Ohio Penitentiary for embezzlement.

Vernon R. Bradshaw, 35, of Kenova, W. Va., was arrested last summer on a charge of embezzling more than $1,500.

Bradshaw was held three days in county jail and released under $1,500 bond.

Bradshaw was brought to trial Wednesday and sentenced to the penitentiary.

At that point, a man among the spectators in the courtroom waved excitedly.

"My name is Patrick Bradshaw and I'm the defendant's brother," he said. "You've made a terrible mistake. Vernon is really Violet Marie and she is a woman."

The prisoner was ordered examined. Alienist Elsie Taylor and Dr. Nicholas A. Michael confirmed that the prisoner was a woman.

"This is the most amazing case I've ever heard of in my years on the bench," said Judge D. F. Ring.

PLOT TO BLOW UP TORONTO BUILDING FOILED BY POLICE

Find Nitro-Glycerine; Four Men are Charged

TORONTO (CP) — Nitro-glycerine, gasoline and dynamite was discovered yesterday in the three storey downtown building Wednesday night and four men have been charged with conspiracy to cause a mit arson in what police describe as a plot to blow up the big structure.

"There's no doubt they intended to blow up the building," police inspector J. Semple said today.

Two suspects were picked up in a lane and in the building by police who said they have been patrolling the area since midnight after getting anonymous tips that "something was going to happen."

Charged with conspiracy to commit arson, attempt to commit arson and possession of explosives are Harry Chernick, 36, Victor Chernick, 28, and Cecil Chernick, 30, all brothers, and George Davidson, 24. All are from Toronto.

District Fire Chief William Reid said the explosives were the most dangerous he had seen in any arson attempt in the last 35 years.

NAB TWO, THEN GET KIT

At 9 p. m. Wednesday, detectives Alex Ross and Frank Dupuis saw two men "acting suspiciously" in a lane beside the building. They took the men into custody and phoned for reinforcements when they found a heavy rope hanging from a fourth-floor window.

Police surrounded the' building and went to the fourth floor, where they found cans containing nitro-glycerine, four gallons of gasoline and other explosives scattered around the premises of Superior Paint Company.

In the washroom from which the rope was hanging, two men were found hiding.

Police said they believe the men planned to escape down the rope after setting fire. They believe the fire was to have been set within 15 minutes, and they said it could have been fierce enough to threaten a whole block of buildings.

Deported Alien Falls Into Luck, Goes Home Rich

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Michael Kontos, 42, a sailor who decided he would like to live in the United States rather than his native Greece, is going home $18,000 richer as the result of a jump he made in Baltimore three years ago.

Kontos came to Pittsburgh, secured a job as a painter. On the same day a deportation order was issued for him, he fell from a scaffold, suffering severe injuries.

Subsequently a damage suit was filed. And Wednesday a jury in Common Pleas Court ruled Kontos will receive $18,000.

He will be deported as soon as he picks up his cheque.

St. Laurent Sees Time Ripe For Non-Defence Integration

By WILLIAM STEWART

BONN (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent, in the major address of his West German visit, Wednesday night suggested a concept of integration of the Western powers broader than the North Atlantic Treaty Organization or the European Defence Community.

In a dinner speech, while a guest of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer before members of the West German cabinet, the Canadian leader put forward the idea of a similar economic and defence system of countries at this time not parties to the present "great basin of the Atlantic."

The 55-minute speech at the Palais Schaumburg asserted that European unity may not be the answer to Western European problems.

Newspaper men were not present then, and the text was issued today by the prime minister's staff at Soest, where he went to visit the Canadian infantry brigade in Germany.

"Perhaps the time has come now to consider whether some steps to the wards closer integration . . . should be taken within the larger framework of the North Atlantic community," the speech said.

It suggests the should approaches to seeking solutions to the problems confining to face you of achieving greater unity in the whole area of context and possibly in pursuit of Article Two of the North Atlantic treaty."

(Article Two provides for economic collaboration between parties of the member powers of the Atlantic pact).

LOOK BEYOND BARRIERS

"It has become increasingly clear that the unity necessary for NATO and to those many countries associated with us throughout the world that our very survival and our continued development in freedom and peace depend upon our ability to look beyond national barriers and to make them somewhat less artificial and more satisfactory."

Lieut.-Governor Reads Speech from The Throne

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario plans early action to prepare for development of St. Lawrence river power and a natural gas pipeline from Alberta, it was disclosed today in the speech from the throne sent to the Ontario Legislature by Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt.

The 1,300-word speech, opening a session expected to last seven weeks, contained no mention that the government plans the first redistribution of House seats since 1933, when membership was cut from 113 to 90.

It also hinted at important plans for agriculture, a new policy on provincially-owned power and a busy program of legislation on public works, health and welfare.

Speeds of a full-dress debate on the thorny problem of municipal annexation were contained in the speech under the sub-heading "Municipal Affairs" but not one of the Municipal Act will be revised. That section of the act deals with annexation, subject of hot controversy in the areas of Ontario were growing cities are trying to annex space from adjoining townships.

The impending construction of the St. Lawrence river power project, the last obstacle to which we are quite sure will shortly be cleared, will require legislation to give effect to the plans being prepared," the speech said. "The necessary bill will be introduced and come before early next week.

FRAIL BUILDINGS

Aside from the palaces of the king and crown prince Savang, the town is a collection of frail wooden buildings and huts on the Mekong river. The Nou, on which the rebel division is massed, flows into the Mekong north of the town. A jungle path leads 135 miles southward to Pakse, the administrative capital of Laos.

Luangprabang has little strategic value, but the Reds could make much propaganda in southeast Asia if it could capture the king and capture the king or his son.

Pakse, in southeast Viet Nam, where French Union troops landed last month in regard to the part of the coastal rice country from the rebels, army headquarters announced that 80,000 inhabitants have returned to their homes.

Three Bandits Stage Daylight Robbery at King

KING CITY, Ont. (CP)—Three bandits, two of them masked and armed, held up the Bank of Montreal, 30 today in a daylight robbery of a Canadian Bank of Commerce branch in the community 15 miles north of Toronto.

Ontario provincial police immediately broadcast a police radio alarm for the trio who fled in a car.

The bandits entered the bank and forced four staff members and two customers to lie on the floor. One then cleaned out the cash in the Branch manager N. H. Bell said the leader of the gunmen ordered three companions to watch the door and the other to get the cash.

Start This Summer

OTTAWA (CP)—Acting Prime Minister Howe announced today is "almost certain" the St. Lawrence seaway will be started next summer.

He did not elaborate on the statement, adding it is a matter for delegation asking for federal measures to assist membgers and. He made the remark in connection with a request that federal public works minister Winters.

Seaway legislation now is pending before the United States Congress. Also, opponents of the power aspect of the development have appealed to and the U.S. Supreme Court to reject the proposal. A court decision may be obtained by early summer.

Vietminh Force Two Days' March From Laos' City

By OLEN CLEMENTS

SAIGON, Indo-China (AP)—Ten thousand Vietminh invaders of Laos advanced today to a point on the Hou river only 37 miles northeast of Luangprabang, the royal capital that the French and ailing old king Sisavang Vong have vowed to defend.

A vanguard of 1,500 troops is within nine miles or less of the town, screening the advance of the rebel columns of Vietminh division 308, but so far have not opened fire on it.

The main force of the division, diverted last week from the siege of Dien Bien Phu for the third into Laos from north Viet Nam, was reported in the last 24 hours. At that pace, it now is only two days' march from Luangprabang.

The garrison of Luangprabang has been reinforced in the last few days. Military observers speculate that a battle might not come before early next week.

Ice Harvest Completed By City Dealers

Cutting of bay ice against next summer's ice box needs has all but been completed by ice dealers in the city, it was reported today.

"It was the clearest ice, that we have seen in many years," a representative of one local ice firm stated today. Laboratory tests returned by the inspector showed this year's cut to be 97 per cent clean.

With the growing popularity of electric refrigerators the volume of ice stored has been reduced sharply during recent years. "We don't store a quarter of the ice we put away a few years ago," stated the dealer.

Normally the thickness of ice on the Bay of Quinte varies greatly from year to year, it was stated. Last year ice stored measured only 10 inches, while old timers recall when cakes have measured as much as 33 inches.

This year's depth or 16 inches was said to be about average and is about the right thickness for making good shaped blocks to fit the average domestic refrigerator.

Absence of any snow this year was due to the fact that there has been little thawing since the snow came. Snow ice is caused by early snow, then thawing and freezing.

"I never saw more perfect ice than this year," one dealer representable said. "The ice is perfectly clear with only about half an inch of snow ice."

Big Black Cat Refuses to Come Down from Tree

Frightened into hasty retreat by a neighborhood dog, a big black cat, whose owner evidently has not been determined, has defied for two days the efforts of the local fire department and a humane society officer to get him down from a big ash tree on Church Street.

The cat was first noticed in the tree on Tuesday morning, but attempts by the humane society officer to get him down resulted only in tabby scrambling to the top of the tree.

Came Wednesday morning the cat was down to the first branch but when firemen arrived to rescue him he quickly did a repeat performance and again scrambled to the top.

This morning he is again resting on the first branch but apparently is afraid to climb down the trunks of the tree.

The big black tabby seems well fed and is apparently some one's pet. Maybe the owner, who ever he or she is, can coax him down.

BOOMING SHIPYARDS

Three Remanded On Two Charges Break and Enter

Three Picton district residents, Rollie Miles, 43, Russell Weldon, 34, and Wilfred Thibeault, 28, were remanded in county magistrate's court here today after appearing on two charges of breaking and entering.

Charges were preferred by provincial police after an attempt was made to open the safe at the Daniel R. Coffey premises at Read early Sunday and theft of acetylene tanks from the Earl Wallbridge garage at Sydenham, north of Kingston.

The three men were charged with breaking, entering and theft at the Wallace garage, and with breaking and entering with intent at the Coffey premises. The trio was arrested early in the week by provincial police officers, Cpl. J. Morden and Constable Tim Travers, following investigation of the local break-in.

Police said acetylene tanks stolen from the Wallace garage had been found abandoned on a toboggan a mile south of Read. Acetylene torches had been used in the attempt on the Coffey safe but the thieves had been broken open, failed in the attempt when oxygen in the tanks got low.

Crown Att. Court Miles and Weldon pleaded guilty to both charges. Thibeault was granted a remand to enable him to secure counsel. He was fined $3,000.

In granting the remand Magistrate T. Y. Wills noted the other two prisoners had taken the opportunity to secure counsel and to reconsider their pleas.

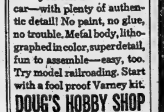
French, English Antagonism Still Exists

KINGTON (CP) — One of Canada's top educational authorities, Dean Stephen Laycock, university education for the province of Quebec, told the staff and cadets of the Royal Military College Wednesday night that the puzzle of French-English-Canadian antagonism is a long way from solution.

"In the words of an English-Canadian historian, the battle of the Plains of Abraham is still being fought," he said.



"Quebec, unlike the other nine provinces," the speaker said, "does not refuse to give up taxation powers in exchange for a per subsidy because of dollars and cents reasons. Its cause is afraid it will compromise the survival of the French element in Canada."

Believe Union Ready to Accept Noranda Offer

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—Officials of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and Noranda Mines met today in a surprise meeting that may set a pattern for settlement of strikes in the area involving over 3000 miners.

A telegram was forwarded to the company Wednesday by Eamon Park, the union's national representative, requesting a meeting today.

It is believed the union will accept the company offer of a 7½ per cent increase.

Over 1,500 employees at Noranda Mines walked out Aug. 22 seeking higher wages, shorter work week, pension and welfare, and union security. They were followed by workers at Waite-Amulet Mines, Quemont Mines, and Normetal Mines, 73 miles north of here.

The company has consistently said a 7½-per-cent increase was as far as it would go. The offer was made last December and was to have been the basis on which the talks reopened.

Union strategy committee talks were held Wednesday night and more union meets are scheduled today and Friday. A union official said that if the terms are accepted they could not be submitted to the membership for approval.

Trinity United Church Choir Holds Banquet

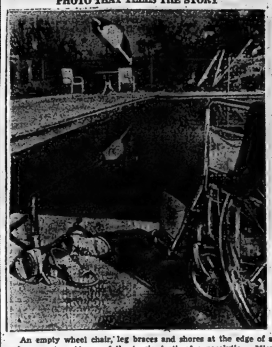
MADOC — The annual banquet of Trinity United Church choir was held in the school room of the church on Friday evening. About 75 guests sat down to a bountiful table of good things with Messrs. W. E. Connor and C. I. Ross providing the turkey for the occasion and Mrs. George White the chocolate milk drink for the junior choir. After all had done justice to the good eats, Rev. J. F. Lane, as chairman, called on a few for speeches. A hearty vote of thanks was given the donors of the turkey with C. I. Ross and Kenneth Connor responding.

The choir leaders, Mr. Ivor Hughes, Mrs. B. McCoy and Mrs. E. Reid, organist, were thanked for their efforts in providing the fine church music. All made fitting replies. The junior choir provided one vocal number during the short program.

Rev. J. F. Lane read a letter from W. E. Connor, who is at present holidaying in Florida. A fine gesture of the choir members was having a large Valentine signed by the guests present and forwarded to Mr. Connor at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Detroit Family Tired Of Living in Hearse

DETROIT (AP) — For three weeks, James Elmer Craft, 46, his wife, Elizabeth, 36, and their six children have been living in a hearse.



Craft reported today the entire family is tired of the hearse and would like to find a house.

The Crafts acquired the old hearse after they were evicted from their farm home in suburban Oakland county. They parked it in front of a friend's home and set up housekeeping.

The friend occasionally allows the family to cook a hot meal and clean up in his home. At other times, Craft and his wife feed their children, aged 1 to 15 years, cold sandwiches and milk.

Craft said he had been laid off from his job as a grinder in September when his employer went out of business. Since then he has supported his family by selling novelties.

UNWARRANTED CONCLUSIONS

"A Statistical Report Relating to Alcoholism and the Use of Alcoholic Beverages in Canada" was released Wednesday by the Alcoholism Research Foundation.

Unfortunately statistics present many pitfalls for the unwary. Trite but true is the saying that figures never do but liars figure. What causes the most damage, however, is not the figuring by the liars but the terrifying fashion of unwarranted conclusions drawn from faulty hypotheses by honest but unqualified commentators.

As an awful example we present a deduction made by a Canadian Press writer when he had the Alcoholism Research Foundation report tossed on his desk. He decided that the report's figures proved that the typical Canadian abstainer is: "A female, 50 years and over, Protestant, having less than high school education and living in a farm community under poor circumstances."

He was justified in this statement by the following statistics: 38 per cent of Canadian women are abstainers compared to 24 per cent of Canadian men—"a female"; 41 per cent of those 50 years and over abstain compared to 38 per cent in the 30-49 year bracket and 25 per cent in the 21-29 group—"50 years and over"; 30 per cent of Protestants abstain and 20 per cent of Roman Catholics —"Protestant"; 35 per cent of those with less than high school education do not drink compared to 27 per cent of those with high school education or better—"having less than high school education"; 32 per cent of the farm community abstain as against 33 per cent in communities under 10,000, 28 per cent in communities from 10,000 to 100,000 and 24 per cent in communities of more than 100,000 people — "living in a farm community"; 34 per cent of the poor are abstainers, 28 per cent of those with average incomes and 26 per cent of the prosperous—"under poor circumstances."

The logic of these deductions, at first glance, appears sound. But there must be a few holes in their logic somewhere. If they are correct, they do not check. Would it be correct to say that the typical Canadian abstainer is a Moslem, because 100 per cent of the Moslems in Canada are abstainers as are 100 per cent of the Protestants and 29 per cent of the Roman Catholics do not drink? The answer is obvious.

This makes us take a second and more wary look at the deductions and we discover that they have been based on five assumptions—that there are the same number of men and women in Canada; the same number over 50 as between the minimum age covered by the report and 50; the same number of Protestants and Roman Catholics; the same number of persons with a high school education as without it; the same number living in a farming community as elsewhere; and the same number of poor people as those who have evaded poverty. . None of these assumptions is justified.

Even if they were justified, the final picture of the typical Canadian abstainer would be misleading. It would have been much more accurate to say that the typical abstainer was two-fifths woman and two-fifths man; 82-135ths over 50 years of age, (making the further unwarranted assumption that those 50 were divided equally between those in the 30-49 bracket and those in the 21-29 age group); 30-59ths Protestant and 29-59ths Roman Catholic; 35 parts out of 62 leading in a high school education; 32 parts out of 62 resident in a farming community, there we have made another assumption that those who do not reside in farming communities are divided equally between communities under 10,000, from 10,000 to 100,000 and over 100,000); and 34 parts out of 60 poor, (again making the additional assumption that those who are not poor are equally divided between the "average" and "prosperous" classes.)

If the confused reader demands to know where all these deductions get us, the answer is nowhere. But the reader should not make the mistake of making another unjustified assumption and concluding that the answer is therefore valueless. On the contrary it is extremely valuable. It proves to us the traps which lie underfoot in statistics.

Very rarely, however, are there such totally unnecessary and inaccurate deductions as those contained in the chart on page 5 of the Alcoholism Research Foundation report. Lines of varying lengths are supposed to give us at a glance a picture of consumption per capita of alcoholic rate of absorption and conviction for drunkenness in Canada during eight different periods. We learn from the figures on this chart that Canadians consumed 1.5 gallons per capita per year during the period from 15 years and over during the period from 1921 to 1925 and 1.46 gallons per capita in 1952. But the line representing .54 gallons is approximately half an inch long, while that representing 1.48 gallons is over 3¼ inches long. In other words, consumption per capita in 1952 was slightly less than three times the 1921-25 average, while the length of the line representing the increased over seven times. Nor was this an oversight in one instance. The line representing .74 gallon consumption in 1926-1929 was an inch and a half long, while that representing 1.37 gallons consumption in 1945-1950 was almost 3½ inches long. Consumption did not double, but the length of the line was doubled and another three quarters of an inch added. Is that presenting an accurate picture? Again the answer is obvious.

So, those responsible for the Alcoholism Research Foundation report are a little annoyed at the unwarranted assumptions of the Canadian Press writer, they had better be humble, remembering that there is more to be said in defense of a fool than can be said by fools. Doubtless the errors in the chart were inadvertent—but it is evident that somebody was careless.

Well, that seems to deal adequately with a dry subject. Who's for a beer?

The brick school at Shannonville, which was built in 1867, was recently destroyed by fire; the walls were left standing. One hundred men from the village and vicinity worked hard to save the building and the suggestion will be made to accommodate the pupils now without a school.

The ground is frozen to a depth of from three to four feet in this city, it has been found by engineers who have had an excavation on an east hill side street where water works employees have been repairing a burst pipe. Under the paved street where the snow has been partially removed it is reported the frost has penetrated to a greater depth.

Miss Shindler, W1111a m Street, north of Victoria Avenue, observed her 90th birthday on February 8th. Her friends will be pleased to extend to her congratulations and good wishes.

Miss Blanche Coulter of this city has entered the Hamilton General Hospital as a nurse-in-training.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Asselstine celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding on February 8th at their home on the concession of Sidney with their wife, a large group of their children and grandchildren present. They were married on February 8th, 1884, in the manse of Bridge Street by Rev. Mr. Craig, who is still quite active at his home in Demorestville. Mr. Asselstine was born in her marriage, was Miss Lydia Emily Wagar, of Sidney township. Many friends were present at the golden wedding and Rev. Mr. Lane of Frankford presented the happy couple with a purse and a handsome floral chain on behalf of the family and friends. Many other presents and messages of congratulation were received by Mr. and Mrs. Asselstine. Twenty-four sat down to the excellent dinner which was served by Miss Vera Tuckaberry and Miss Mildred McColl. The day was also the 70th birthday anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ketcheson's son, Arthur and his wife, and they also received many gifts.

THE PACKSACK

People who won't take no for an answer have been coming in for a little abuse recently at the hands of the temperance people. There is the chorus girl, quoted in newspaper items about it, and I lately heard a temperance advocate on the air warning us innocent souls about these hearty characters, with a fury and fire of gray-prettered in their hands, refusing boisterously to take our no for an answer.

It isn't the jovial, boisterous ones I mind. I can handle them on the spot, gentle, meek and mild ones that won't take no for an answer worry me. I've had quite a few every time.

Perhaps as a rule good people and by good I mean good. It is impossible to imagine a bad person with a glass of gin in their hand. They are often so mild and gentle as to be almost effeminate. Sometimes it's a maiden aunt, or the convener of the entertainments committee of the church social cause; they can be old school chums, or a friend of my professional who wants to sell you two tickets to a concert; they can be perfect strangers, but with so mild and harmless an approach that before you know it, you feel

THIS IS NOT A MEDICAL COLUMN

Through the years I have become hardened, not much bet tolerably, to having the heart of my haracpie cut out for lack of space. History of Coffee

(W. W. Baker in the Kansas City Star)

Coffee—which makes the politician speak
And see through all things with half closed eyes.
Pope.

If you are worried about $1 a pound coffee or the 15c cup, you might find some consolation in the fact that Sir Robert Walpole, a politician paid to see through all things.

Coffee, in the early years of the 18th century, was listed on the market at the British equivalent of $4.86 per pound.

It is further recorded that Pope himself, a confirmed coffee addict, suffered from headaches which were eased only by inhaling the steam of the boiling brew. The cause may well have been economic. But in his day coffee was sent over the counter at a penny a cup; then the zoom to $4.86, and in Pope's declining days, a drop to 22c a pound. The following year, indeed, for the coffee drinking poet trying to figure out his budget.

These ups and downs of coffee —economically and otherwise— form a fascinating chapter in the story of what we eat and drink. The beverage has, at various times, been used as a medication, found itself denounced as an intoxicant, been an important factor in religious ceremonies and saved many a life in the days of the colonies. On top of all this, coffee, not to be outdone by tea, had its own party at Boston.

It all started, according to legend, because of a herd of Ethiopian goats. These animals had become quite a problem to their herdsman, who lived back in the hills of Kaffa, a province of Abyssinia. They became unusually frolicsome, frisky in a manner indescribable and were bewitched. Professional advice was sought from the abbot of a nearby monastery and he decided to observe the habits of the goats.

He noted that the goats were particularly playful after feeding on the berries of a certain shrub. The abbot, curious if not scientific, tried one of the berries; pleasant to the taste, all right, and left a somewhat unabbot-like feeling of exhilaration. Too good, apparently, for goats.

The abbot told some of the berries to his monastery, ground them into a paste which his fellow monks enjoyed tremendously. The staywake qualities were noted, handy for those all-night religious services. Later it was discovered that a brew made by boiling the berries was also a tonic.

The legend has, however, little foundation in fact. The first known written reference to coffee was by Rhazes, a Persian physician, when an Arabian physician Rhazes, a Persian physician, when an Arabian physician Rhasis prescribed kishr (coffee) is hot and dry and very good for the stomach.

The early doctors were unwilling to release the beverage from their monopoly, and prescribed it for anything, it was listed as a cure for: Rheumatism, pneumonia, measles, bronchial troubles, smallpox, plmples and stomach disorders. On the other hand it was described that "it wall occasionelk waking" and when taken in excess, it was supposed to cause leprosy.

By the 15th century the Arabs and Egyptians had adopted the coffee habit, no longer considering it a mere medicinal and therapeutic tonic. But that feeling of exhilaration still remained. Coffee took the name kohwah, the same word applied to wine. The idea began to congregate in the coffee cavern, the first coffee houses—playing dives, where people went to drink and carouse.

Taking a tip from the Ethiopian monastery, Moslem dervishes adopted the beverage to keep them awake during their religious services. Soon the coffee was distributed to pilgrims on their journeys to the countless numbers. I once read that it was written that the Koran was received from a deep depression. After writing it he set it aside, and refused to have it published, but when it was, it swept the country, was translated into many languages. Many a great leader today can trace success to it, by memorizing it in his youth.

Coffee was at times have experienced a depression of spirit. Longfellow's poem has it that "Coffee and tea" and "learn to labor and to wait." We may know that "growing coffee" is a word to when we feel low and discouraged. With faith and courage we can be assured that better days are ahead.

Letter to the Editor

Seeks Information About Pottery Here

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

During recent years I have been slightly interested in information on the early potteries of Canada, in the hope that eventually it will be able to write a short history on the subject. Unfortunately, but few of these are still in existence, and although we had a flourishing pottery industry in this country in the 19th century, its story is all but forgotten.

I write to you in the hope that you will publish this letter in the hope that I can learn of at least one pottery works operated in Belleville in the latter half of the 19th century. And I hope that my appeal will reach people in the Belleville area who still remember something about that industry. Having lived in Belleville, I believe, was the name of the firm, and I would be grateful to be told to learn anything at all about this firm. I hope to learn when this firm started, its location, its size, the kind of pottery it produced, and as I feel there may be business records still in existence and these, of course, would be available in the research.

Any bit of information is too insignificant; I hope that any who have any recollection at all of this business in the district will get in touch with me. I assure you, any help that will be greatly appreciated.

Many thanks to you,
Phil Shackleton,

Nehru Tries Dress Reform

(Manchester Guardian).

Bernard Shaw said evening dress was the most comfortable wear because in it all men looked alike. Mr. Nehru is tackling the problem of doing away with signs of caste, class, or authority in dress, but from the opposite end.

When he advises Indian civil servants and others alike he recommends the Gandhian virtues of homespun stuffs and the sobriety of white, but when educated India has worked out for itself — trousers, but without tie and collar.

His suggestion stirs up once again the long contention between the good form and the good life: the evil there is in uniformity. In India it is a land for people to put on the outside to feel enthusiastic about the dress which Mr. Nehru would make subordinates wear as it is easy for them to admire the dress of superiors.

If the grosser law of nature is brilliantly true in the tangle and obtrusiveness in the female then India has risen well above it. Nor has it ever well placed to defend either beauty or individualism in Government offices.

The real upholders of distinction, of course, are the women. Mr. Nehru shows that he knows better than to meddle with them. Let him, however, get great men to comment on small matters of personal taste. That is what is needed Mr. Nehru to tell us that the sari is not the most convenient dress for women in the Indian plan goats. These animals had become quite a problem to their herdsman, who lived back in the hills of Kaffa, a province of Abyssinia. They became unusually frolicsome, frisky in a manner indescribable and were bewitched. Coffee was at times have experienced a depression of spirit. Longfellow's poem has it that "Coffee and tea" and "learn to labor and to wait." We may know that "growing coffee" is a word to when we feel low and discouraged. With faith and courage we can be assured that better days are ahead.

FEAR

"Still recently, a certain four-year-old boy was terrified of dogs. This appeared in the small puppy, wagging its tail, would send him scurrying to safety. Then his attention was drawn to a large one. Now the' boy stands his ground arms about his friend, who weighs almost twice as much as he does, or lies buried in the dog's shaggy coat.

Familiarity breeds confidence even more than contempt. Our most keenly dreaded fears prove to be nothing at all when at last we actually meet them.

Yet how many thousands of people carry the burden of fear in their daily lives! Men and women everywhere rob themselves of peace, comfort, and even health by the continued dread of what will perhaps never happen. Failure, poverty, disease are only a few of the specters which haunt men's minds. Sometimes they fix their causes them far more suffering than the thing they would ever have.

A woman was recently hospitalized for a curable illness, now several times more serious, because she'd it so long. Why? She was afraid, she told the physicians. And so for more than six years she had suffered needlessly. Then, finally, she gave in, that her fears had been groundless.

Don't be afraid.

TODAY'S TALK

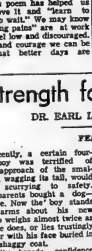
RISE ABOVE IT!

One of the most inspiring of American poems is that one by Longfellow—"The Village Blacksmith"—it gives a spiritual lift to millions, and it has been memorized by countless numbers. I once read that it was written when the poet was recovering from a deep depression. After writing it he set it aside, and refused to have it published, but when it was, it swept the country, was translated into many languages. Many a great leader today can trace success to it, by memorizing it in his youth.



Coffee was at times have experienced a depression of spirit. Longfellow's poem has it that "Coffee and tea" and "learn to labor and to wait." We may know that "growing coffee" is a word to when we feel low and discouraged. With faith and courage we can be assured that better days are ahead.

It was while John Howard Payne was in the Fleet Prison, Paris, and homesick, that he was inspired to write one of the most beloved songs in the world—"Home, Sweet Home." Great crowds have been brought to tears by the song singing by great artists. There's a line in the Bible that has always inspired me—"Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning."

The time of all times NOT to give up is when you are despondent and discouraged. Rise Above It! It was during such a time that Martin Luther wrote his immortal "invincible," in which he said that the Devil, the prince of his word, He was in a hospital at the time and was threatened with death but of course, the Devil triumphed—and so can we! No matter what the circumstances, we can Rise Above It and be, with Henley, the Master of our fate.

Black Market In Invitations To Royal Ball

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — The city council today launched an investigation into a black market in invitations to a royal ball which allegedly have been changing hands at up to £50 each.

City clerk Harold S. Wootton appealed to anyone offered black market invitations to come forward; he promised that they will be recommended for an official invitation to the forthcoming ball, to be held when the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh visit Melbourne, if they help track down black marketers.

The Melbourne Sun said today that up to £100 had been paid for double tickets issued to members of the exclusive Victoria Racing Club for a meeting Feb. 27 which will be attended by the Queen.

WELLINGTON

Skating Carnival At Arena Most Successful

WELLINGTON — The carnival held in the Wellington arena on Saturday night was a great success, with many skaters and many patrons attending. Both old and young were in costume, many of which afforded much amusement.

Mr. Ron Sine and Mr. Potts, of Picton, acted as judges, which was no easy task, but was well done, considering the great variety to judge.

Those winning prizes were: Miss Marion Dales for the best dressed lady; Lois Thompson for the best dressed man; for comic man, Gerald Stoneburgh; best dressed girl, 12-16 years, Miss Carol Miller. Frank Palmer for the best dressed boy, 12-16 years. The best comic costume, Miss Colleen Yandt.

DIFFICULT TO JUDGE

Class 12 years and under was difficult to judge as these were many in number, with different costumes. The winners of the best dressed girls were: Lynda Lever, Lynda Dales, Gerry Channel (as a girl); Nancy Lane and Joan Harrington. Best dressed boys: Kennis Harrington, Bobby Palmer, Wayne Harvey and Tommy Lavender.

Comic costume: Brenda Burley, Lynda Thompson, Doug McCoy, Benny Boyle and Sandra Miller.

After the prizes were awarded, skating was resumed for an hour or two.

The door prizes went to Miss Anne Dorland, Miss Dorothy Denard and Mrs. Pyne, bringing another annual event to a successful conclusion.

Queen and Duke Back in Sydney To Continue Tour

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)— Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh returned today to Sydney on the royal train from Wollongong after a pleasant, comparatively calm day — one of the quietest of their Australian tour.

Although 130,000 people turned up to cheer her at Wollongong, third largest town in New South Wales, the crowds were kept under control. The Queen was in a happy mood and laughed outright several times during a civic luncheon, at which there were no speeches.

QUEEN EATS HEARTILY

The Queen tucked into the four-course lunch, belying reports that her health has been affected by the heat and crowds.

(In Melbourne, Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said last night in his weekly "fireside" broadcast that reports about the Queen being exhausted were more sensational than true.

(It is worth while remembering that the Queen and her husband are young, vigorous and natural, he said. But it was inevitable there would be a "few grumbles" during the tour.)

JAPAN CHINESE PRO-RED

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's 40,000 Chinese residents have organized a council pledging allegiance to Red China, a Tokyo police department source said Wednesday. At the same time the Chinese decided to send a delegate to Peiping, the source said.

Mechanic Fired For Refusing To Pay Union Dues

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— Ernest Stewart, 62, of nearby Stamford, due to retire in June, 1955, from the Ontario hydro-electric power commission has been fired because he refused to pay $1.05 monthly dues to the HEPC Employees Association.

The association and company signed an agreement in 1953 under which all employees covered by the agreement would pay dues to the association. Mr. Stewart refused.

"I felt it was not necessary," he said, "I worked for 38 years without paying for my job. I have nothing against organized labor but in this case I couldn't see joining."

CLASSIFICATION DISPUTED

Mr. Stewart said he was classed as a B electrician until 1945 when jobs were reclassified and he was grouped as a C mechanic. He said the association failed in a number of attempts to have him boosted to his former classification.

"My shop stewards said I was able to do the higher class of work" he said, "but Mr. Robertson (A. S. Robertson, manager of the Niagara area) refused to allow it and when any mention of my case was brought up it was closed out quick."

He said the fact he was unable to read or write was one of the reasons given that he could not be placed in the higher category. Mr. Stewart said his brother, also unable to read or write, recently retired as a class A rigger.

FIRED ON FEB. 1

On Jan. 22, Mr. Stewart received notification he was fired as of Feb. 1. He was given a separation allowance of $300.74, vacation pay of $206.21, and a refund of pension payments and interest totalling $1,951.38.

George Cassels, chairman of the Niagara region employees' association, said the union had pressed for Mr. Stewart's discharge. He said shop stewards and other members had urged Stewart to reconsider his stand.

MOSQUITOS

ARE PESKY THINGS...

DO YOU REMEMBER LAST SUMMER? MOSQUITOS BOTHERED YOU FISHING, SWIMMING, WATCHING A BALL GAME OR JUST SITTING IN YOUR YARD.

I have been assured by a competent entomologist that an expenditure of $1,500. would effectively control and largely eliminate these pests in Belleville.

At a recent budget committee meeting of city council, I moved that this sum be inserted in the public works budget for 1954, and received practically no support.

An expenditure of $1,500. would mean approximately one-twelfth of a mill, or a total cost of 25 cents per year to an average taxpayer.

WOULD YOU FAVOR INCREASING YOUR TAXES FOR THIS PURPOSE TO THE EXTENT OF 25 CENTS PER YEAR (AVERAGE TAXPAYER)

If so, clip out the following coupon and bring it to me at 193 Front St., or mail it to the address on the coupon before next Council meeting on Monday, February 15th, when a decision will be reached.

Quinte Skating-Tennis Club L.A. Sponsors Charming Valentine Tea

A charming St. Valentine afternoon tea and sale of homecooking was held yesterday afternoon at the Masonic Temple, Foster Avenue, under the sponsorship of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club Ladies' Auxiliary.

The various booths were adorned with regulation Valentine emblems accented by graceful loops of Valentine red, caught up at intervals with red hearts, and bearing outlined in lacey paper edgings, while in other instances, little red Cupids added to the general attractiveness.

Those receiving the guests were Mrs. J. Davis, president or the auxiliary, assisted by Mrs. R. B. Smith.

DAINTY TEA TABLE

The tea table, which occupied a prominent place in the large quadrangle made by lines of grey chairs around the two sides, where those seeked out their purchasing, while awaiting their turn at the little-guest tables, was dainty appointed with white damask around whose valance red garlands wound their lacy way, caught up at the corners and centres with tiny red cupids on lacey backgrounds. A crystal bowl of red carnations, red tulips, intermingled with white hyacinth bells, downy catkin sprays, and red sprays of B.C. blueberry, formed the centrepiece. Flanking this delightful arrangement were the tri-tiered silver candelabra with tall, red candles rising from lacey cuffs of white and from nearby a little bronze Cupid holding in his hands a tiny, forked branch of pussy willows, adorned with a little spray of fragrant white hyacinth bells, adding the needed piquant touch.

PRESIDING

Those presiding at the silver services were—Mrs. Rickman and Mrs. Jack Dickens, Mrs. Sherry and Mrs. VanTassel; while those who served included—Mesdames O'Connor, O. Hales, Stephenson, Dupuis, Amos, Robb, Marshall, Burr, Slade, Countryman, Sheffield, Casey, McKinney.

Replenishing plates: Mesdames Harold Mott, Bertrand, Lewis, Llunacott, in charge of the attractive relish plates were—Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. McCutcheon. Replenishing and making tea, Mrs. Cathers and Mrs. Kelly; Mrs. Fairbrown and Mrs. J. Williams.

The tea room hostesses were—Mrs. Everett Fairman and Mrs. Dulmage.

Presiding at the little table where draws were held on a bond were Mrs. Anton assisted by Mrs. Van Tassel and Mrs. Weese. Taking the tea tickets at the door, Mrs. Whitfield and Mrs. Wilkes.

ATTRACTIVE GROCERY HAMPERS

Another drawing attraction was the little table with its attractively decorated half hampers, each one filled to overflowing with flour, angel cake, canned fruit, fruit juices, preserves, kitchen cup and other needs for the home. These were in charge of Mrs. Wrenshall and Mrs. Whitfield, and would go to the holders of the lucky tickets.

Besides these two tables, there were attractions which drew the attention of the shoppers. One was the novelty table with its Valentine adornments of red loops and large, lace-edged hearts in charge of Mrs. Edgar Bateman and Mrs. R. Murphy, assisted by Mesdames Walters, Latimer, Burroughs, Drysdale, G. Robertson, Carruthers, William and Jack Brown.

Here were books including "Forever Amber," comb and saucer in blue with white narcissus flower, costume jewelry of paste ornaments, necklaces in pearl and silver, the latter in two designs, pretty rhinestone earrings with amethyst centres; crystal and candle holders, salt and pepper sets, floral framed pictures, dusting powder and puff, cosmetic and sprays, plastic blue apron and one green frilled apron, pencil holders, tiny vases, blue velvet purse, silver Gibson Girl stickpin in shamrock design, purse glove holder, sugar and cream in green glass, Sheaffer pen and pencil, bracelets, comb, silver candle holders and lovebird coat pin.

APPETIZING CONFECTIONS

For the homecooking table, which was covered by Mrs. T. Lewis and Mrs. P. Jeffrey, assisted by Mesdames Wilson, Davies, Slavin, J. Lewis, Yealland, Ryan, Gaudaur, Moult, Dyble and Miss Lillian Sprackett, was an array of most appetizing confections, consisting of mouth-watering cream puffs, banana cake, Chinese cherry, apple, lemon, pumpkin and graham wafer pies, lemon cup cakes, cocoanut topped cakes, delicious angel cakes and sponge cakes, rich looking chocolate cakes, pickled cherries, ripe cucumber pickle, sweet cucumber pickles, pickled beets, beet relish, strawberry jam, and taffy taste, and many others, all of which found eager and ready buyers, for soon the table was bare but many kitchen cupboards boasted a fullness.

Those winning the lucky ticket draws were—Mrs. Bond, Mrs. T. C. Lewis; the grocery half hampers, Mrs. A. B. Bell; Mrs. F. J. Fisher; flower centre, Mrs. A. G. Marshall, all of Belleville.

Tea ticket sales arranged by tea nicely conveyed by the social committee of the Skating Club, including much credit to each and all who assisted in bringing it to a successful conclusion.

TREATMENT OF OILY SKIN

Cleanser is easy to use

Cosmetics are useless if one does not follow health and dietary rules.

Shining noses are pet peeves, especially among the younger set. To combat the "fattened" look, teenagers try out all kinds of cosmetics, often the wrong ones, and their beauty progress is discouraging. But they need not be despondent.

Let them pat aside the fragrant creams until the skin has become properly conditioned. A thin oily cleanser can be used if the epidermal surface becomes crapped 'or' rough, but heavy creams that penetrate the fresh are no help when the pores are already laden with exudations from the sebacious glands. Foundation creams are also taboo; they are not suitable for fresh, young skins, anyway.

Soap is the best weapon against salad, an oily complexion, but, just swishing a soaped wash cloth over the face is not enough; there should be a rich lather and it should be worked into the flesh with the fingers. Because an oily skin is subject to blackheads and blackheads often develop into pimples, the slightly face-scrubbing is essential. One may prefer the complexion brush to friction with the fingers. If so, the brush should have fine, soft enough to be non-irritating. But remember, they will not mat down when moistened.

Rinse the suds away with tepid water. Extremely hot water should be avoided as it is relaxing to the skin texture. After a gentle drying with a soft towel, dab—one teaspoonful of powdered boric acid dissolved in a cup of water. Slap it on with a pledget of cotton; let it dry.

Oily skin is frequently caused by a diet that includes too much fat. Put less butter on bread, use milk instead of cream in coffee, avoid fat meats and rich sauces. Be wary of fatty foods, especially fruit juices. Have several vegetables each day and one green salad.

B.P. Women's Club Attends 'International Night', at Napanee

Members of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Belleville motored to Napanee last evening to attend "International Night." The Napanee club was host to some 150 members and guests from Trenton, Belleville, Kingston, Picton and Tweed.

Herr. R. M. Lavery, professor of Queen's University, the guest speaker, delivered a brilliant address on "United Nations."

Fashion Flashes

Almost a uniform, but tremendously smart, is the costume favored by many visitors to Palm Beach. The dress is simply styled of thin silk print built over a foundation to shape it, while the coat is a long, loose-hanging design in pale-toned luxury wool fleece with deeply cuffed elbow sleeves.

Looking ahead, it's going to be a colorful beach season if the new collections go well. A delightful combination is that of black cotton camisole top and wallpaper print shorts cut like bloomers. A matching shirt, lined with the black cotton, is buttoned on and also double nicely as a cape.

The demand for the separate skirt continues unabated, and to meet this the stores are now stocking early Spring skirts in pastel-toned wool. Beautiful in pastel blue, lilac, pink and pale silver gray is a slim wool skirt with double-flapped front pockets—one flap large, the other tiny. Three buttons, closing in back, with double kick pleat in back for ease in motion.

Cited for early Spring wear, and for wear when the Winter weather is fickle, is the new shantung silk jacket. Worn over a slim dress, suit or dress, it is super as smart. A favorite longer length, 36 inches, is used for a bloused back, single jacket with black suede showing through the deep cuffs. Buds in each armhole complete the charming ensemble.

Hat Styles Are Small, Cheeky, Festooned, Tipped Over Eyebrows

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The hat styles chosen by London's "top 12" designers for wear with the latest spring fashions are small, cheeky, festooned, feathered and tipped over the eyebrows.

There are tiny shells of feathers perched half-way down the forehead, upturned roses and waterlilies with stalks spiking from the centre and scallops of feathers garlanded with floral twists.

With slick tailored suits conventional enough for any occasion you can wear a tiny cap of geranium petals pointing over the forehead like an elongated widow's peak. Or, if taste runs to bigger hats, there are shallow-crowned spotted linens and light - weight patent straws with brims that touch the shoulders.

KEEP EYES OPEN

Fashion-conscious working girls who can't afford a custom suit or top-price hat are quick to note which shape or bonnet is worn with what new neck or shoulder line. Before Easter it will be possible to buy something similar at down-to-earth prices.

Two hats chosen by Scots-born Ronald Paterson, husband of Toronto's Stevie Stevenson, show the ultra-feminine hat styles worn with the latest dark town suits.

One is a small charcoal suit sporting one of the newest necklines. Paterson chose a shallow crowned charcoal grey straw hat with downward-curving brim encircled by a long fringe of matching osprey plumes. When the mannequin tried on the fringe covered her eyes like a veil.

ROYAL FASHIONS

Those wondering what the Queen will wear when she returns to Britain for warm weather social events might look at the hats worn with royal designer Norman Hartnell's spring and summer fashions. These were made by Claude St. Cyr, one of the designers chosen to make hats for the Queen's tour.

For spring, Miss St. Cyr designed tiny straw cups trimmed with leaves and flower petals and every sort of feather. An aquamarine toque with blue-black veil curved over the hairline in leaves of silk jersey.

A trim town suit with cut-away neckline was worn with a curving half-hat of "out-of-the-valley" flowers. Its side curve broken by a round hole that seemed to have as little purpose as the hole in a Henry Moore statue.

Another hat in the same show was a circular toque-bonnet of shining green straw decorated with a single, long-stemmed rose. The rose framed the face, around at least four inches from the face.

Bell-shaped short jackets were coupled with cooler hats, for fitted with three tiny sailors, bowlers, pancakes of flowers and feathers and pillboxes with devils' horns. A wild riot of colored hats was chosen to brighten the caramel to dusky beiges that replace last year's greys.

PLANS FOR A BUFFET PARTY AFTER EARLY MASS

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

1. Our son is making his First Holy Communion at the 8 o'clock Mass about two months from now. We are allowed only a few tickets for the Mass. We would like to have a kind of Open House at home after the Mass. I would like to have it from about 11 o'clock till 2. This seems a suitable time for the people I'd like to invite because they all have early breakfasts, and quite a few have children who will have to be taken home for their naps in the afternoon. If I have it all day some may come after the children's naps, and the day will start to early for us that I would rather specify a definite time. Do you approve?

2. The guests are all nearly sisters of good, plain foods. I have plenty of space in my dining-room for a large buffet table. I was thinking of having: sliced baked ham; either pre-cooked boned turkey or barbecued beef, kept warm in the electric roaster; lettuce salad (most of them don't care for jellied salads), relishes, such as pickles, olives, and so forth; several kinds of jams and jellies; cheese; raisin and other breads; a decorated sheet cake, and Belgian pastries. Please tell me what you think of this food plan. And please suggest something to go with the meat if they don't like the breads? I'd like to have potato salad, but it can't be made ahead of time very well, and I don't as good when it is left out for a considerable time. Do you think hot baked beans would be all right? Please make any suggestions or corrections.

3. And how about the invitations? Should they be hand-written on note-paper? How worded?

C.E.

1. A wonderful plan, this midday buffet party, and your spirit of hospitality is most thoughtful and generous. I agree with you that it is most important to name definite hours, both for the beginning and ending of the buffet party. "Please come at 11 o'clock, and the party will be until 2 o'clock."

2. Yours is a most generous menu for even the most hearty of eaters! Suggestions: (1) You might like to serve in cups, a simple hot soup (such as tomato) or broth, as a first course, and then not so many items in the main course. (2) A perfect festive-piping hot baked beans, always popular. Or baked macaroni with cheese. (3) Perhaps cole slaw, in place of the lettuce and the potato salad. A delicious companion - taste with baked beans and the cold meats. (4) If the turkey or barbecued beef needs too much planning, perhaps a casserole will please. It can be prepared ahead of time (e.g. special buffet favorite is chicken casserole, with peas, potatoes, and mushrooms. (5) How about serving only one kind of bread, and a generous supply of small rolls or biscuits, hot or heated, split and buttered? (6) A supply of hot coffee (perhaps tea, too), and milk for the children.

3. It would be entirely proper, and the easiest way I should think, to telephone your invitations. Then you can explain those definite hours, and you can know at once who can accept your invitation. Or you may write notes to all, or notes only to those whom you can't reach by telephone in this way:

Dear Sallie,

Our James is making his First Holy Communion at the 8 o'clock Mass (give date, etc.). After the Mass we are giving a Buffet Luncheon here at our house. We hope you and Bill and Marie and Tommy will come to at 11 o'clock . . . the party will be over at 2 o'clock. So tell us you'll all be with us!

Dearest love to all there, from all here.

Devotedly,

Won't You Be My Valentine?

By Mary Moore

An innocuous little game you might suggest to your young people to play at their Valentine Party is called Matched Hearts, unless they consider themselves too advanced for such innocent fun.

MATCHED HEARTS

Take all the hearts out of two packs of cards, or if you have four packs all the better. Lay the hearts face downward on the table in no order, but not overlapping. Each player turns up a card and lays it on its back just where he found it. Suppose Ii is a Jack. Leaving it there the player turns up another card which he hopes is another Jack. If it is he picks up the two cards, scores one point and has another try. If the second card turned up is not a Jack, he must turn both cards downward again and the next person on his left takes a turn. Concentration is an asset in this game for the player with a good memory for the places and numbers of cards after other players have failed to score, of course, soon gains a few points.

After you have played their games you know very well you have to feed them. A white and pink marble cake with cherry-decorated topping might make a hit. What do I mean "might!"

VALENTINE MARBLE CAKE

The basic batter is white and calls for 4 egg whites.

Cream together until very light 2-3 cup soft shortening (or 1-2 shortening and half butter) and 1 3-4 cup sugar. Sift flour (preferably cake flour) and measure 2 cups and sift with 2 1-2 teaspoons baking powder and 3-4 teaspoon salt. Sift this about 1-3 at a time, over the butter-sugar mixture and stir in alternately with 1-2 cup skim milk (or half whole milk and half water) and 2 teaspoons vanilla, until all of the flour mixture and liquid are used up. Stiffly beat 4 egg whites (1-2 cup) and fold them in. Pour 2-3 of this batter into generously buttered and lightly floured large square cake pan. To the remaining 1-3 of the batter add red vegetable coloring until it is a good strong pink. Pour this part of the batter here and there over the white batter in pan. Cut carefully through batter with knife several times for marbled effect, but do not scrape bottom of pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 40 to 45 minutes.

VALENTINE TOPPING NO. 1

(Fluffy White Frosting is the basis of this.)

Mix together in a saucepan 1 cup sugar, 1-3 cup water, 1-2 teaspoon cream of tartar. Boil slowly without stirring until syrup will spin a thread (242 deg. F. on candy thermometer). Saucepan should be covered during first three minutes to prevent sugar crystals forming. While syrup is cooking beat until very stiff 2 egg whites. When syrup spins a thread pour it very slowly in thin stream into stiffly beaten whites, beating constantly. Add 1 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Beat until frosting will hold its shape. Add red vegetable coloring to tint it a delicate pink.

Spread on cold cake, making little mounds like nests around edge. Into centre of each mound drop a whole maraschino cherry, which has been well-drained.

VALENTINE TOPPING NO. 2

Make above Fluffy White Frosting and leave it white. To it add 1 cup moist shredded coconut and 8 drained maraschino cherries chopped finely. Spread on cake. Make a border at the outside edge of red cinnamon hearts, touching, or thinly sliced red gum drops.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

POPULARITY DOESN'T DEPEND ON GOOD LOOKS

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Although I am 18 years old, I never have dates like other girls my age. I have parties at my home, and my clothes aren't bad, and I don't have bad manners, but I am not pretty. Do you think that could be the reason?

I have seen girls who aren't pretty and who still have dates, though, so why can't I?

Ann

Whether or not a girl is popular and has dates doesn't depend on how pretty she is. Of course it's true that boys are naturally attracted quickly to the girl who is unusually pretty and makes the most of it by wearing clothes that suit her type and keeping herself beautifully groomed at all times. However, good looks aren't enough if the girl's personality and disposition don't live up to them, and in the long run it's the girl who is always friendly, considerate of others, a good sport and has a happy disposition and wins out, and these are things that any girl can be.

So don't waste any time worrying about being pretty. So far as looks go, you can always keep yourself well-groomed, wear your hair becomingly and do your best to choose clothes that play up your best points. But do concentrate on those qualities I have mentioned, and I'm sure you'll find that, as they develop in you, you'll have more and more friends of both sexes.

If you would like to have my special suggestions on how to be popular, and a list of books that tell even more about this fascinating subject, send me a stamped self-addressed envelope and I'll send them along to you right away.

Romance her with one of our Little Furs! She'd love a glamorous cape, stole, jacket or scarf. Even limited budgets can afford a rich looking Little Fur from this special selection! Come in and see these exciting new Little Furs now.

Expect Opposition Attack On Department of Highways

TORONTO (CP) — Talk of an opposition broadside against the highways department swept the corridors at Queen's Park prior to the opening of the 1954 Ontario legislature today.

Meanwhile, it was hinted a snap election may be called following this session. However, a government source, commenting on speculation that opposition attacks on alleged irregularities in the highways department might force an election, said the government has never contemplated an election in the near future.

The Progressive Conservative administration of Premier Frost, re-elected in 1951, holds 80 seats in the 90-seat house.

The speech from the throne will be read at the opening session by Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt.

General debate will not be opened until Monday or Tuesday when Arthur Jolley, government member for Niagara Falls moves the reply to the throne speech. His motion will be seconded by William G. Noden, Progressive Conservative member for Rainy River.

Farquhar Oliver, house leader of the Liberal party which holds six seats in the chamber, said in a pre-session interview the opposition "will certainly draw out the facts" surrounding irregularities in the highway department at Fort William.

Sources believe the premier will use this issue to seek a renewed vote of confidence gained in the 1951 general election.

With the Liberal opposition is one Liberal-Labor member, two CCF and one Communist Labor-Progressive.

A heavy schedule awaits the legislature. In addition to government measures to be introduced, 39 private bills are to be presented. Reports from at least five committees, including Indian affairs and reforms, are to be tabled.

A record 17 committees are to be set up immediately, the education committee meeting first next Monday.

The budget is expected to be brought down in March by Mr. Frost who is also provincial treasurer. The annual report on Ontario's financial affairs is in its final form.

Board Hearing Is Postponed

MONTREAL (CP)—A conciliation board hearing into a dispute involving the two major railways and 150,000 non-operating employees has been adjourned until March 1.

No explanation was given for the adjournment Wednesday but it was believed the board wishes to study proposals made by both sides.

The 17 unions representing the men are asking for fringe benefits including double pay for statutory holidays and revision of clauses covering overtime pay. The railways say the demands would cost them 360,000,000 a year.

The conciliation board is headed by Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Rejection as Director May Touch Off War for Control Of New York Central Railroad

NEW YORK (AP)—Rejection of Robert R. Young as a director and chairman of the board of the New York Central Railroad threatens to touch off a wide-open battle for control of the vast system.

Young, who controls the railroad's largest individual stock holding, denounced the present board of directors after learning that it Wednesday had rejected his request to be named head of the Central.

In a statement from his Palm Beach, Fla., home, Young called the directors a "Morgan, non-ownership board". He indicated he would appeal to the railroad's 64,461 stockholders to give him control of the central.

MEETING MAY 26

The railroad's annual meeting at which all shares can be voted in an election for a new board of directors, is scheduled for May 26 in Albany, N.Y.

Young had requested that both he and his associate, Allan P. Kilby, be named to the board, but after a five-hour closed meeting, the directors announced:

"The board unanimously decided that it would be inimical to the best interest of the company to grant Mr. Young's request."

Young denies that he sought to take over the post of William White, president of the central. "This Morgan board," Young said, "now seeks to confuse the issue by asserting that I, the largest known individual stockholder, desire to substitute myself for Mr. White as chief operating executive. Nothing is further from the fact."

WANTS INNOVATIONS

Young, 58, has long fought oldline railroad men and, criticized many traditional railroad methods. He has advanced plans to win back business to the railroads by heavy advertising and promotion, and new and better equipment.

For years he has sought a voice in running the Central. In 1947 he was invited to become a director, but the Interstate Commerce Commission barred him because he then was chairman of the Chesapeake and Ohio. The ICC forbids interlocking directorates on grounds that they would cut competition.

Young made himself available for election to the Central board by resigning his post with the Chesapeake last Jan. 18.

Reliable sources figure holdings of Young and his associates amount to about 300,000 shares, or about five per cent of the total shares.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A large quantity of small fish coming down the Niagara river in recent months is believed the reason why many birds are still patrolling the river here. Some blue herons were noted along with kingfishers, canvasback ducks and gulls.

OPTIMISTIC ABOUT COAL

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Hubert Hooldsworth, chairman of the national coal board, which governs mines in Britain, said Tuesday that it will be a long time before coal is replaced by atomic energy. "I am not worried about the need for coal during our lifetime or that of our children or grandchildren," he told a luncheon.

Hastings County Farm Forum

The answers to the "free trade" question discussed at five farm forums in Hastings County on February 1st, were rather varied. River Valley would consider free trade in all farm products between Canada and the U.S. Hazzards express the opinion that for a while free trade would probably benefit us. Malcove feel but with some things free trade would be a disadvantage, but it would be an advantage in the case of cheese, as Americans like our Canadian cheddar cheese so well. Foxboro says, "Free Trade with the U.S. would help some products while it would put others out of business and would not help much in the long run unless it were a world wide trade." Brookdale feels if free trade were established there might be a danger of Canada becoming a dumping ground for farm products. They also say they think the existing seasonal tariffs are quite fair.

Brookdale and Foxboro think a customs union not advisable unless it be made world wide. Canada prefers trading with other countries and not depending entirely on the U.S. market. There might be a danger of U.S. domination as we are small compared with her and also we don't want our standard of living lowered.

At Hazzards the members thought a customs union might benefit Canada in the future, but Canada is gaining in every way and would like a chance to do so on her own.

Melrose believes a customs union would be a definite advantage for many Canadian farmers and manufacturers to be able to sell goods duty free to 150 million Americans. Promoters of free trade believe that it encourages efficiency in production and leads to specialization.

And River Valley believe in a "probation period" for the gradual arrival of free trade so as business and the system became adapted to new conditions. If not satisfactory it can be terminated. All report good class reception of broadcast.

Senate Approves Principle Of Bill Increasing Pay From $6,000 to $10,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliamentary pay raises, a controversial issue in the Commons, stirred only a procedural ripple in the 102-member Senate.

The upper chamber Wednesday approved the principle of a bill increasing parliamentary pay to $10,000 from $6,000. The measure now needs only final approval and royal assent to become law. Second reading was given without opposition in 31 minutes in the Commons the bill met a stormy passage at every stage since its introduction Jan. 26.

Little debate followed the explanation of the bill's provisions by Solicitor-General Macdonald, government leader in the Senate. However, Senator Norman P. Lambert (L—Ontario) was ruled out of order for reading remarks made last week by Prime Minister St. Laurent favoring equal pay raises for senators and members of the Commons.

Senator Wishart Robertson, Senate speaker, said members can not refer to debates in the Commons. It was a long-established practice.

Senator Lambert said he assumed he had the unanimous consent of the Senate to depart from this rule but Senator John T. Haig Progressive Conservative leader, objected and said he refused his consent.

DEBATE FINISHED

However, Senator Lambert had completed reading Mr. St. Laurent's remarks when Senator Robertson ruled him out of order and second reading was then moved without further discussion.

Senator Macdonald said the indemnity has been $4,000 a session since 1920. It now would be boosted by $4,000. In addition, members of the Commons receive a $2,000 tax-free expense allowance and senators an equal sum on which they pay tax.

He said that the sessions of Parliament have lengthened since 1920. It was true the Senate did not sit as many days as the Commons but the length of the session was the same for both.

Members of both chambers had to remain in Ottawa unless they lived near enough to the capital to go home on week-ends.

Under the bill, parliamentarians will receive $6,000 a year in monthly instalments. Formerly, the $4,000 indemnity was paid for each session—twice if there were two sessions in one year. The government has said there will be no change in the $2,000 expense allowance.

Senator Macdonald said the penalties for absences will be $50 a day for each day of absence after 21 days compared with $37.50 after 15 days at present.

Police Silent Regarding Motive In Double Killing

NEW YORK (AP) — A Greek who Village dishwasher who was once a mental patient has been charged with double homicide in the slaying of Maxwell Bodenheim and the poet-author's third wife, but police today remained silent on the motive.

Captured Wednesday about a mile from the Manhattan slaying scene, 25-year-old Harold Weinberg at first told conflicting stories.

He said he killed the 58-year-old Bodenheim, but that the one-time literary great had killed his wife, the former Ruth Fagan, 35. Then he denied both killings. Then he said he killed Bodenheim because the latter raised a drunken row in his room. Once Weinberg said he tried to make love to the woman and Bodenheim fought him. And several times he repeated one phrase: "Maybe there was somebody under the bed."

SIGNED STATEMENT

After 19 hours of questioning, police announced that Weinberg had signed a written statement admitting both murders. He was smiling and unconcerned at his booking.

The bodies of the couple were found Sunday in a dingy lower east side room reeled by Weinberg. Bodenheim, a literary figure of the 1920s and early '30s was shot to death. His wife's body bore numerous stab wounds.

Weinberg was quoted as saying he killed Bodenheim with a .22 calibre rifle. A knife was found behind a tenement.

Proposal Will Be Submitted To Mine Workers

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Daley said Wednesday a proposal for settling the strike of 300 miners at Preston East Dome mines will be submitted to the men at Timmins.

The minister said the plan was submitted to the men at a meeting with company officials and the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), representing the workers.

William Mahoney, assistant national director of the union, said the proposal had come from the company. The union committee had not accepted it, but would submit it to a membership meeting without recommendation.

The proposal will possibly be submitted for the miners' consideration tonight.

Meanwhile, miners at the Dellmine mine at Timmins voted unanimously to accept terms of a settlement recently signed between management and the United Steel Workers.

Strikes now have been settled at Hollinger Consolidated, McIntyre, Porcupine, Canamum, Aunor, Dilmor and Delnite mines.

An eighth mine, Brouhan Reef, still is officially on strike, although most employees are on the job following a back-to-work movement which began last November.

OCEAN FERTILIZER

OSLO (CP)—A pilot plant for the extraction of potassium fertilizer from sea water has been completed by the Norwegian hydro industry in co-operation with a Dutch company. The pilot plant is being built near Amsterdam and if it proves feasible separate plants will be built in Norway and the Netherlands.

Patrolman On Rockland Area Is Suspended

TORONTO (CP) — Highways Minister Doucett said Wednesday night D. Dubeau, a patrolman on the Rockland area of the trans-Canada highway, has been suspended for irregularities discovered by a divisional engineer.

Mr. Doucett commented on an Ottawa newspaper story about an investigation in the division with headquarters at Rockland, 25 miles east of Ottawa. Rockland is on the Ottawa-Montreal stretch of the trans-Canada highway now under construction.

Department material and labor valued at between $1,600 and $1,800 is said to have been used in the construction of two houses. Mr. Doucett said he is confident the department will recover all of it.

Dubeau, with the department more than two years, was bonded. Department officials said the alleged irregularities were found through the routine checking system of the department, carried out by travelling auditors inspecting all highway projects. He was arrested as a result of an investigation now before the courts into reports of irregularities in highway contracts in the Fort William division and other regions.

TANKER HAZARD

STOCKHOLM (CP)—The danger of nylon and other plastic clothing on board oil tankers was stressed by a shipping board official here. Friction between nylon and steel plate, especially in dry weather, may produce static capable of causing an explosion of gasoline fumes.

HOSPITALS GET GRANTS

TORONTO (CP)— The Ontario government Wednesday announced special grants totalling $225,000 to two hospitals to assist in construction projects. The Lord Dufferin Hospital at Orangeville receives $75,000 and the St. Catharines General Hospital $150,000.

Crown Withdraws Murder Charges Against Sisters

COCHRANE (CP) — At a preliminary hearing conducted in Cree and Zeglitis through an interpreter, the crown Wednesday night withdrew murder charges against two Indian sisters in connection with the strangling of a newborn infant and proceeded with a charge against the sisters' stepfather of seducing one of the girls.

Assistant crown attorney Wilfred Dupont asked that the charge against the sisters, Lottie and Mary Theresa Sutherland, aged 18 and 20 respectively, be dismissed for lack of evidence. They were accused in connection with the death of an infant last November near Moosonee on the southern tip of James bay.

Lottie Sutherland said she went on a trapline trip from last February to last April with Sackney, her brother, Peter, 18, and her stepbrother, Joseph Sackney, 17. She said all four slept in the same tent and she permitted her stepfather to have intercourse with her because she was afraid of him. She said she became pregnant and gave birth to a child late last October.

Peter Sutherland and Joseph Sackney said that on the trapline they each had a blanket while Lottie shared the stepfather's blanket.

The stepfather said the statements were untrue and he accused the stepbrothers of trying to get him into trouble.

Sackney said under cross-examination that another man came to the camp while they were on the trapline.

Sackney, who conducted his own defence, said he would prefer to be tried in his homegown of Moosonee. Asked if he had any defence witnesses, he said he would like to call his wife, whom he married nine years ago, and two friends but could not afford to bring them to Cochrane from Moosonee.

Mr. Dupont said:

"In the interests of justice and of the accused, the crown will call these people as witnesses."

The trial was then adjourned for a week.

Charlie Chaplin's Wife Becomes British Citizen

LONDON (AP) — Britain today counted America-born Oona O'Neill, Charlie among her newest citizens. The wife of famed comedian Charlie Chaplin has announced her allegiance to the United States, which won't readmit her husband until he answers accusations of Communist sympathies and "grave moral charges."

"Isn't it lovely? Isn't it just cute?" the 29-year-old Oona asked as she waved her British passport at reporters Wednesday night when she and her 64-year-old husband flew into London from Switzerland.

CHARLIE PROUD

Later the British-born Chaplin, who is 40 years to Hollywood never surrendered his original citizenship, held a press conference at the hotel:

"I'm very proud to announce my wife is now a British citizen."

Given Extra Term

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Henry Elliott, 34, Wednesday was sentenced to an extra two years imprisonment on the last of 18 charges laid against him after a series of break-ins and one shooting last fall.

On the charge of assault with attempt to rob, Elliot pleaded guilty and had two years added to the six to which he was previously sentenced.

Elliott previously was found guilty of shooting up a farm house with a 410 gun and trying to get an auto from another farmer.

"I'm very glad to be taking my husband's nationality," said Oona, whose teen-age marriage estranged her from her late father, American playwright Eugene O'Neill.

"This is one of my proudest moments," said Chaplin. He announced last April that he would never return to the U. S., where, he charged, he had been the "object of lies and vicious reactionary groups."

Parks Her Car, Meter Installed But Fine Waived

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—An unidentified woman called the traffic bureau here Wednesday and reported she had parked her car where there wasn't a meter—and when she returned she found both a meter and a parking ticket.

Hospital officials investigated and discovered that, sure enough, meters had been put up in that block while the car was parked.

A policeman who passed by after the new meters were installed had given her a ticket.

She was excused from paying a parking fine because of "extenuating circumstances."

PEARSON TAKES VACATION

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson left Wednesday night for a 10-day vacation in the United States, his first holiday of that length in four or five years. He and Mrs. Pearson fly first to New York and then continue on to Florida.

Judge Cautions Jury in Case

KITCHENER (CP)—Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson, hearing a manslaughter charge against Joseph M. Finnegan of Guelph, Wednesday cautioned the jury against giving undue weight to evidence of use of alcohol.

The charge arose from a traffic accident Oct. 11 in which Mrs. Lena Leader of Guelph was fatally injured.

When court adjourned, Mr. Justice Wilson asked the jury to "keep the main issue in mind." Those main issues were "the kind of driving he was doing at the time of the accident," and "whether there was a high degree of negligence."

He said that in evidence so far there had been "much talk" of alcohol.

Chief Thomas Livingstone of Waterloo township police said he questioned accused after the accident. He "only mumbled and wasn't understandable," the chief said.

TOUGHIES!

That one-goal jinx that has parked on the busties of the Memos all season was very much in evidence again last night down Kingston way. Our hockey-heard side played their hearts out and for a few minutes in the third period it looked as though they might make one, Michael J. Reddon, embassy on a crew died and hand his beloved Goodyears a setback.

The Memos were minus services of Jackie Wardhaugh, sidelined with a fractured ankle, and playing coach "Zed" Duran, who developed water on the knee following the Oshawa-Memos battle the other night. But at that the Memos men threw a terrific scare into Johnny Carr-Harris and his "championship machine" as Mr. Redden dearly loves to call it.

The Memos have six games left to play, four of them with Orillia, and brothers, that doesn't look good. They must win all six with the Goodyears or Orillia losing five in order to crash the charmed playoff circle and that is just about impossible. However it's worth a try.

The Memos start in Orillia tomorrow night where they take on the palpitating Pontics in the first of their four-game series, two of which will be played here. The Pontics we are told have added a Junior "A" defenceman from the Barrie Flyers to their behind-the-blueline corps. He is needed there about as much a third car but he will probably fit into Coach Vic Grigg's scheme of playoff things. Reports from the Lake Cowichang town have it that Grigg has perfected a new style of offensive and defensive play which he tried with more than passing success against the "championship machine" from Kingston the other night.

And it apparently worked against the high-flying Petes who bowed 9-1 to the Orillian new method of put-and-take on Saturday night.

With matters standing as they are at present, there probably will be some terrific strategy "thunk up" as the top four teams sweep into the "jockeying-for-position" mythical series. And that is where the Memos come in. They may be out this time but they are far from down. And they are quite liable to toss the well known monkey wrench into somebody's playoff machinery without regard for personalities, past performances, Keddenville's beloved stalkies or anything.

The first and fourth teams clash in the group semi-finals series with the second and third squads dittoing. As the organization meeting last September it was decided the semi-finals will be best-of-seven affairs, if time permits, the final decision being left with the group convener, Lorne Cook.

QUITE A SHOW!

Dick Beare, famous public relations man for the Rotary-Kinsmen Nation Hockey League Oldtimers' hockey tilt being played here February 15, mild today there is a strong possibility that their greyboard peckchasing forces will be reinforced by these sturdy defenders of the old days Turk Broda and Bill Durnan.

Durnan, six-feet three of solid Canadiens' foundation, and the "Turk," who fought the Battle of the Bulge for several years for Toronto in little corporal, Conn Smythe, may be in the nets, if they can get in without the services of a shoehorn, when the big game starts.

The "Turk" is the coach of the Ottawa Senators of the Quebec League, while Big Bill, we understand, is devoting his spare time to the wide side of nets. So is the Turk, for that as we know. No, kiddies, we won't have to take a vote in order to let them play.

The Oldtimers will ice a powerful array of the once-famous stars of the National Hockey League. In all likelihood one of the teams will parade Roy Worters, Broda or Durnan in goal; Cy Wentworth and Lionel Conacher on the defence and up front will be the once-famous "Kid Line" of the Toronto Maple Leafs, Chuck Conacher, Joe Primeau and Harvey "Busher" Jackson. That should be a sight to delight the optics of veteran hockey enthusiasts.

• • •

Bobby Hewitson, sports editor of the Toronto Telegram, and a former NHL referee, has sent his regrets to the effect he will not be able to collaborate with one Richard J. Rodden, in a refereeing capacity. Mr. Hewitson, who is in charge of the ticket sales for the Ontario Sportswriters' and Sportscasters' Association annual celebrities' dinner, which takes place on February 16, says he is up to his neck in work and will be unable to act.

Furthermore, Bobby says he has not worn skates in years and feels it best that he continues to go "skateless." However, there is a possibility of him attending the gazoo.

Dick Beare comes up with the suggestion that Mr. Redden act as referee in chief with Turka Broda and Bill Durnan in the roles of linesmen. If the two former net starks are able to put in an appearance. All efforts are being made to bring them here. In any event a former National League star or official will assist Mr. Redden. Outboard motors are being supplied officials if they are over the age of 65. Time out will be allowed for re-fuelling.

4-Minute Mile Again Eludes John Landy

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Running on a rain-dampened track, John Landy, Australia's premier miler, failed again today to set a world record for the mile as he won the Australian championship in 4:05.6, compared to Gunder Haegg's world mark of 4:01.4.

An announcement immediately after the race said it was officially established that a southerly wind was blowing at the time of the race impeded Landy to the extent of seven seconds.

In other words, Australian athletic officials reckoned that without the wind Landy would have run the mile in less than four minutes.

The Duke of Edinburgh, in Sydney today during the royal tour, made an unscheduled visit to the Sydney Cricket Ground to see Landy run. Queen Elizabeth was at Government House at the time of the race.

Landy took the lead after the first lap and won easily by about 20 yards over fellow Australians John Bailey and A. Anderson, second and third in that order.

Landy's best time for the mile was at last Easter, 4:2e. .2, when he made it in 4:02.

Beantowners Retain Margin With 3-2 Victory Over Leafs; Blues Hang 3-2 Loss on Wings

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York's unpredictable Rangers hung one on the tough Detroit Red Wings, but it didn't help. They're still in fifth place in the National Hockey League, two points behind Boston Bruins.

The Bruins managed to keep a jump ahead of the New Yorkers, as they have all season, by upsetting the oddmakers with a 3-2 win over Toronto Maple Leafs on Leafs' home ice.

They were the only league games Wednesday night and fans around the league will be given little to work on to select a team for the fourth and last playoff berth in the Stanley Cup race.

Nobody gave the Rangers much chance against the league-leading Red Wings before Wednesday night's game. However, New York showed plenty of class by defeating the Detroiters 3-2 for their first loss in eight games.

The Rangers built a 3-0 lead in the first two periods and then rallied both Detroit goals. His first came as he took a pass from Dutch Reibel in front of the New York goalmouth in the second period and drilled it past goaltender Johnny Bower. He tallied the second in the last period with a sizzling shot from 10 feet out.

The Bruins capitalized on penalties for two first-period goals and went on to edge the Leafs before 12,459 fans.

Milt Schmidt, Dave Creighton and Cal Gardner were the Boston marksmen. Their goal scorers were by Rudy Migay and Ted Kennedy.

The Leafs blew a 3-goal lead in game until the last period and then it was too late. The loss left them in third spot two point behind Montreal Canadiens.

Tonight the Leafs travel to Boston and the Canadiens meet the last-place Hawks in Chicago.

Italian Puckmen 'Tossa Da Scare' Into Lyndhurst

BOLZANO, Italy (CP)—The unheralded Bolzano hockey team threw a scare into Toronto Lyndhurst's Wednesday night before Canada's representatives in the world hockey championships were able to stave off their late rally for a 9-8 victory.

After disposing of Italy's perennial champions, the Milan International club, 9-4, at Milan Tuesday, the Lyndhurst's expected an easy night against Bolzano and appeared to be headed for an easy victory as they took a commanding 6-1 lead.

But the Italian pucksters perked away steadily at the visitors' margin and it took John Peters's fourth goal of the night to sew up the Canadian's victory in the third period.

Petro's big night made him the leading snipper of the Lyndhurst's European tour with 10 goals. Another left-winger, Earl Clements, moved into second place by scoring his ninth tally. Don Couch, Harold Pikarz, Bob Kennedy and Normie Gray completed the visitor's scoring quota.

The victory was the Lyndhurst's sixth straight after a disastrous 11-2 defeat at Paris in their first European appearance. Their next engagement is at Fussen, Germany, Friday.

Sports Columnist Writes 'Thirty'

BUFFALO, N.Y. (CP) — Billy Kelly, a sports writer who won himself a niche in history as a Canadian-owned race horse bearing his name finished second in the Kentucky Derby, retired Wednesday.

Kelly, whose sports column, "Before and After," has appeared in the Buffalo Courier-Express for the last 50 years, retired as the newspaper's police editor two years ago but has continued to write his column.

He often said his greatest thrill was the finish of the 1915 Kentucky Derby when the entry of Sir Barton and Billy Kelly, owned by J. K. L. Ross of Montreal, finished one-two. Kelly was reported to have bet $1,000 on the entry to win and $1,500 to place.

Western Puckmen Set Plans For Titular Series

VANCOUVER (CP)—Director of the seven-team Western Hockey League set plans Wednesday for eight league playoffs and a post-season championship between East and West.

The final series, a best-of-nine clash between the champions of the Quebec Hockey League and the WHL, will be the first of its kind in 28 years.

The QHL champions will travel west for this series, which isn't expected to get under way until late April. Financing will be undertaken by the WHL and the winning team will share a $10,000 prize and the losers $7,500.

Location of the games will depend largely on the availability of rinks, league president Al Leader says.

If one of the four coast teams wins the WHL championship, two of the four East-West games would likely be played in Calgary and Edmonton. However if a Prairie team is in the final, it is doubtful that any games would be played on the coast.

The WHL has guaranteed travelling expenses of players on the QHL champion when and the teams will get a share of any profits.

League directors said the Quebec League has agreed to taking over the series on a similar basis next season.

Girl Gymnast Is Named Lady 'Athlete of Year'

HAMILTON (CP) — Ernestine Russell, 16-year-old gymnast from Windsor, Ont., has been named Canada's outstanding woman athlete of 1953 by the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada.

The award of the Rose Bowl Trophy was announced Wednesday by Margaret Lord, secretary of the WAAF.

The youngster captured top honors on the parallel bars, side horse, balance beam, trampoline and in tumbling in her first year of competitive action three years ago and since then has competed in many international events against the best in the United States.

She won 25 events, finished second once and was third on six occasions.

The Rose Bowl first was started in 1934 and was won that year by Phyllis Dewar, Vancouver swimmer. Barbara Ann Scott, Olympic figure-skating champion, has won it three times—1945, 1947 and 1948.

Miss Russell, 16, a student at Kennedy collegiate said: "I'm walking on air."

Working with the Windsor Gymnastics Club under coach Bernie Newman, Ernie has made a name in competitions in United States and Canada. In a recent meet at Cleveland, she pinned down first place in the parallel bars, free calesthenics, balance beam and an all-round award.

Three Rinks Unbeaten In Curl Playoffs

ORILLIA (CP) — Rinks from Orillia, Toronto and Brampton led with scores of two wins and no defeats after the opening day's play in the southern Ontario curling playoffs here.

In the second round Wednesday night, Bruce McClure skipped his Brampton rink to its second victory with a 10-6 win over a Galt rink skipped by Norm Hines.

The third leading rink, skipped by Stan Sajerant of the host Orillia club, scored a 12-9 win over J. G. W. Sands of Kingston.

In the fourth match of the second round, Ross Tarlton, Hamilton, skipped his club to a 20-3 win over an Oshawa rink skipped by C. W. Mitsett.

THREE WINLESS

The Wilson and Tarlton rinks have scored one win and one defeat each. Rinks skipped by Mitchell, Hines and Sands have suffered two defeats and no wins.

McClure took care of the strong Kingston rink 18-9 in one of the surprises of the round. Phillips had little trouble with Brampton, winning 13-9 while Wilson scored an 11-3 victory over Galt.

Closest game of the day was the Sajerant-Tarlton affair which saw the Orillian skip make a great double-takeout shot in the 10th end to score four and win a 12-10 victory over the Hamilton rink.

Kingston Goodyears Edge Memos 6-5 To Climb Back Into 3rd-Spot Tie

Goodyears Rally in Third To Snatch Win from Defeat In Rousing Senior B Battle

KINGSTON, Ont. — Belleville's plucky but ill-fated Memos reached the peak of stimulation in the Senior B group rice here last night when they were sheded by Goodyears 6 to 5 in a rousing duel unlicensed by slightly more than 3,000 fans. Two counters a minute apart midway through the final period by Clint Hickman and Jim Olinski erased a one goal deficit and snatched impending victory from the grasp of the group trailers.

Notwithstanding the dim outlook that the Memos face they played with such skill and stamina that the verdict swung to the balance until the curtain fell. The handicap they encountered might have daunted most teams and these can be annexed up as follows. They had beaten Oshawa the previous night in Belleville 5 to 2 but had lost the services of Jack Wardhaugh, who sustained a fractured ankle, and of coach "Red" Doiron who has variety on the sidelines. Toby Taylor was also absent and only 13 players were ready for action.

WADE GETS FIRST.

Jake Wade drew the first of Belleville's half dozen penalties at 3:06 in the opening period but while he was away Keith Macdonald, aided by Davey Jones, fired the first goal of the game at 4:30. Three minutes later Myke Hetherington, "Bud" Somerville's pass to the Belleville net and drove the puck past Terry Sawicki. Ted McGrory was banished for charging but Goodyears failed to capitalize.

Dave Jones broke into the clear behind the Kingston defence but mishandled the puck when nearing the crease. At the 13:59 mark Myke took a pass from Watts and his rising shot sped in behind Sawicki. Forty-one seconds later Somarz drew a minor for elashing and in a span of eight seconds Don Murray, with George MacGregor's assistance, made it 3 to 1.

E. Watts was banned for slashing at 17.17 but no damage was done until both the teams at full strength "Nobber" Day scored at 19.34. Edwin Duncan drawing an assist.

Jim Olinski was banished early in the middle session but Goodyears continued to attack and Murray almost scored from close range. At 2.54 the flashy Duncan twins and Jake Wade combined in manufacturing the lying goal, Ed Duncan being the sniper. Play was transferred from end to end in rapid-fire order with Wade and MacGregor having the best scoring chances.

MacDonald was penalized for boarding at the seven minute mark but the Belles hung on grimly while he was away. Reg Vernon Gorye knocked down a puck by use of a high stick near the Belleville net but no stoppage was called and MacGregor raced in to break the deadlock at 12.46. Watts was penalized at 13.43 but had retrieved when a well placed shot by Edwin Duncan sped into the Kingston net. Wade and Day each drew an assist. Edwin Duncan tangled with Ted Nicholson at 18.56 and was penalized.

FIRST ASSAULT.

Goodyears launched the first dangerous assault in the final dash but Murray missed the shot as gun close range. The Belles enjoyed the ganging attack prior both before and after Walter Gerow was cleared for interference at 2.32 but they were unable to capitalize. End to end play and narrow escapes by both teams added to the excitement.

DeGray got to close quarters but was outgunned by Johnson. A face off was called in the Kingston defence zone and a goal followed with Erwin Duncan doing the feeding and Edwin finishing.

Tinkess, aided by Nicholson, scored at 9.25 and Olinski, with Keith and Ray Macdonald assisted, added the issue at 10.55.

Goodyears were the aggressors during the last ten minutes but Somarz burned all shots aside. At 13.56 a penalty to Edwin Duncan added to Belleville's woes. At 18.30 Sawicki was replaced by a forward and the net was left unmanned but Vernon Gorye and Wade mates prevented any direct shots being made. The Memos gave their old college try until the shot could not solve the rid-

die. and three assists, set the pace and three assists, set the getting pace with Johnny Myke who scored twice and had an assist, close in pursuit. Edwin Duncan racked up a pair of well earned counters while "Nobber" Day checked in with a goal and an assist, a feat duplicated by George MacGregor.

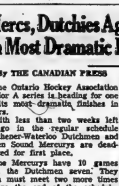
Empire Games Not Ordinary, Athletes Told

VANCOUVER (CP) — English athletes considering tp-passing the British Empire Games should remember that the games "are more than just another athletic event," a top games official said here Wednesday.

Alan Smith, chairman of the games committee, said he regretted that England's newly distanced runner Gordon Pirie had decided to miss the July British athletics event here July 30-Aug. 7 in preference for European games slated for Berne, Switzerland, in late August.

"I am satisfied that England will send an exceptionally strong team this summer," said Smith, adding that the Empire Games "are more than just another athletic event, they are a gathering of the Commonwealth and as such deserve the full support of all Commonwealth countries and athletes."



Pirie announced he would prefer the Berne meet and the London Daily Mail said the majority of England's athletes favor the European games.

Barrie Flyers Wallop Montreal 9-1 As Cubs Defeather Black Hawks 9-5

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Cubs and Barrie Flyers made the statistics look sick Wednesday night.

According to the figures the Cubs are the worst offensive team in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series. The same figures show that the Flyers are the worst defensive team in the league.

The Cubs clicked like anything but a weak-scoring unit as they walloped Galt Black Hawks 9-5 in Hamilton. And in Barrie you couldn't convince Montreal Royals of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association Junior league that the Flyers have no defence. Barrie whipped the Royals 9-1 in the interlocking game.

The two victories left the Flyers and the Cubs tied for fifth place in the OHA standings.

TAKE EARLY LEAD

The Flyers had a 4-0 margin at the end of the first period and a 7-1 lead after the second.

Tommy Wilson, Jim Robertson and Bob Barlow each scored two goals for Barrie. Singles went to Danny Pollizani, Bob McNeil and Ross Graham.

Doug Hardy, obtained from Toronto Marlboros when it was learned that Jack Spencer will be out for the rest of the season, played his first game in goal for Barrie. He was beaten only once when Eddie Eustace scored Montreal's goal while the Royals were playing one man short in the second.

Brian Kilrea notched three goals to lead Hamilton to its fourth straight win. Marlin McLendin added two and singles were scored by Bill Stewart, Lloyd McKay, Cummy Burton and Ted Reid.

Neil McDonald, Rick Collin, Ed Switzer, John Stewart and Pete Kowaldiuk were the Galt marksmen.

Kitchener Greenshirts play the Canadiens in Montreal in an interlocking game tonight.

Mercs, Dutchies Again Locked for Top In Most Dramatic Puck Race in Years

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series is heading for one of its most dramatic finishes in years.

The Mercurys have 19 games left, the Dutchmen seven. They both must meet two more times before the end of the schedule. The season closed with the Mercurys at Kitchener Feb. 24.

Although Owen Sound, 1951 Allan Cup Champions appear to have a slight edge, the Dutchmen, last year's Canadian champions, aren't giving up.

They climbed back into a tie for the league-leadership Wednesday by defeating Stratford Indians 5-3 in Stratford.

Allowing the Indians a 3-0 lead during the first half of the game, the Dutchmen roared back with five consecutive goals for the victory. They drew a total of seven Stratford penalties to score three goals.

Ken Laufman, Doug Verity, Joe Schertl, Harry Paulka and Jack McKenzie each had a hand in the scoring for the winners.

Lloyd Finkbeiner, Lou Bendo and Dinny Flanagan were the Stratford marksmen.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior Southern group Sudbury Wolves pulled to within four points of the league-leading Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds by defeating the Greys 3-1 in Sault Ste. Marie.

The Lumber Kings, backed by the fine performance of netminder Gord Buckley, defeated Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 3-1 in Pembroke.

Red Barrett and Tommy Dawes scored for Sudbury after Roy Heximer had given the Greyhounds a 1-0 lead.

The Indians also took a 1-0 lump in Pembroke when Bill McCracken scored but Rhral Savard evened the score and Jack Douglas fired the winner for the Lumber Kings.

Black Holds Chico Vejar To 10-Round Draw

CHICAGO (AP)—Newcomer Jed Black dropped 3-1 favorite Chico Vejar for a nine-count in the seventh round and held the soldier to a 10-round draw Wednesday night in a blistering scrap at Chicago stadium.

The thrilling toe-to-toe brawl wound up with referee Joey Walsh voting for Vejar 97-90, Judge Frank Clark picking Black 95-92 and Judge Howard Walch calling it even 91-91.

Vejar weighed 149 and Black 144.

Black, who had won 27 of 28 starts but was making his first semi main bout appearance, buckled Vejar's knees in the first round and floored him with savage left-right upper cut combinations in the fourth.

Vejar staggered to his feet and weathered the 10 seconds to the end of the round.

Tommy White Will Manage St. Thomas Elgins

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Tommy White, former pitcher for London Majors, has been signed to manage St. Thomas Elgins in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League, it was announced Wednesday.

White said he has sent contracts to four players from last year's team. The four are Ray Heitmour, catcher and outfielder, third baseman Ray Urban, pitcher Joe Grasso, who was voted most popular player of 1953, and pitcher Jack Caffery.

Caffery, a star centre with Toronto St. Michael's College Majors in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, pitched well with the Elgins last year.

The Elgins have sent a letter to Don Gallinger of Kitchener, who is in charge of the schedule, saying that they prefer their home games for Wednesday's and Saturdays.

NO POSTPONEMENT

SASKATOON (CP)—The Canadian speed skating championships will be held here as scheduled Saturday and Sunday.

Warm weather threatened to force postponement of the event but zero weather returned to much of the Prairies Wednesday. If the cold snap holds, to the end of the week, the huge oval at Optimistic Park should be in top shape for the skaters.

WALLS-SESSIONS TO CLASH

EDMONTON (CP) — Canadian heavyweight champion Earl Walls of Toronto and veteran Freddie Sessions of Los Angeles will meet in a 10-round match in Edmonton March 8, boxing promoter Jack Berry announced. The bout, originally scheduled for Feb. 15, was postponed after Walls said he had a head cold.

Raymond Badger Has Been Chosen Timmy This Year

year-old Raymond Badger, a sports fan despite his diseased hip, has been chosen this year as "Timmy," symbol of the country-wide Easter seals campaign in aid of crippled children.

Ray, who comes from suburban Weston, will represent thousands of handicapped youngsters during March 15-April 18 when local service clubs across Canada will join with their provincial crippled children's societies in the annual campaign to sell Easter seals.

Ray is a victim of Legge-Perthes disease, a bone condition which forces him to wear a brace to support his hip.

Despite his handicap, Ray is a fair swimmer and plays in goal for his grade team in his school's soccer league.

His case was brought to the attention of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children by the Weston-Mount Denals Rotary Club. The club bought him a brace and two pairs of special shoes, paid for two lengthy stays at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children and sent him away for two summers to one of the Ontario society's five camps for crippled children.

The next big thrill in Ray's life will come Feb. 24 when he will be a head-table guest at the $25-a-plate sports celebrity dinner in Toronto. The dinner, sponsored by the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association, is in aid of crippled children.

At the head table, Ray will sit with such sports notables as Cyclone Taylor, Frank Boucher, Eddie Shore, John Ross Roach, Tris Speaker and Tommy Burns.

CHOSEN "TIMMY"—Nine-year-old Raymond Badger, chosen this year as "Timmy" symbol of the country-wide Easter seals campaign in aid of crippled children, beams proudly at his hockey hero, Ted Kennedy, captain of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League. Ray, who comes from the Toronto suburb of Weston, will represent thousands of handicapped youngsters during March. 15-April 18 when service clubs across Canada will join with their provincial crippled children's societies in the annual campaign to sell Easter seals. Despite his handicap, Ray is a fair swimmer and plays in goal for his grade team in his school's soccer league. (CP Photo).

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, FEB. 12, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Very auspicious rays for useful, worthwhile and inspiring work and other activities pertinent to civilized living. Be mindful of responsibilities, do your share in home, community.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Moon, Venus and Jupiter in benefic positions help to make this a day for achievement, perhaps unusual success. Now you must add by putting forth your best efforts.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You quick thinking people; pause further today to plan how best to allocate your time and duties. Rays generally favorable, some exciting is tendency. Fine for new benefits.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Most things are highly favored this encouraging day. Try to finish intimidating tasks and, if new resolutions must be undertaken, you can do a good job there, too. Be a doer.

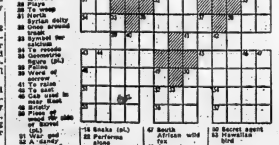
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — This should be a popular day for most activities and interests. Friendship and pleasure are favored; also inspiration for new and interesting matters; industrial, professional work.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Delicate and artistic matters, scientific research, mental work are all under fine Venus, Jupiter and Mercury aspects. However, a warning: do not overdo!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Similar to Taurus. Though it is wise to finish incompleted tasks first if you can. Much can be done today.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—There may be a tendency to strain, attempt too much now. Be sensible, have a smooth and well-allocated schedule and try to stay with it. Don't overcrowd yourself. Fine time for healthy fun.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—This can be a constructive, full day, especially for matters of interest to high-minded and right-principled people. Government, national and international affairs highly favored.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—If true to your basic, proud, dependable self, today should be encouraging, gainful, pleasant. Don't permit annoying outside interests to thwart your plans and accomplishment.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—The principles of Abraham Lincoln should be in our minds on this, his birthday. We have many fine men, religious and laymen, whose courage and goodness we could emulate to our advantage.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—A day for sensible, dignified celebration, also for work, study and all necessary activities, in free time why not develop a talent?

YOU BORN TODAY are sturdy, humane, interested in many matters of concern to people generally rather than to the individual. You could do well in any of the learned professions, such as medicine, law, teaching, and in organized work for the betterment of mankind. There are also some inherent faults that must be corrected by you; of associates. Prayer and a firm resolve to seize on the righteous course are your benefactors, truest aids. Birthdate: Abraham Lincoln, 16th U.S. pres.; Geo. Meredith, novelist; Charles Lamb, essayist.

ROUTE TO INDO-CHINA

HONG KONG (AP)—The Chinese Communists have opened a new road into Southeast Asia through the Yunnan province giving them an additional route to the Indo-China border, a report received here Wednesday from Kunming said. The Red Chinese have also made more direct avenues into Indo-China, but the new road undoubtedly will be used as an aid to military possibilities.

Braves Whip Royals 3-1 To Break Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Valleyfield Braves and Chicoutimi Saguenenns combined forces Wednesday night to defeat Drummondville Royals and Sherbrooke Saints and succeed in the Quebec Hockey League.

Valleyfield defeated Montreal 3-1 and Chicoutimi defeated Three Rivers 4-1. The last-place Springfield Indians defeated Ottawa Senators 9-1.

Jean Gabin, Gerry Glinda, Jacques Lucas, Jimmy Moore and Lou Smrke provided the power for Chicoutimi. Jean-Guy Talbot fired the lone Quebec marker.

Valleyfield, playing at home, built up a 3-0 lead over Montreal before Orval Tessier spoiled a perfect shutout late in the third period. Gordie Haworth, Andre Corriveau and Jack Irwin scored for the Braves.

At Springfield, Verb Kuntz scored three goals to pace Springfield. Bronco Horvath got two more for the Indians, while single tons were scored by Graham Hasings, Alex Kaleta, Ed Laier and Brent McNab. Alan Kuntz scored for Ottawa.

The speech reported "great progress" towards construction of the pipeline, explaining that it was needed to enable the province to deal with new problems arising from the population.

"The development of the St. Lawrence Seaway and the opening of the Canadian West will create new employment opportunities and new industries, and long-term power development.

The redistribution plan in the House would be submitted as the result of increased and shifts in population.

Last year's expanded capital construction program would be continued in many phases—highways, public buildings, hospitals, including a new $9,500,000 cancer institute in Toronto, and conservation projects.

Approval of a legislative and 5-cent-per-quart increase in the facial and economic betterment of the people" will be sought.

ACTS CONSOLIDATED

Legislation proposals were planned for amending the province's welfare legislation. A bill consolidating into one Act the Children's Protection Act, the Adoption Act and the Children's Institutions Inspection Act "will bring Ontario's child welfare legislation into conformity with the best in modern practice."

The new policy on provincial parks will provide for a complete survey of Ontario, through a public parks system, will have reserved for them now and in the future by the means of enjoying the beauties of our countryside.

An increased health program, particularly in the fight against cancer and poliomyelitis, was planned. Steps would be taken to eradicate by 1955 the noxious weeds in Ontario. New rehabilitation measures, including the physically handicapped would be recommended.

ACT TO AID FARMERS

"Very important matters will be submitted to the committee on agriculture for its consideration," the speech said. "Among these will be an act for the stabilization of farm prices and the broadening features of the Milk Control Act, the Dairy Products Act, the Milk and Cream Act and sections of the Farm Products Marketing Act.

"Provisions will also be submitted for the over-all management and co-ordination of all activities related to dairy products. As these proposals involve major changes in present legislation, they will be submitted to the committee on agriculture for the most thorough consideration."

Further expansion of the rural electrification system and establishment of an Ontario telephone authority were sought.

The white paper on forestry "represents the long-range thinking of recognized authorities on this important subject and will be referred to the committee on lands and forests for study."

TIMBER ACT CHANGES

Amendments to the Crown Timber Act of 1952, passed to effect the regeneration of suitable species on cut-over areas of crown lands, would be introduced.

Reports of five select committees established at the last session would be received. They deal with the Companies Act, election laws, Indian affairs, the Conservation Act, boundary lake and water levels and reform institutions.

Consolidation into three acts of 12 acts relating to education is planned and amendments to several acts covering a wide field of subjects would be introduced.

JANSEN-GIANTS AGREE

NEW YORK (AP)—Larry Jansen, veteran New York right hander, is the 34th New York Giant to come to terms on his 1954 contract, club said Wednesday.

Jansen is reported to have taken a slight salary cut after winning 21 games and losing 16 last season, after an 11-11 mark in 1953.

Belgian Senate Body Approves European Army

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Belgian senate's joint defence and foreign affairs committee approved the European army treaty 27 to 13 today with 8 abstentions.

The treaty to set up the six-nation European defence community already has been approved by the house of representatives and now will come before the senate for debate.

Of the other EDC nations, the West German and Dutch parliaments have completed ratification of the treaty, while France, Italy and Luxembourg still must act on it.

Continue Probe Into Wreckage Of Helicopter

TROY-PETOLIER, Que. (CP) — United States and Canadian air force investigators today continued their probe on the wreckage of a giant service helicopter in which three men plummeted to their death Tuesday.

A coroner's jury ruled Wednesday night that the three were killed accidentally when the twin-rotor USAF aircraft exploded in mid-air near this rifle town on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river.

The service investigators are accompanied by representatives of the company which manufactures the helicopter—the Piasecki S-21. It was reported that one of the three men killed in the crash, William P. Edwards, identified by provincial police as an engineer, was checking performance of the craft.

The other two dead are: The pilot, Lieut. Everett Ellis, 31, of New York city and Texas, and the co-pilot, Capt. Edward P. Dixon, believed also of New York.

Heedless Frenchmen Being Awakened to Plight Of Homeless by Catholic Priest

—By JOSETTE E. DYNAN

PARIS (AP)—A one-man "insurrection of goodness" by a Roman Catholic priest is awakening hitherto heedless Frenchmen to the plight of France's big army of homeless poor people.

The campaign to bring better housing, warmth and clothing to the threshold who huddle in doorways, in makeshift shanties and in the crannies along the Seine is sparked by Rev. Henri Groues.

Many in the wartime underground knew him as Abbe Pierre. The 41-year-old Jesuit father has caught the attention of the government and the people to the long-standing need for low-cost housing as no others, persons or organization has been able to do.

Last week's sudden, severe cold wave brought Abbe Pierre—looking like a jealous young St. Francis with his deep-set eyes and black beard—to the French national radio with the plea:

"Parisians! Help! Help! This morning at 3 o'clock, in her pitiful shack a mother was frozen to death. This need not happen. This must not happen."

The results astounded even Abbe Pierre.

Bankers and ambassadors stood in line with cooks and clerks at the priest's headquarters in an obscure hotel to donate blankets, overcoats, tents, heaters and money. Officers took up collections. The city opened heated shelters and the police were instructed to take vagrants in for the night with no questions asked.

$300,000 IN CASH

To top if off, Abbe Pierre saw the French cabinet take firm action on the project for which he had fought for years: Allocating 10 billion francs (nearly $3,000,000) for the immediate construction of 12,000 low-cost housing units in Paris for occupancy before next winter.

The night after Abbe Pierre's radio appeal, police noted a strange thing. The places under the bridges of the Seine, and in the other places where the homeless usually seek shelter, were vacant. Nearly all the city's destitute were sleeping in the heated emergency centres.

Abbe Pierre had asked only for 4,000 blankets. In five days, contributions were over 500,000 in cash, 15,000 blankets, 6,000 overcoats and thousands of other items.

The priest was born in Lyon of well-to-do parents. He gave up his inheritance to charity and joined the priesthood before he was 20. During the Second World War he was active in the French underground, helping many refugees—particularly Jews—to flee across the border to Switzerland.

After the liberation Abbe Pierre was elected to the first legislature as a member of the largely Catholic Mouvement Republicain Populaire. Before the last election in June, 1951, he broke with the MRP because he did not approve of the party's joining with other centre groups. He was defeated as an independent.

SPEEDY DECISION

STIRLING, Ont. (CP) — With several hundred villagers looking on, village clerk Fred Mallory tripped a coin to decide the winner of the election for public school trustee. Then he cast the deciding vote for H. E. Fox, who had tied Dr. E. A. Carleton with 344 votes each in an official count.

Every Day Is Circus Day In Moscow

By BILL ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP) — Every day is circus day in Moscow.

Acrobats, trained dogs and birds, Cossack riders on charging horses, child musicians and dancers provide the entertainment that thrilled an eight-year-old Russian boy who accompanied me to one performance, even though it lacked such Canadian attractions as lions, tigers and elephants.

There are three performances every day of the year, two matinees for children, who must be accompanied, and an evening show for adults.

RESTRAINED CLOWNS

Clowns cavort about the one ring in the brick and stone circus building. They are not as imaginative as those seen in Canada, limiting make-up to false noses and wigs and wearing costumes that are largely a take-off on ordinary attire.

The acrobats, however, are outstanding, better than any I have seen anywhere else in the world. Russian-speaking patrons join performers in thinking miniature merry-go-rounds and performing other tricks. There is a magician, too, but his magic is mediocre. Colored dogs dance, bear and jump over hurdles.

Music and dance routines by 40 children, all under 12, made up the second half of the circus program.

CHILDREN'S BAND

The ring was set up to resemble a shooting gallery. At the back, on a raised island, was the band, all children dressed as teddy bears, bunny rabbits and billy goats. Other children, in front of them, were the "targets" who broke into dance routines when "hit" by pellets from air rifles manned by two young marksmen.

Half-way through the program the marksmen went to bed, the lights went out and their dreams were acted by the targets and other children wearing luminous costumes.

The whole performance lasted about 45 minutes and the accompanying musicians played without a sheet of music or a conductor.

FAMOUS THEATRE

The theatre of Bayreuth, Bavaria, built especially for Wagner's operas, was constructed in 1876.

WALLBRIDGE

WALLBRIDGE — On Wednesday night the Federation of Agriculture held their banquet in the Orange Hall with about 100 members and friends. The W.A. and W.I. of Wallbridge catered to their supper which all enjoyed.

W.A. MEETING

Wallbridge W.A. met in the hall on Thursday afternoon with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. Hudson Kennedy presiding.

Two letters of appreciation were read. Mr. and Mrs. D. Thompson thanked all for remembering them in their sad bereavement having four cousins killed at the Hapanee level crossing and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Massey for sympathy card sent to them at the death of Mrs. Massey's father, Mr. Wescott.

It was decided to hold the next pot-luck dinner in the church hall on March 3.

W.M.S.

The W.M.S. meeting followed with the president, Mrs. Clarence Woods, taking charge.

Quite a number attended service at Wallbridge on Sunday morning. Rev. L. S. Dovey occupied the pulpit. After the sermon, Mr. Dovey held a dedication service for all who held an office in the church organizations and were asked forward with the stewards to whom he gave the hand of fellowship at the conclusion of the service.

Mr. R. Hinchcliffe of Gilmour has been a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Berton Hinchcliffe.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris were Saturday evening tea guests of Mrs. Hannah Eid (daughter, May, of Bloomore.

It was with a feeling of regret that a large number of Wallbridge friends and neighbors heard of the passing of Mrs. J. White, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Albert Holmes, Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. White and family attended Wallbridge Church for a number of years before moving to Belleville. Much sympathy is extended to all who mourn her loss.

All are about to believe Old Brain is still sleeping in his den as the weather is still cold and it is predicted that there will be plenty of wintry weather yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Rose Pound and little son, Dale, were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Austria Appeals For Independence Without Delay

Molotov Has New Proposal To Make to Big Four

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

BERLIN (AP) — Austria appealed to the Big Four today to restore its independence without further delay and at the same time asked for an easing of "harsh and inequitable" economic concessions to Russia.

The appeal was laid before the Berlin conference by Austrian Foreign Minister Leopold Figl. As the ministers took up the Austrian question, Russia's V. M. Molotov indicated he had a new proposal to make on the subject. Details of the proposal were not available.

MAKES STRONG PLEA

Figl made his appearance at a regular session late in the afternoon. He announced plans to restore his nation's sovereignty and deliver its 7,000,000 people from occupation by the end of the year 1938. He asked that the economic terms of the draft treaty be revised "in a sympathetic and generous spirit."

These terms would benefit Russia as the treaty now stands.

They would give Russia the lion's share of Austrian oil production for a period of 25 to 30 years. Figl argued that the disposal of the country's mineral resources is "an inalienable right of every free people."

Western sources thought that if Molotov would drop his insistence on a Big Five parley including Red China, State Secretary Dulles would be willing to reverse the position U.S. possibly that Russia should attend the proposed Korean political conference only as a partner of China and North Korea rather than as a non-belligerent. The Soviet Union first took authority building ended at 1:15 p.m. Dulles has opposed the use of "continued" to describe the discussion indicated it was not terminated. Figl said he had taken up in a fourth closed meeting at a time as yet fine-fixed.

The Western ministers made plain to Molotov in Thursday's meeting that they have no intention whatever of accepting his five-power conference demand, but that they are deeply interested in having the Berlin meeting break the Communist-United Nations deadlock over arrangements for a Korean peace settlement.

NEGOTIATE ON INDO-CHINA

Progress along this line could lead directly into negotiations for peace in Indo-China, Molotov was reported told.

Following the session Thursday, one Western source said the four ministers had made "a shade of progress." Another said there now is evidence that the East and West are looking for common ground.

St. Laurent Leaves Germany Bound for Rome

BONN, Germany (CP)—Canada's travelling prime minister left West Germany today after a 2½ day visit; and stopped off at the RCAF's Gros Tenquin airfield in eastern France to visit the men who maintain and fly the Sabre jets as Canada's contribution to the air defence of Europe.

A scheduled visit to the RCAF's other Sabre jet field, at Zweibrucken, Germany, was cancelled when Prime Minister St. Laurent's plane was unable to land there because of bad weather. The prime minister continued on to Rome, next stop on his round-the-world goodwill tour which today entered its second week.

Thursday he visited the Canadian Army's 1st infantry brigade at Soest, in the Ruhr; and later filled his eyes as he received the general salute from 1,500 men of the brigade.

The prime minister left behind him in Bonn the idea of a closer integration of the powers bordering the Atlantic for "economic betterment, political stability and self-defence."

It was pointed out that there was nothing in the suggestion, made at a state dinner now in Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and the West German cabinet, that it should represent a change of policy among the North Atlantic powers. However, the idea was described in London by a government spokesman as "interesting and stimulating."

PRIME MINISTER HOST

Thursday night the prime minister attended another dinner, this time as host to West German leaders. The dinner was held at the Canadian embassy, where ambassador J. S. Duclos welcomed Canada in the post-war German state.

The prime minister's RCAF C-5 transport, which also carried his son and daughter, took off from the airport base at 10:03 a.m.

After the air-base stop its course was laid over the Alps to Rome, where Italy's new premier, Mario Scelba, planned a welcome for the first chief of state to visit the Italian Rome during his term. Scelba formed a government earlier this week.

Conservatives Win By-Elections In Hull, Harwich

HULL, England (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill's Conservatives scored two by-election successes Thursday by retaining a parliamentary seat in the east coast port, and also retaining a Harwich seat.

The result announced today in the Haltemprice division of Hull was: Richard Wood, Conservative 18,117; C. W. Bridges, Labor 9,974.

At Harwich, the Conservative majority was 5,907.

Standing in the 625-member House of Commons now is: Conservatives and allies 321; Labor 295; liberals 6; Irish Labor 1; Irish Labor 1; vacant 2.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Cold Arctic air dominates the eastern half of the country this morning. In Ontario only the Windsor area recorded sub-zero temperatures Thursday night as the mercury fell to 6 below in Toronto, 30 below in Sudbury and 43 at White River. Today will be clear and cold in almost all regions, with increasing cloudiness and slowly moderating temperatures indicated for Saturday evening.

TOBACCO MEN URGE GOVT. TO CUT CIGARET TAX

Drive to Boost Sales, Eliminate Smuggling

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's tobacco growers today urged the government to cut the cigaret tax by five cents on a pack of 20 in a drive to increase sales and eliminate smuggling from the United States.

The move would drop the retail price in most provinces to about 27 cents a pack, but it would cut federal revenues by about $19,000,000 in the fiscal year starting April 1.

The proposal was made by a committee of the representatives of Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Association which represent about 93 per cent of Canada's growers.

The delegation, meeting with Finance Minister Abbott—a non-smoker—asked the tax decrease would increase cigaret sales by eight or 10 per cent a year. Sooners last year puffed a record 21,000,000,000 cigarets.

This sales increase would require an additional 5,000,000 to 7,000,000 pounds of tobacco from farmers, "almost certainly bringing an end to years of acreage restrictions," the growers told Abbott.

U.S. EXPORTS CUT

It also would help Canada meet competition from low-priced American cigarets, purchased in Canada by tourists, the growers said. It is about 18 or 20 cents a pack.

And it would smash smuggling already drastically reduced as the result of two successive decreases in the federal tax—currently about 10 cents on a pack of 20.

The delegation, headed by F. C. Cunningham of Windham Centre, board chairman, said it reflects the views of the entire tobacco industry in Canada.

Figures given by the delegation indicate that if the tax was cut, direct revenues would drop $21,000,000 to $20,000,000 in the next fiscal year. But they then would rise, increasing to $227-50 fiscal year to $242,000,000.

OFFSET LOSS

The $19,000,000 loss in the next fiscal year would be offset by indirect revenue gains, reducing the net loss to $2,000,000, the delegation said. In a matter of two years the increases in the tax collections such as heavier taxes from higher producer and manufacturing profits, would balance the direct losses.

Currently the retail prices of 20 cigarets ranges between 30 cents a pack and $1.00, depending on the some chain stores to 37 cents a pack in Quebec, where a provincial tax increases the retail price.

Neither Sexy Nor Saucy, Just Cold, What British Girls Look When Bold

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Mirror and Daily Express, rivals in a constant battle to boost their huge daily circulation, clashed today on whether English girls have sex appeal. By way of contrast, a Canadian beauty was brought into the argument.

Reviewing a new British film featuring a harem-full of scantily-clad British girls, The Mirror's Reg Whitley said producer Peter Rogers "has dared to express the view that British girls have more sex appeal on the screen than any of their foreign rivals."

The Express disagreed. "When the star film-quizzed us than that there is no such thing as a British pin-up girl," wrote critic Leonard Mosley.

British women in bathing suits "look neither sexy nor saucy," he said. "They just look as if they were aware of the drafts."

Mosley picked a glamorous Yvonne de Carlo, a native of Vancouver, B.C., as the girl he thought he not look like when it comes to posing in a bathing suit. Whitley gave the examples of Jean Simmons, Audrey Hepburn, Deborah Kerr and Greer Garson as home-produced beauty—"all of them now working in Hollywood."

How about that other battle? The Mirror leads by a short head, selling about 4,500,000 copies daily to 250,000 more than The Express.

Rising Unemployment Will Likely Cause House Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is beset by demands for action against unemployment and there's a debate on the problem is in prospect for the Commons Monday.

Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) was "very out of order" when he tried to bring on a debate Thursday, but Acting Prime Minister Howe said he would have no objection to one Monday.

The acting prime minister said he wants to talk about unemployment, too.

Mr. Gillis' unsuccessful motion for a debate described unemployment as a matter of "urgent public importance." It came on the heels of three submissions to the government on the same subject in two days.

While the House was briefly touching on the point, the two largest labor congresses were holding a cabinet committee that the situation is "alarming" and announce Minister Abbott was suggesting they are taking "too gloomy a view."

COMBINED SUBMISSION

The union submission was made by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the Canadian Congress of Labor, which have a combined membership of 982,000. It was the first time the rivals had a combined interview.

Officials of the congresses, suggested to a cabinet group that unemployment now is somewhere around 870,000 or 880,000, compared with 645,000 a year previously, a post-war high of 434,000 in early 1949.

But Mr. Abbott said he believes these figures are off. He also warned against a supplying of "doom" which could cut down on business investment that helped provide jobs, operators said.

"The plans of people with regard to business," he said, "can be affected by too much talk of rising unemployment and a possible recession.

"I think we should be a little careful about taking too gloomy a view about the prospects."

Secretary-treasurer Donald MacDonald of the congress of the congresses are not "seeing the situation in its proper perspective" in suggesting they are taking "too gloomy" a view.

Canadian Business Executive Wanted After U.S. Jail Term

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A 90-day jail sentence and $500 fine was legally ordered the United States and ruling a false passport may be one step in the possible confronting Abraham Isaac Grosser, 60-year-old Canadian business executive.

Canadian authorities say that when he finishes the term he'll be many county jail, they want to hold him about $80,000 worth of stolen bonds.

Federal judge James T. Foley sentenced Grosser Wednesday and served that the defendant had had an "an amazing career" in two countries.

Foley referred to testimony that Grosser, a native of Montreal, and Legroas had been ordered deported from the U.S. in 1940, had lived in the U.S. during the Second World War, and was believed by the government to be smuggling aliens into the country.

Grosser's wife, an American citizen, and her husband had helped organize the metropolitan police force in Washington, in 1944.

In Toronto, police said a Phil Le-Gross is wanted by Toronto and Quebec police on charges of receiving bonds stolen at Beauharnois, Que., and at the Quebec City area.

Police said Grosser had maintained a New York city apartment, a summer home, servants and a chauffeur-limousine. He organized a machinery company and an Ontario company while in Toronto between 1950 and 1953. He was described by friends as having "wonderful contacts and business ability and a magnetic personality."

Mrs. Grosser told reporters her husband was president of a Toronto brokerage firm and currently owns a landscape and gardening firm there.

Gave Accused Man Beer, Then Tested His Reactions

KITCHENER (CP) — A doctor said Thursday he gave beer to a man accused of manslaughter and then tested his reactions. Testimony concerning the specially-conducted test was admitted as evidence at the trial of Joseph Finnigan of Guelph, Dr. L. R. Leggett of Guelph said he conducted the test for Finnigan at the request of defence counsel Abraham Usher. Dr. Leggett said that during the Second World War, as medical officer of health for Guelph-Nfld., he instituted inspection of all air-crew who drank excessively. The honourary title is leaving on a flight.

Finnigan is charged in connection with the death of Mrs. Ida Lena Irene Leader of Guelph. Before he admitted the test as evidence Mr. Justice J. U. Wilson excluded the jury and gave Mr. Usher time to seek similar cases in law reports.

Mr. Usher reported he could find no similar cases, but asked that the evidence be admitted as it was the only way in which defence could hope to refute crown evidence of Finnigan's condition after the mishap.

Weather Will Warm Up 'Bit' On Saturday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A blast of sub-zero air—the coldest of the winter in some areas—is forecast from Saskatchewan to the east coast Thursday night.

The mercury will not drop as low, however, says it will warm up "a bit" Saturday. Just how much is uncertain.

"The frigid weather probably will last more than 24 hours in one place," a forecaster said. "Moderating winds from the west will start moving in from the Maritimes, by tomorrow."

Temperatures as expected from Saskatchewan to Quebec today. A Manitoba low brought some snow to the Maritimes.

Toronto recorded six below zero temperatures, the previous low set temperature. The previous low was 10 below in 1934.

Other cold spots: temperatures Thursday night: Regina -3, Winnipeg 5 below, Sudbury -30, Ottawa -15, Montreal -18.

Fire Loss $30,000

WELLESLEY, Ont. (CP)—Fifty ice-coated firemen today fought an overnight blaze which destroyed an apartment building and contents causing an estimated $30,000 loss.

Two families were left homeless and damage was estimated at between $25,000 and $30,000. It was the worst fire in the history of the village of 500 persons, 18 miles north of Kitchener.

Max Hinds, Lodz, owner of the variety store, said the blaze broke out from undetermined causes in the basement. It then quickly ignited the apartment building.

EXPRESS BAGGAGE ON AIRCRAFT TO BE EXAMINED

Govt. Plans to Guard Against Time-Bombings

OTTAWA (CP)—The government plans to tighten its guard against time-bombings of aircraft, it was announced today.

The 1949 disaster near Quebec City when a time bomb aboard a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane killed 23 persons cropped up Thursday during Commons debate on amendments to the Explosives Act.

Mines Minister Prudham said the government plans to have express and baggage placed aboard passenger aircraft to see if they contain explosives.

If the plan is adopted, the officials would be given special inspectory under the Explosives Act.

The question was raised by Rodney Adamson (PC — York West) who moved an amendment to the act under which air lines would appoint the inspectors. He withdrew the amendment after Mr. Prudham outlined the government's plans.

Mr. Adamson said close inspection would prevent a repetition of the 1949 tragedy in Quebec.

TERRE HAUGNED

Mr. Albert Guay of Quebec City murder-minded the time-bombing to kill his wife. He was convicted of murder and hanged, as were Mrs. Arthur Pitre, who put the bomb on the plane, and Joseph Ernest Rusat, a watchmaker who made the bomb.

Mr. Adamson said there have been at least seven similar cases in other parts of the world. Some were successful and four failed, including the bomb did not explode.

The Commons debated, by a vote of 100 to 20, the Quebec amendment opposed to granting police the power to make an arrest without a warrant where they believe the Explosives Act is being violated.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre), who moved the amendment, said such power at present constitutes a departure from "traditional principles of justice."

Justice Minister Garson said the bill was "not a declaration of war on public against "a future Mr. Guay."

Will Punish Selves

OTTAWA (CP)—A Liberal and a Progressive Conservative have decided to punish themselves for using the expressions "you know" too frequently.

Jean Francois Pouliot (L—Temiscouata) said Thursday in the Commons he would pay a dollar apiece for a month. Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) promised not to say "you know" for six months.

A Tory is an old English word for conservative which Grit is an early expression for a Liberal, but are used today in a critical sense.

1,000 Reported Sold to Residents In United States

Jewish Couples Paid $3,000 To $10,000 for Children

MONTREAL (CP) — Combined Montreal and provincial police forces were reported today to have uncovered a $3,000,000 black market in babies in which more than 1,000 have been sold out of the country here in the last 10 years.

Information obtained leads police to believe most of the babies were sold in the United States to Jewish couples who were led to believe the French-Canadian and Catholic infants were born of parents of the Jewish faith.

Reports here said evidence was uncovered both in Montreal and New York and that the Jewish couples paid from $3,000 to $10,000 for babies.

BIRTH RECORDS FAKED

Falsification of birth records is reported to be the basis of the racket, said to involve local lawyers, doctors, nurses, nursing home operators, contact persons in recognized institutions and their social welfare court connections.

The combined police investigation into the racket is under direction of the Quebec attorney-general's department. The racket is said to have been "in utter and complete disregard" of Quebec adoption laws which state that adoption must be by parents of the same religion as the child.

George W. Hill, Montreal lawyer representing the attorney-general, recently returned from an investigation trip to New York where he was accompanied by Detective-Sgt. Edgar Belair of the Montreal police department.

Provincial police officers, detectives and the crimmit unit (Michel Deltorquio, have been occupied with the local investigation for the last week.

Mr. Hill said the investigations are hampered by complete revocation of the Quebec adoption laws.

RELUCTANT TO TESTIFY

Early investigations were hampered by reluctance of persons who adopted children to testify in any local court. Many had been advised by United States authorities that their status in relation to the presumably adopted Canadian children would remain unchanged.

Several persons, believed to have operated in the general racket scheme, transported the babies from Montreal to Quebec City, where they were housed for a month. A Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) promised not to say "you know" for six months.

The system is reported to have had a devised mysterious telegram numbers and enigmatic phrase words.

$500,000 Fire Loss Suffered At Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—A six hour fire was brought under control shortly before midnight after it leveled a Lobaw grocery store and destroyed two other buildings.

John E. Dougherty, co-owner of Goodfellow and Dougherty Limited, a planing and bearing firm evidently suffered extensive damage and water damage, estimated total damage at $500,000.

Buildings gutted were the Woodman Tire and Auto Accessory Company and Dougherty's grocery limited.

The Goodfellow and Dougherty building was saved from the spreading blaze by a fire wall separating it from the other buildings in the block on downtown George street.

Residents of an apartment over the store were able to remove some of their belongings before the roof could be damaged by water and smoke.

STARTED IN FURNACE

The blaze was believed to have started in an explosion of oil furnace in the basement of the one-storey grocery store, fire officials said.

The fire leaped to concrete fire wall to the nearby buildings and then the roof of the two-storey groceteria, said by its builder to be fireproof, collapsed.

All stock in the Loblaw store was destroyed by fire and damage to shelves and supplies in the two gutted buildings was extensive. The auto accessories shop had a similar story of a large quantity of supplies earlier burned.

Choking smoke from burning tires and other rubber goods in the accessories and Dougherty's store use gas masks as they battled the blaze in sub-freezing temperatures.

Debate Still Raging on Whether Cripple Is Really a Wolf Boy

By RANGASWAMI SATAKOPAN

Picked up by police at Lucknow railroad Junction Jan. 17 in a wolf's den, the boy, Ramu, has been named Ramu.

Although conflicting views are the hospital superintendent, Dr. D. N. Sharma, who says he is "perfectly convinced Ramu is a wolf boy, and Kali Prasad, professor of psychology at Lucknow University, who says he is equally convinced Ramu is "anything but a wolf boy."

Prasad investigated Ramu for three days at Midnapore near Calcutta in 1920.

"We plan continuing behavior studies this month, at the end of which it will be possible definitely to say whether he is a victim of mental difficulty which Ramu is suffering."

Dr. Sharma has ready answers to Prasad's arguments:

"All wolf boys cannot be howlers. Some will be mute. Ramu is a mute. Wolf boys need not be necessarily crawlers. Ramu walk on four. It all depends how the wolf brought up the boy. Ramu walked on four feet in a wolf hole or dark cave where he might have to crouch. He extend his legs and hands only occasionally, but not always.

"Wolf boy's mental level is not an imbecile. He no longer eats human flesh, as he did occasionally, licks water or milk with his tongue instead of sipping. "When hot he used to put his tongue out as dogs and wolves do, and when cold he crouches. He sleeps also like a dog or wolf. The first symptoms of a return to human habits was seen when he began to weep like a child instead of howling, and showed interest in balloons."

Chamber of Commerce Panels Agree Prices to Level Off But Differ on Sales Volume

What does the future hold for business in Belleville and Canada generally? Members of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, holding their 36th annual meeting at the Rhrine Club here last night, heard that 1954 will see production and prices level off but payrolls in this city, certain substantially unchanged. Panels of leading businessmen and Canadian Bank of Commerce economists and surrounding district discussed these and other questions and the conclusions of the panels were subjected to a cheery by a panel of experts. This panel of experts disagreed with conclusions reached by the other panels in some instances. For instance a panel member said that unemployment at a dangerously high level in this city and the country as a whole, but one of the experts said the expert view was that retail sales in Belleville in 1954 would be the whole will increase this view but the panel's view was that they would not. Regular panels and experts agreed that the chamber of commerce should continue its activities relation was being contemplated on a public matters of interest to the union dues. There was agreement, too, that a city run by a city manager rather than by an elected council system would be better served.

These, among other views were voiced and discussed as the meeting which present were divided up between eight tables with selection of two questions which they might choose for discussion. After a limited period of time a spokesman for each table rose and stated the group's views on the two selected questions. At a ninth table another panel composed of men who had completed their discussions relating to the questions selected by the tables was then already advanced by the table spokesmen.

FAVOR CITY MANAGER.

One of the most contentious questions of the evening revolved around the form of city government with Alderman Jack Bradford as spokesman. The question was: Do you think the interests of Belleville would be better served with a city manager rather than our present form of municipal council and why?

Alderman Bradford reported a majority at his table in favor of city manager agement. The findings were then presented to everybody by Alderman Haig who said: "The employment of a city manager in place of the present municipal council system would be the type of government we should all like to have" he said during achieving.

"I firmly believe there should be some continuity in government and government policies. How can you look down the present council to see what I mean. Council is elected annually remembering than rapidly changing policies within a municipal council and the result is that it is to be extremely expensive," Mr. Haig continued.

"There is no better proof of the difference between city manager control and elected council than the contrasted views of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission and the city council. There is no better public utility in the province than the Belleville Hydro," Mr. Haig declared emphatically. He went on to say that furthermore, in my experience at city hall, in all arguments between the utilities commission and city council, the utilities were right nine times out of ten. I hereby recommend that Belleville one day adopt this managerial type of government."

PRODUCTION WILL DROP

It was agreed by another table that production of the home industry will be down throughout this year. Jan Morich, spokesman for the table discussing the question, expressed the belief such production would taper off. The panel was borne out in its opinion by G. A. Freeman, who stated he agreed with the findings. Mr. Freeman expressed the view Canada has reached the saturation point with heavy industry. He said there would be less and less demand for heavy machinery and suggested loss of various export markets would also a contributing factor in the decrease of heavy production by industry.

Part two of the same question asked if Belleville pay rolls would be up or down in '54. Mr. Morich said his table believed they would remain substantially the same. Mr. Freeman declared that if anything pay rolls might increase somewhat but not drastically.

DISAGREE ON CREDIT

Meanwhile the third table said they believed consumer credit had reached dangerous levels in Canada and the city of Belleville. Charles M. Cawker disagreed with their findings. He quoted figures from a survey of personal liquid savings and personal real savings for the years 1939 and 1953. The survey, which was taken in the U.S.A., revealed that in 1939 the average personal liquid savings totaled 62.3 billions of dollars and the real savings were listed at 32 billions of dollars. Today, Mr. Cawker reported indicated liquid savings were up to 190 billions and real savings amounted to 154 billions of dollars. In conclusion, the panel member said: "There is room for lots of borrowing and lots of sales on credit for years to come."

SHOULD VOICE VIEWS

Table four arrived at the conclusion the Chamber of Commerce should intervene in subjects like labor relations and unemployment in Belleville. This view, however, was not unanimously supported by the members of the table.

In replying, Malcolm Robb, K.C., emphatically that the Chamber of Commerce "must decide" by the majority rule on the check-off. He listed two reasons. "It is unwise, foolhardy and dangerous for employers or employees to compel employees to support a union through check-off means." Secondly, he said, only a small percentage of employees belong to and support, socialism in this country. Mr. Robb pointed out, 80 per cent of union leaders do so. He also said that there is a "communist plot" to control unions in Canada, but, he added, a minority group of Communist leaders at their head.

"When check-off legislation, I feel, is simply forcing employees to contribute to the party which is not always support a cause which is not that of the employees," Mr. Robb concluded.

INDUSTRIES' NEEDS

Transportation, reasonable taxation and extra privileges, and a rental purchase plan were three major things a new industry would look for in coming to a city, declared panel five.

Fred Scott, G. R. Scott disagreed with the panel's reference to extra privileges. Mr. Scott said that a town should offer extra privileges to prospective industries. He pointed out the given industry already established in the town. He supported the other views expressed forth by the panel and added several of his own. Among these were low rates per hospital care, schooling and housing situations were examined by prospective industry. He also advocated keeping managers of already established firms informed of the benefits offered by the city. Every investigation of industry prefer to inquire from industry in the city as to the benefits of the city. Mr. Robb, in supporting a number of suggestions offered by table seven on the best ways of promoting new industry in the community, said that the availability of suitable plant locations was a prime importance. He said at the present time the Industrial Commission has nothing to offer prospective industry and lacks the power to - expropriate land. He described Foster Ward as an "absurd situation." Mr. Robb said: "The Industrial Commission or the city council should have the power to tell the people of Foster Ward they have two years to get out." However, he pointed out the people this city could be done would be by legislation.

MEMBERSHIP ADVANTAGES

Table six G. A. Freeman described the manner by which an individual member of the Chamber of Commerce benefited. He said his ideas brought before the cabinet. He explained that suggestions should be submitted to the local board of directors, who, if they felt the suggestion had merit, would enlist the support of other local boards of chamber cities. From this point the resolution would be placed before the Dominion Council of the Chamber of Commerce, which, again, if it deems it has sufficient merit in the suggestion would in turn place it before the cabinet. Mr. Freeman, reciting a major reason why membership in the Chamber of Commerce is beneficial to a member and what benefit the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is to the local business man. Table eight had unanimously listed several other advantages of Chamber of Commerce membership.

Salesman Put Brief Case In Wrong Car

A Toronto salesman, who left his brief case in the wrong car by mistake, got two surprises this morning. One of the surprises was when he later discovered his belongings were missing. The other was when he reported the disappearance to the police station only to find his property was waiting for him.

The salesman had parked his auto on Front Street, while he made a call. Returning to what he thought was his own car he placed his briefcase in the vehicle and went away. Later he returned to his own car and saw his briefcase was missing.

In the meantime a city housewife had returned to her car and found the brief case inside. She turned it over to the desk sergeant at the police station and the officer set to work to await the call from the worried salesman.

Cattle Buyers Active In P. E. County

Export buyers are purchasing quite a number of grade and pure bred cattle for shipment to the United States, according to the weekly crop report published by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Buyers are particularly active in Prince Edward county. In Northumberland it is reported that good springers are in demand with top graders bringing up to $200. Farmers now have the best opportunity in years to get into pure bred cattle at low cost.

Baled hay is also moving into the United States and buyers seem able to secure adequate supplies from the district farmers although the price is not considered high. Feed supplies are very satisfactory for this time of the year with ample supplies of roughage and coarse grains on most farms.

Fields throughout the district are well covered with snow affording protection for winter grains and meadows. The majority of farmers doing bush work are well ahead with their cutting.

In Hastings there is still a strong demand for straight hogs, installing pigs selling well at from $14 to $16 each.

This young Canadian pianist was born in Belleville. His formal studies began in Halifax after the family moved there in 1936. From 1947-1949 he continued his studies in Toronto and the next three years were spent studying in England under Sydney Harrison and George Woodhouse.

In England, he received acclaim especially for his performances of contemporary works and during these 3 years he concertized extensively both as a recitalist and as soloist with orchestra. His Wigmore Hall recital in February of 1953 received excellent critics and public allke.

Neil Van Allen has been awarded numerous scholarships from various musical organizations, the Rotary and Kiwanis Service Clubs and the Nova Scotia Talent Trust. It was thought such protection was for that this young man's artistry will be prepare himself for the brilliant career he is destined.

Since his return to Canada Mr. Van Allen has been giving recitals through the Maritimes, Ontario and Quebec and has been featured in television and radio broadcasts.

This concert is the first major undertaking of the club since it was organized in the city in 1949 and members are busy with the sale of tickets and look forward to an enjoyable and successful evening.

Chamber of Commerce Annual Hears Reports by Officers

Four reports were presented at the 89th annual meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce held last night in the Sirdne Club. Reports were offered by the past president, C. M. Cawker; the 1954 president, T. E. Burrows; treasurer Stan Goodwin and secretary-manager D. W. Kingdon. The meeting was well attended by members of the local Chamber, guests from other Chambers of Commerce, the local board of directors, city officials and aldermen.

The incoming president, T. E. Burrows, in his address, expressed personal appreciation to members of the chamber for "their faith and confidence in my ability to guide the affairs of the Chamber of Commerce during the coming year."

HIGH STANDARD MAINTAINED

"The progress report shows that a high standard of efficiency and service was maintained under the able direction of my predecessor, Past President Charles Cawker. He gave unsparingly of his time and effort to make 1953 a banner year. As a member of last year's board of directors, I would like to pay tribute to his excellent leadership and on behalf of the board and our members express appreciation to Mr. Cawker for a job well done.

"Looking over the past, one finds opportunities for the future holds a challenge for all of us. We all know the future may be un-certain, but there are sign-posts to direct us if we only look for them.

"For instance, the opinions of leading business men across Canada as were published recently in Financial Post. In general they indicated that the Canadian economy will be keener, business will likely continue at its present high level throughout 1954.

"We read that new deposits of uranium ore are being discovered across Canada from the uranium fields of New Brunswick to the oil fields of the west and that geologists predict the surface has only been scratched.

"Last week, it was announced that the St. Lawrence Seaway is off the drafting board and that a full scale working model has been completed, with every likelihood that actual construction may be commenced before the year end.

"The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports that the cost of living which rose so rapidly the last few years has now levelled off and dropped slightly from its high level.

GENERAL OUTLOOK BRIGHT

"From these reports and others of which I am sure you are aware, I believe that you will draw the conclusion "that the general business outlook is bright for at least the next twelve months'. If such be the case, industrial activity will continue at a high level—will in turn be reflected in general business growth throughout the country.

"In Belleville we find construction figures are up. Two new schools are being built, a new Dominion Government building is nearing completion to house the Income Tax Branch, Air Force and our hospital has been made possible by the generosity of the local and district citizens. These new projects will create a demand for goods and services which will provide employment which will support many more families. I cannot mention the new hospital wing without paying tribute to our director, Jack Vanover, chairman of the hospital board, who had the vision to plan this project and also past president A. McLean Haig, the general campaign chairman, who had the courage to accept the responsibility of raising a million and a quarter dollars for this urgently needed addition to the hospital.

"If it were the custom in Belleville to vote a 'Man of the Year,' I am sure that for 1953 ex-Mayor McLean Haig would poll a high vote.

"I may have digressed a little but I believe that a hospital auxiliary and all who worked so hard for including several other of our directors and many more of our members, deserve special mention. Unfortunately our allotted time does not permit me to do so. Still, it is certainly a perfect example of a community project carried through to successful conclusion."

The president said further he believed that in the year ahead, the Chamber would play an important part in the progress of the community, for example in complimenting the membership in electing a "governing board of directors for the coming year." Mr. Burrows then introduced each member of the board.

REVIEW YEAR'S WORK.

Past president Charles Cawker reviewed some of the past year's work and paid tribute to a number of officials for their active in Chamber work during 1953. Bill Willis, Malcolm Robb, E. A. Freeman, A. McLean Haig and Don Kingdon were all complimented by Mr. Cawker.

Mr. Kingdon, secretary-manager, in his report briefly outlined events of the local Chamber during 1953, paying particular attention to the industrial, retail, and tourist committees. He commented on the Dominion Bureau of Statistics report that the cost of living "Here your chamber supports all kinds of solicitations for members and the public and promotes the slogan, 'Before you invest—Investigate', Mr. Kingdon stated.

The secretary urged members to contribute to the chamber financially, not only because it promotes the community, but also because it is "the only organization which stands for and maintains free enterprise." Mr. Kingdon said the chamber also needed the time, advice and counsel of its members and "we have more than lip service", he stated.

SPENT $8,843.

S. E. Goodwin presented the treasurer's report for 1953. He revealed the Belleville Chamber of Commerce expenditures for the last year totaled $8,843.

A. M. Hale, a director of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, spoke briefly during the meeting. He described the Ontario Chamber as belonging to the Ontario government what the Canadian Chamber is to the Canadian government.

Mr. Hale felt it was an honor to be a director of the Ontario Chamber. "An honor," he said, "for which I am deeply grateful."

Ald. Bruce Smith Named Chairman Of Authority

Alderman Bruce Smith was named chairman of the Moira River Conservation Authority at the inaugural meeting held at Shire Hall. Alderman Smith succeeds Reeve T. C. Graham of Tweed, who has served as the authority chairman for the past two years.

Vice-chairman of the authority is Reeve Earl Seger of Madoc. Committee chairmen are: executive: chairman, Bruce Smith; flood control, Reeve Thad Buskard; soils and water advisory board, James Spry; reforestation, J. Smith; public relations, Fred G. Mitchell; parks and recreation, G. Nicolson.

H. Crown, conservationist with the Department of Planning and Development, brought members up to date on the progress of the basin model at the proposed Colleage street dam. The proposal is for an ice control dam to be built on the Moira immediately north of the city limits, by the benefiting municipality, to pay the authority share of the cost of the structure.

SURVEY COMPLETED.

A survey for the dam site has been completed but no action will be taken this year on construction of the dam. The city would pay 25 per cent of the cost of the dam, the balance to be paid by the provincial and federal governments.

A budget of $5,000 for reforestation, half to be raised by municipalities in the authority on the basis of assessment, was approved.

A total of 2,034 acres is now under the authority for reforestation purposes. Most of this acreage was reforested land taken over from Hastings county council and other municipalities.

Possibility of pioneer village as proposed by the Ontario Federation of Agriculture being established within the watershed, was discussed by Harold Tavy, Hungerford township. H. Crown, conservationist, said he would investigate the proposal.

GRANTS MADE.

At an executive meeting following the inaugural meeting of the authority, members voted that a grant of $50 be made to public schools within the watershed where schools are organized in carrying out conservation work.

It was agreed that the conservation board of directors be in charge of planning and development work and when made the public schools within the watershed where schools are organized in carrying out conservation work.

It was agreed that the conservation board of directors be in charge of planning and development work and when made the public schools within the watershed where schools are organized in carrying out conservation work.

Col. Roscoe Vandervater was appointed secretary-treasurer of the authority for 1954.

Woman Suffers Lacerations In Car Collision

TRENTON (Special) — Helen Letcher Bailey, 22, of Rednersville, suffered face lacerations and body bruises yesterday when the half-ton truck she was driving became involved in an accident with a car driven by Norman Leslie Vivian of 1066 Dundurn Rd., R.R. 3, Scarboro. The accident occurred on highway No. 30, north of Brighton. Vivian escaped with a bruise on the head.

Mrs. Seeley claims she stopped her truck at the approach to the highway but a cement bridge abutment blocked her view and she did not see the oncoming car proceeding south. Both vehicles were damaged extensively. Dr. Brimsell of Warkworth treated the injured woman.

O.P.P. detachment at Brighton investigated.

SITTING ON APPEALS.

Judge Gerald Smith of Napanee is expected to be here to hear appeals of Trenton ratepayers against the decision of the Court of Revision which time time ago completed its review of assessment of Trenton properties in accordance with the terms of the provincial statute.

Citizens are reminded of the 1954 assessment hearings when 239 dissatisfied ratepayers sought relief from the decision of the assessor when that year was H. G. Mogg, now living in Grimsby. This year appeals have been lodged on used the provincial manual as a guide for the reassessment. The notices he sent out brought appeals from some 227 property owners.

Extension Ladder Used to Get Cat Down from Tree

A long extension ladder, plus tree climbing ability on the part of a black-and-white cat, finished Sussex Street, late yesterday afternoon resulted in the rescue of a cat from a tree which had defied efforts of firemen and a human ladder to bring him down from a tree on church St.

The cat's name and ownership has still not been determined, was chased up the tree Tuesday morning and although friendly and a humane society officer attempted to lure the animal down, he climbed into the higher branches.

Late yesterday afternoon Redquest climbed into the upper branches and was able to reach the cat, which apparently had had almost enough tree sitting as he was willingly brought down. The cat is being kept at the home of Miss Josephine Tuckell in chance its owner turns up.

Recommendations On Zoning By-Law To Be Presented

Three recommendations regarding proposed changes to the city building and zoning by-law will be presented to council as the result of Thursday night's meeting of the city planning committee which held an open meeting at the city hall to hear proposals for by-law changes.

The city zoning by-law will be up for final approval by the Ontario Municipal Board at a hearing to be held at the city hall, on March 4th. At that time amendments to the by-law will be considered.

A strong delegation from the Parkwood Heights district was present at the planning committee meeting called by committee chairman Alderman Arthur Keeso.

Recommendations approved by the meeting included:

1. That the A-1 section of Parkwood Heights be eliminated and the area be made an "A" zone, thereby eliminating apartment buildings and leaving the area strictly residential.
2. That there be no business section in the Lingham street and Wallace Ave. district.
3. That two building lots owned by J. T. Ransom on the old cemetery become property to let an "A" zone, allowing only residential construction.

The three recommendations will be presented to council which may either turn them down or pass them as they are. Residents present at the hearing for final approval of the city building by-law.

Mrs. Elsie King of St. Ola Guest Of Honor at 84th Birthday Party

A silver-haired octogenarian, eyes sparkle with the sheer joy of the occasion, among those who lives on her natal day and recalled other days in Hastings county before the advent of automobile, radio and other scientific gadgets.

She is Mrs. Elsie King of St. Ola, who celebrated her 84th birthday at the home of a nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Collins in the North Hastings community a few days ago.

Among the many guests who paid tangible and other tributes to Mrs. King were Mrs. Wilfred Weller, Rochester, a daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips and daughter, Shirley, a nephew and niece; Mr. and Mrs. S. Fuller and baby, Steven and others.

Still in the best of health, Mrs. King was the "life of the party." She is mentally alert and physically active. She does her own housework and conducts personal shopping tours.

SHOWERED WITH GIFTS

An enjoyable dinner party that featured Mrs. King's birthday was pleasantly interrupted when she was showered with gifts and cards as a memento of her natal day. The presentations were made by Miss Gail Phillips, the youngest relative present.

A beautiful birthday cake, with a candle for each eighty years, occupied the centre of the dining table. Not to be outdone or give way to her age, Mrs. King "blew out" the candles with a spontaneous outburst of applause.

Drawing on a remarkably retentive memory, Mrs. King regaled her party with incidents of the "long ago" when she was a tot in the community. When just a few years of age, she said she drove 25 miles with a horse and buggy to Lake St. Peter over snow-covered terrain.

"My father," she said, "and other men of the district, had to trudge 25 miles to Madoc carrying sacks of grain on their backs. The grain was ground and used for food."

Maple syrup was a staple food in those days, Mrs. King said, and in the spring the whole community turned out to make syrup and sugar. Vinegar was also made from the syrup.

The folks of those days, she added, spun their yarn from wool and made woollen clothes for their families, also yards of carpet for floors and spreads for their beds.

Mrs. King, a daughter of the late Mary Casserly Baragar spent some of her early girlhood in Springbrook, where she learned to be a seamstress. Later she had her own sewing business in Foxboro.

She married Gordon King when a young girl, the couple spending their honeymoon in Toronto. Mr. King died in 1941.

After a brief sojourn there, they moved to Salmon Lake where they ran a tourist home. Following Mr. King's demise, Mrs. King moved to the home of her daughter Mrs. Phillips where she has resided since.

Mrs. King retains the active interest in church work she had when a young woman. For many years she served as organist at the Methodist Church at St. Ola.

LONG-LIVED FAMILY

She comes from a family noted for its longevity. Her mother lived to be 94 years of age. A sister, Mrs. Rosetta Casserly of Trenton is 86. A brother German Baragar, Coe Hill, is 82. Mrs. Thomas Greene, a sister, of Trenton is 79 while Mrs. Thomas Ham, a sister living at St. Ola is 76. Two other sisters, Mrs. George Phillips and Mrs. William Bateman died several years ago.

Mrs. King is an expert on hen cooking. She can, she says, "set a table that would tickle the palate of a king," with no pun intended.

She keeps the house spotless. Asked how does it, she replied "with this modern age of push-button equipment, one doesn't need any ambition."

Mrs. King has a remarkable record of "keeping healthy." Only once in her life has she seen the inside of a hospital as a patient.

She intends to visit relatives in Rochester, but will delay it until warmer weather, "when I can do my shopping in comfort."

The remainder of the party evening was spent in special amenities and viewing slides and pictures showing the beauty of Mrs. King's beloved Salmon Lake and other parts of the district and world.

"OPERATION MULTIPLE"

Prime Minister St. Laurent's globe-girdling tour could be described in the term style of military jargon as "Operation Multiple" because it is indeed a tour designed to accomplish a multitude of things.

Superficially it is a social call to the heads of many states who have honored Canada with visits in the last few years. However the social amenities cannot claim, by themselves, so much of the Prime Minister's time in such exhausting fashion. Undoubtedly the social interludes provide the journey with a semi-official character that will allow the Prime Minister and his hosts to dispense with unnecessary and time consuming formalities while both sides proceed with the real business of exchanging ideas and information of mutual benefit.

The fact that the Canadian Prime Minister is visiting abroad with no intention of trying to secure financial assistance, trade concessions, or military aid from his hosts will make it much easier for him to learn first hand what is transpiring in the world capitals.

In this connection Mr. St. Laurent's visit to India is of particular importance. India's position in the community of free nations is being viewed with alarm by many leaders as Nehru more and more openly expresses his sympathies for causes more closely allied with Communism than with the West. With Russia poised on India's border in Tibet, with these Indian states under the control of Communist dictatorships, and with India's growing dispute with Pakistan and a projected Moslem alliance, the Indian question is rapidly assuming major importance as a global strategy. Her drift from the Commonwealth and the effective pressures of Indian nationalism make India more and more unpredictable.

In such a situation a statesman of Mr. St. Laurent's calibre could be a force for inestimable good in a dual role, as leader of a member nation in the Commonwealth with no longer history of independence than India's Mr. St. Laurent could point out to Nehru certain mutual advantages to be derived from continued association without in any way compromising India's growing national sentiment. Perhaps at no other time when Communist conspiracy was revealed in the nation's capital, Mr. St. Laurent is in an excellent position to tell Nehru some plain facts about Communism that he might not have heard before. As leader of a country that voluntarily contributing twenty-five million dollars to the Colombo Plan for the unselfish development of southern Asia, unquestionably Mr. St. Laurent can speak with the evidence of his good faith all about him.

An accurate appraisal of the Indian situation by a top-flight Western diplomat is of paramount importance and Mr. St. Laurent qualifies on all counts as a sort of "joint nation" ambassador should Nehru wish to unburden himself about his plans. Mr. St. Laurent would also make an excellent intermediary for the setting up of a possible east-west conference in the future. Canadian statesmen have inherited the role of negotiators and intermediaries in world affairs in the past 50 years and they have played these parts with conspicuous success.

It may be only coincidence that Mr. St. Laurent's tour takes him first to London, Paris and Bonn at a time when the West's policies are engaged with the Russians in Berlin and then again it may be prophetic. In all events Mr. St. Laurent will arrive in India eminently suited for a task that needs doing and adequately outfitted on the most recent developments in Western strategy.

NORTHERN LIGHTS SEE QUEER SIGHTS

It may not be too long before the refrigerator salesman of song and story starts peddling his wares to the Eskimos. That is if one can believe the stories about the ambitious program afoot around this industrial corner for Canada's most northerly citizens.

A missionary who recently returned to Belgium from Labrador has predicted that discoveries of iron ore, uranium and radium in the north will transform nomadic Eskimos into industrial workers. He also states that the Eskimos' natural talent with machinery makes them highly adaptable workers.

In the House of Commons members have argued that Eskimos could become Canada's next generation of wealthy textile merchants if synthetic fibres could be economically established. Resources Minister Lesage pointed out that there are now only 7,771 reindeer in northern Canada and Howard Green, External Affairs minister, noted that it is possible for the north to support 40,000,000 reindeer.

Both the Belgian missionary and Mr. Green may be right in their estimates of future wealth for Canada's Eskimos but the most recent news report from the far-north concerned an RCAF airlift of 2,200 pounds of buffalo meat more than 1,100 miles for the purpose of feeding 50 starving huskies.

Visions of bustling cities and thriving industrial communities in the far north suffer a rude jolt when it is realized that the husky dog team is still the Eskimos' chief means of locomotion. And prospects of 40,000,000 reindeer seem like a pipe dream when the RCAF has to haul in 2,200 pounds of buffalo meat to feed dogs. It may be that in the next generation Canada's Eskimos will be enjoying unprecedented prosperity. But for the present it seems unlikely.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

This day we put our duties by,
A tribute once again to give
To Lincoln, born like all, to die.
But long in memory to live.

Were he to speak to us, he'd ask,
Lest freedom's glorious flame should fail,
To that still great unfinished task
Renewed devotion from us all.

We who now share the cause he led;
Resolved and steadfast must remain,
That liberty's devoted dead
Shall not have given their lives in vain.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 12, 1934

Mr. and Mrs T. W. Sullivan, Victoria Avenue, will celebrate the 50th anniversary of their wedding tomorrow and will be at home to their friends from three o'clock in the afternoon.

The Rt. Rev. John Lyons, M.A., D.D., Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, dedicated the new St. Mark's Anglican Church at Bloomfield on Sunday afternoon. The Rev. G. G. Wright, rector of Christ Church, Belleville, acted as Bishop's Chaplain. The rector of the parish is the Rev. Canon W. G. Swayne, a former rector of Christ Church here. The building of the church was made possible by the benificence of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Simpson, who for many years were faithful members of the parish.

It is fifty years ago this month that the original Girls' choirs were was consecrated; this building is still standing to the westward of Moreboro on the 12th concession of Rawdon. Two beautiful stained windows were placed there by the Bishop; one is the gift of Jesse and Mary Sophia Barlow in memory of "William and Theda Frost." The other is to the memory of "Olive Beatrice and son, A. Rose Brown" and is the gift to the church of their husband and father. They were also faithful member of the parish.

In the second of the series of the June of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Asselstine at their home on the 8th concession of Sidney township, which appeared in this paper on Feb. 11th., an error was made in stating that it was the fifty-wedding anniversary also of "Mr. and Mrs. Ketcheson's" son, Arthur and his wife. This should have read "Mr. and Mrs. Asselstine's son, Arthur and his wife, not Ketcheson. They also received a number of nice gifts.

A junior Sunday School hockey league was formed at a meeting which was held in the Y.M.C.A. The majority of the boys interested are from the larger and the players must be under sixteen years of age. So far the following Sunday Schools have entered the league: Christ Church, Bridge Street Church, St. Andrew's Church, the Baptist Church and the Tabernacle.

At Napanee in a Bay of Quinte League hockey game the score of that town defeated Belleville, the score being 7 to 2. The following composed the Belleville team: Scott, Goyer, Blute, Whalen, Symons and Armstrong; Silas Arnott and Arnold.

There is an aeroplane factory in Belleville and it is the first and only aeroplane factory in the Dominion. The factory was established here five months ago by H. R. Folly and his brother. The engineer is F. Davidson, who for three and a half years was head constructor with the Curtiss Aeroplane Company; he started with the Curtiss Company in its infancy. The first machine has been completed and the plans here on file will be placed on exhibition shortly. It is made of 3,000 pieces of silver spruce, mahogany, rock elm, white ash and black walnut, connected with the best nickle steel. Shelby steel tubes and guyed with special aeroplane cable. It is the strongest, lightest of its size and is the finest constructed aeroplane in the world and is identical with one of the most powerful motors made. Belleville citizens should support this industry and turn out in large numbers to view the aeroplane when it is placed on exhibition in the city hall.

The city council threatens to build three and a half miles of granolithic sidewalks this coming summer, but the measurements may shrink a mile or two. How about the gravel walks which the Mayor promised in his opening speech? Some good gravel walks would be better than several miles of granolithic walks on paper.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It takes such a long time to revive city spirit after a bad winter. For instance, there are still millions of city people in Canada who have dreams of getting out of life and going out to the country to live in peace and serenity. They don't know that the country is now noisier and more riotous than the city.

What city people dream of, is waking in the early morn to hear the first crow of the rooster and the faint lowing of the cattle in the barn. The first thing you hear around the farm today, about daybreak, is the explosion as the tractor being started just outside your window. The next thing is the tractor's big diesel engine roaring in the barn, and the shouting of two or three men above the racket of the tractor's and the truck's engines. Then the tractor's some little matter of driving five steers to market.

By this time you are aware that whoever is down in the kitchen has the radio turned on full, and one of those gruesome early morning disk jockeys is giving gay and hearty at the top of his lungs, in between playing rousing cowboy songs and square dance music. An airliner, on its regular route, roars overhead about 1,000 feet up. Its engines making a tremendous rocket echoing off the wide empty fields.

Just as you bury your head in the pillow—it being still only five-forty-five—a truck or tractor under the window gets under way, with a violent thunder as it starts. As its engine dies in the distance, the party - line telephone in the hall outside starts to ring — one, two, three; one, two, three. Now, this isn't our number, so we just ignore it. It keeps on ringing. We just ignore it—that is, if we are not city people. If we are, then they are used to ignoring all sounds and disturbances that do not directly affect the listener.

Daybreak being nigh, a couple of dogs start barking excitedly. The barn is being opened. Some kind of engine in the barn starts up, thud-thud-thud. The loud bawling of cattle, the squeal of pigs, joins the barking of the dogs as the great new day.

And from there on, for the rest of the bright long day, engines snort, tractors clatter, radios, like machines have been, twitter, thump, in the glory of the modern-ization and mechanization of city farm.

Bradshaw's Timetables

George Bradshaw was born in Lancashire in 1801, the son of a humble couple who, previous to his birth, had worked at Wigg Wycombe in the service of the Dashwood family. Their son went to school at Everton, in Lancashire, but unfortunately his father could not afford to continue his education after he was fourteen. Like so many ambitious Victorians, George Bradshaw was to be a self-made man. He was apprenticed to a printer and bookseller in Manchester, but before long he set up by himself in a similar line of business. In the meantime —and this is important—he had become a member of the Society of Friends, the Quakers. It was these religious beliefs which led him to want people to know each other better.

He began in the late 1820s to specialize in maps of canals and navigable rivers, for it was the 'inland navigation.' It was an original idea because as he pointed out in an appendix to them, no such general maps had hitherto been widely available. The waterway charts are beautifully engraved and full of fine detail. The few railways of the times were shown on these maps, but it was inevitable that the step for Bradshaw to turn his attention to railways would be a logical one. It is difficult for us in these days when we can travel faster than sound to get each other speak to realize what isolated lives men and women led even as late as 120 years ago. Then, a journey from one country to another was an adventure.

In the 1830s Bradshaw saw the great possibilities in the new railways, and set himself to work on presuming that speedier travel would mean people would get to know each other better and therefore the establishment of a more peaceful world. It was, in fact, a belief held by many of the Victorians.

The opening of the Liverpool and Manchester Railway convinced him that the future lay entirely in railway development. This decided him to start on the publication of the timetables. Of course, he did not invent or originate the idea of timetables, for people coaching days the stage-coach proprietors had found timetables of arrivals and departures. The earliest railway timetables were issued with schedules of their own particulars lines. But these were very limited in scope. They did not give the information of a particular locality of their operation, and a traveller who came from afar would find it difficult to plan his journey upon any reliable information. Bradshaw saw that he did was to combine all the various timetables into a single and authoritative volume.

In the first Railway Companion of 1839 there was not a great deal of material to interest anyone but no more than eighty-two railway companies in the country — but he outstripped his rivals (and there were several of them at the beginning) by the sheer comprehensiveness that passengers were human beings and not parcels and therefore more than statistical tables to be taken for granted. Bradshaw's timetables are clear and concise, set out upon the great venture into the unknown of a railway journey. He was the first man to want people to travel with ease and confidence, to be informed about and meeting their fellows. So he added maps, the distances between towns, hints on the lines, advice about labelling luggage, recommendations as to the best porters—they were strictly forbidden to accept a penny more than a shilling—and the cost of taking one's own horse and carriage on special vans so that one could complete one's journey at the other end. Nor did he leave the travelling unaided and open to exploitation on arrival at his destination. The cab fares in all the principal towns were tabulated.

Once he had firmly established the Railway Guide—the title was soon changed to Bradshaw's Railway Guide—he started a correspondence, column, encouraging passengers to write in praising and complaining and printing replies in full. Among other things Bradshaw was a pioneer in "Letters To The Editor" in the newspaper. They were a regular feature of the guide in the middle of the last century.

Almost from the beginning Bradshaw was a publicist, but like all exponents of new ideas he met with opposition. Nevertheless, some of his most violent opponents were the railway companies themselves. Their objection was that his publications would make punctuality in railway travel a matter of investigation' and they feared that laws might be passed making punctuality a legal offence. As we know, nothing of the sort happened. Bradshaw himself deplored such ideas of coercion—but he would point out that it is hard to be kept the railways up to the mark, acting as a kind of public conscience against slackness and inefficiency in the running of trains. The railways, too, soon saw that he was working to their advantage, and by the middle of the century he was accepted as a national institution. Royal arms were stamped 'By Authority' on the cover of the guide, and his timetable was a favorite subject of music-hall jokes and comic papers—a sure sign of popularity.

About this time, too, there appeared the inevitable companion to the British guide, the Continental Guide. It was planned primarily for the British travellers going abroad, but Continental nations also owe Bradshaw a debt for making available on a wide scale information about their railway communications.

I have talked at length about Bradshaw's timetables because they are today his chief memorial. The creation of the railway guides was in keeping with his character. But timetables were only his business. His life-work was helping his fellow-men. Today we hesitate to interpose on the latter about 'improving people'. The Victorians had no such inhibitions. They set out to improve each other because they believed everyone was capable of improvement and that a better state of society was inevitable.

Bradshaw never forgot that he had been denied advanced education in consequence of his father's poverty. He wanted everyone to have the chance to better himself. It was in this spirit that he was one of the first founders of night schools in Manchester, giving much time and money to this project, and to the end of his life he continued to support and tending these schools. He was active in a wide field of philanthropic endeavour. Like many businessmen in that century of individual initiative, he made money. But more than most successful men he gave abundantly of his private income. A contemporary said of him that he "devoted his time as a single case of genuine distress which appealed to him in vain for help."

But above all Bradshaw's burning desire was to bring people more near each other. He was a man of his background. A hundred years ago the Victorians, for all their faults, believed that world peace was a practical possibility. Bradshaw's kind, they thought, would soon reach a sufficient stage of enlightenment to end war.

Bradshaw, for religious reasons, was a friend of Richard Cobden. He associated himself with such men as W. E. Forster, Bright, Cobden, and the American Elihu Burritt.

The outlook of Bradshaw and his friends was this: If governments and the people of the world recognize the importance of getting on with the job of world peace, the first thing to do was to organize international conferences of international bodies and individuals at one's own expense. This would at least be a check on the authorities. So Bradshaw was a familiar and prominent figure at peace conferences in Paris, Brussels, Frankfort, and many other continental cities. To us today it is quite wrong to imagine that he was a starry-eyed idealist or a woolly-minded pacifist.

They were not content only with conferences in their own country — they must together — and it was still not possible for the great majority — at least they should be able to communicate by other means. But the cost of letters between different countries was expensive. So Bradshaw and his friends in the forefront of a movement for an ocean penny post; that is, for a penny to be carried all over the world at the lowest possible cost. So the fact that today we enjoy cheap international postal services is due in no small measure to George Bradshaw.

He was constantly on his travels. For the last few years he was only fifty-two when, on one of these journeys, he died suddenly in Christiania, now Oslo, the capital of Norway. It is not unfitting that his body should lie in a churchyard, not unlike some of the most peaceable peoples of the earth.

This Man Got Wires Crossed

A woman in Saskatoon had a new gas furnace installed but when she turned the thermostat up nothing happened. She went down to the basement, snapped on the light and found the furnace blazing away. Puzzled, she went back upstairs to the kitchen and continued. Eventually she called in the gas company. They discovered that the gas man had crossed the wires to the thermostat. Every time she turned on the basement light, it went down and have a look at the furnace it clicked on, and when she disconnected the light off the furnace went off.

Production Records

(Ottawa Evening Citizen)

The Canadian trucking industry had the best year in its history in 1953, a record which it enjoyed in common with many other businesses. Even so, human demands for goods and services are far from satisfied, and in fact many families in Canada still live a marginal existence. There is need for more production records to be broken.

"Home Economics trained person" and has done a good deal of teaching given lecture courses in nutrition. She has no objections to the nutritional theories I propound, indeed she embraces all of them, but still she considers my column one of the worst.

Come, come, now, that sounds like something the old sourpuss himself might say.

A little of my "cuteness" might be endurable but I overdo it.

For example, I am constantly harping on the lodin ration but, the lady says, it took her hours reading my column to learn just how to get it. The same criticism applies to my teachings about vitamin B.

In reply we beg to state ouch, ouch! The criticism is just what probably deserved.

It is not so easy to tell readers how to do it, when we are talking about the lodin ration—the way to get the amount of iodin every man, woman or child needs daily to maintain good nutrition and good health. There are at least half a dozen different liquid preparations of lodin (lodine old spelling) and more than a dozen different tablets of lodin or lodide. Then, too, since I began urging every one to get his lodin the strength and even the name of the official (U.S.P.) liquid preparations of lodin have been changed two or three times. It is not remarkable that you are embarrassed when you go to the drugstore to get your lodin and the clerk questions you suspiciously about your intentions and I have small sympathy or kind of lodin you want. I'd hesitate to try to prescribe without first consulting the last decennial revision of the U.S. Pharmacopoeia.

Queries indicate that some people take medicinal doses of lodin before you have the misapprehension that I advise it. On the contrary, I advise you not to take lodin or lodide medicinally unless under your physician's direction.

INTIMATE COMPANION

For over thirty years a small portable typewriter has been almost my daily companion. At the home, in my office, on trains, and at my summer island retreat, it has gone with me as essential equipment. And now I have a brand new one. So I am flattered one that is almost as stylish as the finest models of our automobiles.

I say that this little machine is silent—well, not totally so, but with little threshing of wooden keys. My doctor hears from a good heart. Now it responds to the slightest touch of my fingers. My simple thoughts begin to take life, line by line. It only takes what you tell it to, even when you hit the wrong letter, but, it's an intimate, beloved sort of companion.

Now I can work together mostly during the silent night, talking to we don't know how many people or what. So I am very proud to be an accessory to what some term literature, which is but another word for expression. At any rate, this silent machine expresses the writer himself. It exalts the writer himself. It awaits the printing out of every thought.

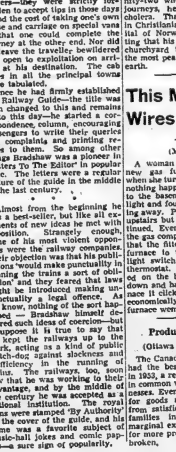
DISCOVERING SPIRITUAL TRUTH

We speak of an event being supernatural. What do we mean by supernatural? Nothing just what the word indicates—above natural. This does not necessarily mean that it is contrary to what is natural or even that it is beyond what is natural law working in unfamiliar combinations or with unfamiliar potency. It simply means something that is above nature.

So slowly in denying the existence of the supernatural. Many things which today appear perfectly natural to us would, a generation ago, have appeared wholly supernatural. Furthermore, after the mathematicians, the scientists, and the philosophers have finished with their reasoning, there is a vast area of reality which their reasoning appears never to have touched.



The Bible claims to deal authoritatively with this material. The word "supernatural" does not of course occur in the Bible, but the Bible deals with almost nothing else. The whole purpose of it is to call it the will of God, the power of God, the revelation of God. It deals with the supernatural works and God's wrath, and God's loving purpose.

Science has no technique for laying hold of any such information. Spiritual truth can be apprehended only spiritually; that is, through the spirit of man. And with faith, even simple-hearted men can receive and believe much significant than any discovery ever made by a scientist.

Early Days of Salvation Army Recalled As Local Corps Celebrates Anniversary

(Editor's Note; In the following article Roger Parks writes of his memories of the early history of the Salvation Army in Belleville. From his long association with the Army here he has recalled much interesting material about the expansion of the local Corps and about the men who participated in its growth. The Ontario Intelligencer publishes this article on the eve of the Army's seventy-two and a half anniversary in Belleville.)

BY ROGER PARKS.

The announcement of "Anniversary" caused the writer to think back as far as memory would serve. Pictures under the mantle of the mind persons and incidents belonging to an earlier date, and I talked of in later years in the writer's home. This will not be a report for the opening of Belleville Corps, although I believe a Sadie Miller was the officer who was responsible for that. It is forgotten.

There have been some fine examples of Army leadership standing in this city, and possibly none finer than "Captain "Nellie" Bond, of Toronto, who as far as the writer has been able to ascertain, is the only lassie to be remembered by living persons. Her work here, as in other centres, was outstanding, not only for the progress made, but for the spiritual influence she had on the public of all classes, for the good of the cause.

"CAPTAIN NELLIE" MARRIED.

Capt. Nellie was married while stationed here to Capt. Ernest Bowyer and her achievements, Mr. Nicholson, Editor of the Star of Montreal, then situated on the corner of Pinnacle and Bridge Streets, tells me, yet it is now known, provided her wedding and personality. The wedding ceremony was observed in Bridge Street, McGillivray officiating, now at Bridge Street United Church.

Two hundred guests were invited to this event and to the reception in the Army barracks which was provided by the ladies of the church. Following the service was a Salvation Army march around the town, headed by the local town band, all in uniform, in honor of Capt. Nellie. The bridal party accompanied by Mr. Nicholson, drove with the march in Mr. Nicholson's carriage.

The wedding cake was, according to the late Mrs. John Young, made by the mother of Bro. Richard Burke, Mrs. J. Burke, who later was Mrs. W. E. Parks.

A TURN OF CENTURY.

While the following officers may not be in their proper order, they all had been here about the turn of the century, Capt. Duckworth and Lieut. Henthorne, Ensign and Mrs. Cameron (late Major Cameron) and for quite a period the writer was regularly visited by Capt. S. V. Ash, Capt. Malcolm Ross and Capt. H. Burd in the quests of the Grace Before Meat Ensign.

About this time, too, a couple of candidates left for the Training College, there under the direction of Major and Mrs. Stanyon, with Commissioner Sam Hoodis as the Territorial Commander. The Stanyons were to follow Colonel Eva to the U.S. at a later date. The two candidates were Carrie Silcox and Millie Parks.

During the year of 1902 or 1903 the Corps erected a large tent at the entrance to Victoria Park and large crowds were attracted to these meetings.

At one time the regular meetings were held in the Metropolitan Hall, which was recently demolished to make way for the new Royal Bank building. The writer recalls hearing on several occasions, of a man attending a meeting in this hall, while under the influence of liquor, walking through an open and unprotected doorway, falling to the ground and feeding found dead.

SITE DONATED.

Later, the site of the present Citadel was given to the Army by Bro. and Sister Bleecker, while Jack Creeper family (very good friends of the Army) contributed much material for the new building. The Hall served as the home for this Corps for many years, a place of tender memories, of great battles fought and won, of great rejoicings, and also places of farewell to many such comrades of early days as Captain and Mrs. Miller and Sergeant Marian Thompson. These two are quite clear in the writer's mind, the former though seriously handicapped in body, was a true soldier of the Cross.

She is remembered as sitting on the right side (the ladies' side) of the platform and nobly witnessing for the Saviour. Part of a testimony given by her is remembered as—"If I could stand here through Eternity and tell of the goodness to me I wouldn't have praised Him enough for all He has done for me."

The other comrade seldom got by rank, just Marian Thompson, loyal, hard-working Salvationist, who through the medium of the War Cry especially, carried the Message of Hope to hundreds on the streets and in the bar rooms. After her death most of the furniture and furnishings occupied a place in the Quarters, for many years, including an organ that some may remember. This saintly old body rests in White's cemetery.

NEGRO COMRADES.

It is interesting to recall the visit about this time of two Negro comrades—names cannot be recalled — who spent a period here in the Corps and introduced to the district the beautiful song "Whispering in My Heart." This song brought blessing to many hearts, but unfortunately, is practically forgotten today. It is a beautiful song that certainly merits a revival.

About 1904 or 1905, during the command of Capt. Gibson and Lieut. Thompson, the roll of the Corps had been standing weekly band practices under the direction of Mr. Chas. Smith, whose son Stanley and Lloyd were later to do good service in the Corps.

Mr. Smith had had band experience but did not care to assume the responsibility of leading but was quite prepared to tutor beginners. Among those practicing were Cadet Adams, Bro. Burke and W. E. Parks. These men had rendered valuable service to the Army in public when the Hughes family arrived from England and with Bro. J. J. Murray. As Mr. Hughes had had considerable Band experience was pressed by him to whip the band into shape, a band that has functioned ever since.

NEEDED INSTRUMENTS.

Of this band little can be learned apart from the fact that Wallace Root, George Madden and Connie MacElwards had played for it and that there was a real need for additional instruments. John Connaul, a furniture dealer, advanced money for the purchase of those required.

In order to repay this money the officers decided to serve dinners in the unoccupied O'Brien House on the 12th of July, when the Orangemen were walking here.

This was a great success and the writer recalls a morning spent helping Bro. Burke prepare the water and peel potatoes for this dinner. The Adams family also arrived here the day previous. Many of the corps will remember this couple with deep respect and admiration for their sterling qualities.

There is an amusing incident told in connection with a visit of the late Comm. Turner while he was Provincial Officer with H.Q. at Ingersoll. The Commissioner playing cornet and his assistant, trombone, made a musical duet as they headed the march down Front Street playing, "Oh, The Land of the Bending Lamb." It is reported that the number was played with, evidently more gusto than the composer had planned.

INITIAL APPEARANCE.

The band made its initial appearance in time and one of the first open air performances was in the district of Holloway Street Methodist Church, where many all the weeks were of wood. The local paper reported it as "The S.A. Band played over the wooden sidewalks Onward Christian Soldiers."

It is also reported that the first appearance of the band was amusing if not altogether impressive. It is said that Bandmaster Hughes (cornet), and son Jack (euphonium) and myself (B flat bass) were possibly the only ones with any ability on this instrument, marched down Front Street, while all either side playing "Regent's Hall March". However, it wasn't long before there were more added to them, but unfortunately the Hughes family, along with the recently arrived friend, Jim Murray, moved to Kingston.

Brother Jack Burke is the only active members remaining now, although Bros. Murray and Hughes are still active in Kingston.

OUTSTANDING OFFICERS.

The visits of some of the outstanding officers of that time are interesting to recall. The writer recalls hearing how the Morris boys, along with the writer's eldest brother, were sent out to sleep on the platform when their parents were doing special meetings here. These boys were to be Major Harry and Frank Morris of later days.

Lady Sladen specialed here for a week-end, and were the streets ever sloppy. It was arranged for her to be driven to and from the meetings and unless an error occurs here, it was the late Walter Lamont who attended to this matter.

Col. Pugmire was another and his singing was always greatly enjoyed. One of his favorites was "The Homeland" and it is significant that the same song was sung at his funeral and also at that of Commissioner Eva Booth and recently when Comm. Ernest Pugmire was buried.

Even the younger members of the corps will recall the visit of Col. John Roberts, who carried a miniature of the cell in which he had been imprisoned in the Old Country. Somewhat later we were to see the late Comm. Cadman with heavy boots, baggy trousers and who knelt in the street to pray.

LIGHTED BY GAS.

The Hall about this time was lighted by gas and a slot meter was in use. It is recalled that one night as a meeting progressed and a certain young soldier set with the writer's sister, Millie, the gas supply began to fluctuate and the young man was given the nod that the meter needed a quarter. A hurried trip was made to the meter and the meeting proceeded in "proper light."

About this time the corps commenced holding corps picnics to certain resorts on the Bay. One of these was to Twelve O'clock Point and on this occasion there was quite a fight between a man and his wife. They were not Salvationists, but I believe the Army has never returned to that point for a picnic. If so, it has been of quite recent date. The Varune and Aletha were the boats that carried these picnics and later the Brockville was added to the list.

NEW BANDMASTER.

With the removal of the Brooks family to Kingston there was an urgent need for a new Bandmaster here and I believe Bro. David Wardle was contacted and we arrived in Belleville and took charge of the band. This position he filled, almost continuously for many years.

Soon others came from the Old Country were Bandsmen Adams and Bandmaster Wardle started a Songster Brigade. In this position he was soon relieved by Charlie Robinson, later Major Chas. Robinson, who was a graduate from the Training College Mac Parks took charge. It is recalled by many that the first piano was bought and the little tuning whistle was discarded.

In the meantime Cupid had been busy and Capt. Ash was married to Lieut. Thompson; Ensign Weir married to Lieut. Gilmore, and Ensign Bagnall was married to Capt. Gibson. Those who remember Mrs. Gibson will claim them only with the greatest love and highest esteem because of their sterling qualities.

BRANCH ESTABLISHED.

About 1915 a property on Sidney Street was secured for the Army by retired treasurer, B. W. Green and the first branch of the came known as the Branch. The writer recalls the work of meeting in the Sidney Street, the general changes made in the building and the painting by Mr. Brown and Adjt. Ritchie and others in its work. Later Sergt.-Major Hopkins and the writer assisting Miss Humphreys in the painting of the floor. There may have been other assistants but the writer doesn't recall them.

Sidney Street Corps became complete and the writer remins if no further mention was made of the Corps in the Hall owned by the late, beloved Bessie Humphreys, where now hangs the Roll of Honor wall of the branch today.- Only the Great Day will reveal what was accomplished by the efforts of this devoted, talented and sanctified woman. She was so kind, and capable and tireless in her work for the people of that district, especially the needy mothers where her knowledge of nursing was nothing less than God-send. That neighborhood must be much the poorer for her devoted efforts there.

PAYS TRIBUTE.

One could not close this article without paying tribute to all who have labored in the corps for the extension of the Kingdom and have now gone to their reward—among those following:

Bro. and Sister Mac Smith, Sister Bessie Gulliver, Sergt. Major Thompson, Bro. and Sister Dave Smith, Bro. and Sister Young, Bro. Lew Johns, Bro. Wallace Root, Bro. and Sister J. Connaul, Bro. and Sister A. Horne, Bro. and Sister Bleecker, Sister Mrs. Silcox, Sister Mrs. (Millie) Burke, Bro. and Sister Parks, Sister Annie Bennett, Bro. and Sister D. Leaden, Bro. Fred Wardle, Bandmaster David Wardle, Bro. Bandmaster Bro. Fred Wardle, Bandmaster David Wardle, Bro. Thos. Holland, Bro. E. D. Rudman, Bro. Ernie Adams, Bro. Thos. Holland, Songster Leader and Mrs. Thomas Adams.

According to a letter recently received from an officer in the United States a certain Capt. Williams was stationed here in 1895. These are the officers believed in charge of Belleville Corps at the time that the writer's family moved to this city from Bolton. This is quite an unexpected link with the past, that has come to light.

Senior Captain and Mrs. Fred Brightwell are the present officers of The Belleville Corps.

Salvation Army Commissioners To Take Part In Special Program

One of the Salvation Army's outstanding leaders, Commissioner William R. Dalziel, commander of the Salvation Army in Canada and Bermuda, will conduct a special two-day program this week-end as the Belleville Corps celebrates its 70th anniversary.

Commissioner Dalziel will chair the program Saturday evening and will chair and speak at a special anniversary dinner Saturday evening. Both events will be held in Bridge Street United Church. Commissioner Dalziel will be accompanied by his wife.

Commissioner Dalziel has been in Salvationist all his life, being born of Salvation Army parents. He became an Officer from King's Corps, London, England, in 1904.

For some years he was attached to the International Training College in Clapton, London, and left his mark upon young men and women who are not officers in all parts of the world.

WORLD WAR SERVICE.

The Commissioner saw service in World War I, being in charge of The Salvation Army's Ambulance Unit in France.

Later, the Commissioner was appointed also to Canada where the Salvation Army's Scout Movement, from that position of incalculable influence he was appointed Divisional Commander. In this capacity he served at Leicester, Liverpool and in South London, distinguishing himself by dashing leadership. He was afterwards appointed Assistant Chief Secretary in the British Command. From that place of preparation he came to Canada in 1930 as the Chief Secretary.

Promotion to the rank of Commissioner came with the appointment to take charge of the work in Australia. In the Second World War years were marked by an admirable record of service instituted and maintained among the Australian troops in all parts of the world.

Appointed to London as British Commissioner in 1946, he sought to meet the challenges of the country's post-war years and consequent austerity; under his guidance many projects were put and for the peoples of Great Britain were inaugurated.

INTENSIVE EVANGELISTIC EXPANSION.

The Commissioner took charge of The Salvation Army in Canada and Bermuda in January, 1951, and has since guided the Movement through a period of unprecedented expansion.

The Commissioner is recognized as an outstanding public speaker, equally at home and equally inspiring whether addressing a small group in prison or camp, or on the platform during the crowded citizens' rallies he has conducted successfully from coast to coast in Canada.

Tall and commanding in appearance, the Commissioner has musical and literary gifts that helpfully accompany those physical qualities of leadership such as boundless energy and tireless zeal.

Three children are resident in Canada: Major (Dr.) Ronald Dalziel, M.C., Assistant Medical Officer, Central Ontario Command, Toronto; Dr. Douglas, specialised from medical missionary labors in China and now in Toronto; and Muriel (Mrs. N. Leith), also of Toronto, formerly a nursing sister with the R.C.A.M.C.

Mrs. Dalziel, before her marriage was Lieut.-Colonel Miriam Houghton, for many years Superintendent of Army Hospitals at Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, and later head of the Women's Social Services of The Salvation Army in Canada.

Weddings

MURPHY—AIRHART

MARMORA. — With pink and white chrysanthemums and ferns adorning the communion table of St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, the wedding was solemnized there at 11 a.m., on Saturday, February 6, of Evelyn Jean Airhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Airhart of Deloro, to John William Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Murphy, of Marmora. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. R. J. Crawford, B.A., B.D.

The wedding was played by Mrs. H. C. Barlow. Before the service, Miss Edna O'Neill of Belleville sang "Because" and during the signing of the register, "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was prettily attired in white satin, with tulle over taffeta embellished with inserted tiered lace bouffant skirt. The fitted bodice was topped with a bolero of lace and she carried matching mittens. Her veil of nylon tulle was caught to a crown of pearls, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Her bridesmaid was Miss Ella Pendy, of Marmora, wearing a strapless gown of blue nylon topped with a fitted jacket. She wore matching mittens and carried yellow chrysanthemums.

The flower girl was the bridegroom's cousin, Judith Codlin, of Lindsay. She was attired in pink organdy with matching headdress and carried a nosegay of pink snapdrags and mignonette.

Mr. Andy Murphy, of Port Hope, was his brother's groomsman and the duties of usher were discharged by Grant Airhart, brother of the bride.

The reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received wearing a gown of plum faille and crepe with black velvet hat and accessories. Her corsage was of yellow tea roses. The bridegroom's mother, who assisted, chose a gold brocaded gown with wine and white accessories and corsage of yellow tea roses.

For the wedding trip to points in Western Ontario, the bride wore a navy and white two-piece suit, navy hat, gloves and shoes, white topcoat, and corsage of red roses.

BLACK—BENNETT

Tall standards of pink and white snapdragons lined the chancel rail, and bowls of pink roses, the setting in St. Andrew's Chapel, Kingston, Ontario, on Saturday, February 6, at 3:00 p.m., for the marriage of Gwyneth Audrey Bennett, of Point Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Bennett, to Douglas Kenneth Black, of Belleville, son of Dr. and Mrs. Grant N. Black, of Port Colborne, Ontario. The ceremony was performed by Canon Craughmont Castle, competently played by Gordon Bashill, and of his aunt, Lady Eileen Stanford, in which part June Bowerman acted and sang with great excellence and ability.

The bride's sister, Peggy, sor-trayed by Darlene Dalrymple as a most vivacious and charming lass, has caught the fancy of Sir Clarence, a distant cousin obviously from the English (very English) branch of the family. Outstanding Performance Given By BCI Glee Club in Operetta

By ROBERT TANNER

With commendable promptitude at 8:15 p.m., Thursday night, the curtain parted on the first performance of "The Lady of the Terrace," an operetta presented by the Glee Club of B.C.I.V.S. The efforts of several months of work and concentrated work on the part of the producers, cast, chorus, dancers and technicians. Before they closed again finally, some two hours later, a large audience had been treated to a most successful and highly entertaining performance, and many of them left humming one or other of the catchy tunes.

Billed as an Irish fantasy, "The Lady of the Terrace," cannot be said to boast much of a plot, but then what operetta does? Suffice it to say that it provided a suitable and attractive frame for a dazzling display of talent, good excellent lighting effects and a wealth of colorful costumes. Clifford Tompter and Linton Reed, whose musical and theatrical abilities blended in the production, are to be heartily congratulated on adding another success to their growing list of Glee Club presentations.

WELL STAGED

The terrace of the title provided, under the skilled hands of Ernest Tindale, a simple and formalized setting for the whole action, to the effectiveness of which a real working fountain added considerably. With such a huge cast of nearly ninety, simplicity of setting was obviously essential and as a result, the final tableau, with everyone on stage, did not seem unduly crowded and provided an extremely effective climax.

But we are starting at the wrong end. The task of opening the show fell, not to the usual chorus, but to Dennis O'Hara, an Irish servant and his wife, Molly, very ably played and sung by Don Cherry and Jacqueline Avery, both with attractive, Irish brogues never faltered throughout the evening. The O'Haras are in the service of Sir Gerald Craughmont, the impoverished owner of Craughmont Castle, competently played by Gordon Bashill, and of his aunt, Lady Eileen Stanford, in which part June Bowerman acted and sang with great excellence and ability.

Sir Gerald's sister, Peggy, sor-trayed by Darlene Dalrymple as a most vivacious and charming lass, has caught the fancy of Sir Clarence, a distant cousin obviously from the English (very English) branch of the family. In this) branch of the family. In this part, Neil Smith delighted the audience with his clipped speech and mannerisms. Some light on Sir Gerald's financial darkness is shed by Mr. John Chandler, a wealthy New York business man, who arrives with his daughter Clare to rent part of the castle for the summer. George Fenwick played Mr. Chandler with conviction and dignity, while Suzanne Cavers was a daughter as very attractive and charming that any young man would love to rent his castle to her father. Evil enters in the form of Squire Michael, Sir Gerald's uncle, holder of the inevitable mortgage and possessor of the equally inevitable handlebar moustache, a part in which Ernest Tindale obviously delighted, that his delight was transferred to the audience in full measure. Thus they were able to find love and virtue triumph and villainy is finally foiled.

ABLE CAST.

With a cast of principals so uniformly good, it would be difficult and invidious to single out any for special praise. All worked well and smoothly together to produce a fully rounded show. In the Irish brogues of the chorus or villagers, guests, creditors and lawyers. (Obviously some quick costume changes here). All the ensembles were well staged and executed, and the costumes throughout from the humblest skirts of the castle girls to the simple dresses of the villagers were colorful and attractive. The singing of the chorus too was lively, with good harmony and expression, but diction was missed a word.

But no operetta would be complete without dancing and here we were treated to the solo exhibition of Norman Wyatt, of the Esther Lillian Ballet School, the grace of line and motion of Gwendoleen Maldens (Clara Hull, Arlene Glenn, Carole Pringle, Helen Payne, Barbara Thrasher, Carol Osborne, Deanna Mansfield, Barbara Dennis and Barbara McElrath), and the stately beauty of the gavotte as performed by Jean Churchill, Tony Cavers, Beth Davidson and Carol Reid. Once again their performance fitted in with, and contributed markedly to the overall success of the evening.

We must not forget those workers behind the scenes, whose names did not appear on the program. The wardrobe mistress and her staff evidently had an enormous job to do and did it admirably. The orchestra undoubtedly hampered by the shortage of dimmers (soon, we understand, to be remedied) produced a number of most attractive lighting effects which added variety to the performance. In this connection, it was pleasant to see what an asset the new front-of-house spots are and how they made it possible to use the stage apron, an opportunity which Mr. Read was not slow to seize.

OUTSTANDING SINGING

But when all is said and done, it was upon the singing of the principals which gave the greatest pleasure. Even ignoring their comparative youth, their confidence and ease were a delight and their tone and accuracy of pitch all that one could desire. All of them can feel justly proud of a job well done. Maybe they were all happier singing their acting, but after all this is the Glee Club and not the Dramatic Society.

Two of the constructive components. Hands are always a problem to the amateur actor, especially the men; try to find something natural to do with them. Rather too much aimless movement at the beginning of Act I. Make up, not too convincing in some cases, especially on the older men, and why all the sideburns? The girls in hoop-

Pupils of King George School Display Art at McCarthy Theatre

An interesting collection of handwork, pencil and crayon drawings, and embryo art by the pupils of King George School, is to be seen in the lounge of the McCarthy Theatre. These include work by the various grades, from grade one through to grade eight, showing the young, would-be artists' attempts with color and a given subject which was progressively more and more accurate as the grades progressed.

Among the grade one ideas displayed was that of a bone, tree, a little soldier, built, girl in blue, red and above, some of the pupils ing in a more or less straight line. When looking at this first attempt at expression on paper in color, one was impressed with the subject matter, which, though still in drawing was lacking, yet the idea of home life was clearly evident.

There were also pictures of snowmen wearing some sort of cotton batting overcoats, which added quite a touch of realistic dimension effect. Other handiwork by the first graders were cards and scrolls of colored paper, adhered to colorful backgrounds, forming a border construction, often tightly rolled.

FINGER PAINTING.

Grade two also some intriguing designs in finger painting which most children are interested in during this side their color appreciation, and also makes the neatness of finger and muscle control. These were in green, orange, red and yellow shades.

The fairy stories included Peter Pan, Jack and the Beanstalk, which must have been given in well-enriched ground judging from the healthy proportions of Jack on the stalk, either according or descending, reminded one of a little tree lined on a huge maple tree trunk; however, the idea was clear, even to the vision of the giant's castle above in the clouds. Little Red Riding Hood and the big, bad wolf were also there, quite realistic, as they met in the wood.

The drawings of trees in autumn showed a range of colors, with the shades of russet brown, highlighted by a touch of yellow; others in mauve and red, with the lower part in a brownish purple with touches of white and yellow, showed more interest in detail, and an appreciation of sunlight.

A picture which drew the attention several times was one titled, "A Dull Day." This was done in shades of brown with beige like tones, depicting a street scene with a house with steps leading to it, and a little girl with umbrella approaching the steps. This showed much talent, and an appreciation of the subject.

IN FLANDERS FIELDS.

Another eye-catching piece of work was "In Flanders Fields," which was rich in color, and pulsating with life. The soldier's cemetery with a white cross, with a super-imposed rifle on the upright position, while there were poppies on either side at its base, brought to mastery "In Flanders Fields", and also that of a stained glass window in the west hall of the Cathedral at Rheims, France, where a soldier stands looking down at the grave of a departed comrade, and underneath are the words, in Latin, "Dulce et decorum est pro patria mori"—"Sweet and right it is to die for one's country."

"The Mask", was nicely drawn and showed quite plainly the impression of a pelt held by the four corners.

The cartoons of famous funny strip characters were nicely done and included, "Donald Duck", "Pluto", "Archie" and "Uncle Wiley".

SAFETY POSTERS.

The safety posters are always most interesting, and in this showing there were several, some of which were straight forward in their advice; while others implied a portion of sarcasm, and irony, as that poster depicting "Slow, ground courtesy", which showed a pig in a jolting manner, showing the children in front, as they ascended a playground slide. There were those warning on crossing the streets; to look up and down, and to remember the often slighted advice of 'stop, look, and listen' the three words which won the prize for railroad crossing signals, of several hundreds of cards which were shown. Every one was sturdy and strong, and of sufficient height to overpower the locomotive which it guarded.

A nicely drawn piece of pencil work was that of the "Lone Wolf", which deserved more than a little applause, as there was life and expression shown on both the face of the sitting wolf, and the howling way, and of the man who stumbled forward on seeing what confronted him.

CARICATURES.

There were several caricatures also in pencil; though not things of beauty, yet were painstakingly done, and showed clever work which caught the attention was that of the "Lone Wolf", which deserved more than a little applause, as there was life and expression shown on both the face of the sitting wolf, and the howling way, and of the man who stumbled forward on seeing what confronted him.

The picture of the interior of a living room, done in pencil, gave the impression of space, and quiet-ness, shown by the plain, old-fashioned fireplace; a spinning wheel at the right, a bed at the left, and between the two, the lower right hand corner, and across from her the window, in the centre of the room, a large, round rug, possibly a braided one, though this was not shown.

Another pencil picture showing very commendable work in arrangement was that of the running pony with mother and colt, showing imagination, was what might be called "The Battle in the Sky", which appealed to many for the disintegration of a plane which had been shot bit by bit, and the white bursting shells from an anti-aircraft battery below were evidently doing the work.

Lastly, there were color efforts in patchwork design, and cut-out colored paper ties.

An interesting collection of little folk, some artists whose works may some day in the future draw comparisons with the Dickens' caricatures, if the budding talents are kept correlated, and sufficient powers to keep "pressing toward the mark."

Pr. Wales H-S Association Sponsors Valentine Tea, Euchre

The Prince of Wales School Valentine tea was held in the senior room Wednesday afternoon.

The room was beautifully decorated by Mr. Rodgers pupils, grade 7 and 8. It was a delight to see, in a truly Valentine setting.

The valentine euchre was also highly successful. Proceeds to aid playground equipment.

GUESTS GREETED

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Sprouls and Mrs. H. Bell-Irving, after which they visited the candy table convened by Mrs. Burch, assisted by Mrs. Harry Coleman and Miss Wendy Burch.

The candy table had an umbrella in the form of Valentine red and white which was most effective and pretty.

On the home cooking table, were all sorts of tempting goodies, pies, cakes, jams, jellies, fruit preserves and pickles. The convener of the home baking was Mrs. Orr assisted by Mrs. G. Oliver and Mrs. A. Bongard.

The Valentine theme was carried through with the tea table decorated artistically by Mrs. A. Bongard assisted by Mrs. Hall.

Pouring tea for the first hour were the tea past presidents, Mrs. A. Clark and Mrs. A. Dickens; for the last hour Mrs. E. Bedford and Mrs. C. Miller.

TABERNACLE W.M.S.

The February meeting of the W.M.S. was held in the ladies' parlors of the church with the president, Mrs. May, presiding. There were twelve members and two visitors present.

Mrs. May opened the meeting by reading a poem "Advance of a Church of God."

The business meeting followed with reports from some of the secretaries. There were 18 calls made. Mrs. Fisher, Stewardship secretary read an article, "What Can You Contribute?" We are to give what we have. What is my money? It is my feet, my hands, my other self. It is to be used in the right way."

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER

The World Day of Prayer was announced to be held in Victoria Baptist Church on March 24.

The Belleville Presbyterial also was announced to be held in Tabernacle on March 25. Special speakers, Miss Dorothy Young and Mrs. Mumford.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Archibald and Miss Morton, assisted by Mrs. Nelson.

Miss Morton took the worship service, her theme "Missions in the Church of the Open Book." A prayer was followed by a reading "Thee O God. We praise Thee for the light that shines on the Scriptures. Help us to study Thy Word and meditate on it."

Mrs. Archibald took the chapter on South America, taken from the study book, "Where'er the Sun Doth Shine."

In the 16th century before the Spaniards and Portugese landed on the country, there was wonderful architecture and beautiful gardens. Now it is all changed. Everybody from ages 20 to 30 was employed, then retired. Their religion—they worshipped the sun. The Spaniards exploited everything for Spain. They brought in the Roman Catholic faith.

MANY STARVING

Now in a country of 126,000,000 people, 51,000,000 are starving. There was so much misery that the Protestant Church, which has been in South America for 40 years, is trying to relieve some of the suffering. The church is called "The Evangelicals." They have built churches, hospitals and school to help enlighten the people. There are approximately 1,000,000 Protestants in South America, less than there are in India.

Mrs. Nelson read an article on how the Evangelicals take the gospel to the people. A great deal is done by radio. People who would not go to the church can sit at home and listen in. Many are saved in this way. Mrs. Archibald closed the meeting.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HOLD ON TO YOUR "NO END" POLICY, BILL.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There is a girl I have been dating a lot of for the past few months, and recently, when we have been home here after a date, she has asked if I was not going to kiss her goodnight. I have never made any attempt to do this.

What I would like to know is, if, when a girl asks a boy to kiss her, it shows that she specially likes him, or is it just a matter of custom?

BILL H.

Dear Bill:

I think you have put your finger on the truth when you suggest that goodnight kisses between boys and girls are pretty much "a matter of routine" these days. Undoubtedly such kissing is supposed to indicate that the boy and girl specially like each other. But haven't they already shown that by having dates together? As a look at it should be sufficient proof of mutual liking, and far more subtle and teen-agers to go. Unfortunately, modern teenage customs seem to be different, and so kissing becomes this matter of routine.

I suggest that you continue your own "no kissing" policy, and just tell this girl, or any other girl who puts you on the spot about it, that you're not the type for it. Somehow I think that to you it is a "different" this way will impress the girls, and make them like you a lot better, than if you were just another boy who would be fair casual kissing. However lightly inclined girls regard kissing and petting, they still like boys who demonstrate their respect, and vice versa.

HE WANTS A WIFE — HELP HAVE TO FIND HER HIMSELF

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Please help me become a happy man. I am 26 years old, 5 feet 8 inches, 130 pounds, have brown hair, brown eyes, an slender and an Argentine. I do not drink or smoke and am a professional worker. I have never been married.

I would like to have someone who is loyal, nice and will obey and who is not over 36 years old, who will make me a happy home.

Please make by lonely days be a happy life with a good companion.

C.A.B.

Dear C.A.B.:

I am very sorry, but I am not in the business of finding husbands or wives for readers. This is something that everyone must do for himself. And the best way to do it, is to make just as many friends as you possibly can, and that sooner or later you will become acquainted with a special someone whom you feel is just right for you and who will feel the same way about you.

You say you have never been married, and perhaps, up to now, you have been a timid type of person who finds it hard to go out and make friends. But, I think you will be well for you to keep in mind, however, that a man is welcome in all social groups, where there are usually more unmarried men than unmarried women.

What I advise you to do is to make it your business to join at least one organization, and one where you can use this first means of making new friends. For example, you might go to the YMCA in your city and investigate the different social groups that have headquarters there. These days most Y's have given up the idea of maintaining dormitories for bachelor men alone, and have set up social groups for all of us.

So I suggest that at the first opportunity you pay a visit to your local Y and ask for a booklet you find in charge there, explaining that you are lonely and need to make friends and find new interests. I am quite sure he will have some good suggestions for you that it would be worth, your while to follow.

One word of warning, though. If you really want a home and happy life with a good companion, you'd better drop that word "obey" from your wedding vocations. Modern wives don't go for that sort of thing.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

GIRLS WHO WEAR GLASSES

Neatest of the Eyes in the Most Foolish Form of Vanity.

How silly can a woman be? By she has trouble handling a needle, because she needs glasses, but would rather die than wear them, she is indulging in the most foolish form of vanity.

And what is her alibi? Always the same. Glasses will make her look older, austere or academic looking is the excuse. In fact, make her look better, more distinguished. If she has dark circles under her eyes, they will conceal them. In any case, good eyesight is more important than appearance. She can, however, select good styles with good looks, since modern spectacles can be had in a wealth of styles designed to accent good features, shadow those not so good.

The shape of your face should determine the shape of your glasses. The color of eyes and hair should determine the color of your frames. Designers of eyewear are authorities on variety of hues to complement the distinctive loveliness of your own.

They suggest that girls with dark hair and brown eyes should select frames of red, cerdovo, amber or contrasting blonde colors. For blonde there are light blues, soft dove greys, a smart midnight blue that is distinctly a new color and as smart as all get out.

For the redhead there are shades of green that are guaranteed to produce a stunning effect. Or, one can select a rich bronze—especially good when the hair has a coppery cast. Black, with its strong contrast to the delicate hair skin, will emphasize complexion coloring.

Then there is the white-haired woman who has an enchanting range of colors from which to choose—all of them effective. Pastel shades are especially lovely for her and plain frames trimmed with silver or gold decorations seem to suit the wearer whose glorious crown has whitened.

Your glasses are the most important fashion accessory.

They are more personal than any item of your wardrobe—even your perfume or the old family jewels you've had since youth. If the beauty budget permits, you should have three pairs of glasses—daytime for spectator or sports-wear and one for dressy occasions.

GOOD MANNERS

By NEIL BECKMAN

THE BIRTHDAY OF A TRULY GREAT MAN

ABRAHAM LINCOLN — a great tribute to a great gentleman are these famous lines:

"A nature modeled on a higher plan.
Lord of himself, an inborn gentleman."

Lincoln, by George Saxe

And these memorable lines:

"The simple, kindly man, Lincoln, American."

Lincoln, by John Vance Cheney

And these often-quoted lines:

"Lincoln's heart was as great as the world, but there was no room in it to hold the memory of a wrong."

Greatness, by Emerson

And:

"A blend of mirth and sadness, smiles and tears;
A quaint judgment of the pioneers;
A homely hero, born of star and sod;
A Peasant-Prince; a Master-piece of God."

Abraham Lincoln,
Judicial Emancipator

And of himself, Lincoln said, "Die when I may, I want it said of me by those who know me best, that I always plucked a thistle and planted a flower where I thought a flower would grow."

Deep regard to the birthday of this Great Gentleman!

SHE'S CALLED A "BRIDES-MAID" — WHETHER SHE'S UNMARRIED OR MARRIED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would like to have three bridal attendants, a sister of mine, another attendant, and my little cousin. The matron of honor is no problem, but I do not know if it is acceptable to have a bridesmaid who is married. I'm confused about the use of this word "bridesmaid! Also my little cousin is 10 years-old. Is she too old to be a flower girl or a junior bridesmaid?

Bride-to-be

A bridesmaid may be either married or unmarried! Despite the syllable "maid" in the word, she may be a young matron. When the honor attendant is married she is called a "matron of honor", but there is no such distinction about the word "bridesmaid." A flower girl is seldom more than 8 years old, from 4 to 6 is the custom with perhaps a pre-school age girl. (particularly if she is "a tall one" as so many girls are nowadays) could be a junior bridesmaid. Then she would walk alone following the bride, and preceding your matron of honor.

THAT PROBLEM-PHRASE AGAIN . . . "SAME FAMILY"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

There are five sisters in the family. Four are married and living away from home, three single, living at home with her mother. The family surnames is Bennett. Recently the five daughters and the mother all contributed to the wreath for a funeral. On the card enclosed they had signed Mrs. Jonathan Edwards and Family. What the correct way to sign the card? How could I tell whether that meant the unmarried sister and her mother, or if it would include the married sisters?

E.

No, that was not the correct way to sign the card. It is always best to avoid that to-often-indefinite phrase, "and family." And if it is used, the real meaning is that it includes only those who live under the same roof. The clear, sensible way to do is to write out individual names of those who contributed: "Mrs. Jonathan Smith and her daughters, Mrs. Henry Jones, Mrs. Edward Brown, Miss Ovid Hall, Mrs. George Norris, and Miss Alice Smith."

OYSTER CRACKERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of mine invited several of us to her house for a Friday Luncheon, and she served clam broth as the first course. With this she passed the small oyster crackers. I noticed that one guest took two or three oyster crackers and put them directly into the broth.

Is that not a correct way to eat them? Should they be eaten separately?

Mrs. H. S.

Yes, that is the correct way to eat oyster crackers. Put them directly into the broth.

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

You once mentioned that you had a recipe for Quiche Lorraine which I had hoped you might print since it has never been seen. I would very much like to have this and your recipe for sweet Elizabeth Bullock's Neapolitan cake.

I should like to have some vanilla sugar using the bean. How much bean to what quantity of sugar? Should the bean remain in the sugar and if not, might the bean be used a second time? or would the flavor be inferior? You mentioned in your column that you have some fancy griddle cake recipes. May I have one or two basic recipes with possible variations—fruit, etc.? . . . different and unusual. I am making wine jellies or fruit jellies where there is little or no pectin would it be possible to use gelatin (unflavored)? I wondered if there is a recipe for making wine jelly using artificial pectin which has a flavor of its own (I) any sort of wine boiling which is the case of wines (might boil away the delicate flavor if it (2) added too much sugar?—(Mrs.) E. G.

ANSWER:

Hmm . . . you sound like a very discerning cook.

QUICHE LORRAINE

Think of this as a savory. It is a delicious dish for socializing ham and cheese. Best either

Another put several on her bread-and-butter plate, and broke each one before she put it into her broth. I had been taught to take several of this kind of cracker, a few at a time, whether plate, then to drop them in whole into the oyster stew, clam broth, or whatever. Who was right about this procedure?

Kiara M.

Your procedure is the proper one. The oyster crackers are put on your bread-and-butter plate and the bread-and-butter plate is served, on the side of the small plate or saucer that is under the cup of soup, or stew, or bowl. You drop them in whole, one or two at a time. And of course it is proper to eat the crackers separately; that is, not putting them into the oyster stew, broth, or whatever. We prefer to eat them this way, with perhaps a pat of butter put on each cracker.

Beat with rotary beater until perfectly smooth. Modern heavy pricking removes no fat. If fat must be used on your griddle add it sparingly. Pour batter from pitcher in small pools. Fry griddle cakes as soon as they are puffed and full of holes. They should be light, tender and uniformly golden brown. Serve at once.

Nut—Add 1-4 cup chopped walnuts or pecans to basic batter.

Other variations — Substitute 1-4 cup cornmeal for 1-4 cup of flour in basic recipe; finely chopped apple—1-2 cup may be added, or well-drained chopped fresh orange or drained chopped canned peaches or apricots.

We were taught in cooking school that it is advisable when making wine jellies (or our lovely cooking glasses) to make them as you read them with gratitude—as you suggest, and for the reasons you suggest.

WINE JELLY

Soak 1-2 tablespoons granulated gelatin, 1-2 cup cold water, 1 2-3 cups boiling water, 1-3, to 1 cup sugar, 1 cup sherry or Madeira, 1-3 cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice (or use if you use less sugar). Stir gelatin five minutes in cold water, dissolve in boiling water, add sugar, wine, orange and lemon juices. Strain, pour into molds and chill. If stronger jelly is desired use more wine and less orange juice. As most honey (especially Scotsers) is often served cut in squares with the cheese course. When this is done the jelly is molded in shallow oblong pans and cut when set. I have mailed the cake recipes.

ZENITH HEARING AIDS
R. F. McDonald, Jr.
Zenith Hearing Aids
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Commander McDonald:

May we say, right off, that we plan to tell our friends and customers, in an open letter, the same thing we're telling you. We want them to know exactly how we stand where your company is concerned and how proud we are to be selling Zenith Hearing Aids.

We go all out for Zenith. We can't say enough about the new, tubeless, 3-transistor "Royal-T" Hearing Aid and Zenith's policy. We do a lot of talking about Zenith's low price and 10-day money-back guarantee and 5-year service plan. But we shout loudest (even when a customer isn't hard of hearing) about what you call Zenith's "hear-better" features." They add up to the greatest combination of electronic and engineering achievements that any of us has ever run across in one hearing aid!

What we also want to compliment you about is something you emphasize in your ads all the time. You say to people, again and again, "see your physician before buying any hearing aid." We wish everyone would take that advice.

We have folks who come in our store and want a hearing aid when all they really need is to have a little wax taken out of their ears. We have many folks come in who really do need a hearing aid, and they think we're some kind of doctors or earspecialists. We're not. But some hearing aid sale give the impression that a dealer is practically a doctor or an ear-drum specialist or a mastoid-master. That just isn't true . . . which brings us right back to the best and most honest advice a hearing-aid manufacturer ever gave the public: see your physician first.

And here's something else we thank Zenith for. It's that 10-day money-back guarantee. It lets a hard-of-hearing person try out his Zenith Aid under all hearing conditions, in his home, when he's talking to his friends in the theatre and at work. And he can check with his physician at the same time.

Because of the low selling price and our low margin of profit on Zenith Hearing Aids, we do not accept used instruments in trade — moreover, we don't believe in selling secondhand instruments to anyone. Our customers like the fact that they can buy the Zenith "Royal-T" Hearing Aid for a little more than the hearing aid for a spare and still have two hearing aids for less than what some other translator aide would cost even with a trade-in-allowance of $50.00 or so. And our customers really go for that unbelievably low battery operating cost of 18c a month!

And now, Commander, we'd like to ask you a favor . . . although we know it isn't necessary: keep up the good work. Stick to your policy of better hearing at lower cost. Stick to your policy of better hearing through sound advice to the readers of your ads. We're 100% back of your principles and policies because they are what have made our business grow by leaps and bounds. They've sold more Zenith Hearing Aids for us and made our business more successful on small-profit Zeniths than it could ever be by selling far less high-profit hearing aids. We feel proud of the fact we have helped you in your crusade to lower the cost of hearing.

Are we happy? Well, we're as happy as our Zenith-wearing customers. And that is plenty happy!

Sincerely yours,
GENE HITCHON

Sunday School Lesson:

Every Man a World Authority

By ROY L. SMITH

There is a sense in which it can be said that every man is a world authority. At least he knows, better than anyone else in all the world knows, the things that go on within his own experience. He knows his own feelings, reactions, pains, joys, healings, and inspirations.

The Jews had a law to the effect that no man's unsupported testimony could be accepted in a court. Any person, testifying in a case must be corroborated by another. It was to this law that Jesus' hearers appealed when He declared His own deity, and in conformity thereto He declared that His estimate of His own place and status was endorsed by God Himself.

As a divine being He was in a class quite by Himself, and quite outside all the usual classifications, categories, and limitations.

JESUS BROUGHT NEW SPIRIT

The supreme test of His deity, however, appeared in another fact. He proposed to impart to men a new spirit, a new attitude toward life, a new creative power within the life of every believer who would follow His instructions. Since that this "gift of the spirit" had been received by individual receiving it would never again need logical or argumentative proof of His divine association and power.

There is a vast difference between conceit and consciousness of power. The boy who knows he can jump 11 feet, and is able to do it if called upon is not conceited when he states the fact of his ability. Jesus' declaration of His deity was no more than an honest assertion of a fact of which He was completely conscious, and which He was capable of demonstrating whenever the circumstances warranted it.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for February 14: "Can This Be The Christ?" John 7-8.

This tremendous assertion is one to which each individual can compel Jesus to provide proof. Let any man "believe on His name" and accept the conditions which Jesus laid down in His declaration of deity — and then watch for the results within his own life. At that point he can himself become the world's authority on his own personal spiritual experience.

It is more than a little amazing that the whole question of the place of Jesus Christ in human experience has been lowered to the level of argument, contention, and debate. The result has been disastrous for the spiritual life of the race. It has produced wars, contentions, divisions, and hatreds of the most wretched sort.

EACH HAS PERSONAL TESTIMONY

In the meantime, the case has been subject to the simplest possible proof or disproof. Each man can test the matter for himself inside the area where he is best qualified to speak — inside his own experience.

The blind man who had been healed was absolutely scientific in his attitude toward his experience with the Master. When questioned as to his opinion concerning Jesus he replied, "Whether He is a sinner or not I do not know. But there is one thing I do know, and that is that whereas I was once blind I now see." On the subject of his blindness all of them were willing and able to testify. On the subject of his sight he could demonstrate.

The test of the claims of Jesus, and of the claims that are made for Him, can be applied in this same area. Jesus offered to transform life for any person on certain conditions. He who is willing to accept the conditions can know for himself whether or not the claim is true. He can be a world authority on that subject.

An Open Report to the Public from THE BELLEVILLE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Bellevillle
For the Welfare of the City

General Activities Report . . . 1953

BUSINESS PROTECTIVE BUREAU — Your Chamber scrutinizes all forms of solicitation for members and the Public, and promotes the slogan — "BEFORE YOU INVEST — INVESTIGATE" The services of this bureau makes membership in the Chamber a distinct investment in money saving. The bureau also investigates complaints arising between consumer and vendor and enjoys a long record of satisfactory adjustment of such problems. Members and the public, in general, are urged to continue to call the Chamber when they are approached by canvassers.

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITIES — The Chamber is ever conscious of the advantages of attracting new industries to Belleville and to encourage the expansions of present industry. Detailed reports of surveys which require considerable research were forwarded to many industries who were interested in expansion. The Chamber provides secretarial services for the Belleville Industrial Commission, and your Secretary-Manager represented the City at the International Trade Fair in Toronto at which time copies of Belleville's "Industrially Yours" folders were distributed to manufacturers exhibiting at the Trade Fair.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS — The Public once again was given the opportunity of hearing candidates for public office at the public meeting sponsored by the Chamber at the Belleville Collegiate Institute auditorium. More than 300 persons were in attendance.

DATE BOOK — Organizations, in the City, keep in constant touch with the Chamber in order to set up dates for proposed banquets, social teas, carnivals, and other activities, so that they will not overlap with some other project.

MEMBERSHIP — Providing, among others, two important advantages to promotion of Chamber efforts:—
A—Assured support of expanding activities;
B—Wider influence in Civic, Provincial and National affairs.

Directors and members, realizing the two important advantages have secured over 45 new members in 1953.

All citizens of Belleville who are interested in Community Development are encouraged to join the Chamber of Commerce. Applications may be obtained from the Secretary, whose office is located in the City Hall. Your membership in the Chamber is an investment in the future welfare of Belleville. The Chamber needs the benefit of the Council and financial support through membership to continue and better our program of service.

CIVIC ACTIVITIES — The Chamber is constantly engaged in the study of various phases of local Government, and has conducted discussions with Civic officials to determine in what way the Chamber can be more help in securing and maintaining good Civic administration in a fast growing community. It has recently been instrumental in recommending, to Council, to organize a Safety Council in Belleville. The Chamber assisted the City of Belleville with their Civil Defence program, Coronation activities, Hospital Building Fund, Community Chest campaign, Industrial conferences and Civic receptions. In 1953, the Chamber distributed on behalf of the City of Belleville and the County of Hastings over 5000 pamphlets promoting our Community and our County.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS — The Chamber realizes the importance of having representation from Belleville to such annual meetings as those of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and the Ontario Chamber of Commerce. In 1953 our Chamber, along with three other Chambers of Commerce in the district, nominated Mr. G. A. Freeman as a Director of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Freeman attended the Annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber and served on the Policy Committee. Mr. A. McLean Haig represented the Belleville Chamber at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce annual meeting in Windsor, and at that time was elected a Director of that organization.

RETAIL SERVICE SURVEY — Your Chamber of Commerce again helped the the business and professional people, in the City, to understand the need of the public, and what the Public think of Belleville as a market area. The compilation of the facts took considerable work. The report was based on the answers to 427 questionnaires, which concerned a total of 1,585 people. 16% were rural residents, in the immediate vicinity of Belleville. This survey gave direction as to store hours, parking facilities, traffic, merchandising and many other important facts.

CONFERENCES — Your Chamber continued to encourage local organizations to conduct their Regional or National conferences in our own community, and last year took the lead in this field, by being able to conduct a regional conference of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, in Belleville. The Chamber assisted such organizations as The Anglican Young Peoples' Association of Eastern Ontario, The Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association and others in bringing their conference to Belleville.

MISCELLANEOUS — (A) Your Chamber worked with various Federal and Provincial Governments on Game Laws, Hydro, Taxes, Highways and so on. (B) The Chamber was represented on such civic committees as the Traffic Committee. (C) The Chamber conducted the "Get Out the Vote" campaign during the Federal election. (D) The containers for waste on the downtown streets of Belleville were repainted. (E) Through the bulletins issued by the Chamber office, it kept the members well informed on local activities and encouraged such projects as Fire Prevention, Clean Up - Paint Up Week in Belleville, Buy in Belleville, and many others.

A recommendation was sent through to the Department of Highways to improve No. 62 highway from Foxboro to Madoc and a recommendation to the Board of Directors to set up a Tourist Week in Belleville. The Tourist Committee also co-operated with Radio Station CJBQ in their "Tourist of the Week" program.

THE BELLEVILLE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HAS O VER 260 MEMBERS.

A Membership In The Chamber of Commerce Is An Investment In Community Welfare

The Past President's Report . . .

The year 1953 has been one in which the Belleville Chamber of Commerce has shared in full measure, the awakening of the Chamber movement so noticeable in its gathering momentum over the past few years.

The opportunity to pay tribute to a most cooperative Board of Directors, and Committee Chairmen, is one which gives me the greatest pleasure as I review the accomplishments which are recited in the Secretary's report. Outstanding in my opinion is the activity of the Retail Section and its Chairman, W. S. Wills, who, in cooperation with our Secretary-Manager, produced the Better Business Survey. The recommendations contained therein I strongly commend to your careful study.

The 1953 Executive may look with some pardonable pride upon the results of one of their last official actions in office, I refer to the engagement of Don Kingdon as Secretary-Manager. The enthusiasm and administrative ability he has brought to his position has been evident to the Executive and Board of Directors throughout the entire year. In addition, considerable favorable comment has been directed our way by both the Canadian and Ontario Chambers as a result of his efforts. I am sure the feelings of the entire membership are reflected in my personal wish that his association with the Belleville Chamber of Commerce may be as productive as 1953.

I wish to thank the Ontario Intelligencer and Radio Station CJBQ for their courtesy and generosity during my term as President. The use of their valuable facilities and reporting of our various projects has contributed greatly to their success.

It has been a great privilege to serve as your President with the outstanding support so readily available from all quarters. The Ballot has assured outstanding leadership for 1954, and continuation of that support and interest should insure one of the most progressive years in Belleville Chamber of Commerce History.

Yours Faithfully,
CHARLES M. CAWKER.

New System of Measuring Game Fish, Legal Minimum Length Set in Ontario

CHARGE EVICTED MAN WITH LANDLADY'S DEATH

Evicted from his apartment in Ottawa for non-payment of rent, Hugh Conrad Hayes, 55-year-old unemployed radio technician, was charged, four days later, with the murder of the woman who evicted him and his family. Miss Grace Currie, 61, was found shot to death in the second-floor apartment which Hayes had formerly occupied with his pretty wife, Carmen, and their two infant children. Miss Currie had gone to the building from her home to check working of a thermostat. Hayes had left before her. The latter was there to get the clothing for his second week-old baby a bailiff had refused to let him take away when he evicted the family. When taking Hayes, seen at left with detective, in custody at the home of friends an hour after the shooting, police found a Luger pistol in the pocket of a coat in the apartment. (Central Press Canadian.)

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario has announced a new system of measuring game fish—from the tip of the tail instead of the fork—and at the same time added to the legal minimum length of some so there isn't much change in the size of a "keeper" in most species.

The new measurement brings Ontario regulations into line with those elsewhere in North America, officials said Thursday as they announced changes in open seasons and catch limits for all game fish within the province.

The two main changes in the minimum legal length were: Black bass, 11 inches, formerly 10; pickerel, 14 inches in Lake Erie and 15 inches elsewhere, formerly 13.

The pickerel season will for all fish was set at one day's catch, previously at five.

The family fishing licence for non-residents was abolished. Now each resident of the "gang" away from outside the province must buy a licence at $2.50 each unless he lives in Manitoba—then he can buy it for $3.25. However, children up to 17 from outside the province can fish under the licence of one of their parents. Details to be set out in licence license.

There is a brand new season for quananiche and Atlantic salmon, set because of their popularity in the Nipigon area. The open fishing season is May 1 to Oct. 15 and the limit is one fish a day. Previously there were no restrictions.

RESTRICE WHITEFISH

For the first time, Ontario has restrictions on whitefish. The season remains open the year round in the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river. But north and west of the French and Mattawa rivers the season is closed Oct. 4 to Nov. 1, except: Cochrane and Thunder Bay districts, Sept. 24 to Oct. 21; Kenora and Rainy River districts, Oct. 16 to Nov. 15; Lake Nipissing, Oct. 14 to Nov. 16.

Another new closed season is for lake trout in northern Ontario. The closed season was decided on last year but was not announced soon enough for enforcement. This year the season will be closed Sept. 24 to Jan. 1 in the districts of Algoma, Cochrane, Manitoulin, Nipissing (from the Ontario-Manitoba river-rivers north), Sudbury and Timiskaming and boundary waters between Ontario and Minnesota in northern Ontario. The old year-round open season on taking lake trout by angling in Kenora and Thunder Bay has been amended to include Rainy River district.

A later start was announced for the pickerel season in northern Ontario, except Kenora and Rainy River, from the opening May 24 instead of May 15.

In Lake Nipissing, at the west end of Prince Edward County, a 22-inch size limit has been placed on pike. Elsewhere, as before, there is no restriction on their size.

LIKES CANADA

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—Canada's first Japanese war bride has filed application for Canadian citizenship. She has reunited with her husband, a veteran of Korea, since September, 1952.

Dubeau Case Handed Over To the Police

TORONTO (CP)—Highways Minister Scott Thursday ordered tightening of departmental regulations to prevent pilfering.

The order follows the disclosure that Donat Dubeau, patrol chief of 32 miles of Ontario highway from Rockland to the eastern end of Chateauguay bridge, near Ottawa, had been suspended for alleged irregularities.

Mr. Doucett said $1,800 to $1,900 in highways department materials and labor had been used by Dubeau to build two houses. The major building material used was large piece posts, allegedly recut to a size suitable for house-building. Departmental laborers were said to have helped build the houses on government time.

Mr. Doucett said the Dubeau case has been handed over to provincial police.

The case was an "incident" and not connected with the "gang" operations alleged in the Fort William division of the highways department which has been partly removed and charged last month in connection with irregularities.

The minister said under tightened regulations amounts of materials supplied to employees will be kept to a minimum and detailed expenditure of requisitioned materials would have to be followed. In the future, Cheeks would be made to ensure padlocking of all stores when not under guard of an attendant.

Bank Robbers Strike Twice In Toronto Area

TORONTO (CP) — Bank robbers struck twice within four hours in the Toronto area Thursday and escaped with $20,000 in cash.

Three masked men robbed the Bank of Commerce branch at King and Bathurst streets of $13,000, then $1,000 while a woman customer calmly smoked a cigaret in the manager's office. Their getaway car later was found abandoned on Toronto island.

About three hours later, a tall, dark man wearing dark sunglasses walked straight for the teller's cage of the newly-opened bank of Montreal branch at Park Lawn and Lake Shore roads in suburban Etobicoke, grabbed a bundle and left. Asst. Mgr. Mauzy, suspecting he was a customer, said:

"Good afternoon."

"Don't be funny," the swarthy bandit snarled, plunging one hand in his overcoat pocket and pointing something at the accountant. A few minutes later he walked out of the bank with $7,000 in two leather bags tucked under his arm. He jumped into a late-model powder blue car driven by a man in the bank and drove east towards Toronto.

First reports placed the total loot in the robberies at close to $7,000.

Weather Grand But Flies Pester Royal Couple

BATHURST, Australia (CP) — Australia's New South Wales gave Queen Elizabeth a sunny welcome when she arrived today at Bathurst, 150 miles west of Sydney, in a Royal Australian Air Force Dakota.

More than 100,000 people from Bathurst and other centres within a radius of 200 miles cheered the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh during their drive from the airport in the town hall.

Later the Queen and the duke went to a fair ground where 14,000 school children gave them a big welcome.

During the drive through the ranks of children the Queen was worried by the common Australian fly.

The cheering of the children interfered up the flies and other insects, and the Queen and the duke found it difficult to wave, chase flies and at the same time to hold on to the rail of their jeep.

Later the Queen and the duke visited the town of Lithgow before returning to Sydney by train.

Dull, rainy weather kept the crowds in Sydney to their smallest yet as the Queen left Government House today for the third day of her tour of the New South Wales countryside.

VANISHING COINS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Newfoundland nickles and 20-cent pieces are fast going out of existence, although banks have been asked to take them out of circulation. Only a few thousand of the coins are being taken out of the province as souvenirs.

ANTI-RED POWS SHOW THEIR COLORS

Former Chinese Communist soldiers, among those who refused repatriation, line up at a Nationalist Chinese freedom village in Formosa where they were taken following release from prison camps in Pannunjon. The anti-Red Pows show the anti-Communist tattoos they had put on their bodies while they waited for their release. (Central Press Canadian).

Edward Murrow, Eve Arden, Don O'Connor Win TV Awards

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Edward R. Murrow, Eve Arden and Donald O'Connor won the top awards of the television academy Thursday night, but a pudgy English professor stole the show.

Murrow, who rose to fame with his broadcasts during the London blitz, was named best actor in a TV personality of 1953 by the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences. This award was given to Bishop Fulton J. Sheen last year. Murrow's program, See It Now, also named the best news or sports program.

Eve Arden, the glamorous schoolmarm of "Our Miss Brooks," was announced as the best female star of a regular series at the gala Donald O'Connor, one of the comedians on Sunday night comedy hour, won the academy's "Emmy" as the best male star.

None of the top winners was present. The biggest ovation went to Dr. Frank E. Baxter, University of Southern California professor who delivers Shakespearian lectures on a local TV station. He has two local awards and two public affairs programs, and has established a male performer. Most of the other winners had delivered long praise to their script writers.

THANK MY WRITER

"Following the precedent set here tonight," the bald, bespectacled professor announced, "I want to thank my writer, who happens to be William Shakespeare." He added that he was merely a "Broken-down ham" member of "a thing which comes naturally," and didn't know what he was doing "among these pros."

Continuing on a high-brow level, the academy named the literary "Omnibus" as the best variety program over the shows of Ed Sullivan, Milton Berle, Ed Gardner and others. The two most popular programs in the country repeated their wins of last year. "I Love Lucy" was selected the best situation comedy program, and tightlipped Jack Webb's "Dragnet" scored as the best mystery, action or adventure program.

Tens of Thousands of Items Owned by Farouk to Be Sold

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Would you like a bloodstone bedkin case? Or how about a gold cul "of elongated design"? Or a diamond set cupids and lovers on a matt ground, the sides with sporting puts"?

These are among tens of thousands of items, valued at about $3,000,000 and formerly belonging to ex-king Farouk of Egypt, which go on auction here today in Cairo. It's the biggest rummage sale of royal property the world has ever seen. The auctioneer is the Egyptian government.

Grab a dictionary and an armload of catalogues. You'll conclude that there couldn't have been many dull moments in the life of the ousted king of Egypt.

An etui, by the way, is a fancy case for small articles. A putti is a nude, cupid-like child. A bodkin is a dagger-shaped instrument.

STAMPS TO ORDER

Gold, silver, precious stones, weird clocks and watches, stamps, coins, fantastic trinkets, bravura brie-a-brac—all the unnecessary things of life that make the difference between a monarch and a middle-class man are auctioned off through next month.

Among Farouk's kingly pessions was stamps. A spokesman here for H. R. Harmer Ltd. of London, the firm handling the auction of the royal stamp collection, estimates its value at from $500,000 to $600,000.

Farouk had one advantage over the average philatelist. When he wanted something special in the way of Egyptian stamps he simply ordered it made. Thus, for example, he had complete special sheets of stamps with "cancelled" printed on the back of each in Arabic and English on alternating stamps.

But even more curious are the tens of thousands of rare and valuable objects which are being auctioned under the direction of Southeby and Co. of London.

There is a jewel-studded rattle in which the noisemaker, invisible, is a large ruby. Here, is enough silver to keep a mint busy for a long time—Egyptian, Turkish, Chinese, Persian, Russian, French, English designs in the shape of everything from sweetmeat dishes to sandwich bags and a set that imitates all the fables of La Fontaine.

JEWELED SNUFF BOXES

There's enough silver table service, including such esoteric items as the asparagus servers and pastry sifters, to feed a thousand guests. Mirrors, flagons, jewel boxes, jeweled pistols, rose bowls, trays, toast racks — plenty of each to stock a department store of mid-June's brides.

The menu of a good-sized city could sneeze for a year on the snuff that could be contained in the jeweled snuff-boxes and snuff boxes. Here are 200 gold and jewelled objects of art, from the Prussian which hold handleless small porcelain cups of Turkish coffee, to the work of a great gold-smiths are represented with cups, ball pushes, stick handles, paper knives, complete desk sets, cigaret cases, lighters, and even jewelled enamel and other materials.

It's only a small part of the thousand and one fabulous amusements of Farouk when he was king of Egypt.

Legislature To Consider Speech From the Throne

TORONTO (CP)—The legislature today will consider a speech from the throne which outlines a policy of continued expension and spiked with several controversial subjects.

The speech, read at the opening of the 1954 session by Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt, threecast a continued capital construction program, legislation on prorations for the development of St. Lawrence river power and a natural gas pipeline from Alberta.

It also forecast indirectly that a heated debate may be expected with the planned revision of part one of the Municipal Act dealing with the controversial municipal annexation problem.

However, the first order of business will be a bill introduced Thursday by Premier Frost which would affirm that all land under water in Lake Erie within one mile of the mean high water mark is part of the township of Felice. The amendment clarifies provisions arising out of Territorial Divisions Act.

DEBATE STARTS TODAY

Debate on the throne speech is scheduled to begin Monday or Tuesday when Attorney-General Kelley (PC—Niagara Falls) will move the address in reply to the speech. It will be seconded moved by W.H. Noden (PC—Rainy River).

First speakers to participate in the premiers attended the opening. They were federal Opposition Leader Hazen Argue, who served from 1943 to 1948; United Farmers Premier Ernest Manning, 1943 (1919-1923), now sheriff of Simcoe county; Conservative Georgi. H. Hall (1930-1934), now retired-Hon. Harry C. Nixon Liberal premier for three months in 1943 and now member of the legislature for Brant; and Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Conservative premier from Mr. Drew's retirement in October 1946 until Premier Duplessis was elected in May, 1949 and now member of the legislature for Fort.

Seaway Likely To Be Started This Summer

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier said Thursday a final go-ahead could be given shortly on the St. Lawrence seaway is expected before summer.

The minister, talking to a union delegation, said: "Everything on the project is progressing perhaps more favorably than at any time in its history."

His reference to a U.S. court decision was to a decision on an appeal to the U.S. courts launched by American opponents of the power and seaway bill. The decision being undertaken by Ontario and Quebec.

The U.S. Court of Appeals recently threw out, the opponents' case. The next can ask that court for a review or go to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Mr. Chevrier said it is expected by the New York state power authority that a favorable decision will be given before summer.

Acting Prime Minister Howe told another labor group Wednesday it was expected the St. Lawrence seaway will be started next summer.

Discrimination Charge Against Hotel Dismissed

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario liquor licence board Thursday dismissed a charge of racial discrimination laid against the William Pitt Hotel at Chatham by the Joint Labor Committee to Combat Racial Intolerance.

The committee charged the hotel refused to serve beer to Negroes.

The board said the hotel management testified that Negroes had been served in the hotel "that one colored man employed in a store in Chatham consumed beer in the hotel for years, that colored people enjoy service of food in the coffee shop, and that the hotel has 10 to 12 colored employees."

Donna Hill, executive secretary of the committee, said the board's finding was "another evasion by the board of its responsibility in cases concerning racial discrimination."

A specific charge of discrimination, supported by testimony of four witnesses and not contradicted by the proprietor and hotel president was ignored by the board, she said.

Will Be War Within 10 Years If Kremlin Gets Its Wish Igor Gouzenko Is Convinced

VETERAN OF KOREA IS AWARDED D.S.O.

...for outstanding service with the 2nd Infantry brigade in Korea, Lieut.-Col. Henry William Sterne, seen above, of Kingston, Ont., made officers of the 53rd Field regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery was awarded the Distinguished Service Order. Lieut.-Col. Jean-Louis Gustop Paulin of Quebec City, Que., commander of the Third Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, also received the same award, while three other unit commanders of the brigade were made officers of the Order of the British Empire. In announcing the Queen's approval of 18 operational awards to members of the brigade for outstanding service in Korea, army headquarters in Ottawa said 30 others had received mentions in dispatches. (Central Press Canadian).

WASHINGTON (AP)—Igor Gouzenko, the former Russian code clerk in Ottawa who gave Communist espionage secrets to the West, says the U.S.S.R. would be at war with the Free World within 10 years "if it is left up to the Soviet high command."

But he added, in an interview with columnist-commentator Drew Pearson, that "if you take the will of the Russian people alone, independently from their masters, they wish peace will be forever."

The interview was recorded in Canada for telecasting tonight. The text was made public here today.

Gouzenko went back over statements he first made several years ago, which were taken by United States Senate investigators as corroborating evidence that Harry D. White was an agent of the Russian government.

NEVER GIVEN NAME

But Gouzenko said today, as apparently he had before, that he had never given the name of a person described to him as a Soviet agent who was an assistant to the late secretary of state, Edward Stettinius, at the San Francisco conference of 1945 that conference set up the United Nations Organization.

Gouzenko said in the interview with Pearson that a cipher clerk named Kulakov told him he learned in Moscow "that the assistant of Stettinius was a Soviet agent, but he didn't say her name or his name and I believe he didn't know it."

Pearson asked whether "there were ever any evidence that Alger Hiss was associated with the Russian spy ring."

Gouzenko replied: "To this I can answer that I didn't have direct evidence, as there were the words of cipher clerk Kulakov."

Hiss, who was a close aide to Stettinius, now is serving a prison term for perjury based on his denial that he passed U.S. government secrets to a Soviet spy ring.

FBI MEMORANDUM

The U.S. Senate internal security sub - committee in a report last summer quoted from an FBI memorandum describing an interview with Gouzenko soon after he broke with the Soviet embassy in 1945 and disclosed the existence of a spy ring.

The memorandum as quoted directed attention to various statements made by Hiss and the FBI statement by Gouzenko regarding an assistant to the secretary of state who was a Soviet agent." It also referred to Gouzenko as one of the witnesses in connection with Hiss' connection with the Communist underground."

Gouzenko has been reinterviewed for the sub-committee by chairman James O. Eastland (Rep. Ind.) and others, but the information obtained has not been made public.

Toronto, Queen's University of Kingston, Ontario Agricultural College of Guelph and McGill University of Montreal have entered teams.

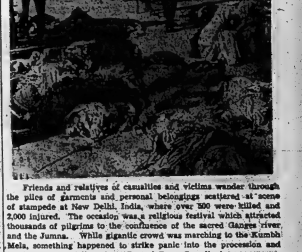
Toronto Council Takes Over Rent Control

TORONTO (CP)—City council decided Thursday night to take over rent control from the province March 2 for six months but dumped the proposed amendment of an automatic 10-per-cent increase in controlled rentals.

Board of control, council's executive body, recommended the latter.

However, Ford Brand, a member of board of control, moved that the special meeting of city council that proposed the increase be rejected and that controls be extended for 14 months instead of six.



City council appointed E. A. Brown, chief enforcement counsel of the Ontario rental administration in its rentals administrator at a salary of $6,000 a year.

Landlords must apply to the city administrator for increases in rentals under the city regulations. The administrator, after considering the circumstances, can refuse the application or grant an increase of up to 10 per cent.

RELIGIOUS FESTIVAL TURNS INTO STAMPEDE

Friends and relatives of casualties and victims wander through the piles of garments and personal belongings scattered at scene of stampede at New Delhi, India, where over 800 were killed and 2,000 injured. The occasion was a religious festival which attracted thousands of pilgrims to the confluence of the sacred Ganges river and the Jumna. While gigantic crowd was marching to the Kumbh Mela, something happened to strike panic into the procession and tragic stampede followed. (Central Press Canadian).

AFTER THE EARTHQUAKE STUCK

An earthquake wrecked four towns and damaged three other villages in the remote coffee-growing Chiapas state of Mexico, bordering Guatemala. The area in which the earthquake struck opened big cracks in the earth and levelled many buildings. Although many persons were injured, the death toll has not been determined. Here, a boy looks over the ruins in the town of Petalcingo, the morning after the earthquake struck. (Central Press Canadian.)

RAWDON

Gideons Take St. Paul's Service On Sunday

RAWDON—Mr. Don Williams and three Gideon supporters, Messrs. Pierce, Weir and Greatrix, Belleville, visited St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, on Sunday morning.

Mr. Williams, clerk of the Session of Bridge Street United Church, was the special speaker and he traced the first beginnings of the Gideons in 1898 in Wisconsin. There two commercial travellers began by each reading the Bible aloud to the other. A year later in 1899 they met, and said lodge is also an international organization of Christian men who are divided into camps.

BELLEVILLE CAMP

The Belleville camp provides Bibles to hospitals, Gideons and the south schools in the South Hastings area.

Addresses are given to pupils in most schools and true stories were told of several leaders who would have been accompanied by wayside ministers, in the early days of the Christian era, to meet the needs of bringing lost souls to Christ.

The Belleville camp had distributed over 2,000 copies in this district. The public sales committee of the funds themselves and the other members are received through gifts from friends.

The entire morning offering at St. Paul's was given to the fund Mrs. J. A. Baker, pastor of the church, welcomed the Belleville group.

Mrs. A. K. Baker presided at the organ and the senior choir rendered the Day "Peace Rest Over" with Mrs. William Wilkins and Mr. Douglas Fryer taking the solo parts. Mr. Malcolm Ford also rendered a vocal selection, "Oh Troubled Heart be Still."

South Koreans Offer Division To Help French

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea has offered to send a full army division to help the French fight the Communist-led Vietminh in Indo-China, Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai said today.

Pyun said in an interview with Associated Press correspondent Jack Belden that "if Red China might retaliate by sending one or more of its divisions, we will be glad to fight."

The foreign minister said President Syngman Rhee wrote of his proposed offer to Gen. John E. Hull, United States Far East commander, before Hull went to Washington a few days ago.

Diplomatic sources in Washington said Rhee offered one and perhaps two divisions.

Pyun said South Korea had not offered two divisions, but declined further comment.

Pyun said the South Koreans consideration to the Indo - China war "would have to be sharply limited" but that he felt the gesture important as a symbol of anti-Communist solidarity. During almost all of the Korean war Pyun maintained a French battalion in the United Nations Forces.

The Communist, Pyun said, has made no comment on the suggestion.

Canada Starting Program to Sell Vacationland

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is starting a program to sell her vacationland as a merchandise.

Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian government travel bureau, Thursday told the Senate tourist committee the bureau plans to make five films this year advertising areas of Canada as good holiday spots. The color films will be shown in groups in the United States and probably on U.S. television networks.

The first film, entitled "Maritime Holiday" has been completed. It runs 13 minutes and promotes a "package tour" of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. It also includes shots of the northeastern New England states.

The second film will be called "Wonders of Wheeler" and will cover a trip through the northwestern United States to the Waterton Lakes National Park in southwestern Alberta. Filming will be done this summer.

Mr. Dolan said the Maritime film will be shown in 57 outlets in the U.S., including travel clubs, universities and theatres. It is also planned to buy time on U.S. television networks to show the films.

Mr. Dolan said the bureau spent $621,000 last year out of a budget of $1,500,000 for newspaper and magazine advertising in the United States. The results of a question naire indicated that 24 per cent of the American visitors came here after seeing these ads.

QUESTIONNAIRE RESULTS

This questionnaire was sent to 300,000 Americans and 4,981 replied. The complaints were: 317 about rough, dusty or poor roads; 169 about accommodation; 218 about food; 101 about high prices; 39 about discourtesy; 13 that Canada doesn't live up to its publicity; 139 that the fishing isn't as good as advertised and 25 that the hunting fell short of expectation; 19 about immigration officers and 37 about customs officers.

Expressions of approval were: 1,803 about accommodation; 2,813 about food; 2,179 about prices; 4,315 about courtesy and hospitality; 2,450 about the scenery; 1,262 about courteous customs and 951 about courteous immigration officials; 293 about the fishing and 80 about the hunting.

He said there were about 26,000,000 visitors to Canada last year. They stayed an average of nine days and spent an average of $6.80 a day. Thirty per cent of the foreign visitors toured at least one additional park and a record 3,000,000 persons entered.

Mr. Dolan warned that the tourist business in Canada is changing. Visitors are not ready to spend as freely as formerly. They now for the best possible value for their money.

You can't go ALL-OUT

If you Feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, and they're tired. The drive on body and brain makes them tense. Stress made it fashionable to "unwind." Today's home living, however, contributes to tension. Even the modern kitchen is a source of strain. When things get out of order, when tools and gadgets refuse to be organized, the housewife is the victim. Tired, irritable, she's apt to take it out on the family. Don't take it like that! Relax! Drink Dad's Root Beer. You feel better, happier, more like the old Dad's Root Beer Pals of my day, ourselves.

Canadian Rangers Will Take Part in Tough Exercises

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A shadowy band of men known as the Canadian Rangers will, next year, spend a month in Canada's Long Garde at Sept Iles, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence river 600 miles northeast of Quebec City.

For the Rangers, the name of the exercise is particularly appropriate. The rough translation of Long garou is "werewolf."

The Rangers keep secret the strength, formations and operations of the Rangers.

The Rangers are not a component of the army, but have the status of organized militia. They comprise trappers, woodsmen, prospectors, miners, farmers and others who live in sparsely settled regions of the country, particularly in the north and some coastal areas.

The Rangers would play a vital role in event of an airborne attack on Canada. They may report any suspicious activities, round up enemy agents or saboteurs, act as coast or air observers, or perform rescue work.

GUIDES FOR TROOPS

They might also act as guides for troops unfamiliar with the terrain in which they were operating or become guerilla fighters.

A reserve militia captain commands each Ranger company, which takes its orders from the regular army officer commanding the area in which it is located.

The Rangers are recruited mostly from men who would not be available to the forces in an emergency because of age or some other circumstance. Nearly all of them spend most of their time outdoors.

In the Long Garou exercise, involving some 2,000 soldiers and airmen, the Rangers will first spot the "enemy" force, shadow it and report on its movements. From their reports and RCAF aerial photos, the paratroop assault force at Goose Bay, Labrador, will chart its attack.

Wives Can Help

OTTAWA (CP)—Working wives will have a chance to help their husbands buy a new home under the government housing legislation.

D. B. Mansur, president of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, said Thursday that the government may borrow between 15 and 40 per cent of a wife's income to be included in a husband's earnings for the purposes of obtaining a National Housing Act loan.

The exact portion will be set by cabinet later. It was understood it may be about 20 per cent.

Mr. Mansur touched on this point while under examination by the Commons banking committee.

Must Earn $3,600 Before Qualifying To Purchase Home

OTTAWA (CP) —A prospective home owner, planning to build a $12,000 home, likely will have to earn $3,620 a year before he can qualify for a maximum loan under the government's new housing legislation.

This was indicated Thursday in a town payments-earnings chart submitted by D. B. Mansur, president of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, at a meeting of the Commons banking committee.

The chart was based on purchase of a new house costing $10,000, carrying a 25-year mortgage loan, taxed at $200 a year and carrying a two-per-cent mortgage insurance fee.

The chart also is based on the buyer's income equalling 33 per cent of the debt servicing charge. Mr. Mansur said this 33-per-cent ratio is not fixed by law, but is a CMHC "guide" which the mortgage lenders can follow.

In other words, the earnings must be such that not more than 33 per cent equals the monthly repayment requirements, including taxes and interest.

The chart figures also are based on an interest rate of 5½ per cent. The exact rate has not yet been announced, but it likely will be in that neighborhood.

Thus a man wanting to buy a $10,000 house—by which is meant the mortgage insurance costs—and having only $1,400 for a down payment, would have to earn $3,620 a year to get the maximum loan he qualifies for.

The more cash he has available for down payment, the less his required earning power.

Approved in Principle

OTTAWA (CP)—Legislation making it a criminal offence for persons living abroad with Canadian forces wholly or partially exempt from the jurisdiction of foreign countries has been approved in principle by the Commons.

The bill Thursday received second reading and clause-by-clause study. It provides that dependents and civilians who break the law in countries where Canadian forces are stationed will be brought under Canadian judicial and penal jurisdiction. The country in which the crime is committed must agree to this system.

The legislation would apply mainly to dependents of service personnel in Germany, the United Kingdom and France. Through arrangements with the various countries where servicemen are stationed, dependents and civilians would be tried under the code of service discipline for breaches of local laws. The code embraces Canadian civil law and the law of the country in which the accused is living.

Senator Davies Says Mail Rates Subsidy to Subscriber Not Paper

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ontario editor and publisher Thursday said mailing rates for daily newspapers are a subsidy to the subscriber, not to the newspaper.

Senator W. Rupert Davies, president of the Kingston Whig-Standard, said in the upper chamber that there seems to be a feeling that daily newspapers are subsidized by the government. However, if daily newspapers are sent by mail, the postal costs are added to the subscription rate.

"Daily newspapers never have been subsidized. It has been the subscribers who have been subsidized."

Newspaper subscription rates rose in the 1870s when the government increased mailing rates. Until 1951, the rate was 1½ cents a pound with a penalty for newspapers containing more than 10 per cent advertising.

The small rates now were 3½ cents a pound on reading matter and four cents a pound on advertising. The daily newspaper over the post office a statement of the number of papers being mailed and the percentage content of advertising and news.

WEEKLY PAPERS

Referring to weekly newspapers, Senator Davies said they are allowed free mailing within a 30-mile zone of publication, not 40 miles as stated by Senator Thomas Reid (L—British Columbia).

Senator Davies said he has no investment in weekly newspapers but would be sorry to see them loose the 30-mile free limit as had been suggested in some newspapers.

Most were merely sorted in small boxes for readers to pick up at the post office. If the weeklies were charged mail rates, the cost would be passed on to the subscribers and some would cancel their subscriptions.

Weeklies were doing a "splendid job but are not making much money."

HOW TO START IN SNOW

Don't try to plow your way out by brute force!
- Start forward slowly in low gear with front wheels straight ahead. If wheels spin without moving the car, step at once!
- If your car has a standard gear system, try "rocking" the car by shifting back and forth from low gear to reverse.
- If rocking fails, spread sand, cinders, an old piece of carpeting, or anything else that will add rear wheel traction.
- When you drive in bad weather, always carry shovel, cinders or old carpeting to help you out of snow.

Wellington on the Lake

WINTER IN WELLINGTON.

The spirit of winter is brooding
O'er the streets of this quiet town,
The sun is scarcely gleaming
Through the gray clouds dark-ening frown,
The roofs of the homes are mani-fested
With the write of the winter snow,
And the windows reveal no brightness
Of their recent Christmas glow.

But still we can sense the beauty
Of this great land of ours,
Whether in spring or winter
Or in summer's sunny hours,
And our hearts beat true and loyal
As those of the Loyalist bend
Who sought new homes and fire-sides
In this great Canadian land.
—H.B.A.

WELLINGTON — Although winter is still trying this locality with an iron hand, it does not interfere with winter sports, the rink being a rendezvous for old and young where skating and hockey are enjoyed, and where on Saturday night, the annual carni-val attracted a crowd. And while we are shivering in the north, a card comes from Phil Addis, news editor of the Picton Gazette, who is touring the U.S.A. He writes as follows: "At Mexico seaside, Like Florida, 85 degrees here. You see here the poorest and some of the most modern. Like a foreign land, but interesting . . ."

Mr. William Wiggins and Mrs. Tesky spent the week-end with friends in Oshawa.

Mr. Clifford Carley and Miss M. Gordon, Melville, spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carley.

Mrs. C. L. Jones, Hillier, spent a recent day in Wellington and called on Mrs. Earl Noxon, who is still very ill.

Mr. Andrew McConnell, who has kept our walks clear of ice for eleven years, has resigned the work owing to ill health.

Several ladies of the W.A. of the United Church met for sewing at the ome of Mrs. W. Hamel

MELVILLE W.A.

Mrs. Howard Palmer opened her home, South Lakeside, for the February meeting of Melville W.A. The meeting was well at-tended and with the president, Mrs. Clarence Carley in charge.

Letters were read from Mrs. Herb Johnston and Mr. W. Alex-ander expressing thanks for cards of sympathy in the passing of their mother, the late Mrs. Thomas Alexander. An invitation was read from group 1, Consecon, W.A. to attend their meeting on Febru-ary 17. Mrs. A. W. Kinnear con-tributed a piano solo and Miss Margaret Gordon a vocal selection. Two new members joined the W.A., namely Mrs. Billy Hardy and Mrs. Charles Brooks.

Refreshments and a social hour followed the close of the meeting. The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ernest Car-ley and Mrs. Clarence Carley, South Lakeside.

MEMORIAL TRIBUTE.

The following tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. Effie B. Phillips is taken from "The White Ribbon Tidings":

"The death occurred in Prince Edward County hospital of Mrs. Effie B. Phillips, Wellington in her 68th year. Wellington and the County Unions have lost a wonderful lady in the passing of Mrs. Phillips who left a life of service to her church and com-munity. She was historical con-venor for the Women's Institutes of the County and had compiled a history of Wellington which won high praise in the Tweedsmuir competitions. She was active in the W.C.T.U. and the "Y" Girls' Camp and in other church work.

EVENING AUXILIARY.

Mrs. James Dick opened her home for a meeting of the even-ing auxiliary of the United Church. The meeting was well attended and Mrs. Dick conduct-ed the program. At the close views were shown of California and Mrs. Blossburg with Miss Viola Valleau giving the travel talk. Refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carley were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Benham, Bloomfield.

Mrs. Leona Whyte, Trenton, spent a day in Wellington with Miss S. E. Blakely and Mrs. H. B. Anderson and Marjorie.

Views of Switzerland will be given on Tuesday evening, Feb-ruary 23, under the auspices of the Sunday School of Wellington United Church.

The February meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Gerald Kemp, Gilead, on Tuesday af-ternoon with the president, Mrs. G. Bloseburg in charge.

I WILL BE GLAD.

I will be glad though winter winds are wailing,
I will be happy though the skies are grey,
For there are those who need my joy and gladness,
Burdened and weary on Life's tollsome way.

I will not dread the dark and dreary future
For by the waters still He leads me on,
With God to guide I'll smile at toil and danger
Till life is past and earthly days are done.

—Helen B. Anderson.

A WESTERN MAGAZINE.

"The Canada Mountaineer", a monthly magazine kindly sent me by a niece, Mrs. Ida M. Alexander, of Penrose, Missouri, gives inter-esting information of that district. From its pages I quote the follow-ing poem by a local writer, Geo. Rees:

FEBRUARY IN THE OZARK HILLS.

February in Craig Holler
Hogs a bunch of sentiment.
That's the groundhogs' gay forecastin',
Valentines with blushes stint.
'Tis a sort of spring awakenin'
Though a feelie premature,
But it's nice to be a thinkin'
Time of nestin' cain't be far.

February in Craig Holler
Melts the heart and then the snow,
Eager beavers start their plowin
Maybe oats and clover sow.
In the timbey crows are cawin
Frisky squirrels air out et pine
There be scarce an idle moment
In a February day.

CLEAR THE ALLEYS!

It will be all right for you male bowlers to drop in the Bowl-O-Drome tomorrow afternoon, but if you do, take a tip and keep your big mouths shut. If you do, make any critical remarks, don't forget to "smile, podners."

For it is the big day for the gal keglers of the district who are convening here for the regional finals of the Molson Bowling Classic.

Tomorrow they will be playing for keeps. So in case some old you single men "critics" (the battle-scarred benedicts know better), feel like offering some advice to the gals, don't forget to duck. The resounding crash of a bowl on a bachelor's bean is the same effect as the traditional rolling pin on the hatrack of the guys who should have known better. (Aside to the little woman: we're only kidding, dear.)

Seriously, tomorrow is the first time in the history of Belleville bowling that the cream of the lady keglers of the district has assembled here in competition.

Some sixty loads of the alleys from six different centres are setting in ladies' singles of the Molson Classic Bowling Tournament. The lady with the highest pinfall in eight games will represent the Brockville-Kingston-Belleville district in the finals being rolled at the Sportsmen's Show in Toronto during the week of March 12-20. She will compete with eleven other district champions. The winner will pick up $300; second, $200; third and fourth, $150; fifth and sixth, $75; seventh to twelfth, $50. These gals can't lose.

The district is well represented. Lady bowlers will be here from Belleville, Kingston, Deseronto, Brockville, Napanee and Picton.

Bowl-O-Drome manager Bill Bateman tells us the play will get under way at two p.m. sharp. The girls will play two series of four games each, with the second series starting at six o'clock.

Carrying the ladies' bowling banner of Belleville will be: Gwen Bellhouse, "Babe" Hardwick, Edna Moore, Helen Lewis, Olive Jarvah, Kay Mains and Nickey Garrow. More power to your elbows, gals.

The men will compete in the regional men's singles in Brockville, February 20. Regional team finals are scheduled for Kingston, February 27. The Bowl-O-Drome and the Recreation Alleys will be represented.

DATA - POINT ANNE

Two sharpshooters will test their skill on opposing teams in Memorial Arena tonight when the Point Anne leaders of the southern division of the Trent Valley Hockey League tangle with the Bata crew.

Top sniper for the Ox Pointers, Sammy Mulholland, who scored a quintet of goals for the club last week, will match his shootin' eyes with those of Robson of the Bata crew, himself no mean trigger-man when it comes to puck-dunking. Robson fired five goals for the Shoemen in their victory over Hastings the other night. Both goalies will needs be at their best when these hemp-bulgers line their sights on the target.

Game starts at 8:30.

BASEBALL

Efforts will be made here on Sunday, February 21 to get senior baseball organized in the district under the aegis of the Ontario Baseball Association.

Results of "feelers" sent out to various district centres have resulted in sufficient favorable replies to warrant a meeting to study and discuss the situation.

The meeting will be held in the Queen's Hotel on Sunday, February 21, starting at two p.m., with president Jack Dernbach in the chair.

Oshawa, Kingston, Belleville and Smith's Falls have signified their intention of sending representatives, and while nothing of a definite nature has been received from Peterborough, we feel safe in saying that delegates from the Liftlock City will be around by the time the meeting is called.

Senior baseball took a holiday last summer. Belleville organized, and had a strong team ready to play, but difficulties arose in getting from a satisfactory league. The three-team COBL loop of 1952 was not satisfactory, and none of the teams involved would enter a similar organization last year. Hence the plan was abandoned for the time being.

Oshawa played in the Intercounty League, but apparently they were not wanted this year, at least two teams voting against the entry. The Petes, we understand, did not field a senior team, but are in a position to do so this year. Kingston never has any troubles in this regard, so all-in-all indications point to a revival of the league this season.

We understand President Malcolm Robb and Manager Jack Carson of the Belleville Senior Redmen have started the wheels of activity rolling and the Belleville team will have a strong representation at the meeting.

Hassling Habs Score Quickies To Even Count With Chihawks; Leafs Down Beantowners 3-1

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There was another hockey brawl Thursday night. Montreal Canadiens were there again.

This time it was in Chicago, where Canadiens, never uses to back off from a touchy situation, overpowered the last-place Black Hawks for two quick goals, got mixed up in a rash of penalties and fights and had to settle for a 3-2 National Hockey League tie. It cost them sole possession of second place.

The fans at Chicago stadium weren't expecting another blowout like the Toronto Maple Leaf and Montreal clash a few weeks ago, but they got plenty of action. Nineteen penalties, including four misconducts and four majors, were handed out. Montreal got 10 of them. A couple of fans slugged it out.

In the only other game, the Leafs moved into a tie with Canadiens by defeating the fourth-place Boston Bruins 3-1 at Boston.

At Chicago, the gloves dropped and the fires flared in the first and third periods in four fights.

FUNCHES THROWN

The first outbreak started at 10:40 near the Montreal bench. Chicago's Larry Zeidel threw punches at Bert Olmstead as the Montreal forward headed for the bench. Then defenceman Gus Mortson of Chicago and Eddie Mazur of Canadiens tangled. Chicago's Bill Gadaby got into the act by leaning over the Hawk bench and swinging at a Montreal player.

Referee Frank Udvari got things under control 15 minutes later. He gave a minor and a 10-minute misconduct to Olmstead and minors to Mazur, Mortson and Zeidel.

Montreal's goals started trading punches. That's when the fans teed off on each other. They were thrown out of the stadium by ushers and police and Bodnar and Johnson received misconducts.

Seconds later centre Ken Mosdell of Montreal and defenceman Lee Fogolin of the Hawks began slugging along the boards in the Montreal zone. Fogolin was sent off with a major for fighting and Mosdell took a minor for roughing.

The game was also held up when Montreal's goalie Gerry McNeil twisted his ankle when Chicago's Pete Conacher crashed him against a goalpost early in the third period. McNeil returned and finished the game.

SCORED ON PENALTIES

All four goals were scored while somebody was in the penalty box. Mosdell tallied at 15:31 and Lorne Davis at 15:46 of the first period for Canadiens. Lou Jankowski tallied for the Hawks in the second period and Bodnar drilled one past McNeil in the third.

At Boston, veteran Porky Dumart scored his third goal of the season at 18:52 of the second session.

Dumart poked Ed Sandford's rebound past Harry Lumley after centre Ted Kennedy, leftwinger Sid Smith and defenceman Alex Morrison put the Leafs into a 3-0 lead.

The Leafs, now tied with Montreal with 62 points, are eight points behind the league-leading Detroit Red Wings. The Bruins are in fourth spot, two up on the fifth-place New York Rangers.

In two games Saturday, Montreal are at Toronto and New York at Boston.

KITCHENER (CP)—Bob Celeri, former quarterback of the Hamilton Tiger Cats and a player for three years in the top U.S. pro football circuits, Thursday signed a contract with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the senior ORFU.

Celeri, 28, played four years with the University of California before turning pro in 1950 with New York Yankees. He played two seasons with the Yankees and went to Dallas Texans in 1952. Dutchmen executives have been negotiating with Celeri since Tuesday night when he attended a football rally here.

Royals Whip Saints 7-2; Earn Top Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals tucked a win under their belts in the Quebec Hockey League Thursday, upsetting them to climb into a first-place tie with Chicoutimi Saguenens.

The Montrealers fought off Sherbrooke Saints 7-2 while Chicoutimi was being blanked 2-0 by Ottawa Senators. Chicoutimi and Royals now have 82 points each.

Royals scoring punch at Sherbrooke was reserved for the final frame when Eddie Litzenberger, Lahi Deziel, Orval Tessier and Bob Laplante scored. Dick Gamble got two for Montreal, and Litzenberger a single, in the first two periods. Ed Brunetteau and Ed Stankiewicz scored for the Saints.

At Chicoutimi, goals by Leo Gravelle and Rudy Guidolin gave Ottawa their victory. The win moved the Senators into second place.

Dutchies Edge Canadiens 5-4 In Overtime

MONTREAL (CP)—A goal by Charles Vinet at 3:11 into sudden death overtime period Thursday night gave Montreal Canadiens a 5-4 edge over Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts in an interlocking Quebec and Ontario junior hockey game.

Canadiens had a slight edge in a clean, fast tussle that featured only seven penalties, four of them going to the losers.

Denis Boucher and Warren Hynes gave the winners an early lead but Buddie Hess and Vinet put the issue at the close of the first period. At 8:12 of the middle frame Kitchener's Gregg Hicks tied the score.

Goals by Doug Vaughan and Gerry Collins put Kitchener to the front for the first time early in third stanza but Montreal came back at 13:38 when Henri Richard counted on a pass from Vinet. Three minutes from the close Phil Goyette tallied to take the game into overtime.

Hockey Moguls Lower Draft Age For Players

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—National Hockey League owners meeting here, agreed Thursday to lower the draft age for players.

Clarence Campbell, league president, said players 22 years old and under formerly were exempt, but under the new provision all players regardless of age will fall into the scope of the draft.

Campbell explained that each league is permitted to "earmark" 18 players a year for its protective list, with all other players forming an intraleague draft which assured availability and distribution of players.

Detroit Red Wings announced the appointment of Bruce Norris as its league governor, succeeding Jack Adams.

Those present at the meeting were Marguerite Ann Norris, Detroit; Gen. Reed Kilpatrick, New York Rangers; James Norris, Chicago Black Hawks; Senator D. Raymond Frank Selke, Montreal Canadiens; Walter Brown, Boston Bruins, and Conn Smythe, Toronto Maple Leafs.

Shoot Liver Into Raleigh's Bones And 'Bones' Rallies to Aid the Blues

By MEL SUTRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—A story with all the ingredients of a standard radio or TV commercial comes from the New York Rangers.

It starts with a hockey player who is feeling run down. He skates feel more like skis and he is barely able to drag himself over the Madison Square Garden ice surface, small as it is.

The hockey player goes to the club doctor who has just the thing for that tired feeling—liver extract. A shot of the preparation from the doctor's hypodermic and the player feels like a new man.

The hero of this tale is Don Raleigh. Raleigh says the whole spare frame has earned him the nickname "Bones."

But let the satisfied customer tell his own story:

"I was so tired Sunday night I could barely lift my skates. So when it was suggested I try an injection of liver, I said Okay. It worked. I never felt so good on the ice. Guess I'll have to take the stuff more often."

SUPPORTED BY MUSS

But that's not the end of this commercial. I needs some authoritative support and for that we go to Muzz Patrick, New York coach.

He pointed to New York's 3-2 victory over the National Hockey League leaders, Detroit Red Wings in Wednesday night's game here.

"Raleigh's overwhelming forward-out was wonderful. He kept the pressure on Detroit all night. He's done like that every night since but Wednesday night he played his best game of the season."

Raleigh didn't score any goals or get credit for any assists but the next fact that he kept a team like the Red Wings (1) balance for a fair part of the game should be enough to convince the skeptics.

Raleigh won't be with Ranger to try the liver injection. Paul Ronty, Max Bentley and Wally Hergesheimer also got shots of the stuff Tuesday. Ronty is another good advertisement. He got a goal and an assist against the Red Wings.

John Landy May Run In Empire Games

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—John Landy, 23, who won the mile in four minutes, 3.8 seconds at the Australian athletic championships here Thursday, said he may run in the British Empire Games in Vancouver next July.

Australia's "meteor miler" said he would be willing to run at Vancouver if satisfactory arrangements are made for a planned Scandinavian tour before the games and if he can return home from Europe via the United States and Canada.

He hoped to make a decision about his future program within a month.

Official Scorers Reveal Who Gets What in NHL Assists; Canadiens Top Home Helpers

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—You can figure out a lot of things from the official National Hockey League scorers' reports—things that hockey coach Dick Irvin of Montreal Canadiens and general manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings can pore over and scream about to their hearts' content.

For one thing, Canadiens get far fewer assists on goal while on the ice than any other club in the league. For another, the same Canadiens get more assists per goal at home than other clubs get on their own ice.

The best place for a visiting club is Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto. There the visitors are graciously given more assists than the Leafs. The worst place in this respect for visitors is Chicago Stadium.

The official game-by-game score sheets that reveal all this, with the help of a little arithmetic, include all games this season played to Feb. 10.

PET SQUAWK

Irvin and Jack Adams got into a long-distance shouting argument a few days ago over one of Irvin's pets, snapping. The Adams squawk that about all Gordie Howe of the Red Wings has to do to get an assist in Detroit is to be on the ice when a goal is scored.

Irvin said, too, that his own Maurice Richard, league leader on goals scored, is so much better than Howe there's no comparison.

Howe is top man on assists and total points, and Adams shouted right back that Howe deserves every assist he gets and is a great, unselfish player. Adams implied he wouldn't trade Howe for Richard and the Montreal Forum thrown in.

Richard has scored 32 goals to Howe's 23, including two games not yet officially recorded in NHL files. Of his 32 assists, Howe has collected 24 at home and 13 away. Richard has 24 assists, 11 at home. Richard has scored in every NHL city but has counted no assists in Detroit, Toronto and Boston. Howe has failed to score in Montreal and Toronto and has failed to get an assist only in Montreal.

ASSISTS ON GOALS

In their five visits to Detroit, Canadiens have scored seven goals, two by Richard. Nine assists were given on the seven goals, an average per goal of 1.285. On their two goals in Montreal the Red Wings were given two assists.

In the four games in Montreal against the Red Wings, Canadiens scored six goals and were given only seven assists, an average of 1.166, lowest recorded there in meetings with any club on Montreal ice.

On the other hand, Canadiens' average assists of 1.285 on goals scored in Detroit, seven goals and nine assists, compared with a 1.529 average given the Red Wings in the same games on 31 goals and 26 assists.

Canadiens' season average at home is 1.621; the average of all visiting clubs is 1.418. Home average for the Red Wings is 1.320; average of clubs visiting Detroit is 1.454.

WINGS HIGHEST

On the road Canadiens have been allotted only 1.330 assists per goal. The Red Wings are highest with 1.536, while Boston Bruins have a 1.418 average. Clubs entertaining Canadiens get 1.394 assists when they entertain Detroit the home clubs get 1.473, a lower average than they accord the Red Wings.

The home clubs fatten most when the Toronto Leafs come calling, getting 1.666 assists per goal themselves against 1.461 given the Leafs. At home, the Leafs give themselves a 1.465 average, lowest "home" average in the circuit, and the visitors 1.562.

Chicago Black Hawks have a home average of 1.547; the visitors to Chicago get only 1.310. Boston Bruins rank close to Montreal on home-game assists, a 1.608 average compared with Montreal's 1.621.

Little Benny's Note Book

Us fellows were walking to school, and we saw a bunch of big guys and girls waiting for a bus to go to high school, and I said, Oh boy, that's the life. When you go to high school and college you're allowed to pick out your own choice of what you want to study, and specialize in it, I said.

When I go to high school I'm going to pick out Latin and specialize to be a doctor, and when I'm a doctor I'll specialize on taking out people's appendixes if they need it, Glasses Magee said. That's the only thing I'll do, take appendixes out of rich customers and charge them 5 thousand dollers apiece, he said, and Fuds Simkins said, Where are you going to get all the rich customers?

I'll advertize, Glasses said. And when there's no bad appendixes around, I can afford to take life easy and go to the ball games and places, he said, and Dopey Shorty Hughes said, I'm going to pick out history and specialize on either being a general on a horse or an admiral on a ship, so when there's a war going on I wont have anything to do but practice riding or sailing.

I'm going to pick out fancy arithmetic and specialize on being the I'll take care of other people's money for them and charge them a certain percentage, depending on their income I said.

Which just then the last school bell rang, and we all ran the rest of the way all our mails and got there out of breth but not late.

Proving we specialized in running.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Bridge defenders soon learn to blast; that is, explode with some high bid. It is their way of blocking the path of rule bidding. It is their way of making it tough for the opposing pair to get together.

Not always does it accomplish its real objective. Opponents may find it difficult to exchange full information. But it may also shove them into a higher makable contract.

Came the deal shown here:

NORTH
♠K 10 6 4
♥A 5 3
♦5
♣A J 4 3 2

WEST
♠8 7 2
♥J 10 8 7 6 4
♦9 8 7 3
♣K 10 8 7

EAST
♠A 9
♦K Q J 10
♣ 6 5 2

SOUTH
♠A Q J 5 3
♥K 2
♦A 5 3
♣9 5

The players bid it like this:

South	West	North	East
1 S	4 H	4 S	6 D
Dbl	Pass	6 S	Pass
Pass

The west bid of four hearts was a pre-emptive try that did not expect to make what was bid. The east six diamond bid was thrown in there without expectation of making that many tricks. The east six diamond bid was a sacrifice bid. There is no accounting for taste in sacrifice bidding. Here is there a set rule for deciding in which case it will surely pay if you are a good guesser it will top any rule I know.

As you can plainly see, west and east stuck their necks out. East evidently assumed the opponents had a slam and hoped to coax a double that might lose less for his side.

South was willing to collect the penalty rather than risk a slam bid he could not see. But his unwillingness refused to give the opponents the opportunity they angled for.

In my opinion, north was unjustified in taking out the double. He lacked the values that would assure a slam. But the opening lead from west was the singleton diamond. Declarer took 13 tricks.

Study his plan of operations. It is good practice.

Five Players Still Suspended

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (CP) — Five players, including the American Hockey League's leading goal scorer, remained on the sidelines today as the embattled Syracuse Warriors continued their steady progress toward the AHL basement.

The five, all former regulars in the Warriors' lineup, are unwilling pawns in an experiment by Syracuse owner Eddie Shore, who last week ordered the transfer of virtually the entire Syracuse club to Shore's Springfield team in the Quebec Hockey League in exchange for a flock of rookies.

The transfer, however, was dead in the QHL, while Syracuse still holds first place in the six-team AHL by a four-point margin over Providence Reds. But Springfield has drawn better crowds and Shore ordered the mass switch, expressing the desire to find out how his rookies make out in the faster AHL company.

The suspended five, top-scorer Harry Pidhirny, Kelly Burnett, Marcel Pronovost, Jim Conacher and Gordie Bell, refused to report to Springfield and were suspended by Shore. Bell was the regular Warrior goaltender, Allen is a first-string defenceman and the others are forwards.

Defencemen Dan Summers and Gordon Tottle, also suspended when they refused to report, have since changed their minds and now are with the Indians.

Meanwhile the rookie-studded Warriors took an 8-2 beating from Hershey Bears Wednesday night.

AT THE BELLE—Jean Simmons clutches "The Robe" and joins Richard Burton, her beloved, to share his fate at the hands of a monstrous Caligula, who will not tolerate their conversion to Christianity. "The Robe", CinemaScope Spectacle, in Technicolor with the new Stereophonic Sound, to add new heights of participation. "The Robe" is now playing and Saturday at the Belle Theatre. Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

TODAY, SATURDAY, FEB. 13, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Though you may not realize it, invisible powers are working for you. Be ingenious and seek out invisible ways and means of accomplishment and you'll be amply rewarded.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This day's favorable influences should be helpful in your daily problems, bettering your position or deciding. But be mindful that there are others anxious to thrive — worthy opposition.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Most generous aspects. Create a friendly atmosphere, promote ideas on diplomacy rather than force, uniqueness. This means thinking.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — A few well-placed words; a smile will go far today. The air is full of contention; many may be on parade. The smart ones will be tactful and benefit by happy surprises.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You may be able to carve a high personal niche during this healthy period. Rely on known formulas, experience rather than hearsay or snap judgment. Make haste slowly.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Resolve to do a top job. A somewhat mixed day. Planetary influences point to uncertainties in financial undertakings. Be careful at all times.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Tendencies toward unwise speculation, wasting time and energy on unessentials, unsound propositions. Inactivity bores, irritates you. Keep mighty busy, please others. Item the present.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — You Scorpio natives should enjoy the challenging day. No hasty decisions or words, but keen ideas, propositions will make your day worth-while, freshly satisfying.

November 23 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — While opposition seems big at first glance, it fades once you attack intelligently. Don't be fooled and try a long hand when co-operation is so easily had. We all need help.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Vibrations brisk. Some money matters on upward trend. Inject a little sound audacity, while carefully gauging possibilities. Heart interests favored in reasonable degree.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — If you want to achieve, be definite, discerning. Be a fruit runner; snap up the lead and hold it with sound wit. You'll find it seventy-five percent of the battle.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — A transitory period perhaps. Retrench, to be ready for bigger opportunities. Discuss problems with interested persons. Keep as open-minded stand throughout the day.

YOU BORN TODAY have so many good traits that once your ambitions are aroused, you can reach unusual heights and sweep away opposition. You also can take others to the top with you. Associates often do so because of their humanitarian nature. Study yourself; don't let worrying or lack of incentive gain hold; be active; your goals noble, harmony-exciting personality. Optimism, self-reliance, faith your big aids. Excellent teachers, researchers, religious, writers and leaders of reform found in your Sign Aquarius. Be careful about companionships.

EXPLOSIVE NOT MENACE

LONDON (CP) — Three times within a week police rushed out to remove sticks of highly explosive gelignite from various parts of London. After recovering the three sticks from a mailbox, the floor of a bus and the base of a flower pot, police decided they were dealing with someone with a misguided sense of humor. None of the three sticks was equipped with a detonator.

A contest section "Andy Pendis's Garden", courtesy of Castle Films Incorporated, followed.

British Scotch Drinkers To Have More of Favorite

By ARCH McKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—After 14 long years of iron rations, British scotch drinkers soon may be able to dip that well upper lip into increased quantities of their favorite "refreshment"—if they can afford it.

The government and the Scotch Whisky Association have discontinued the annual agreement that allocated most of the scotch whisky to the export trade. The association will continue to cultivate the dollar-rich export field, whose yield has been one of the main crutches for post-war British economy.

But the association wants to get back to the home market for a couple of reasons.

For one thing, Britons now drink about half the 8,000,000 gallons of scotch consumed in 1938-39. Gin, rum and brandy shot up in popularity as scotch was sacrificed to the Second World War and the battle of the dollar-gap, so much so that gin actually outsold scotch in 1949 for the first time in years.

STABLE MARKET

The whisky trade is concerned about that angle and it wants a stable home market to fall back on if Canadians and Americans suddenly stop drinking colossal amounts of scotch. Export exports reached record proportions in 1953 when the United States and Canada stood one-two in sales worth $37,700,000.

North American thirst for scotch appears insatiable, but the public palate is notoriously fickle. Whisky producers are aware of the plight of Portugal, victim of the decline and fall of port in British drinking fancy.

Hence, the pressing of the market. But there are a couple of reasons why 1954 doesn't necessarily mean whisky galore.

Whisky stocks have been rebuilt to the 19,000,000 or so gallons of pre-war days, but the stocks then and now aren't comparable in age. Another thing is that supply and demand of scotch whisky seems close to the meeting point, chiefly because of the price.

HIGH TAXATION

Scotch—and Canadian rye—cost 25s today compared with 8s in 1939. Seventy per cent of the price is tax. The industry will seek again this year to have the tax burden eased but the prospects are no brighter than they have been.

Faced with the prospect of having to "sell" scotch again after all these years, the whisky industry probably will react [illegible] vertising of the main "household brands" in the 100 or so most important ones. There are many lesser ones, which have taken the place of the best known in their absence.

There's also the possibility that the industry will bid for the Canadian, which formerly couldn't afford whisky, but which is as well off for that now as the average citizen of the old upper class. And it may attempt to lure the female consumer with lighter blends—a hope hitherto thought to be confirmed scotch drinkers.

HOW TO BE ON TELEVISION — BREAK A LAW!

With detectives playing the roles of suspects, the New York Police department tries an experimental telecasting of its "line-up" from Manhattan headquarters to Brooklyn headquarters. If the test is satisfactory, it is planned to put TV receivers in each precinct station and thus give all 2,000 of the city's detectives a chance to see the "line-up" daily. (Central Press Canadian.)

HUNGRY BABOONS

INVOLVED IN NEW HIGHWAY SCANDAL

Already under investigation in connection with an alleged $7,000,000 road building scandal at Fort William, the Ontario department of highways is faced with the possible revelation of a new scandal following suspension of Donat Dubeau, seen above, of Rockland, foreman in charge of maintaining a stretch of roadway between small town of Rockland, 25 miles east of Ottawa, and Plantagenet. Dubeau is alleged to have built two and possibly three houses with departmental funds and labor. An employee with the highways department for some ten years, Dubeau rented two of the houses following completion two months ago, and is living nearby in the third house. Department officials said the irregularities were found through the routine checking system, carried out by travelling auditors inspecting all highway districts, and not as a result of an investigation now being conducted into irregularities in highway contracts in the Fort William division.

I Remember

Selling some pigeons!

BY J. V. McAREE

J. V. (John Verner) McAree has been an editorial writer for the Toronto morning papers for more than fifty years. Currently writes daily column for Toronto Globe and Mail.

Many years ago I sent some pigeons to a bird store to be sold. On their pen I wrote this notice "No Better Blood Can be Obtained." The next day the proprietor of the store asked me to change the sign, saying that I had made a glaring mistake. I stared at the sign for several minutes without noticing anything wrong. Then he said "You say 'Can be Obtained'." We still stared uncomprehendingly. "You ought to have said 'Can't be obtained'," said the man. Finally we convinced him that what we had written was grammatical. "You may be right," he admitted, "but I think 'Can't be obtained' would have made it more stronger".

Austrian Treaty Hopes Are Killed By Molotov

Insists German and Trieste Problems Be Solved First

By FREEMAN MORIN.

BERLIN (AP) — Informed sources in Moscow, who have negotiated with the Communists, today told Russia stands a good chance to achieve one of its major objectives, isolating a split in Western policy towards Red China, if a major-power conference on the Far East is held.

The question of convening a Far Eastern conference is under discussion among the Big Four foreign ministers now meeting in Berlin. The news that Russia's V. M. Molotov will propose an agenda including representation of Asian nations came as no surprise here. A top authority, who declined to be identified, said such a move was anticipated when efforts to arrange a Korean settlement on Korea failed.

"We long ago advised Washington that the Communists have no intention of concluding a political agreement on Korea," he said.

"What they really want is a Far Eastern conference to which those countries will, ideas of neutralism, will be repre- nated.

Both India and Indonesia are considered to be in that category. Burma also would lean toward the "neutral" side.

Second Child, Saved by Mother, Dies of Burns

FIELD, Ont. (CP) — Death toll in a fire which levelled a frame home here rose to two today with the death of four-year-old Aurel Garbeau seven hours after his mother braved the flames to carry him from a second - storey bedroom.

His brother, three-year-old Hubert Garbeau, died in the flames. The mother, Mrs. Armand Garbeau, 24, suffered minor burns in rescuing Aurel. Her husband, 25, was at work in a lumber camp.

Aurel died in hospital this morning at Sturgeon Falls where he was taken in critical condition following the late Friday fire in the settlement 30 miles northwest of North Bay.

Mrs. Garbeau told authorities she was downstairs in the tiny house when she noticed smoke coming down the stairs. She tried three times but was able to force her way into the flame-filled upper storey. She found Aurel and carried him out.

Neighbors had to restrain the mother from rushing back into the flames for the other child, who was trapped in an upstairs bedroom.

Mrs. Garbeau told authorities she believed the fire was caused by faulty wiring.

Morrisburg Youth, 19, Found Shot to Death

MORRISBURG (CP) — Carl M. Barkley, 19, was found dead with a bullet wound in the forehead Friday. An automatic 22-calibre rifle lay nearby.

The body was found by his mother, Mrs. Milton Barkley, in the kitchen of their home a short distance from the village. His parents said they believe the rifle discharged accidentally while the boy was cleaning it.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Ontario's cold snap is on its way and today and tomorrow will be mostly windy with temperatures ranging from seasonal to slightly cooler. Increasing cloudiness and light snow in all parts of the province. The snow will end in southern regions today but will tend to persist throughout Sunday in the north. Southern Ontario's temperatures will reach the 40s Sunday as the warming trend continues. Temperatures in the north will also rise but are not expected to reach the freezing point Sunday.

HOUSE SETTLING DOWN TO STUDY CRIMINAL CODE

Committee Starts Work On Three Questions

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament is settling down to its study of a revision of the Criminal Code, the first complete redrafting of Canada's criminal laws in some 50 years.

A special 37-member Commons-Senate committee is expected to start work next week on three contentious questions, hanging, whipping and lotteries.

Another and more technical issue, the plea of insanity as a criminal defence, will be studied by a royal commission which the government plans to establish this session.

Meanwhile, the Commons resumed study Friday of the code revision and worked through 43 of the 751 clauses in which the criminal law has been consolidated. Most of the day was spent discussing laws dealing with sex offences, corruption of morals and disorderly conduct.

All parties have agreed to postpone consideration of topics likely to provoke prolonged debate until after less contentious subjects are approved. Under that agreement, the House Friday postponed consideration of clauses dealing with indecent assault, incest and the manufacture, distribution and possession of obscene objects and crime comics.

STUDY SEX OFFENCES

During study of sex offences, F. D. Shaw (SC—Red Deer) proposed an increase to 10 from two years in the maximum sentence for illegal sexual intercourse with feebleminded or insane persons.

He said the crime is not much different from rape, for which hanging is the maximum penalty.

However, his proposed amendment to the code was defeated by a standing vote of 31 to 23. Justice Minister Garson supported the proposal and all parties except the Social Credit group split on the division.

The code revision boosts to five years from four the maximum sentence for the crime. The amendment would have increased the penalty to 10 years.

Mr. Garson said a judge is not restricted to the maximum in passing sentence, but a 10-year maximum would "give the public confidence" how seriously Parliament views the offence.

Only one Maclenzie (CCF—Vancouver Kingsway) said the increase to 10 years from two would bring the incidence of such crimes. Offenders were the type who would not hesitate to kill their victims committing the crime.

Referring to the penalty for rape, Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—Macleod) objected to the proposed reduction of the death penalty for rape in the code revision. He said it should be retained for the rape of girls or children up to five or six years of age.

Mr. Garson said the death penalty for rape is being removed because it never is carried out. Rape of children would be a serious offence, with severe punishment in the offender and would be dealt with under a different section of the code.

Under the new code, maximum penalty for rape would be life imprisonment or whipping or both.

AGAINST SUNDAY TV

LONDON (Reuters)—Gen. Sir Brian Horrocks, head of the Salvation Army, has asked salvationists to cover up their television sets on Sundays. Writing in the Army's newspaper, War Cry, Orsborn said salvationist "should definitely put a cover over their sets on Sunday, even during children's hour. It is impossible to pick and choose the helpful from the harmful."

Jet Pilot Set Out for North Bay But Finally Landed in Missouri

ST. LOUIS (CP)—"It was surprised, to say the least."

That was the understandable comment of FO. N. L. Harrison after he had landed in the U.S. jet plane at the municipal airport here early Friday. He had set out originally for North Bay, Ont., 2,000 miles from here.

Harrison, of Toronto, and FO. G. G. MacLeod of Montreal, took off late Friday from the RCAF station at Portage La Prairie, Man., for the flight to North Bay. The distance from Portage La Prairie to North Bay is about 900 miles, roughly the same as the distance from the Manitoba base to St. Louis. The directions, however, differ by about 90 degrees, the direction of the compass.

"I began to suspect something was wrong," Harrison said, because we picked up none of the scheduled check points on the route."

All his navigational aids had failed shortly after he left Portage, and the ground was obscured.

As the evening wore on he reported himself lost on the radio. The appeal was heard at the controls of a U.S. jet and Lieut.-Col. Jack Moonier called in ground-controlled approach aids to bring the plane safely in.

Preparations for H-Bomb Test in Pacific Near Climax

By ROY ESSOYAN

HONOLULU (AP) — Preparations for the coming atmospheric bomb test series in the Pacific are nearing a climax, according to indications in this strategic mid-ocean staging area.

But there is no indication that any of the planned series of tests has actually started.

A recent rash of Pacific area earthquakes prompted speculation that an H-bomb already has been exploded but seismologists flatly deny the possibility of such a connection.

The tests, which will include the first trial of an actual combat-designed hydrogen bomb, are expected in two or three weeks.

Alvin Graves, director of the 1954 tests at the Marshall Islands atomic proving grounds, passed through Honolulu two weeks ago and is presumably on the test area now.

Maj.-Gen. Percy W. Clarkson, commanding officer of the atomic task force, left Honolulu a month ago, presumably for the Marshall Islands, and returned last week. Two days later he left again, in the same direction. An army transport plane regularly has arrivals and departures without further comment.

MOVEMENT ABOUT OVER

An informant at an engineering and contracting firm which supplies men and material for the atomic tests said the movement of construction personnel to the Bikini area is about over.

The Atomic Energy Commission notified airlines in advance of the 1953 tests to stay clear of the area. Ships and planes kept at a safe distance. The airlines now have been told there will be no such advance warning this time.

One airline spokesman said that in case of any danger they would be notified on an emergency basis. The weather bureau provides a hint that the tests are still two or three weeks off at best. Prevailing winds through February blow westto east across the Pacific and could carry dangerous atomic dust clouds to Hawaii and the United States.

U.S. Diplomats View Rhee's Threat to March North as Bluff

By WARREN ROGERS Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States diplomats are understood to view South Korean President Syngman Rhee's threat to march against North Korea as a bluff—but what he is up to is not understood to be.

Rhee also is known to hold out slight hope for his government's offer of troops for Indo-China.

A French military spokesman said Friday his government, which still had not officially asked for them officially, would reject the proffered South Korean division for fear it would provoke Red China into what war might bring on open Chinese intervention.

The French commissioner - general in Indo-China said in Saigon today his country is ready to negotiate a settlement with the Communist Vietminh. Maurice Dejean, the commissioner, charged at a press conference that military help from China is prolonging the conflict.

VOICES CONFIDENCE

Dejean said France is trying to prevent "another Korea," and he voiced confidence that the Vietminh rebels will be repelled from the Laotian capital of Luangprabang. Enemy columns are believed a few miles of that city.

The Indo - China problem has caused some political repercussions in France, where assemblyman Pierre Pflimlin (MRP—Moselle) charged Friday night in a speech at Troyes that Foreign Minister Bidault is begging Mao Tse-Tung, rich raw materials.

St. Laurent Is Encouraged By Signs Confidence Grows

ROME (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent embarked today on a busy week-end in the Italian capital with hopes for a round-the-world goodwill trip. He will be here till Tuesday when he flies to Athens, Greece and India.

The Canadian leader arrived here Friday by air from West Germany after a short visit to the Great Republic of Italy's neighbor France where he saw the Canadian Army (Europe) in Germany and Paris have revealed "encouraging signs of increased confidence."

In France he had found concern over the London conference but "they feel that when they can remove that situation (will pave the way for easier) all difficulties now in the way of a power set-up for the European Army."

Rain greeted the Canadian party on arrival late Friday at Naples Ciampino airport. Italy's new premier, Mario Scelba, was on hand to greet the Canadian prime minister and told him Italy "has the closest friendship for the Canadian people, a friendship based on many of our own sons have gone to live in your great country."

CANADIANS REPRESENTED

Ambassador Pierre Dupuy and nearly 300 members of Rome's Canadian colony also were on hand at the airport.

The prime minister greeted his Italian counterpart in French, saying: "Je suis heureux de la grande occasion que j'ai de vous saluer." He answered in English.

Find Wreckage Of Lost U.S. Jet Near Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—A U. S. Air Force F-89 Scorpion jet, lost in rain-shrouded skies with useless instruments, crashed Friday on a mountain rising abruptly from the harbor here.

An RCAF official said early today that wreckage found on the mountain was definitely identified as part of the aircraft in question.

He said a wing-tip with identification letters had been found and also a portion of the U.S. air force records on the missing Sabre.

Fate of the pilot was not immediately known. A search party of RCAF and RCMP officials left the mountain shortly after midnight Friday.

Piloted by Lieut. Lamar J. Barlow, 25, of Tacoma, Wash., the Sabre crashed in snow at the 3,000-foot level of Grouse mountain, a popular ski playground.

The wreckage was reported by a search party of 20,000 feet and 15 miles northwest of the Vancouver airport.

ONTARIO RECORDS OVER MILLION SURPLUS IN '53

LCB Showed Increase Of 7.8 PC in Sales

TORONTO (CP)—The pockets of the Province of Ontario were well lined during the 1953-54 fiscal year. A $1,100,871 surplus was achieved, the auditor's report showed during the tabling in the Legislature Friday by Provincial Secretary Arthur Welsh, was $1,012,871 over the $88,000 surplus forecast in the budget by Premier Frost, who is also provincial treasurer.

Liquor profits were also up. The annual report of the liquor control board, also tabled, showed a 7.8 per cent increase in sales. A total of $102,567,767 in liquor, wine and beer was sold, compared to $228,008,216 in 1952. The board showed a surplus of $8,720,000.

An early start on session business was indicated by Mr. Frost during Friday's sitting, the second of the 1954 Legislature. Formation of standing committees, an increase of one over last year, will be the first business.

STUDY REDISTRIBUTION

The premier also said in reply to a question by Hon. Thomas A. Nixon (L—Brant) that the question of a special committee to investigate redistribution of provincial future seats is being considered and will be dealt with by the Committee on Redistribution, f o r e c a s t in the speech from the throne, would be the year 1953 when the number of seats was reduced from 112 to 98.

Attorney - General Porter introduced 17 amendments to the Education Minister Dunlop brought in a bill setting up the Department of Education act of 1954. This bill would be the first of an over-all project of combining 13 acts into three.

The premier said Arthur Jolliffe (L—Niagara Falls) would move the address in reply to the speech from the throne Tuesday. The motion, to be seconded by W. H. No- Hill, senior crown prosecutor in Montreal.

LAWYER CHARGED

Friday's dictionaries were made as provincial and city authorities awaited Norman Bulley, a 28-year-old Montreal lawyer, at Dorval airport.

The lawyer and his wife, accompanied by her parents, were flown to swim four seats on an Israeli-bound flight.

Bulley was later charged in with "having falsified the entries into a birth certificate" and "giving evidence in connection with an indictable offence."

He was released on $5,000 bail pending preliminary hearing Feb. 19. A request by George Hill, senior crown prosecutor in Montreal, that bail be set at $5,000 was refused.

Provincial police brought two unidentified women and a baby to headquarters for questioning. They said the women would be questioned in connection with the case.

Baring of the baby racket came two days after arrival of Israeli Premier David Ben Gurion at a district attorney, who came to Montreal with a woman detective to pursue the investigation. Earlier, Hill and a detective had conferred without with him on the case in New York.

NEW JEWISH ADOPTIONS

Mr. Miller said many of the babies went to Jewish parents in the U.S. and Montreal. Names of families who had "adopted" babies in Montreal.

Persons adopting the babies did not know anything was wrong.

Four Arrested For Questioning In Baby Racket

Policewomen of New York, Montreal Make Transaction

MONTREAL (CP) — A Montreal lawyer and two women were arrested Friday night, bringing to four the number of persons arrested in 24 hours for questioning in connection with what law authorities have described as a $3,000,000 black market ring in babies.

The three persons, unidentified, were arrested after a month-end address after transactions were completed for the purchase of a baby by two policewomen of New York and Montreal city police departments.

Officials said a sum of $3,500 changed hands and the birth certificate, reportedly falsified, was provided.

A raid on the house by combined squads of provincial and Montreal police immediately followed the transaction. Police said they discovered the money, which had been marked, and took the child into custody.

Dealings for the purchase of the baby were under way for three days before the alleged sale was completed, police said.

Earlier, another Montreal lawyer had been arrested at the airport during his arrival.

1,000 BABIES TO U.S.

Police said the baby ring has been operating for the last 10 years and has smuggled more than 1,000 babies into the U.S.

Lawyers, doctors and social workers, many of whom were innocent dupes, were said to be involved.

Police left no doubt they intended to clean up the racket quickly.

"We have been given instructions to end, once and for all, the baby traffic out of Quebec," said George W. Hill, senior crown prosecutor in Montreal.

Police Reveal Baby Traffic, Arrest Lawyer

Charged with falsifying birth certificates, Herman Bulley, of Montreal is arrested as he, his wife and small child were about to board a plane for Amsterdam, Holland. He was arrested at a time when police have announced attempts to break an international baby smuggling ring which, according to George Hill, Montreal crown attorney, involves more than 1,000 Canadian infants and $5,000,000.— Central Press Canadian.

Wasaga Beach Infant Dies As Home Burns

WASAGA BEACH (CP) — A 10-months-old boy was burned to death in his crib Friday and sister were rescued Friday when fire broke out in a one-room cottage about two miles northeast of here.

Dead is Andrew Alexander Bradman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bradman. Elizabeth Ann, 3, and Stephen, 5, were rescued through the burning frame house by neighbors' children.

Wasaga Beach is about 30 miles southwest of Orillia.

'Church of Christ' Name Chiselled Off Wall by Police Squad in Rome

ROME (AP) — Italian police descended today upon Rome's Church of Christ and chiselled its name off a wall and took a news photographer of The Associated Press to record the photographing them.

They calmly ordered an AP cameraman away from the scene.

The word "Christ," in six-inch high letters, was the first word removed in this action against the Protestant Church of Christ, which has American financial backing.

The police struck quickly after worshippers were forced to leave a Church of Christ in Leghorn late Friday night.

AP photographer Remo Nasi, an Italian citizen, was seized with his camera and hustled off in a police car. Meanwhile, AP correspondent Allan Jacks, a United States citizen, was ordered to leave, but refused.

The police left as soon as the name had been entirely removed from the wall.

The sign was removed on direct orders of the Rome questura, or police department, which is under the Italian ministry of interior.

Mario Scelba, new premier of Italy, which is predominately Roman Catholic, is also minister of the interior as well as government head.

The chief of the police party declined at first to give his name and identified himself as "commendatore Pinko." This was an obvious jibe at Church of Christ preachers, who in the past frequently have been assailed by Italian critics as leftists. This they have always denied.

Later the police officer apologized and identified himself as Commissario de Rosi.

Nova Scotia Develops New Reading Method

HALIFAX (CP) —Nova Scotia has taken an important step in the age-old controversy on how children should be taught to read.

The new program teaches children the skill of word recognition through pronunciation and word picture systems and discards the old idea of teaching the alphabet in the primary grades.

The plan, being considered for adoption by nine other provinces, parts of the United States and the United Kingdom, brings parents into the school for conferences to eliminate conflict in home-teaching methods.

The program for improved reading was started three years ago by Harold M. Nason chief inspector of schools and assistant director of educational services for the provincial education department.

Judge E. A. Shannon, chairman of the board, said a decision will be made in the next 10 days.

'Go North, Young Lady' Advice By Mining Association Leader

"Go north, young lady, go north" was the general advice given members of the Women's Canadian Club last evening by D. D. Wansbrough, executive, and general manager of the Canadian Mining Association, in an address entitled "Canada Moves North."

His comprehensive review of the fabulous expansion of Canada's mineral industries, Mr. Wansbrough noted that there are men and machines capable of developing our natural resources but that many a promising engineer or geologist has had his career cut short because his wife would not agree to go north.

Mr. Wansbrough said it was "libellous" to refer to Canada's magnificent new northern country as the "white elephant" inasmuch as they boast all the conveniences of city living without the disadvantages of size.

"The choice of man's career rests in his hands," Mr. Wansbrough said the speaker, "and I hope that many young women will go north to Canada's magnificent frontier."

The speaker stated that the finding and developing of natural resources was the foundation of Canada's economy. From here also Canada had gone on to her forests and fields for prosperity, and now is dependent on her mineral wealth in oil and metals.

CARVING NEW EMPIRE

From the Yukon, where a quarter of the world's total output of lead an zinc, through the base metals industry and aluminum of British Columbia; the uranium and radium of the Northwest Territories, to Saskatchewan's Beaverlodge uranium, and Manitoba's Lynn Lake; through Ontario's iron, nickel and uranium, to the fabulous asbestos, titanium and iron deposits of Quebec and Labrador, Canada is "one march north, said Mr. Wansbrough.

"Thanks to our northern discoveries, Canada is richer than she ever dreamed of," he said. "We are living in one of the few fortunate countries with a moving frontier. And it is the moving frontier that is the measure of our country and our prosperity," he said.

In the new age of atomic power, and jet transport, "Canada holds the trump card," said Mr. Wansbrough.

"We have the raw materials of uranium and titanium and nickel for alloys in the making of jet engines and in our iron ore reserves we have the ingredients of a great steel industry, and steel is the industrial backbone of any nation."

IMPOSES RESPONSIBILITY

The speaker pointed out that this immense treasure imposes upon Canadians a responsibility to make their children, and their allies.

"Our western allies and the United States rely on our stability to a degree that even they do not realize," he said. "Canada, by necessity and tradition, has had to solve her problems by a technique of conciliation and compromise. Canada is the only major nation in the world that has solved its racial, religious, economic and geographical problems without resorting to civil war or bloodshed."

Mr. Wansbrough went on to point out that today Canada stands as "geographical intermediary" between Russia and the United States. Canada is the northern bastion of democracy against aggression geographically and politically.

The speaker was introduced and thanked by the president of the Women's Canadian Club, Mrs. Larry Langlois.

Of the suspensions, six were for unsatisfactory operation, four for improper advertising and five for such infractions as allowing minors on the premises, serving drunks and staying open beyond the permitted hours; one for unsatisfactory sanitation and one for non-observance of the board's instructions.

A total of 34,943 banquet permits were issued to individuals for specific functions.

Of the 54 new licenses granted, 19 were to restaurants, 12 to veterans' clubs, nine social clubs, three hotels, three clubs, one restaurant and one labor club.

There are 1,811 hotels in the province including several held by one establishment, in many cases, was 4,465.

A Lift for Living

Saving Time

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Last week we discussed the matter of spending time. This week let us think about saving time.

We are the most time - conscious generation ever to appear on this planet. We chafe at delays. If we are kept waiting for an appointment we pace the floor like prisoners. Whatever our right hand findeth to do, our left hand carries a wrist watch to show how long we take to do it.

But we do not learn the value of time merely by trying to save it. We cannot save time in the sense that we can save money or food. All of today's time has to be spent before midnight. When it is gone, it is gone forever.

How eagerly we welcome each new time-saving device. Some few years ago I was asked to give the invocation at a luncheon session of a large convention. As we were waiting in the hotel lobby, I noticed a man walking through the crowd with an instrument slung over his shoulder. It looked like a piccolo with a short fishing rod attached.

IN HIS LINE

I asked him what it was and he said it was a "walkie-talkie." He let me handle it; he seemed to feel that "walkie-talkies" were somewhat in my line!

I was very much impressed. With it he could send messages to, and receive messages from, other committeemen carrying similar devices in other parts of the hotel.

What a time-saver! No phoning, no paging. But a little later I had a feeling that if I had been more than the minute or so allotted for my invocation, the sky men assembled there would have thought I was wasting their time.

Walkie-talkies appeal to us as time-savers, but prayer strikes many as a waste of time. We turn to gadgets but not to God for time-saving.

Yet turning to God does save time. He helps us to save time by restoring the nearness of touch when our hands grow weary from the daily grind and our vision begins to blur.

MOMENTS WITH GOD

Countless readers can no doubt testify that a few moments spent with God steady the nerves when the grip slackens, sweeten the temper when things go sour, clear the vision when the fog of uncertainty rolls in.

God helps us to save time also by giving us the power to keep going toward our goals. Read what Henry M. Stanley said about his travels in Africa when he was explaining that contentment in the days of David Livingstone:

"On all my expeditions prayer and study made me forever morally and mentally than my non - praying companions. It did not blind me to my eyes or dull my mind or close my ears; but on the contrary it gave me confidence. It did more, it gave me joy and pride in my work, and lifted me hopefully over the one thousand five hundred miles of forest tracks, eager to face the day's perils and fatigues."

God gives that stamina and fortitude to keep us plodding along without fainting.

GOD SAVES TIME

Moreover, God helps us really to save the time which we cut from our schedules of work and travel. We are every shortening the periods it takes to do things and get to places. And then what do we do with the time we save? Men would do a forty-hour work week. If we sleep eight hours a day, more than many of us do, that leaves 76 hours.

What do we do with this time off? Let us remember that we can suffer from the misuse of our leisure just as truly as from the mismanagement of our labor. Here is a major moral problem for our time—to make our leisure hours true recreation and not mere dissipation.

What do we do when we can do what we please? One easy way to test a person's character is to find out what he calls having a "good time." Godly living helps to lift our tastes so that we enjoy the simple wholesome things that do us good—good conversation, good games, good music. Our "time off" can help to put character on.

HOLLOWAY STREET B.A.

The February meeting of Holloway Street Young Peoples' Auxiliary was held at the home of the president, Miss Marjorie Fredrick.

During the business period, the members were invited to meet at the home of Mrs. Doris Pearson next Wednesday evening to complete the layettes being made for Korea.

The worship service and study period was in charge of Miss Loreta Fairman and her group. The topic, taken from Chapter 7, in the study book, was dealing with the "Four R's in Europe"—relief, reconstruction, rediscovery of the Bible and reconciliation.

At the close of the meeting, a contest was conducted.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

For Parents Only

Valentine Jolly Time

By NANCY CLEAVER

[illegible] your sons [illegible] sang, Honey is sweet and so are you."

Everyone knows this old rhyme and there are few better ones to print or write on a Valentine. But how about trying to make up an original short rhyme or poem? Mother, or grandmother would get a big thrill out of a verse a child wrote himself, even if it were "elegant".

Making Valentines is great fun and everyone likes to receive pretty cards from their friends. Suggest to your children that the members of one's own family, even if some of them are "grown-up," enjoy getting Valentines too! Why not make a Valentine place card for each person in the home and put one on the table at supper time on February 14th?

If there are young brothers or sisters in your home, do let them share in Valentine making. They may be happy to cut out a well-shaped heart from red cardboard. Then they can find scissors and paste and look for pretty colored pictures in magazines or seed catalogues.

An old sample wall paper book can be another wonderful place to search for attractive Valentine decorations. If you ask the merchant who has sold wall paper or paint to you to keep an out-of-date sample book, he will likely be glad to oblige you. With a little direction from you, a younger child can put paste on the back of a cut-out picture and choose where it is to be placed on the heart.

NEEDY ASSISTANCE

Small brothers or sisters will need assistance in making Valentines. Mother will help them work together happily. If she has any paper doilies, perhaps she could suggest a lace edging for the nicest Valentines. They can be pasted on the back of the red cardboard with small plaits, making a frilly edge.

The children might decorate ordinary paper serviettes with some red hearts which they drew and colored with their crayons or cut out from red paper and pasted on them. Mother might have a good idea about a pretty table centre piece, possibly using a little man and woman salt and pepper shakers as the two central figures.

One made a charming decoration for the table out of plasticene figures using four contrasting colors. Likely Mother will plan the first course, but the eldest she or sometimes Sister could make heart-shaped cookies. Red gelatine jelly is also quite decorative. A school age child can make it himself because the directions are so easy to follow.

This fourteenth of February, half way through the long winter months, can be a very jolly time for everyone, if each member in the home co-operates in making Valentine greetings and in the preparations for a Valentine Home Party! These "special Occasions" in family life provide a feeling of belonging. They are also very nice to remember when little folk are grown and away from home!

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

"LEAD ON, O KING ETERNAL"

Lead on, O King Eternal,
The day of march has come;
Henceforth in fields of conquest
Thy tents shall be our home,
Through days of preparation
Thy grace has made us strong,
And now, O King Eternal,
We lift our battle song.

Lead on, O King Eternal,
Till sin's fierce war shall cease,
And holiness shall whisper
The sweet Amen of peace;
For not with swords loud clashing,
Nor roll of stirring drums;
With deeds of love and mercy
The heavenly kingdom comes.

Lead on, O King Eternal,
We follow, not with fears;
For gladness breaks like morning
Where'er Thy face appears;
Thy cross is lifted o'er us;
We journey in its light:
The crown awaits the conquest;
Lead on, O God of might.

"LEAD ON, O KING ETERNAL"

As the class of 1887 at Andover Theological Seminary prepared to disband, Ernest Warburton Shurtleff—one of the young graduates—wrote a parting hymn for his fellow students.

Little did he dream, as it was sung on the commencement day, that it would become one of the most precious and popular hymns of church and Sunday school.

The picture of the young theologians, ready for graduation after many months of training and study and eager to begin their ministries in Christian service, is given in the first stanza of the hymn:

Lead on, O King Eternal,
The day of march has come;
Henceforth in fields of conquest
Thy tents shall be our home,
Through days of preparation
Thy grace has made us strong,
And now, O King Eternal,
We lift our battle song.

After a century, few churchpeople, singing the hymn remember its unusual origin, but it is still a favorite with Christians, young and old. Because of the swinging tune to which it is usually sung, it sometimes used as a marching song in Sabbath School exercises and in young people's church conventions.

Mr. Shurtleff, born in Boston during the second year of the Civil War, studied at Boston Latin School and at Harvard University before enrolling at theological school. Two years after his graduation from Andover Seminary he was ordained to the Congregational ministry. His first pastorate, in 1889 and 1890, was served at Buenaventura, California. Later, he served churches in Plymouth, Massachusetts and in Minnapolis, Minnesota.

A SAD STORY

Oppression is an old, old story.

But, a few centuries ago, the oppressed had one hope. They might be able to flee to a free land.

Among those frontier nations which offered havens for those persecuted for their religious or political views none occupied a more prominent place in the hopes of the oppressed than the United States.

But that hope has been dimmed. Proof of that sad fact is provided by the story of a Polish orphan, found hanged in the basement of a foster home in Toronto.

It is true, of course, that Raymond Hrycyna hanged himself accidentally, while playing cowboys.

It is true that his foster-parents were loving care children who would otherwise know only the regimen life in an institution.

But it is also true that Raymond had had a hard life. he had come to Canada with his family from a dis- ced persons camp in Poland and that, just when the ture began to brighten, both his parents had died.

And it is true that an aunt had desired to adopt him and provide for him a home where the ties of blood would exist. But the aunt resides in the United States. The immigration quota had filled. Raymond stayed in Canada. That fact was in no way responsible for his death. Accidents can happen in any land, in any home. But Raymond's death does give publicity to the fact that the land of the free is no longer offering freedom to all—nor is there any assurance that we Canadians are not also barring from our shores those very needy because their entry would be contrary to our man-made immigration laws.

UNIVERSITY SELECTION PROBLEM

Back in the Middle Ages there was a time when literacy was general only amongst the clergy.

Later the wealthy joined the educated classes. But until a few generations ago there had been no change in the educational standards of the poorer classes.

All that has changed. In most of the nations of the West, and in an increasing number of countries in other parts of the globe, education is now compulsory for children.

But access to universities is still regulated by the purse in many lands. In recent years, here in Canada, there has been an increasing tendency to question the justice of this condition.

Sparked, no doubt, by a recent pronouncement by Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto, discussion of this problem is widely prevalent at present.

Amongst the comments commenting on this matter is the Stratford Beacon-Herald, which makes several important points. For instance, it points out that, "a university degree is not a prerequisite of useful citizenship." It agrees that "it is a waste of everyone's time to try to educate the incompetent" and asserts that, for this reason, "the hurdle should be an intellectual one, and not a financial one." All this has been said before. But not all who have made these comments have placed their finger so accurately on a vital point as does the Beacon-Herald in the words, "This", it says, "will involve a process of selection and subsidy."

"Subsidy" is the key word. For if the poverty of the private purse is not to bar a student of good intellectual calibre from a university then the public purse must finance his education. The public purse, of course, already finances education in primary and secondary schools. But nobody is barred from these schools because of incompetency, as it is proposed to bar some from universities. What is going to be the reaction of a taxpayer who finds that he is paying for the university education of the children of others, while his own children cannot receive this training?

There is only one possible reply which, even in theory, provides a satisfactory answer to his protests. This is that the students who attend university are being trained primarily for the benefit of the nation, and not for their own benefit. And if that principle is to be accepted, then will it not be necessary to make certain that those trained at the expense of the public purse should, in fact, serve the nation?

At present many of the graduates of our universities emigrate to the United States, because of the higher salaries their training can command in that land. Much as we may deplore this situation, it seems to be impossible in a further restriction of personal liberties in an age where such restrictions multiply like rabbits.

A compromise should be possible. Would-be university students might be required to leap the intellectual hurdle proposed by the Beacon-Herald and then allowed to attempt also the financial hurdle under their own power, retaining complete liberty of movement if they made it. But if they sought and received state assistance, then they might be required to repay, either in cash or in a certain term of years of service to the state, (that is to the taxpayers), which paid for their education.

Such a system would be open to the objection that it still granted preferential treatment to the wealthy. Would the curtailment of personal liberties involved by worthy the benefits which might accrue to the nation through the retention of the talents of the university graduates? Frankly, we do not know. We do feel sure that this question, like many others, is not so simple and uncomplicated as many people would like to have us believe.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Count the candlest Count the pieces!
Grandma, grandpas, aunts and nieces.
Half the cake with lettering on it!
Sing the while we look upon it:
"Happy birthday! Happy birthday!"
This is what must be a mirth pleasant.
Make it one that he'll remember
When he reaches life's December;

And should they appear to doubt you
Making sure they'll never miss one
Prove it with a cake like this one.
Soon the past succeeds the present.
Youth's the time for memories
In the light of candles glowing,
Let no sign of care be showing.
Happy birthday! Sing or shout it

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The shore of Lake Erie is one of the most populous and busy regions in all Canada. Niagara is at one end of it, Windsor at the other. Besides the industrialization of the region, its farming includes the intensified culture of orchard and vine in the Niagara area, and the specialized tobacco farming that stretches much of the way along the Erie shore. Yet in the Lake Erie district, 144 are killed by motor cars in the year just closed, and 1,440 are officially known to have been killed by poachers and by accidents other than with the motor car.

How large the deer herd is, in the district, is unknown; but its size can be imagined from these official casualty lists.

Those of us who regard the sight of a deer in the wilderness as, next perhaps to fish and to believe that a creature so wild and shy and active is able so cleverly to survive in an old settled country like the Lake Erie shore lands, is multiply by the numbers that, on the average, one is killed by motor traffic every three days throughout the year.

Biologists point out, however, that there is really no mystery about the deer multiplying in settled regions. Food is the secret of it all. And in settled countries the increase of food proceeds at a rate land have been allowed to go back to second growth forest, for deer than there is in many a great tract of wilderness. The deer is a browsing animal not a grazer, preferring the twigs, tips and leaves of maple saplings, birch, poplar, oaks, willows, and all the young growth that constitutes the underbrush in a forest, especially a second-growth forest. Indeed, there are vast areas of the north country across Canada where the deer was unknown until the lumberman came in and created second growth.

In every old settled region in Canada, there are many areas which, after being cleared, were found unprofitable for agriculture and left to go back to nature. Such sections are ideal for deer, and why or not, they will find their way into them, and flourish for a time, so long as the food lasts.

Irish Troubles

(Niagara Falls Review)

As might have been expected that attack on and stripping of a British soldier in Northern Ireland by extreme Irish Nationalists has had the opposite effect to what was intended and has created a wave of bitterness and antagonism against early reunion of all Ireland. Certainly such of those will do much to postpone any reunion of Northern and Southern Ireland.

Runic Message Again Doubted

(Edmonton Journal).

One of those questions which is good for an argument anywhere in the North, America, and especially where people of Scandinavian descent are numerous, is the authenticity of the Runic Kensington stone, supposed by many to be the first record left by white men in the interior of North America. It has just been challenged again by a professor at the University of California, and a lively controversy is likely to follow.

This stone was found on a farm near Kensington, Minnesota in 1898. It is covered with a carved inscription in the characters or alphabet of medieval Scandinavia, telling briefly of the misfortunes of a party of Swedish and Norwegian explorers who had visited the spot in the year 1362. If genuine, this stone would prove that this party had reached the heart of North America more than one century before Columbus' voyage, and three hundred years before the Pilgrim Fathers were the commonly thought of as the first Europeans in the Great Lakes region.

For half a century, scholars have been divided on the question of whether the stone is an authentic record or a fake. But it was generally rejected because the characters in which the inscription was written, were not those then in use of the classical runic alphabet, but an ingenious variation of them, written in the modern alphabet. Some ingenious Yankee, it was thought, that the message was the work of some practical joker who had found the runic alphabet but did not know how to use them properly.

Later research, however, indicated that a script identical with that in the stone actually existed in common use in Sweden in the fourteenth century, and was handed down to the present day. Professor Breda, of Upsala University, discovered, which told how, around 1360, a king of Sweden sent an expedition across the Atlantic to search for the vanished Norse colonies in Greenland, and possibly for the mysterious land of Vinland which Leif Ericson had discovered, somewhere on the North American coast in the eleventh century. Professor Breda thinks it would be quite easy for ships of this expedition to enter Hudson Bay, and then travel by small boats into the interior, by the same river routes later used by the fur traders. All this put a different face on the matter, and the majority of authorities including the Smithsonian Institution, now believe the stone to be a genuine historical record.

The California professor bases his scepticism chiefly on the fact that certain words in the inscription are misspelled, and the same misspellings occur in an old Norse encyclopedia written by Olaf Olmsen, the farmer on whose land the stone was found. He also points out that all the materials necessary for a fake were available on the farm.

Despite his arguments, however, the whole thing is fascinating and highly improbable. All accounts agree that the runic heights beers were sober, hard-working pioneer farmers, who had neither the time nor the inclination for such a laborious practical joke. Besides, there is no reason why any of them had the specialized knowledge necessary to work up a convincing-looking inscription in antique language and script. Finally, their variety was owned by one of by lodgers.

Necessity Key to Success

Montreal Gazette

Thomas Carlyle once said that genius is a tremendous capacity of taking trouble." And his words have often been paraphrased so as to read: "Genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains."

But the statement (expressed either way) is only partly true. It would be more accurate to say: "Genius is an infinite necessity for taking pains."

Capacity, in itself, is rarely enough. Many a great man never achieved greatness. There are always easier ways of passing one's time. The pains and effort and struggle and persistence that build achievement are not likely to be endured unless, for some reason, there is the feeling of necessity.

It would be a wonderful truth for everyone to be taught—and to feel—that the greatest of difficulties can be invaluable advantages, even tremendous possessions. The smooth way is the easy way, but the easy way never leads up high.

Sir William Osler, the wise physician, has said many times that this is. All his life he had laboured for health and the conquest of sickness, but he would not have spiritless, flaccid, unchallenged existence. He jumped at the chance to write. Tennyson once said: "I must have myself in action, lest I wither in despair." None of us can happily live to himself alone. Even the hermits we must be to find it. We must give ourselves away. It won't matter if we do not get immediate appreciation. The personal satisfaction in having done something worthy enriches each one of us the moment that it is performed.

FOOTBALL MORTALITY

Within a period of ten minutes three spectators collapsed and died at the Minnesota-Michigan game in Memorial stadium in St. Paul (or is it Minneapolis) on a Saturday afternoon last October. The victims were 70, 62 and 42 years respectively.

Dr. Brady.

As I recap killings, it is a lot better for us

loafers, who live by our wits, on the bounty of rich relations or on money earned, won or stolen by our ancestors, to play the game ourselves instead of screaming hysterically in the grandstand welcoming blood players.

Excitement is not so bad if it is accompanied with enough physical activity to absorb or use up the energy released for fight or flight. But it is damaging to the arteries if you can neither fight nor run away.

The vicarious thrill of football is even worse for teen age children who go home to sprawl in the overstuffed chair in the cheering section. These unhappy youngsters need to play something whatever game their preference, boxing, tennis, swimming, rowing, sprints, skating, baseball, any game that requires speed, skill, agility and training instead of squirming and screaming while the players put on their varsity show.

News items say that up to about the end of November, scholastic high school football players and three college football players had been killed in the 1933 season. But this column I have repeatedly tried to warn parents about the damage to the heart that may result from a severe or very partial epidemic in a grown man's game.

Now it is the New York medical authority, Charles L. Lowman, M.D., of Orthopedic Hospital, in regard to football, who has issued the latest lurid warning. Dr. Lowman recommended "surgery" football be exposed:

"The surgeon who was concerned with is not the occasional trauma such as strain, sprain or fracture, but the gradual piling up of minute traumas to growth ossification and joint structures from intense use under stress. The results of such traumas may not show till later years, consequently the necessary care may be neglected.

In the same article in California Medicine (September '31) Dr. Lowman recommended that parents do not succumb to pressure from interested sports exerted by any coach, school administrator or other person.

"Parents should consider carefully," Dr. Lowman said. "the need for a fundamental physical training of boys and girls which would be of benefit to their body mechanics. In this way they would have likelihood of insuring joint, muscle and growth plate injuries caused by allowing too early participation in active activities, such as football, basketball, wrestling, boxing and pyramid building."

It is incomprehensible why parents of normal boys can bring themselves to submit to exploitation of their young sons by the sporting fraternity of the town.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON GIVING AND GETTING

It has been truthfully said that we get nothing out of life that we don't put into it. Nothing we give out is ever discounted. There may be no immediate return to us but something is planted that is sure to produce fruit. At some unexpected moment a dividend is sure to arrive.

Tennyson once said: "I must have myself in action, lest I wither in despair." None of us can happily live to himself alone. Even the hermits we must be to find it. We must give ourselves away. It won't matter if we do not get immediate appreciation. The personal satisfaction in having done something worthy enriches each one of us the moment that it is performed.

A worker's compensation is not all in his pay envelope. He is daily being educated to be a better workman. A Mr. Curtice answered a Want Ad in a Detroit newspaper. General Motors got it in, and Curtice was asked to call. He was engaged. He must have said something himself, for today he is the President of this vast organization.

One reason for the happiness of so many is that they live isolated, selfish lives. They complain of loneliness. It's largely because they have nothing flowing out of their lives to give self-expression. They are their own worst companions. They are their own worst people. They are the ones who are forever giving out happiness wherever and whenever the opportunity is offered. Great giving always originates in the heart, and it is the heart that all happy returns forever flow.

There is a famous saying that the only things we keep are the things we give away. We keep the memory and the joy anyway! We always get by giving.

Strength for the Day

THREE BASIC ESSENTIALS

You have, no doubt, been aware of the fact that people are crowding to prayer meetings, to churches and buying many religious books. Why then have we not had a great spiritual revival? Is the state of the morals of nation and world at an all-time low?

This column has already mentioned the fact that spiritually hungry people often come to church and receive a spiritual fare which leaves them hungry and cold. But there is another reason why we are not experiencing a widespread revival and it is this writer's opinion that the fault is to be found not with the pew but with the pew.

People stated, we cannot have a revival of religion until people have three things—believing hearts, believing minds, and believing lives. People are trying to be religious today without believing hearts —a superficial religion of good deeds and highly organized campaigns. There is a shocking lack of purity, as reflected today in literature, the theatre, allegedly scientific reports on sex, in discussions of subjects, and a complete tolerance toward evil. Such customs would have shocked the nation at the turn of the century.

The cure of people, to receive the blessing of God, must have loving hearts that are penitent which reaches up to God and an ardent desire to be helpful which reaches out to man.

Until people in the pews have the attitude which will result in loving hearts, they can never see God, understand his providence, or do his will.

Our Planet Is Wriggling

(Philadelphia Bulletin).

Our planet is not so solid as it seems. In the long view of cosmic time it is constantly wriggling, as though suffering from indigestion. An authority has estimated that there are more than 30,000 earthquakes a year. Another authority has revealed the fact that seismicity is the number of volcanoes within the earth's crust which are not of internal fires and pressures. There are at least 400 of them in the United States, and they are "born" as old craters die. Add to these the other fact that one-fifth of the earth are rising and others falling, changing the face of continents, parts of the world, and it becomes clear that the mighty globe which, apparently, hurtles

EDITH HAAG

World traveller and linguist at 19, South American-born Edith Haag, pretty co-ed at Albert College has two things in mind. More travel, and another language.

Besides these, she has an ambition. She wants to graduate in commerce, become a secretary and work in her father's office in the Avianca Air Lines at Bogota, Republic of Colombia.

A master of the English, Spanish and German languages, Edith is not satisfied. She wants to learn French. So this summer she hopes to visit France with that in mind.

This is her second year in "educational" Canada. Last year she attended Havergal College, Toronto.

Born of German parents in Bogota, Edith gives evidence of the family origin in her slightly German accent. Her father is Alfred Haag, an executive with the Avianca Air Lines in the Colombian capital. She is the only child.

She has a warm, friendly personality and her adventurous life has left no touch of sophistication. She is blonde with sparkling blue eyes and has the happy faculty of making people "feel at home" on first acquaintance.

The story of Edith Haag is an exciting and interesting one.

She was born in Bogota, capital city of the South American republic of Colombia, a state sandwiched between Venezuela, Ecuador and Peru with a coastline on the Pacific.

Edith, probably has more flying hours, as a passenger, than anyone in the district. She loves air travel. You can have your fleet automobiles and railway trains. Give Edith an aircraft and she immediately feels the urge to "get about."

She "took" to flying at an early age. She had just celebrated her second birthday in her home in the shadow of the Andes Mountains when she was sent to Germany to visit a grandmother in Hamburg. From that time, flying has held consistent thrills for Edith.

She has flown half way around the world and back again. Only last summer she flew to Europe visiting several countries on the continent.

The Second World War brought strange adventures to the pretty German-South American. When she was five years of age she flew with her parents to Japan. Just prior to the outbreak of hostilities the Haag family decided to go to Germany via railroad across bleak Siberia.

But they were too late. War broke out and all Germans in Japan were ordered interned. Edith and her parents spent the next two years in an internment camp in the Japanese foothills near snow-capped Fujiyama.

When hostilities broke out between Japan and the United States, the Haags were forced to remain in the country. They stayed until the end of the war.

Upwards of 2,000 Germans were in the internment camp, Edith recalled. They were treated well, the food was good, what there was of it, and general conditions were not bad.

The Haags returned to Germany as soon as conditions permitted and Edith remained there until 1949. Being a native-born Colombian, she was permitted to leave Germany when the family decided to return to Bogota. However, internal affairs in Germany would not permit the departure of her parents so she made the long flight to South America alone. She stayed with relatives at Barranquilla, Colombian seaport town, until her parents returned.

Edith's travelling experiences have brought her in contact with many people.

"I love new faces and places," she smiled, "I should," she added, "for I have attended eleven different schools within the past twelve years."

She likes Canada and Canadians. She was tremendously impressed with the fine highways of Canada and the United States.

"We have very poor roads in Colombia," she said. "Outside the cities and large towns they are nothing but trails that are almost impassable. That is why nearly everybody travels by aircraft. All commercial transportation to Bogota is done by aircraft over a 200-mile skyway from the coastal towns."

Bogota, she said, is situated some 8,000 feet above sea level. Its annual mean temperature is 57 degrees Fahrenheit. Alternate periods of dry and rainy weather, each generally of three months' duration, are Colombia's "summer" and "winter."

Gold and petroleum are the two principal sources of Colombia's mineral wealth. It ranks second to Brazil in total production of coffee of which it produces about one-third of the world's supply. It accounts for well-over 50 per cent of the total value of exports. The country is one of the world's principal sources of platinum. There is little heavy industry. Raw materials for most of the industrial enterprises are imported.

There are two kinds of people in Colombia, Edith stated. "The rich and the poor. The rich don't have to work and the poor won't in most cases. They are too lazy. A lot of them are "bandidos" who won't hesitate to hold you up if you are alone and away from the city. Protection? It is dangerous to travel unaccompanied in the rural and mountainous sections."

IS SPORTS-MINDED.

Edith is sports-minded. She loves basketball, tennis, and water-skiing. She is taking up Canadian sports "not so much for myself, although I thoroughly enjoy them, but so I will be able to teach them to our people at home."

She plays on the college girls' basketball squad but doesn't know if she will make the team. "I hope I do, and am trying hard," she said.

She tried ice-skating once with results almost disastrous that left her bruises and tender spots.

Edith has a pleasant disarming manner. When I said to her "I have a rather personal question to ask you. It is one that some girls do not care to answer," her eyes sparkled with merriment.

"I know," she laughed, "I am eighteen years of age."

But a faint blush spread over her cheeks when the question of a "boy friend" came up.

"Yes," she shyly admitted, "I have a boy friend but he lives in Germany."

Marriage? Not for a long time. Edith has a lot of travel to catch up with, and besides there is that French language to learn.

So this summer will see her board a trans-Atlantic plane for Europe. She will study French in Paris and visit relatives in Frankfurt and Hamburg.

"That is," she commented, "if I am successful in passing my commercial examinations at this lovely college."

Fall Fairs Boards Should Improve Care of Grounds

TORONTO (CP) — Directors of agricultural fairs have been advised to either take better year-round care of their fair grounds or switch to the coffee blending business.

A. J. McTaggart of the Ontario agriculture department said in an address before the annual meeting of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies that fair officials take good care of their grounds in the summer but aren't so careful at other seasons.

"A summer's travel gives the motorist some of the most beautiful views of chicory to behold, surpassed only in neight by the judges' stand."

He said that at the present price of coffee some fair boards could afford their grant by using the chicory, used in the blending of coffee, to coffee firms.

"Fortunately," he said, "the majority are not in this category and many have exercised their grounds into beautiful parks."

Tory Gregg of Wingham said the masters of ceremonies at fall fairs should have some training for their job. He has acted as master of ceremonies at many southwestern Ontario fairs.

Predicts Seaway Will Bring Great Benefits to Area

CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD — Mayor Scott of Belleville, Jack Beth, outlined at Rotary Club this week some of his predictions concerning this general area and the effect the building of the St. Lawrence seaway would have upon the economy of this part of Canada.

Just as the Trent Canal brought prosperity to this district for a period of years during its construction, payrolls, which meant prosperity for the various communities adjacent to it, so will the seaway project bring unprecedented prosperity to eastern Canada.

WILL ATTRACT INDUSTRY

The facilities which it will make possible in power and transportation will attract industry. It will be a boon to the heavy industries, such as steel, providing an all-water highway from the iron mines of Quebec and Labrador to the mills. The effect will be extended to the most remote parts of the Great Lakes, as even now contracts for the improvement of the harbors at the Lakehead are being let.

Ocean transportation will be extended to the middle of the continent, bringing the advantages of cheap freight and to exporting and importing industry.

In conclusion, Mayor Both stated that the seaway would bring in a golden era of economic prosperity and expansion.

The speaker was introduced by Mayor R. J. Locke and thanked by Rotarian Bill Holmes.

St. John's Y.P.U. Sees Film on Life Among Japanese

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular meeting of St. John's P.U. was held on Monday evening with the worship service in charge of the Missions convenors, Margaret Nelson and Barbara Smith. Barbara opened the meeting with the call to worship. The meditation was read by Nancy Scott and Alan Nichols read a poem. Barbara led in prayer and the singing of another hymn closed the worship service.

Dr. Smith showed a film strip about the lives and habits of Japanese families. It showed the difference between their methods of worship, dress, writing and entertainment, and Canada's.

It was announced that anyone wishing to purchase tickets for the Toronto Men Teachers' Choir concert to be held in Port Hope United Church on March 10th, will have one more week in which to obtain them. These tickets may be purchased from the president, Earl Taft.

TO RAISE $100.

The Young People's Union is responsible for raising $100. towards the building fund of the church. It was decided to again distribute folders among the members into which voluntary contributions of 10 cents may be inserted. When the cards are filled they may be turned in at the end of September.

It was unanimous that the Union send a get-well card to one of their members. It was decided that a get-well card be part of the secretary's equipment in case of need.

It was suggested that this organization sponsor a play this spring. Further discussion on this matter will continue at the next meeting.

The president announced that the union dues are due this month.

The meeting was then turned over to the president for games. Refreshments were served.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

The regular meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S. was held in the church school hall. A pot-luck dinner was served at 12:30 to members and guests under the convenership of Mrs. W. J. Mills and Mrs. J. Miller.

Following dinner, and a short social time, Mrs. John Craig opened the meeting with the business session.

The secretary read several letters of appreciation from W.M.S. members.

The Welcome and Welfare conveners reported eight visits made during the month. A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. Bazinet from the Bittle School in Manitoba, for a bale of clothing which had been sent early in January.

GRATIFYING REPORTS

Gratifying reports were given by Mrs. D. L. Fleming on the recent W.M.S. study course held in the church school hall.

An interesting part of the program was the presentation of study life membership certificates to Mrs. Norma Reid and Mrs. Ethel, the W.M.S. and the Women's Guild.

At this point Mrs. Craig turned the meeting over to Mrs. Mills.

The devotional period was taken by Mrs. Miller and Mrs. McKay. Mrs. Miller gave a most interesting synopsis of a chapter of the study book which were studying the North American Indians.

The question is asked, "Is it worth while to educate the young people living in the Far North on the Indian Reserves?" One should feel this is part of Canada's responsibility to help them regain what has been taken from them in years past. Children are taken from their homes and taught many useful things such as running farm machinery using modern kitchen equipment and when the pupils return to their homes, this training is very helpful to the family and community.

Religious education is given those attending the residential schools. It is found that the Indians are much healthier than they were 20 years ago. Several pupils graduate from the school to enter Normal School, University, and train for nurses.

Mrs. D. Brenton was appointed to buy a tea urn for the auxiliary and also to appoint a lady to sponsor the youth groups in the church.

SISTERS ALL

FEVERS

This is the time of year when throat infections are rampant, especially among young children. No wonder drugs do much to fight the infection and reduce the temperature.

With all infections, medical men advise the drinking of much liquid and when antibiotic drugs are given, it is essential that a person have abundant fluid in his system.

It is often difficult to get a feverish child to take a drink. He refuses all kinds of fluids, yet he is burning up inside with fever. There are many ways you can try to wheedle a youngster into drinking from pop bottles, out of straws and the like. Sometimes, no matter how ingenious you are, you can't make little Johnny take one sip.

A friend of ours from Edmonton has one answer to this big problem. It is a plastic straw with a cowboy figure on it. The straw is made in the form of the cowboy's lasso. The youngster can watch the liquid bubble through the intricate curves of the lasso and is fascinated by the action of the fluid that he drinks without noticing it.

SERIOUS PROBLEM

The problem of getting liquids into sick children can be a serious one, if the child is not hospitalized. Fever uses up the water in the body until after some hours, enough is being lost by the body that it begins to ache. This is when dehydration sets in.

Dehydration of the body is recognized by heavy breathing and little signs which will only be taken for cold symptoms and chest noises. If colds cannot be put into the child at once, once this stage is reached, it is usually necessary to put him into hospital where special moisture-giving facilities are available.

ENTERTAINMENTS

Sometimes you read some strange and clever ads in the classified sections of the newspapers. One of these which we thought quite smart, was trying to sell books and theatre tickets. The theme of the ad was, "Everybody Sees the Outside of Your House." Therefore, it was

First Woman Mayor Likes Her Work

MONTREAL (CP) — Mrs. Thomas Urquhart is the first woman to be elected mayor of a Montreal island municipality, but she figures she won't be the last.

The new mayor of Point Claire says there is no essential difference between the sexes when it comes to politics—"You are not a woman or a man; you're a person."

If a woman is capable of running for office she should do so, says Mrs. Urquhart, who looks after her husband and 11-year-old son besides running the affairs of the good-sized down.

ABILITY IS NEED

Women who do not run for political office because they feel the job requires a college education are misguided, she says.

"They don't realize the councils have to be representative of the community as a whole. The college man is needed, but so is the representative of the pick-and-shovel class.

"But it's ridiculous to think that just being a woman makes a good mayor. After all, a lot of men aren't suited to politics, and the same thing applies to some women.

"For instance, the woman with a large family and no help in the house, has enough to do at home.

But she believes housewives make good civic leaders for several reasons.

"First, they are in the community all the day while their husbands are at the office. And they are the ones who know if the garbage service is good, if the roads haven't been cleared or if the electricity fails."

The only problem Mayor Urquhart has found hard to handle either at home or in town hall is cooking. Sometimes she is too busy with official duties to potter around with home cooking and, "as I'm not a perfectionist," her husband and son, Glen, have to rely on a few tins.

MOSQUITOS ARE PESKY THINGS...

DO YOU REMEMBER LAST SUMMER? MOSQUITOS BOTHERED YOU FISHING, SWIMMING, WATCHING A BALL GAME OR JUST SITTING IN YOUR YARD.

I have been assured by a competent entomologist that an expenditure of $1,500. would effectively and largely eliminate these pests in Belleville.

At a recent budget committee meeting of city council, I moved that this sum be inserted in the public works budget for 1954, and received practically no support.

An expenditure of $1,500. would mean approximately one-twelfth of a mill, or a total cost of 25 cents per year to an average taxpayer.

WOULD YOU FAVOR INCREASING YOUR TAXES FOR THIS PURPOSE TO THE EXTENT OF 25 CENTS PER YEAR (AVERAGE TAXPAYER)

If so, clip out the following coupon and bring it to me at 122 Front St., or mail it to the address on the coupon before next Council meeting on Monday, February 15th, when a decision will be reached.

CAN THEY APPROVE THEIR SON'S MARRIAGE TO A JAPANESE?

A most interesting letter has come to me from a mother who read a recent column of mine in which I deplored the intolerance of parents who refuse to permit their children to bring friends with them and girls of different nationalities and faiths. She feels that she is in an entire accord with what I had to say, but then, illustrating from a distressing problem of her own, points out the and truth that to be tolerant as a matter of principle, and to be tolerant in actual practice when it hits home, are two different things.

But read what she has to say for herself:

"I fully agree with you that we should all be friends, regardless of race or creed, and I have tried to teach my children the same thing. "Now my son's wife is coming from Japan to live with us. She is a Japanese girl, a girl who is not only different in color and race, but in faith, too, and also has very little education. My husband and I have tried to be very written him anything contrary to our belief in tolerance, but now that the time is when it comes to marrying, we are prejudiced.

"Are we wrong to feel the way we do, and what can we write without losing the love of our only son?"

UNDERSTANDABLE SITUATION

Now the situation in which these good and thoughtful parents find themselves is not only completely understandable, but one with which any equally thoughtful person must have a vast amount of sympathy. For how many of us, confronted with a sudden necessity to apply our principles and theories to a degree that hurts, are prepared to live up without hesitation or qualms?

To turn back to what I wrote on this subject of intolerance for a moment, what I was specially discussing at that time was the matter of friendships between boys and girls of different nationalities and faiths. And I stressed the fact that: "It is quite true that, when the question arises of a son's or daughter's marriage to someone of a different faith, there are very important considerations to be weighed."

For when, in addition to a difference of nationality and religious faith, there is likewise a wide difference of education, of customs and of the whole pattern of life to live with all its background traditions, then I think the problem cannot be decided on the basis of general principles and beliefs, but must be considered as a matter of individuals.

Suppose, for example, that a mother were to say she would be quite willing for her son to marry a girl born and brought up in Africa, no matter how lor away, and came to live with him in a home 3,000 miles from his home. Then suppose that when the mother came to meet the girl well, she found that there were basic differences of character, standards, points of view and other matters which it seemed very unlikely could be happily adjusted between the girl and her son, and she then felt she would be unwise to encourage in such a case, she could hardly be accused by reversing her position, since it would be specific individual complications to which she objected and the fact that the girl lived 3,000 miles away.

Similarly, it cannot be said that the mother who refuses to be fulfilled to live up to her belief in tolerance simply because she finds that, individually, there are certain basic differences between her son and this specific girl as to make her feel there would be no common ground on which they could meet.

What I would advise this mother and father to write their son would be something like this:

"We do not object to your marrying a Japanese girl. Our only objection is that you and she have enough in common to form the basis of a happy and workable marriage.

"To this end, we urge you not to take any step impulsively, but to give yourself plenty of time to find out if the two of you really are compatible in basic character qualities and standards of behavior, congenial in tastes and interests; and in accord on your ideas of what makes a happy home and

WHO SHOULD GIVE THE BRIDAL SHOWER?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. A friend of mine is to be married soon. Her sister is giving a shower for her. I have always thought it the duty of the sister of a bride-to-be to give a bridal shower. True?

2. That depends. If, for example, the bride is a very good one with only the wedding party and immediate family, and the parents of the bride's maid of honor should be invited to the dinner. Am I correct about this?

3. No.

1. It is not considered proper for a member of the immediate family of the respective bride or bridegroom to give a bridal shower. The "reason" for the shower given under these auspices is too, too obvious. . . a carefully-planned promotion for gifts. A bridal shower is best given by a close friend, by a group of friends, of the bride-to-be. When a member of the family gives a bridal shower it certainly does not create a favorable impression that the bride-to-be has no friend who will take the thought and effort to give a shower.

2. That depends. If, for example, the dinner is a very small one with only the wedding party and immediate family, and the parents of the bride's maid of honor should not be invited. If, however, the dinner invitation list is more general, and the maid of honor's parents and her mother return the bride's parents, they might be invited, too. But only to a reception as well as a dinner, the maid of honor's parents can be invited to the reception but not the dinner.

CONCERNING ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT RULES OF ETIQUETTE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Which is correct? Should the parents of a boy and girl young man invite the parents of the young lady to their home first, or should the young man's parents invite his parents first?

I feel it is of great importance that the parents of the just-engaged young man make the first social move. For if a son has a happy home and faiths, And I stressed the fact that: "It is quite true that, when the question arises of a son's or daughter's marriage to someone of a different faith, there are very important considerations to be weighed."

For when, in addition to a difference of nationality and religious faith, there is likewise a wide difference of education, of customs and of the whole pattern of life to live with all its background traditions, then I think the problem cannot be decided on the basis of general principles and beliefs, but must be considered as a matter of individuals.

British Experts Declare Relationship Exists Between Smoking and Cancer of Lung

LONDON (Reuters)—A British committee of experts has decided there is a relationship between smoking and cancer of the lung, the House of Commons was told Friday.

Health Minister Ian McLeod said the committee has issued this warning:

"It is desirable that young people should be warned of the risks apparently attendant on excessive smoking. It would appear that the risk increases with the amount smoked, particularly of cigarets."

McLeod added: "I accept the fact that there is so far no firm evidence of the way in which smoking may cause lung cancer or of the extent to which it does so."

Almost simultaneously with McLeod's announcement, Britain's major tobacco companies issued a joint statement declaring "There is no proof that smoking is a cause of lung cancer." It said investigations can "never do more" than indicate further lines to be investigated.

EXCHANGE DATA

Later, at a press conference, Sir Harold Himsworth, secretary of Britain's medical research council, said information on the issue is being exchanged with the United States and many other countries.

"The number of victims cured by medical treatment is very small, unfortunately," Himsworth said. "In the majority of cases, all doctors can do is to make the remaining part of life more tolerable."

Even if a heavy smoker quit cigarets, he would not necessarily escape the disease, Himsworth said.

The committee—"the standing advisory committee on cancer and radiotherapy"—was set up by the health ministry in 1954. It has been investigating smoking and lung cancer for the last three years.

McLeod said the committee's findings so far include:

EVIDENCE NOT CERTAIN

1. It must be regarded as established that there is a relationship between smoking and cancer of the lung.

2. Though there is a strong presumption that the relationship is causal, there is evidence that the relationship is not a simple one.

This is because:

(A) The evidence in support of the presence in tobacco smoke of a carcinogenic agent causing cancer of the lung is not yet certain.

(B) The statistical evidence indicates that it is unlikely that the increase in the incidence of cancer of the lung is due entirely to increases in smoking.

(C) The difference in incidence between urban and rural areas and between different towns suggests that other factors may be operating—for example atmospheric pollution and occupational risks.

SMOKES WHILE WARNING

At a press conference later, McLeod—cigaret in hand—said "uninformed and alarmist conclusions should not be drawn from the committee's advice. The qualifications mentioned by the committee should be fully realized."

He explained that normally the committee's report would have been considered by the central health council before being passed on to Parliament, which might have meant a 15-month delay.

But as "an exceptional measure," he decided to publish it now.

McLeod, who smoked three cigarets during the 45-minute conference, said, "It is certain that tobacco smoking cannot be the only factor, since the disease occurs in non-smokers. Not one but several factors or a combination of factors must be regarded as responsible.

"No substance producing cancer of the lung has yet been specifically identified in tobacco smoke. Certain tars used from tobacco smoke have produced skin cancers in mice, but this is not considered as being conclusive evidence of the presence of a substance producing cancer of the lung."

Number of New Members Join Canadian Legion

On Tuesday evening Branch 39, Canadian Legion held its first meeting since the installation of 1954 officers.

A good attendance was present to witness the initiation of new members, that was conducted by President Bill Bailey and ably assisted by Dan W. Digby, Dominion Director of the 1st vice president, who is ill at home.

The report given by several committee chairmen were very gratifying and it would appear that they are fitting well into their new work.

Branch service bureau chairman, Comrade George Kilarby, announced that service bureau officer Comrade Moyer of Ottawa would be paying his regular visit to the Branch during the third week of March and spoutsmens are now being sent for any veterans or dependents of veterans who have a problem and would like same ably presented by the service bureau to the Department of Veterans Affairs, to contact District "F" command, phone 3107-J. This Legion service is free to any veteran or his dependents.

Comrade Les. Digby, special events officer, announced in his report that the preparations for the annual trade fair that is being held during the first week of April are progressing favorably, also that arrangements for District "F" convention, slated for May twenty-third are well under way. It is expected that 300 Legionaires will be present.

Stirling Branch of the Legion will be hosts to the officers and members of the Branch on Tuesday evening. Entertainment will consist of cards, darts, cribbage etc. A goodly number from Belleville will be taking in this function.

The result of the vote taken from the membership through the mail was announced and the second Tuesday of each month received the unanimous support of the membership, therefore the meeting night remains the same, as it has for the past few years.

The members of the 1936-45 war will be hosts to the members of the 1914-18 War on Vimy Night in April, when a banquet will be held and a prominent speaker will be present.

Plans are under way by the entertainment chairman, Comrade Len Burfoot, for the holding of a St. Patrick's Day social evening and members will receive special notice of this event.

Mrs. Donald Forestell gave "Current Events." Mrs. Wilfrid Forestell gave a paper on Pope Pius XII.

Arrangements were made to hold a euchre party in the near future. It was decided that Madoc sub-division would have the regional meeting here in the spring.

Mrs. W. Forestell moved a vote of thanks.

Illegal Entry Into States On Increase

FORT ERIE (CP)—The U. S. Immigration department says the number of "aliens entering the United States illegally is on the increase.

In 1953 417 known aliens were caught by the U. S. border patrol in this border area, compared with 168 in 1952.

Efforts are under way to increase the size of the patrol from its present 39 officers.

Officials said the total number of illegal-entry aliens who are caught is only a small percentage of those who attempt to elude the border patrol.

Bearded Man Wearing Earring Wanted by Scotland Yard To Help Unravel Double Murder

LONDON (Reuters) — Police throughout Britain searched Friday for a bearded man wearing a gold earring wanted by Scotland yard to help unravel a double murder in a London flat on Boxing Day.

The Yard, London's metropolitan police, flashed descriptions of the man and one other wanted for questioning in a police station through Britain.

Both were well known at the gloomy 16-room home in west London where Thursday night 79-year-old "Lady" Mendes—her right to the title has been disputed—and her daughter, blonde Mrs. Isobel Chesney, 42, were found strangled.

Mrs. Chesney's body was found naked in her bathroom at the home which she and her mother managed. "Lady" Mendes, a frail, kindly woman with a mass of white hair, was also bludgeoned about the head in her Victorian-furnished sewing room.

OLD RULES REMOVED

None of the 25 to 30 old folk who were evacuated from the home Thursday night, heard any unusual sounds at the time the murder occurred. They said there were no signs of forcible entry to the buildings.

Mrs. Chesney was the wife of Ronald Chesney, 42-year-old former lieutenant-commander in the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve. Chesney, who wears a black beard and a gold earring, was serving aboard a corvette in the Second World War, but escaped from an Italian prison and made his way through Italy back to England.

His gave away his mother-in-law at her wedding in 1930 to Thomas Menzies of Plean Castle, Stirlingshire, Scotland, who claimed to be the 10th holder of the Mendes baronetcy. Three days after the wedding the registrar of the baronetage issued an announcement that no claim on his part to the title had been established.

DRESDEN-CHINA LADY

His widow, frail and gentle looking, was described by a neighbor as "a little white-haired old lady with a fragile, Dresden-china quality."

Her body was found lying beside a dressmaker's dummy in the locked sewing room of the Victorian house where she had lived for 40 years. Her hair had been battered with an instrument found nearby, wrapped in a towel, then had been strangled. Marks indicated that a cord or wire may have been used.

The attacks on her and her daughter appeared to have been made from behind. Mrs. Chesney had been undressing for her bath at the time, and her body had been allowed to lie where it fell.

U.S. Will Give Aid to Pakistan Despite Protests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomatic officials Friday said the United States has decided to give substantialRemilitary aid to Pakistan regardless of India's angry protests.

An American military survey mission, they said, will go to Pakistan to look over its armed forces and determine the amount and type of military equipment needed.

An announcement of the decision probably will be delayed until after Pakistan and Turkey sign a broad defence, economic and cultural agreement, these sources said.

The two countries are reported to be negotiating the pact secretly, with U. S. encouragement, and the agreement is expected to be announced formally within a matter of days.

India's Prime Minister Nehru has been mobilizing Indian public opinion against any such American-Pakistan military tie-up on the ground that it would upset peace in Asia.

Colorful Habitants Face Tough Week-End Schedule Without McNeill

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

THEY DOOD IT!

It took a long time but the Memos finally did it. They proved that the onrushing Orillia Pontiacs can be beaten in their Lake Conchiching hideout and by a decisive score, too. Mercilessly fighting desperately, took a 1-0 lead at the end of the first period and were always on top. They led 4-1 at the end of the second and outscored the Grieg Galoots 3-1 in the third, to hang a 8-2 victory on their belts. Hzzners, eh?

The teams go right back at it again tonight in Memorial Arena and it should be a dilly of a battle since Playing Coach Vic Grieg's new system of attack and defence apparently backfired last night and the Indian Heads will be out for sweet revenge. And by the same token the Memos cannot afford a single setback, so sheer is the playoff thread.

The Petes roared back in a convincing 5-3 win over Oshawa Truckmen last night to take over top-spot in their leap-frog duel for the perch.

* * *

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Having paid our dues to the moguls of Local 34578465, Amalgamated Associations of Sportswriting Limb Crawlers, we have the privilege of sneaking out on the branch of the prediction tree, and the divil take the hindmost.

We can't go along with one Michael J. Rodden, who currently is so submerged in managerial chores that he has to be brought up for air occasionally, usually with the pronouncification that the "championship machine" from his beloved Roddenville will retain their clutch on the Senior "B" group title, if not the championship.

Michael J., again referring to his figures, figures the group finalists will be Oshawa and Kingston. He is half right. We, being born free, white and curly-haired, believe it or not, stand on our constitutional rights, and brazenly predict that no eastern club will partake of the group's titular joys.

This is our limb-crawling prediction. The Senior "B" group finals will be played between Oshawa and Orillia, with the latter squad taking the honors after a seven-game derby. And furthermore, no matter which team wins, it will ultimately skate home with the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "B" championship tacked to its shoulder pads.

Mr. Rodden has been flaunting statistics by the hundreds the past few days, glorifying the teams which have scored more goals away and at home, and all that stuff. All it amounts to and the only good it does outside of record-keepers is fill newspaper space. When the playoffs start, kiddies, it is a new league.

The fact that such-and-such a team has a better away than at-home record is so much water under the bridge. The four teams involved will be different squads when the playoff chips are down.

In selecting Oshawa and Orillia as group finalists, we hasten to state we have no brief for either club. We feel they have the strongest teams in the loop, if we can be pardoned for referring to performances of the immediate past. And we go a step further and say that the well-known limb in predicting that the Gibraltar defence of the Patent Pontius will be the deciding factor in the group playoffs.

Coach Vic Grigg has the best defence in the group, in Shewchuk, Pearsall, himself and Don Rochon. Now he has added a hard-hitting blueliner named Robertson, a graduate from "Hap" Emms' Barrie Flyers, to round out a five-man defence corps. With Shewchuk and Pearsall on our side the Memos would be at the moment looking one way — down.

We love our neighbors and all that stuff, but we can't see the Roddenville "championship machine" whirring its way to a repeat performance. The Goodyears, in our opinion, are no better than they were a year ago when they cooped group honors and went on to win the Ontario Senior "B" title. The difference is, the opposition is a lot tougher.

And don't sell those Peterborough Peter shoot. The surprise 5-1 setback at the hands and feet of the Petes the other night does not, by any stretch of the imagination, prove that the Littlock laddybucks have slipped. Their surprising performances in their last eight games have proven they have what it takes, but we doubt that when the chips are down the Petes can rise to heights sufficient to sweep aside the opposition.

Yup, we predict the Orillia "lorieks" will overtake the "barns" in this standing grove. We feel that playing coach Grigg has everything carefully planned. He has switched his methods of attack and bolstered an already overweight defence. Shrapnelize he has a sturdy, reliable goaltender, one of whose best traits is consistency. He has sufficient shock troops to score goals. But, brother, that defence. That is it!

* * *

YEAH, BUT WHO?

Somebody will be richer by fifty dollars tonight when the Belleville Minor Hockey Association draw will be made.

Worship Mayor Jack Both will officiate at the drawing which will take place in Memorial Arena between the second and third periods of the Memos-Orillia Pontiacs Senior "B" hockey match.

* * *

BOY FOR RITA!

Johnny Dall, whose first love next to railroading is senior hockey, is wearing that "new-poppa" look. And well he might for wife Rita has presented him with a bouncing new male addition to the Dall family. Johnny and Rita now have three boys and a girl, and "Pop" has hopes yet of creating an "All-Dall" hockey club before he calls it quits. Johnny is one of the staunchest supporters of the Memos, and not too many years ago acted as secretary for the senior club here. Rita and young Tommy, who is named after the paternal grandpappy, are doing fine, thank you, and the old man is expected to come back to earth in the near future. Congrats!

Tied for Second With Leafs Hope to Take Over Tonight; Boston Needs Brace of Wins

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There have been times this season when some people have wondered if Montreal Canadiens are more interested in winning the Stanley Cup or the academy award.

The Habitants have been close to the top of the National Hockey League most of the season. But some of their histrionics on and off the ice have run the melodramatic gamut from Simon Legree to Little Eva.

The red-shirted stalwarts have been involved in most of the memorable NHL brawls this season, as the club's position at the head of the penalty parade testified. They were sent to their dressing room in a body after one donnybrook in Toronto and helped Chicago Black Hawks pile up 62 minutes of penance only last Thursday.

ON TRIPLE CAREER

Trigger - shooting Bernie Geoffrion had the book thrown at him for breaking a man's jaw with a swing of his stick in Boston and Richard has embarked on a triple career as top goal-scorer, a threat in the penalty box and a writer of polemics in the sports column of a Montreal newspaper.

The club's management, while it listened to Maurice Rocket Richard's bitter Richard attack on NHL President Clarence Campbell, has also shown signs of getting into the act. Canadien officials have been quoted as offering plaudits when that the team is consistently and grievously discriminated against.

When the spirit moves them, the Montreuxers also play an effective brand of hockey. Their 185 goals scored to date are tops in the league. Gerry McNeil's record of 114 goals scored against him is surpassed only by Toronto's Harry Lumley and Detroit's Terry Sawchuk.

PLAY IN TORONTO

This is an excellent week-end for the Canadiens to be in a hockey-playing mood. Locked in a second-place tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs, and with Jacques Plante up from Buffalo to replace the injured Michel in the nets, they are in Toronto tonight to play off the tie. Then they proceed to Boston to tackle the fourth-place Bruins.

Boston, with a two-point margin over New York Rangers for the last play-off spot, need home victories over the Habitants and over the Rangers the night before to solidify their position in preparation for a four-game road trip.

In other Sunday night play the Rangers entertain Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings, who lead the league by eight points, visit the last-place Black Hawks.

Dutchies Jrs. Leave Ice in Mid-Game Referee Awards Game to Que. Team

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, which has had a number of hot problems dumped in its lap during the last couple of years, is faced with another one today. At least it's different.

The CAHA must deal with a team that skated off the ice in the middle of a game.

That's what Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series did during their interlocking game against Jonquiere Marquis of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association Junior league in Jonquiere Friday night.

The Greenshirts, who were leading 4-3 at the time, left when referee Mullins disallowed a Kitchener goal. The goal was scored just as Dutchies were serving a penalty.

When the Kitchener team withdrew from the ice, Mullins was awarded the game to Jonquiere.

In all-Ontario action Friday night St. Catharines TeePees increased their first-place lead to six points by taking a 6-1 decision over victory over the second-place Toronto Marlboros. English Biltmores beat Toronto St. Michael's College Majors 4-3 in Guelph and Barrie Flyers won a 4-2 decision from Hamilton Cubs in Barrie.

Kitchener captain Greg Hicks scored twice for the Greenshirts, while Horner and Gary Collins got the others. Roger Landry and Rodrigue Pelletier were the snipers for the Marquis.

Hank Cleslo led the winners with two goals while Cullen, Brian Cullen, Don McLean and Stan Maxwell scored the others. Centre Bill Harris fired the Marlies goal.

In Barrie the Flyers scored three goals before the Cubs started their comeback. But it fell short.

Ross Delahaye, Danny Pollland and John Martian were the Barrie marksmen. Brian Kilrea notched both for the Cubs.

Biltmores also scored all their goals before allowing St. Michael's to count.

Ron Howell, Bob Forbes, Ed Shack and Ike Hildebrand were the Guelph scorers. Noel Price, Jack Caffery and John Pasnik tallied for the Collegians.

Trois-Rivieres Reds are at Richmond St. Catharines plays the Black Hawks at Galt in tonight's games.

Sunday, Kitchener meets the Frontenacs at Kingston and Oshawa is at Marlboros and Trois-Rivieres plays at St. Michael's.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK (AP)—Joey Giardello, 155½, a 4-to-1 favorite from Buffalo, scored an unpopular split decision over little Italo Scortichini 153¾, from Rome, Italy, Friday night in a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Most of the crowd seemed to think the Italian had won. A few of the more rabid fans crowded around ringside to burn the officials' ears with their caustic remarks about their votes.

Varsity Blues Rescue One Win In Tourney

TORONTO, (CP)—University of Toronto, defending champions, managed only one victory in five semi-final senior intercollegiate boxing championship bouts here Friday night. The three visiting universities each won two.

Dutchies Share Top With Mercs With 8-0 Victory Over Cataracts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The playoff berths in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series have been almost decided.

Five of the six teams in the seven-club loop are assured of post-season play. The last position is to be decided between Chatham Maroons and Niagara Falls Cataracts and the last-place Cataracts are all but out of the running.

A win and a tie for the Cataracts in their remaining two games would eliminate Niagara Falls. Or three losses for the cellar-dwellers would put them out no matter what happened to Chatham.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, fighting for the league championship all but sealed the playoff hopes of Stratford Kroehlers with their 8-0 victory over the Cataracts' home ice.

The victory put the Dutchmen into a first-place tie with Owen Sound Mercurys.

The Maroons helped both themselves and the Dutchmen by defeating the Mercurys 4-1 before 2,400 fans in Chatham.

In the other league game, Hamilton Tigers edged Windsor Bulldogs 3-2 in Hamilton to displace the Bulldogs from third place.

At Niagara Falls, George Scholes counted three goals for the defending Allan Cup champions. Joe Schertzl added a pair, one of them protested, and Jack McKenzie, Art Hurst and Ken Laufman rounded out the total.

LEE SCORED TWICE

Bill Lee tallied twice for the Maroons. Jim Connolly and Jim Campbell got the others. Roy Leckie scored Owen Sound's only goal.

Harvey Jacklin scored the winning goal for Hamilton midway through the third period. Jack Taylor counted Hamilton's first two. Gary Gordon and Bob Hayes were the Windsor scorers.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group Sudbury Wolves pulled to within two points of first place by edging Pembroke Lumber Kings 5-4 in overtime at Sudbury.

The loss left the Lumber Kings in third place, tied with North Bay Trappers.

Yesterday Flynn led the Wolves with two goals. Len Speck scored the winning marker for Sudbury. Bruce Giesebrecht and Lionel Barber led the Lumber Kings.

Chatham is at Kitchener and Niagara Falls at Stratford in the OHA tonight. Owen Sound plays at Windsor in Sunday's only game.

In the NOHA Pembroke meets the Greyhounds in Sault Ste. Marie Ont., and Sudbury is at North Bay during Saturday's action. Sunday Pembroke goes to Sault Ste. Marie Mich., to play the Indians. ..

Memos, Showing Brilliant Form, Hand Orillia Pontiacs 6-2 Defeat

Grab 1-0 Lead in 1st Period, Blank Ponties 3-0 in Second, Add Insurance Pair in Third

ORILLIA (Special). — Belleville Memos kept their alley play and hopes alive last night at the Orillia arena before a small crowd of 900 as they blasted Orillia Pontiacs 6-2 in the Memos' out-played, out-shot and out-scored the Pontiacs while picking up six penalties in three from Orillia. Again the twin combination of Moore and Erwin Duncan played a major role in the win. Ivy collected two goals and one assist and brother Ed chipped in with three assists. Doug Day played a strong game for the Memos rapping in two tallies with Duke Dornn and Ted DeGray potting single ones. Bruno Favero and John Wood, smallest, but feet-footed forwards on the Pontiac line, added Orillia's only goals.

Doug Day scored the only goal of the game at 11:41 of the first period when Ed Duncan, Lloyd Pearsall in the sin bin for interference. The Memos received two penalties in the period and the Pontiacs, one. The teams were at full strength in the second period when Erv Duncan put the Memos two up at 9:06 from brother Ed. Again, the teams were at full strength when Duke Dornn made it 3-0 at 14:46 from Ivy Moore and DeGray.

Dissy-doodling Red Favero spoiled Don Backley's shut-out bid at 14:20 from Clary Payne, Will four-second penalties to Favero, Wood. Doug Day scored unassisted to give the Memos a lead and the teams headed for their dressing rooms.

EVEN PENALTY SCORE.

Orillia evened the penalty records as they drew six of the periods three minutes. The Memos picked up a total of eight in the final heat with Erv Duncan scoring from Ivy Moore at 2:08 to make scoring unassisted at 15-13. Chunky Billie John Wood potted Orillia's second and final tally from Ron Nelson and Earl McCrone at the 17:05 mark. Orillia had an unassisted, three times during the period but their power play failed to fizzle out on all three occasions. Referees Bun White and Jim Boddy had their hands full time, issuing only nine penalties in the game, six of which went to the Memos.

The loss for Orillia leaves them tied with the ponies with Kingston three points behind Oshawa and Peterborough and Cobourg in the leadership.

A win for Orillia tonight here will almost assure them of a play off spot while a loss for the Memos will make their chances pretty slim.

Pt. Anne Edges Bata 6-5 in Overtime To Extend Margin in Valley Loop

By GARRY ALEXANDER.

One of the better TVI games of the year was played at the Belleville Arena last evening when Pat Stapleton and Bobby Anne Cementmen were forced to go all out to hand Batawa a 6-5 setback in overtime.

Playing coach, Tim Williams tipped in a drive of the blue line by Bill Strahan after he had taken a pass from Jack Rowe to give the Ox Pointers the win after nine minutes and 14 seconds had elapsed of the extra session.

Both teams played good hockey during the regular time with Batawa knotting the score at 5-5 with just 46 seconds left to play.

The visitors tied it at 2-1 early in the opening period, banging in two after a pass from Bill Strahan. Anne out front early in the game, Reid and Cooke were the Batawa marksmen.

George Jacklin scored the only two goals of the middle session, the first coming at 2.18 and the other five minutes later. Jacklin was flying during this period and only the fine play by Carpenter in the Batawa net kept the fast-skating wingmen from adding several more.

Two also looked good for the Pointers when Jack Rowe helped mark Bata held the puck in the Point Anne zone and fired six shots at the Batawa goal before the disc could be cleared.

Behind 3-2 going into the final period, Bata spilled the pressure and at 1.13 Buck Keever let go a backhander from the point that went through a maze of players to beat Tew. Mullholland got that one back at the 8.13 mark only to have Cooke notch his second goal of the night with Gilmour off for charging 18 seconds later.

Jacklin scored what looked like the winner at 16.05, his fourth goal of the game with Mullholland drawing his third assist, but Batawa never eased up and at 19.46 with six seconds left, Foster was the trigger man with Robson setting up the play.

The overtime period was just as fast and evenly fought as the other periods with both teams having good scoring chances and both goaltenders in there like bats.

George Jacklin led all goal getters with four markers while Mullholland had one goal and three assists. Bill Strahan was the man on the Bata team with a pair of goals while Lefort stood out for Point. Reeves notched a goal and one assist while also playing a stellar game on defence.

Point Anne play their last scheduled game of the season at the Belleville Arena on Monday night with Welland-Port Colborne the opposition.

The teams:

Batawa — LePert, Farmer, Reeves, Mitts, Reid, Moore, Wright, Pukanclk, Rankin, Cooke, Robson, Foster, Howard, Courtney.

Point Anne — Tew, J. Green, F. Green, Strahan, Mullholland, Gilmour, Jacklin, Stewart, P. Marcie, L. Goyer, Williams, Hunter, Marcie, Bradshaw, Branigan, Bates.

Marauders Will Stay in Union Says Coach

MONTREAL (CP)—Athletic director Ivor Wynne of McMaster University said on Friday that his Marauders expect to stay in the Intercollegiate Football Union.

In Montreal with his senior basketball squad for a game with McGill Tuesday, Wynne said, "We definitely intend to stand by our constitutional rights."

Told that the league officials were reported to have drawn up a tentative schedule for next season, with the Macs not included, Wynne said:

"I don't know anything about that. We are going ahead on the assumption that we are still in the league."

The in-or-out status of the Marauders stems from an earlier decision by Queen's, Western, Toronto Varsity and University of Ottawa to withdraw and drop the first-year Hamilton team from the loop. The constitution, however, provides that there must be at least four teams before any college can be dropped. McGill voted that the Macs stay.

STANDING GROUND

"We are in a difficult position but appreciate the fact that McGill is standing by us," continued Coach Wynne. "McGill could just drop us from the loop and it is only a four-team loop as was the case before we were admitted last season.

"The McGill people backed us and the fact that they are standing their ground proves they don't want to see the constitution tampered with."

College athletic directors meet in Kingston Feb. 20 and it is expected the matter will be again brought up. Unless there is a definite decision beforehand, the question will go before the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Athletic Union in Toronto March 20.

Wynne said he didn't know whether the moves in dropping us in constituted a bid to Hamilton.

If Queens, Varsity and Western stick to their game, they will end up with the three-team league which would be an outlaw group. That wouldn't make sense."

Remember When

Willie Logan of Saint John swept through the senior Canadian speed skating championships at Montreal forum 20 years ago tonight. He won the 220, 440 and 880-yard races and the three-mile event for a point total of 140, twice as many as his nearest rival, Leo Freisinger of Chicago.

BY JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

It is unlikely that the matter ever will be settled to the satisfaction of all, but at least the subject of color perception on the part of fish has been and, I suppose, always will be what the boys call a moot question.

Talking as I do, with a great many fishermen each year, I find that the matter is in no way decided in the minds of many anglers.

Of course, the professional biologists have done considerable work on the subject, back in this country and abroad. And, as might be expected, the results of their experiments differ widely in some cases.

Some of them—the majority, in fact—grant that fish can distinguish color. Others refute these findings quite flatly, insisting that fish can distinguish only various intensities of shades, which means that they see all colors as some varying shades of gray, all the way from white to jet black.

15,000 EXPERIMENTS

The scientist conducted some 15,000 experiments. His conclusions were that fish could distinguish color. In those days it was, of course, the Jungle Fowl.

Their favorite, he found, was yellow, white, green, blue and black, in diminishing order of importance.

On reading of his work, I found myself wondering whether or not this fellow actually was a fisherman. Bass, of course, favor brightly colored lures, as do most other bright shades of red, blue, yellow, etc., give us something on which to work. But what about other fish, such as brown trout or whitefish? From what I can learn of them, prefer natural shades that resemble somewhat the colors of their regular food.

The scientists, at least those whose reports I have seen, ignore completely the browns, tans and grays, unless they happen to be of the "protective" school of thought.

The whole blooming business leaves the fishermen fairly well confused.

I know of one company which manufactures artificial lures. Their annual production is tremendous. Naturally great pains are taken by the trade in a variety of finishes. After all, they must please the fishermen as well as the fish.

ORANGE KILLS

Yet one of the top officers of this company tells us that the most successful lure they ever put out as a plug is dark orange with black spots. It is not a combination that is pleasing to the eye, at least not mine, yet he insists that it will outfish any other color or color combination I've used.

Frankly, I think that the scientists are overlooking a bet. Every year, millions of anglers go down to the lakes and streams to fish and waders. Once there, they show the fish every known variety of colors and shades in the lures they offer them.

Somewhere in each and every one of these anglers has his or her own preferences in color combinations. These preferences are not loosely formed. Instead, they are the product of many weary hours of trial and error. Any scientist could learn a great deal if he could but know the group of the anglers.

Moreover, anglers—many of them, at least—have the same sort of curious, inquiring minds that the scientists possess. They conduct their own experiments, just as the scientists do.

For example, a friend and I spent 15 full days experimenting with colors and color combinations in the waters of Albermarle Sound, fishing for bass with bass bugs. We found that about everything in color shades, from dead white right on through to black.

RED FAVORITE COLOR?

The scientists tell us that red is by far the favorite color among fish. Don't you believe it. In Albemarle Sound Yellow will out-catch any other color three to one. You can test with white, red, black or brown but so long as the color is predominatly yellow, that is the preferred lure by far.

And here is another thing about which the scientists may or may not know when it comes right down to actual fishing. Way back yonder somewhere around 2000 B. C., Macedonian inscriptions record the use of a fly for taking fish from the upper waters of the Nile.

The color combination that was popular in those ancient days was red and black—black wool with a red feather from a cock's neck. That means, of course, not brilliant scarlet but the shade of red that you find in the neck hackles of our modern Rhode Island Red chickens. In those days it was, of course, the Jungle Fowl.

Another favorite, the color combination has paid off, Dame Juliana's Treatyse, Princess of Britain summary more than four hundred years ago, wrote favorably of it in her treatise on Fysse lynge Whyn an Angle."

HOLDS ITS OWN

Tom Haworth, coachman to Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, certainly knew the value of this same color combination when he tried the first "dolphman" of it. The Brown Hackle,(one of our oldest known fly patterns), would have been lost in obscurity long since, but for its ability to hold its own as a fish-getter.

Yet the scientists hand down their decisions as without so much as a mention of brown, tan or buff.

I feel sure that fish can distinguish color. Certainly countless years of fishing have proved it again could indicate no other possibility. Investigations have done no work of a scientific nature on the subject, except, possibly that angle of it itself is scientific pastime.

Just the same I wish some angling-minded scientist (as distinguished from scientific-minded angler) would do some serious work on the effects of color combinations on fish. That would, in my opinion, be rendering the anglers of the world a distinct service.

With The Minors

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Contrary to a statement in this column on Wednesday of this week, Belleville will not be a member of the OHA Jr. "B" play-offs this season.

It was the intention of some hockey-minded men of the city to bring these boys back and give them a bye into the provincial play-offs. Messrs. Ebbels and Doran have not been able to get the ball rolling but when the deadline for entries came upon them they found that interest in junior hockey had dropped to such an extent the idea of entering a team showed desire to play, thus, no team. . . .

While still on junior hockey here is an idea that may be used some day while talking with Red Doran. Why not form an all star team and should say "try to form" a Belleville Junior League for the 54-55 season? The league would consist of four teams or more if enough interest was here. Possible entries are R.C.I., O.S.D. and a city team made up of players of junior age who are approved by the coaches and rule of the mentioned schools.

Recreational Director Doran likes the idea and said that he would be glad to discuss the matter with the local school managers and other interested parties. . . .

The midget section wound up their season's play on Wednesday evening with some pretty even games and it was a close race down to the last game.

Big "A"—finished in first place and they did it by the finest of margins, one point. They won six games all year and never settled for a tie until Thursday night, they meet Robb Royals who won only five games all year, battle to a tie tie and take the group leadership by that one point.

Big "A" coach Bob Job they did get at least that one point as Stewart Warner picked up the only win of the night to finish with 12 points, one back of the leaders. Moose Lodge ended third with 11 points while the other three teams were far behind. . . .

Wow, what a hot scoring race in the midget league. All year long Ralph Lee has been leading with two or three points ahead of Bob Croal, so what happened? Croal stages a rally in the last three games, draws even with Foster, Lee and Croal end the season deadlock with six goals and 16 assists for 16 points. Foster finishes with 15 points on five goals and 10 assists. Wright was next with 13 followed by Croal, Denis with 11 and Jack Gill with 10.

Leo St. Denis, who started out slowly, ended up the season hot through the schedule and was one of the more consistent scorers in the second half.

Art Culliden was the most penalized player with 25 minutes in the sin-bin, Crull was next with 16 minutes and Bill Jones served 14. . . .

Gerry Goyer walked off with the scoring title in the 7-7 league with 22 points made up of 15 goals and seven assists. Ken Hunter of Stirling was teammate Bill Vesterfelt with 16 points, half of them goals. Morrison was third with seven goals and as many assists.

Doug Patterson reports that there is some mighty close competition developing among the Belleville Juvenile "C" play-offs, with Campbellford and Norwood fighting it out for top honors while Coe Hill and Stirling battle in another. Both groups have a goals-for-and-against affairs, with Norwood behind 8-5 after the first game in their series while Stirling won their series 15-7 over Coe Hill. The other series was postponed last night because of ice, as yet we have no report on the outcome.

The two winners will meet for the group title with the victors of that set facing the Wellington crew.

AT THE BELLE

"The Robe" Rolled as Highlight of Screen Achievements

Magnificent is the word for it. The most important and exciting advance in the history of motion pictures since the advent of sound, CinemaScope, has been flawlessly matched with the most powerful and moving story written in our times, "The Robe". The result, which Twentieth Century-Fox and the Belle Theatre, who are again holding over today; and on Monday and Tuesday, are calling the outstanding entertainment achievement of our lifetime. The immense success, the overwhelming acclaim which have greeted "The Robe", in CinemaScope wherever it has played, are fully justified. No praise is too great for this triumphant, historic special attraction.

CinemaScope opens a glorious screen. The motion picture art of screen. The motion picture are of Hollywood, as we have come to know it, is itself a miracle. The addition of sound more than two decades ago seemed the most anyone had a right ever to expect. But a few years later there was color, and breathtaking Cinerama, still has a lot to do with the beauty and majesty of "The Robe." And now, when the age of revolutions in the motion picture world had been brought past, the ultimate achievement.

The new medium is the beginning of a golden age of movies. With CinemaScope the horizons are widened and deepened. The new dimension holds no bounds, for all that is real is free in the theatre as it is in real life. The process is as flexible as it is lifelike. Truly, all the world's a stage.

HUGE SCREEN

On the huge screen of CinemaScope, the viewing of which requires no glasses of course, the forces which bring us, "The Robe" have been well marshalled. The producer, Frank Ross, who has strived to film the story as it should be done, for ten years.

The huge Walker screen in the Belle Theatre, will be a permanent property of the Belle Theatre, allowing for the presentation of 1.33 flat picture, 1.66 wide-vision picture, the next being M.G.M.'s "Mogambo", and real soon the presentation of "How to Marry a Millionaire", in CinemaScope, featuring Marilyn Monroe, Betty Grable and Lauren Bacall, all CinemaScope pictures are in Technicolor.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, FEB. 14, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A propitious combination of aspects especially favoring religious devotions, deeds of charity, interests in children's activities. Necessary tasks should not be difficult but avoid needless work.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — A favorable period indicating peaceful accord with family, relatives, business and social associates. You who must work and tend difficult matters, be hopeful, cheerful. Kindly aspects.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — First of all attend your church for the right outlook and for that inner confidence and contentment, yet gain when spiritually directed. Healthy fun and outdoor activities sponsored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Auspicious vibrations for wholesome activities. Religious services should be your first concern and, in free time, enjoy some pleasure with family, friends.

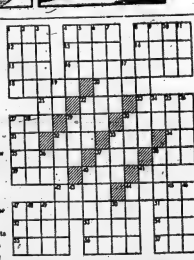
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Stimulating influences. You may feel like engaging in strenuous activity. Better to refrain and not tire yourself. Essential tasks can be done without strain, but do make time for prayer, rest.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—An excellent period in which to catch up with reading, music, care for health and personal needs. First your church. You can have a happy, full day. Get required rest.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—There may be some sudden developments in matters in which you are interested. Good news is in the air. Be mindful of family interests and your future security. Pray.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—As with Aries today, much is up to you and how you handle duties and responsibilities. And how you keep emotions under control. Good outlook if you are your gracious self.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—This and all Sundays stress need for extra devotion to God. We pay heed to obligations to friends and material matters, so why not give homage to Him Who is kindest of all.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Let day's activities determine your tempo. Don't forget it is God's Day and, as such, asks extra good deeds, prayer, charity, also worthy social activities.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Knit together your best New Year's resolutions and put them into practice. Splendid hours today for bright, ideas, entertainment, social gatherings, church affairs.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—No need of extra haste or rushing against time. Planetary indications are encouraging and not too exciting. Be cheerful, bounteful. Take care of your soul's needs; don't tire yourself.

YOU BORN TODAY are gentle, kindly in disposition, like to gather knowledge and have much capability and talent. Unless you constantly urge yourself forward and keep ambition alive, however, you could easily fall into a lackadaisical attitude and be content to go along with the tide. We find very strongly determined folk in your sector; then again there are those who lack proper ambition. Don't you be one of those who fear opposition.

Liquor Firm's Art Collection Comes Under Fire

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Belleville Canadian painter and some Swedish art critics have stirred up a fuss about a $40,000 collection of contemporary Canadian art commissioned by a liquor firm.

The artist called the paintings "colored pictures," the objection "ridiculous." The Swedish critics "horrible," "not comparable to the works of Scottish and Canadian painters" and described the whole collection as a "motley masterpiece."

The Canadian artists who contributed to the collection called it "a big joke" and "a good example of an important phase in Canadian painting."

The 14 painters, whose profiles and canvases will be shown in Toronto, were collected by the Hiram Walker-Gooderham and Worts Ltd. of Walkerville, Ont., on the advice of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts, which maintained "a policy of the fathe——"

After a brief exhibit in Ontario art galleries, the paintings were taken on a tour of Latin America and Europe. Samuel Brodbeck, of Montreal, Hungarian president, was the object of the tour sent to carry abroad some glimpses of the Canadian landscape and skyline and to promote understanding of Canada.

Reports from Canadian officials abroad where the pictures have been shown said Canada is "not even the paintings and general criticism was favorable.

THEIR ATTITUDE

But finally the paintings arrived in Stockholm. The Swedish critics hit back.

One newspaper, Dagens Nyheter, described the collection as "a brown cupboard decorated with a firm's trade mark." It suggested that the Hiram Walker people might have created more goodwill for Canada by sending a bottle of whisky instead of secondrate Canadian painting." Aftonbladet called the collection "motley monstrosity."

Then a Canadian painter, 61-year-old Henri Masson, told Stockholm's Richelieu Club in an address Wednesday that the collection was "a matter of mutual interest."

Belgian-born Mr. Masson, who describes himself as "a post-impressionist," said only two or three good Canadian artists were asked to exhibit and that many "great artists among a group of bad technique." The painters were commercial artists rather than artists in the full sense, he said.

He used the word "dirt" and called the tour "a scandal."

REPLIES ARE PROMPT

Replies to Mr. Masson's remarks were quick in coming.

Clare Bice, curator of the London, Ont., art gallery and museum, suggested "perhaps the best answer to Mr. Masson is that the exhibit scene of his paintings by way of comparison."

"I understand that Mr. Masson has a very enthusiastic postcard," said Mr. Bice. "What the collection is in the collection. "Perhaps for that reason the Swede's have to accept commercial work."

A. L. Casson of Toronto, who helped assemble the collection and painted the colorful scene of Hamilton, called the tour "a good thing." He said being a commercial artist had nothing to do with the artistic merit of the paintings. Each a portrait painter is "commercial" if he is paid to paint, said Mr. Casson.

Mr. Casson said Mr. Masson had been asked to submit several sketches of Ottawa but these had been turned down because of the subject matter and not from an artistic point of view."

Cancer Research Fellowships To Be Awarded

TORONTO (CP) — Cancer research fellowships will be awarded soon by the Ontario division of the Canadian Cancer Society.

E. S. Welch of Turnpin, division president, Friday night played down reports that the division is through its research commitments of facing financial help up to $6,000 a year. "No such decision has been reached by the executive committee meeting that the division through its research committee of facing financial help up to $6,000 a year. "No such decision has been reached by the executive committee meeting that the division is considering withdrawing from research," he added.

The division's education and publicity committee, including delegates from St. Catharines, Peterborough, Kitchener and Brantford, was told at its meeting Friday night that Dr. Gordon E. Richards of Toronto, chairman of the committee, has died of cancer several years ago.

It was decided unanimously at the meeting that a mobile, five-day information centre, the mobile "cancer red door, will start in Kitchener-Dec. 27 on tours of Ontario to encourage citizens to seek early diagnosis and prompt treatment for cancer.

The division's education and publicity committee, including delegates from St. Catharines, Peterborough, Kitchener and Brantford, was told at its meeting Friday night that Dr. Gordon E. Richards of speakers' conferences will be held in London March 12 to provide information which speakers can use in addresses to community or

Govt. Not Planning 'Drastic' Anti-Depression Measures

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is not planning "drastic" anti-depression measures to check unemployment.

Finance Minister Abbott said Friday in the Commons the government is ready to take action if economic activity slumps, but that there is "no justification" now for drastic measures than are in effect.

"We have a high degree of confidence that, when our winter season of unemployment and activity is past in economic activity in Canada is likely to resume its upward trend to a satisfactory level."

He added "strong inflationary pressures" of two years ago have disappeared as the result the government has been withdrawing anti-inflation measures such as restrictions on credit.

A few hours before he talked to the Commons, the government's bureau of statistics issued monthly statement on unemployment insurance payments underlining December's increase in unemployment over a year earlier.

Benefit payments were about 20 per cent up over the same month in 1952.

Workless days for which benefits were paid in December were 5,412,000, against 2,586,000 a year previously.

Dept. Will Drug Fish Before Transporting Them by Plane

NORTH BAY (CP)—Ever see a fish take a sleeping pill?

Well, that's a slight exaggeration, but Ontario department of lands and forest experts are undertaking experiments here in drugging fish with sodium amytal before transporting them by airplane to trout lakes.

Last year speckled trout were planted in 115 North Bay area trout lakes.

Specs and weight are the problems which cause the most worry in carrying fish by plane and it is hoped the sodium amytal will provide some answers to both.

Fish breathe through their gills and get oxygen from the water. The amount of water cannot, therefore, be reduced too much or fish will die from lack of oxygen.

A party-drugged fish, however, needs less oxygen because its metabolism is greatly reduced. In addition to the drugging of the water, oxygen is also pumped in. Drugged fish breath slowly and can be packed in closer.

In the moment 6,000 can be handled in aircraft fish tanks, and up to 20,000 can be planted by one aircraft in one day, fish experts say. Water and the cloth become so accurate at "bombing" the shallow trout lakes by plane that they can score a direct hit on a lake target only 300 feet in radius.

Last year new drugs were used in the fish hatcheries at Orillia and Normandale.

Russian Master Beats Canadian In Chess Match

TORONTO (CP)—Igor Z. Bondarevsky, Russian grand master, won a five-day exhibition chess match here Friday by forcing Canadian champion Frank H. Anderson to resign after 41 moves.

Anderson resigned at 10:30 p.m. after the Russian pressed his attack in the last stages of the long, tense struggle. "It was futile to continue," the Canadian said after the match.

After Bondarevsky made his first move Anderson and his wife, Jean Queen, knight and four pawns left while the Russian had his king, knight and five pawns. The game was at this point that the Canadian resigned the match.

The players had agreed to play 40 moves each in two hours. They both had completed the required moves. Anderson with 30 seconds to spare, and had agreed to continue at the rate of 16 moves an hour when the match ended.

Anderson, 26-year-old University of Toronto student, played before a five-foot chessboard in the Coliseum Building here where the progress of the play was watched by hundreds of spectators.

Grants Injunction

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice D. C. Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court granted an injunction Friday to restrain members of Local 712, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners AFL, from picketing four Niagara peninsula building projects.

The picketers have stopped work on a crippled children's camp near Port Colborne, a federal building at Ridgeway and at the Bank of Montreal building at Niagara Falls.

Work was also stopped at the Welland Canals board of the Canadian Cyanamid but there was no picketing there.

Mr. Justice Wells said that even though the picketing has been peaceful it has "interfered without and legal justification."

Munich Pact Gave Air Force Time to Prepare

By JACK AULD

LONDON (Reuters) — The Munich pact negotiated by Neville Chamberlain failed to appease Hitler, but it gave "the Royal Air Force time to prepare for the epic struggle.

Between the signing of the Munich pact in 1938 and the outbreak of war a year later the RAF was able to increase its strength in modern eight-gun fighters by more than five times.

This is one of the disclosures in "Fight at Odds," the first volume of a three-volume unofficial history volume. Illustrated history of the RAF in the Second World War.

The author, Denis Richards, head of Morley College, London, was given access to secret documents. He pointed out that between the two world wars the RAF was "without any clear idea of what, after 1938, the fighter command "including all reserves" could muster only 83 of the new eight-gun fighters to oppose a German long-range striking force of 1,500 medium bombers.

"All the remainder of its 686 aircraft were out-dated biplanes," he notes, adding that "a year later, when war came, over 600 of the modern fighters were immediately available for operation."

BOMBER RACKET

In addition to humanitarian considerations, he says, Britain and France decided on the outbreak of war to avoid unrestricted bombing because Britain had only 33 effective bombing squadrons and the French had "no bombers worth mentioning."

But when German bombers plastered Rotterdam in May, 1940, the decision was made unworkable and Britain decided to bomb the Ruhr, Richards says. There was no formal invitation to the Luftwaffe to bomb London."

Then he adds that owing to the inefficient bombing techniques available at the time "the German airmen are our salvation, but the bombers alone provide the means to victory."

Pay Increases To Postal Staff Fail to Satisfy

KINGSTON (CP) — Dan Cross, national president of the Canadian Postal Association, says recently-announced pay increases for post office employees are unsatisfactory.

In an interview Friday night, he called them "a few crumbs from our benevolent benefactor, our employer."

He said the civil service commission added insult to injury by saying the increase was not as large as it might have been because they (the postal workers) are entitled to rely on a five-day, 40-hour week basis."

Mr. Cross said many post offices across the country will not be on such a basis.

"We are definitely opposed to implementation on a piecemeal basis," he said.

He also said postal employees are denied bargaining rights accorded to industry. He criticized exclusion of civil servants from provisions of the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act. He said the day for collective bargaining by government employees has arrived.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

VERY VARIED

Unobservant people will tell you that all the birds they see are either black or brown. This is probably true, for our commonest birds are brown sparrows, starlings, and crows.

But if you only look, we find that Nature has been much more lavish with her colors. She has given us white, grey, green, yellow, red, and a few blue birds, some even combining two or more contrasting colors, as the stripey Red-start, yesterday, however, for the bird watcher is the variation in coloring in birds of the same species.

Of course spring males and females of many kinds are quite unlike, and later on in the year their feathers are sometimes of the other gender. Then after the summer moult, males of many species start to look like females. A number of birds have another change before the spring, either by actual moult, or because the tips of their feathers have worn off.

MANY CHANGES

Quite have many changes of dress, during the spring, complete in autumn, until they are two or more. Others add two changes bringing something new in the way of coloring. Male birds can plan their feathers, because they wear what is known as "eclipse plumage" and look like their own drabber females.

This involuntary process makes them inconspicuous. But birds that nest beyond the Arctic Circle have to moult like us, in the north that they do not begin the moulting until actually on their way south.

Another peculiarity is shown by woodpigeons. Their courting in spring is mottled brown, in winter it is white, with a white feature of the two. Then there are a few species which, like the peacock, may be either of two colors or any of three colors.

SIZES

For instance, both screech owls, the rufous and the grey, are in pocket phases. Two of these owls, brothers from the same brood, one rufous, the other grey, in the same nest, with no relation to age, sex, season, district, one rufous grouse may have the general appearance of a red fox, another, a grey. Gyrfalcons may be white, grey, or white.

Besides all this variety in color, there are variations in the shades of certain species according to their place of abode or their diet. The grey hound is the climate the darker the bird. This is particularly noticeable in the case of sparrows found on the coast or inland. And it is said that when the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Flamingo will lose its deep pink and turn to white.

Teacher and 13 Pupils Marooned For 28 Hours

COLLINGWOOD (CP) — A teacher and 13 pupils were brought out of their tiny Bata school, three miles south of here, by car Friday after being marooned 28 hours by a driving blizzard. Collingwood is about 22 miles west of Barrie.

Mrs. Lillian Durant and the 14 pupils, ranging in age from eight to 11 years, were stranded at the school Thursday when the school bus was unable to get through to pick them up.

The children were apparently none the worse for their experience.

They were warm and comfortable in the school, which is heated by an oil furnace, said Arnold Wheeler, board of education official. Mrs. Durant, he added, told stories and organized games, then made sure the children had a good night's sleep.

Food was brought to them by farmers who tramped through the snow on snowshoes.

Frontenac Jail Prisoners Give Skin to Youth

KINGSTON (CP) — Two prisoners from Frontenac county jail, Edmon Morton and Thomas Cote, are in hospital after donating skin for a grafting operation on Joseph Murphy, 18.

Murphy, in hospital since Nov. 22, was severely burned in an accident at a hydro substation here. One leg was amputated after the accident.

A Roman Catholic priest campaigned the Kingston district for skin donors but was unsuccessful. He went to Reforms Minister Probe and received permission to seek donors in the jail.

The donors, both 28, are in good condition, officials said Friday night.

Reckless Driving Charge Upheld

KITCHENER (CP)—An Ontario Supreme Court jury Friday found Joseph Finnigan of Guelph guilty of reckless driving but not guilty of manslaughter.

Finnigan had been charged with manslaughter in connection with an accident October 11 on highway 24 east of here, in which Mrs. Irene Bruce Leader of Guelph was killed. The Finnigan automobile struck the rear of the car in which Mrs. Leader was riding.

Thursday Dr. L. H. Leggett of Guelph testified that in a unique test he gave beer to Finnigan and then tested his reactions. Testimony regarding the specially-conducted test was admitted as defence evidence.

Lawyers said they did not know of such evidence ever before being presented to a jury at a manslaughter trial in Canada.

The test was conducted at the request of Finnigan's counsel, Abraham Ackor. Mr. Ackor asked the evidence be admitted as it was the only way in which he could counter crown evidence regarding Finnigan's condition after the mishap.

Dr. Leggett said the tests showed Finnigan had "greater than normal resistance to the effects of alcohol." He also said it is difficult to distinguish between "deep concussion and deep alcoholism."

Agnes Macphail, First Woman M.P., Died Sat.

TORONTO (CP)—Agnes Campbell Macphail, 61, first woman member of Canada's Parliament and for many years the only one, died Saturday of a heart ailment.

Miss Macphail suffered a heart attack Thursday.

When she was stricken with coronary thrombosis in 1945 a doctor told her to rest.

"So I don't live long," she told the doctor, "but I'll live what's left doing what I want to do."

Politics is what she wanted to do and she did it well. Her political pioneering showed many hesitant but earnest women the possibilities of a career in the government of their country.

Except for three brief periods, the onetime school teacher was never out of active participation in politics after 1921, when first elected to the House of Commons as the United Farmers of Ontario member for East Grey.

She sat for 19 years in the federal house, acting as a mentor of the opposition, until 1940 when she was defeated by Walter Harris, now resources minister.

One of her great crusades was for prison reform. Her efforts were partly responsible for the appointment of a royal commission on the subject in 1938. It's 1938 report became the basis for the penal reform program initiated by Canadian penitentiaries following the Second World War.

WON FOR THE CCF

In 1943 she was elected to the Ontario Legislature as an independent candidate for a term that lasted until 1945. In 1948 she won the York East seat for the CCF in the Ontario provincial election, but was defeated in 1951.

She wanted to see more women in politics and encouraged and coaxed them to enter.

"Most women think politics aren't lady-like," she said recently. "I'm no lady, I'm a human being."

In recent years there has been a well-supported move by several women's organizations to have her appointed to the Senate, but died before this goal could be realized.

However, she was not always frequently half-humorously censured the Senate. She once said:

The Senate as at present constituted is to me a huge joke. I couldn't possibly sit in it and spend the time laughing at myself." In 1949 she told a student's meeting, "I can't think that the Senate is any use at all except that it is a very nice club to which a lot of nice people belong."

She was born in Picton township, Grey county, March 21, 1890. After attending collegiate in Owen Sound she moved to Stratford to continue her high school education and get a second-class teaching certificate. She began teaching in south East Grey and it was there that she got her start in politics.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Spring-like weather will continue today across Ontario with record breaking temperatures forecast. Although temperatures will be somewhat cooler Tuesday, the mercury will be quite a bit higher than normal for this time of year. Widely-scattered showers are forecast for southern regions and snowflurries in the north country today and Tuesday.

BERLIN (AP)—Unified States officials said today Russia's determination to keep her military positions in Europe means the United States must maintain sizable forces on the continent for a long time.

Speaking out Soviet military intentions in Germany and Austria as evidence big enough refusal to roll back power at any point, is regarded by U. S. state secretary Dulles as one of the most important achievements of Western diplomacy at the Berlin Four Conference.

The U.S. group here is also convinced that this finding will clear away any confusion and uncertainty in the minds over what America's future military policy should be and will result in planning for maintenance of strong U.S. forces in Europe.

U.S. officials feel this is one of the results of the diplomatic and propaganda battle with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov here on European issues, which they believe the United States, Britain and France have won.

Today the Western three went into a new secret session with Molotov to press for a showdown on the Kremlin chief's real policies.

But even if there should be agreement on major conference issues, the real results of the meeting will be measured also in the effect on what the great powers have to say about Europe.

One major consequence—in the impact on U. S. public opinion—the conference today implied that after the Malenkov government took over in Russia and began making friendly gestures, there was pressure in Washington in favor of the U.S. military burden because of decreased danger.

Now the intervention of U.S. officials in Berlin is that Russia's decision to hold on in Germany and Austria makes it essential for the United States to maintain a high level of forces more indefinitely—regardless of any superiority attributed to Russian or allied numbers.

At the conference agreed Sunday to adjourn Thursday. State Secretary Dulles of the U.S. demanded that Russia withdraw her plan to consign an Austrian treaty of independence for a permanent number talk was useless.

Molotov again insisted that any Austrian treaty permit Big Four occupation troops to remain in Austria. He said a German peace treaty is concluded, something obviously years away, and that Austria be banned forever from an alliance with the West.

The West again flatly refused these Soviet terms and Molotov, as the chief spokesman, announced the parley will end Thursday.

Queen Wears Her Coronation Gown For Opening of Australian Parliament

CANBERRA (AP)—Queen Elizabeth, wearing her Coronation gown, opened the 3rd session of the 20th Australian parliament today in a 15-minute ceremony rich in tradition and color.

The Queen wore a high tiara diamond necklace, earrings and a bracelet.

She had driven from Government House through thousands of cheering people who flocked from surrounding districts to double for the day the capital's normal 30,000 population.

The opening ceremony took place in the chamber of the Senate. Members of the House of Representatives were summoned when the Queen said:

"Mr. Clerk of the Senate, please command the Usher of the Black Rod to let members of the House of Representatives know that I desire their attendance in the Senate chamber forthwith."

Then the Queen, addressing both houses, opened Parliament, the first time in Australian history that the reigning monarch has done so.

The ceremony was broadcast throughout Australia and during it the Queen remained in the glare of powerful lights for movie, television and newspaper cameramen.

She entered the Senate chamber escorted by the Duke of Edinburgh, her consort, a admiral's tropical white uniform.

She moved across the magnificent chamber to a wooden throne from which her late father George VI—in 1927, and in New York, opened parliament.

In a firm, clear voice the Queen read her speech, in which she resolved that "under God I shall not only rule but serve."

During the six-minute speech she thanked Australians for the welcome they have accorded her and her husband.

At the end of the speech, the sitting was suspended and members of the Senate and House of Representatives and their wives were presented to the Queen and the duke.

Later the royal couple left to review 6,000 members of the Australian services in parade outside Parliament House.

Rain poured down a few minutes before the parade and stopped two minutes after the parade ended.

Heat weather caused cancellation of an air review.

ST. LAURENT WILL BE RECEIVED AT ROME'S CITY HALL

Pope Still Too Ill For Audience With P.M.

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ROME (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent will be received today at the Campidoglio, Rome's ancient city hall on Capitoline hill where legend has it that the wolf suckled Romulus and Remus, founders of Rome.

The Canadian leader, here on a six-week world tour, will be presented with a tiny statuette of the Roman wolf.

Sunday night he was host at a dinner in the Canadian embassy for Italian premier Mario Scelba and members of his new government. The dinner came at the end of a day in which the Canadian leader heard mass at a church near his hotel and spend several hours touring Vatican City.

POPE TOO ILL

The Pope still was too ill to receive the prime minister, who called at the pontiff's special quarters with his son, Jean-Paul, and daughter, Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell, and Canadian ambassador Hume Wrong.

Pro-secretaries of state at the Vatican gave the Canadian party the latest information on the state of the Pope's health.

The prime minister began the day with mass at the church of Santa Maria Degli Angeli. After mass he drove across the vast, colonnaded square of St. Peter's and was admitted to the Vatican.

There he toured the many rooms, halls and galleries and saw the art treasures of the Vatican, shown to him by the director and assistant director of the Vatican Museums.

At the Canadian leader left St. Peter's crowds at tourists gathered on the steps applauded him.

HELPS PHOTOGRAPHER

He intervened when an Italian photographer tried but failed to take his picture. Plainclothes police busied the photographer away as the prime minister went into the crowd after him and was photographed several times.

Earlier in the afternoon the prime minister visited former prime minister Alcide de Gasperi, government leader eight times during the second World War and a visitor to Canada in 1951.

He was the guest in honor of the Canadian leader Saturday night at the Quirinal Palace when Italian president will work toward closer co-operation in economic and social problems.

In reply, the prime ministers expressed hope to secure a string "in a capital city which has contributed so much to the progress of humanity and Christian civilization."

Slessor Suggests U.S.-Britain Declaration On Atomic War

LONDON (Reuters)—Marshal of the RAF Sir John Slessor, former British air chief of staff, suggests that to end aggression in Europe the United States and Britain should undertake to use atom and hydrogen bombs on any aggressor.

"No one will force a major war if he knows that to do so will bring the annihilating force of atomic and hydrogen bombs on any aggressor.

Considering the problem at a divided Germany, Slessor said there is not the smallest chance of reaching agreement with the Communists by international negotiations.

"We should take the initiative and borrow something of their own technique of the fait accompli," he said.

Among the proposals he put forward were the withdrawal of British and U.S. troops from Europe, except Berlin. After West Germany had been rearmed and the Anglo-American declaration on atomic war had been signed.

Slessor suggested the 1948 Brussels treaty, between Britain, Holland, France, Belgium and Luxembourg, should be extended to include the United States, Canada and West Germany.

Britain and the United States should attach a protocol to their signatures containing a solemn undertaking that, in the event of aggression, the aggressor would be subjected to the full weight of Anglo-American air power, he said.

"Then as soon as this new extended Brussels treaty is signed we should formally invite Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia to adhere to it.

"If they refuse—as they inevitably would in the first instance—we should say: All right,' then you remain subject to its sanctions, but you do not get the advantage of its safeguards."

Six Children Die in Fires, Among 21 Accident Victims

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Despite efforts of a 14-year-old sister left as a baby-sitter, three young children died amid flames that destroyed a four-room wooden home at Normandie, 40 miles north of Roberval in Quebec's rugged Lake St. John region, while both parents were away.

They were among six small children to die as a result of three separate week-end fires in eastern Canada.

A Canadian Press compilation today listed 21 violent or accidental deaths during the week-end—12 in traffic mishaps, seven in fires, one from freezing, and one in a power saw accident. Ontario had 11 fatalities, Quebec five, Nova Scotia three and New Brunswick one.

Killed in the Normandie, Que., fire were Claude Mathieu, 6, his sister, Claudine, 5, and three-year-old Jacqueline Carmelo.

Aurel Gerbeau, 11, died seven hours after his mother carried him out of a burning house near North Bay, Ont. Rosalie Fraser, 4, and her sister, Evangeline, 2, were trapped and perished in a burning house at Freneuse, Que.

Mrs. Ernest Penny of Ottawa, a semi-invalid, died of burns suffered when her nightgown was set on fire by an electric heater.

At Trois Pistoles, Que., Georges-Henri Lavoie, 26, of Rimouski, was killed on struck by a car.

In Nova Scotia, Mrs. Bert MacDonald, 27, was found frozen to death in woods near her Dufferin, N. S., home near Porton.

Woman Could Give Evidence That Was Needed

MONTREAL (CP) — Police, continuing their investigation in the Boivin murder, described as a $3,000,000 black market in baby adoptions, said today a 40-year-old woman now being held could give them enough information to reach from top to bottom in the racket".

"If she talks we will have enough evidence to reach from top to bottom," an investigator said.

The woman's name will not be disclosed. She is one of five arrested for questioning in connection with the murder of a ring, described by police as one which sold Montreal babies to couples in various parts of the United States.

Two Montreal lawyers, Herman Bolter, 38, and Louis Glazer, 51, have pleaded not guilty to charges laid against them and are scheduled to appear for preliminary hearing Feb. 18. Both are free on bail.

Bulter was charged with falsifying entries in a birth certificate and of giving advice in connection with an indictable offence. His bail was set at $2,000.

Glazer was charged on two counts on conspiracy in connection with birth registrations, two counts of falsification and forgery and one count of uttering. He was released on bail of $850.

Two of the three women arrested were released following questioning.

TREATY POWERS COMPROMISE POSSIBLE IN U.S.

Senator George's Plan Is Gaining Support

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator John Sparkman (Dem., Ala.) came out today for a constitutional compromise amendment to limit treaty powers. Sparkman said in an interview he believes George has "put into simple words" what Senator John Bricker (Rep., Ohio) sought to do in an amendment proposal which has been criticized vigorously by President Eisenhower.

The George amendment will give assurance to those who actually fear that a treaty might infringe upon constitutional rights, Sparkman said.

George planned conferences today with Senator William Knowland of California, the Republican floor leader, and possibly with Bricker on proposed changes in his substitute. The Senate resumes discussion of the constitutional change today, with George predicting that a compromise will be reached by Thursday.

The Georgia senator's substitute would multiply treaties or international agreements which could be made by the president. It also would provide that an international agreement, other than a treaty, should not become effective as internal law except by acts of Congress. Such agreements are not subject to Senate ratification.

EXEMPT SOME POWERS

To his second provision George proposed adding language which would exempt the president's war and diplomatic recognition powers.

George studied during the week-end a compromise proposal drawn by General Herbert Brownell which apparently suggested the elimination of language that offered by the Georgia senator.

George said that until he discusses this new counter offer with Knowland and Bricker he won't be able to say whether it is acceptable to him.

Brownell was silent on a week-end demand from Senator T. C. Hennings (Dem., Mo.) that the attorney-general come out against any compromise on the treaty power issue.

Pope Records 4-Minute Talk Despite Illness

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Vatican radio rebroadcast today a four-minute message from Pope Pius, pontiff's voice, weak and hesitant after his recent illness, had been recorded at the Vatican in a period of two days.

The Vatican announced today that the 77-year-old pontiff's recovery is continuing, "although still slowly." Yesterday it said the Pope's diet "continues to be satisfactory" and that he could give them enough information to reach from top to bottom in the racket".

"If she talks we will have enough evidence to reach from top to bottom," an investigator said.

The woman's name will not be disclosed. She is one of five arrested for questioning in connection with the murder of a ring, described by police as one which sold Montreal babies to couples in various parts of the United States.

Transport Board Rejects CPR 'Rate Base' Plan

Law of Diminishing Returns Now Reducing Rail Revenues

OTTAWA (CP) — The board of transport commissioners today refused a railway plea for a drastic revision of Canada's rail rate setup aimed at multi-million-dollar increases in the country's annual freight bill.

The board threw out almost all of several parts in a railway application, and it added a warning that the series of year-to-year freight rate hoists has brought the law of diminishing returns into play on rail revenues.

Key point of the 40,000 - word report, one of the most important in Canadian rail history, was the turndown of a proposal sponsored by the Canadian Pacific Railway that it be allowed a specified annual rate of earnings on a "rate base" calculated on its net "rail assets."

In line with that decision, the board dismissed an application for an immediate nine-per-cent general increase in freight rolls, amounting to some $28,000,000 a year—based on the proposed new system.

The "rate base-rate of return" method, used by regulatory bodies in many public utilities, would have been a sharp departure from Canada's long-standing system of the establishment of railway charges.

BY TARDISTICK

At present, the board uses the CPR as a "yardstick" for rates but allows rates on the basis of the current financial needs of the railroads, rather than laying down permissive earnings on its investment in rail property as the application sought.

The one point in the railway application which the board granted partially was that of establishing a net investment figure for the company's rail holdings, but it emphasized that this figure was not to be used as a rate base.

After its own audit of CPR book values, the board set an $1,140,000,000 as at the end of 1951, and $1,170,000,000 at the end of 1952.

The CPR had sought to have $1,140,000,000 named as the investment rate base—the figure as at the end of 1951.

The board said today it will use its figure as one—and it spelled "ONE"—in capital structure and final tests in considering the reasonableness of future rate levels.

The CPR also asked for an addition to setting up the rate base system, the board should declare the company is entitled to a return of at least 6% per cent on the investment—or earn enough to earn something under four per cent.

ESTIMATES FAIR

The estimates as to the impact of a 6½-per-cent return on freight rates on the railways' net earnings took place mid-1952. The highest was 33 per cent, on top of post-war increases, which reached a cumulative 98 per cent on the traffic which they apply, and which is roughly half of the railways' $1,000,000,000-a-year freight rate revenues.

However, the company had offered to settle for nine per cent at this time if the rate base principle was adopted.

The government-owned Canada National Railways fixed a neutral position in the question of adopting the rate base theory at hearings before the commission, saying that it would accept any rate increases

French Navy Bathyscaphe Plunges Record 2½ Miles Down Into Atlantic

DAKAR, French West Africa (Reuters)—The French navy bathyscaphe today plunged 13,287 feet down into the Atlantic, deeper than man has ever gone before.

The balloon-shaped craft was manned fly two French naval officers. The plunge of nearly 2½ miles is more than 3,000 feet deeper than the previous unofficial previous record, set up in the Mediterranean last summer.

The officers were towed to their experimental craft 160 miles out in the Atlantic from this French West African port. The ocean bed is about 14,700 feet below the surface there.

The bathyscaphe is not attached to an escort ship by cable like a submarine. It moves entirely autonomously.

The French craft—which was also designed by Piccard—has a large gasoline tank with a steel observation cabin a s s feet across attached to the bottom.

Ballast tanks filled with pellets are about 3½ inches thick. The whole thing weighs about 10 tons and costs about $25,000.

Temperatures In Ontario May Hit New High

TORONTO (CP)—A freak, mid-winter "heat wave" sent temperatures rising to record February heights in Ontario today. From the usually-cold north to the unusually-chilly south residents doffed winter coats as they saw winter snows melt into their eyes.

Toronto may get its warmest Feb. 15 on record today. The Weather Man says it may go higher than the 50 degrees of Feb. 15, 1925.

Windsor is expected to hit the 55-degree mark also for its warmest Feb. 15 on record. Even White River recorded a fairly comfortable 35 above today.

Prairie Farmers Request Probes

OTTAWA (CP) — Prairie farm unions, "alarmed" by falling rural purchasing power on the government today to set up a board to investigate the farmers' financial plight.

The unions, headed by J. L. Gray of Saskatoon, urged also that a probe be made into the reasons for the "fantastic" postwar rise in farm machinery price.

Fertilizer prices also were too high and the government should ask the main producer, Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., either to lower its commodity or be subject to a combines investigation.

W. Harry Rollins Re-Elected Pres. Belleville Fair
W. Harry Rollins was re-elected president of the Belleville Fair for his 5th term at the annual meeting held recently at Shire Hall.
Other fair officials returned to office were: 1st vice-pres., Russell Scott as vice-president, Ben Bleecker as treasurer, and Thos. Walker as secretary. Auditor is Norris Whitney, M.L.A. for Prince Edward. The last year's directorate was returned.
Plans are already being no feature attraction for the first day, Belleville Fair had a slight deficit last year, according to the financial statement. President Rollins said the fact that the new grandstand had not been fully completed was the reason no first day feature attraction had not been booked.
Last year's first-day feature attraction had cut attendance during the first day of the fair, while attendance on the last day had also been down. Attendance during the second and third days of the fair was up, however.
Mr. Rollins said the fair directorate this year would try to book the popular Halifax Bengal Lancers horse show. This show performed by teen-aged boys and girls is similar to the famous RCMP musical ride and was seen last year at the Royal Winter Fair.
Last year's Belleville fair was one of the best fairs in the history of the society. The fair was said to have been well balanced in every department.
A color motion picture film of highlights of the Belleville Fair taken by Molsons, will be shown at the next meeting of the local fair board. The film runs about 15 minutes.

The Salvation Army, Belleville Corps, celebrated it's 70th birthday this week-end by playing host to one of the outstanding Songster Brigades of the Salvation Army in Canada. Over 2,500 citizens gathered in four meetings to enjoy the ministry of music rendered so expertly and beautifully by the Danforth Songsters under the direction of its talented leader, Mr. Eric Sharp, who showed us usual, and thanked everyone present. The Pinnacle Street at approximately 7 p.m. Saturday evening to be greeted by the strains of music from the local Corps Band under the direction of Bandmaster Jack Green. Brigadier A. Dixon, divisional commander for the mid-Ontario division, expressed the welcome of the Salvationists after the Band had rendered a selection. A lunch prepared by the ladies of the Corps was served by the Young Peoples Legion under the direction of Sister Mrs. Fred Mason.

The Bridge Street United church was filled to capacity at the Brigade's first public appearance Saturday evening. Bandmaster Jack Brightwell, local Corps Commander, extended a welcome to everyone and led in the opening song "Jesus Shall Reign" while the congregation sang with feeling. Prayer was then offered by the Rev. D. McTavish, Minister of the Church.

PRESENTED COMMISSIONERS.

Senior Captain Brightwell then presented the chairman and leader for the week-end meetings, Commissioner Wm. Dalziel, who, with his wife, travelled from Toronto to be with the Belleville Corps for this 70th Anniversary weekend. Lieutenant-Colonel Glennister then spoke of the pleasure it brought to both himself and Mrs. Dalziel to be able to be with the comrades and friends of the Belleville Corps in this their seventieth year in the City. Commissioner Dalziel then introduced on the first item, which was a sectional song "The Awakeners" by the brigade, which expressed the beauty of the composition by Eric Ball in "Awakening melody. "Da Gospel Train" a negro spiritual number rendered by the male voice section of the songsters, brought smiles of appreciation on the faces of the audience. Sung in a more serious mood, was the lovely selection of the Bestiludes" a composition of Brindley Boon, a young Canadian Army composer.

MALE MINSTREL HEARD.

An instrumental party, formed of the male members of the choir, presented a brilliant march entitled "Comradeship" which was followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. Brightwell, wife of the choir leader, then gave a beautiful rendition of "Arise and Shine" as a vocal solo. Both songster leader, Eric Sharp and his wife are heard weekly on "This is my Story", a Salvation Army program heard each Sunday on CFRB at 9 a.m. Sunday afternoon. "Living For Jesus" was the title of the next number announced by Commissioner Dalziel, which was a vocal song expressed in a free and easy and yet most impressive manner. The Danforth Songsters then rendered an outstanding number, "The New Jerusalem", the pleasant contrast was then given in the presentation of a timbrel number by a group of the women songsters, who delighted the audience with a brilliant exhibition of precision drilling with the timbrel, a Salvation Army percussion instrument, to the accompaniment of the male instrumental group who played the Salvation Army march "Adventure".

Stan Dray, one of the men vocalists, pleased the congregation with the number "Holy Art Thou" and "The most pleasing song of the evening were then brought by the group, in two sections, the first being "Shepherd Hear My Prayer" a composition by The Salvation Army's territorial leader, General Albert Orsborn, followed by the selection, loved by many, "All in Gardi evening". Commissioner Wm. Dalziel then presented the Danforth Songsters with the delightful "Roll Along Jordan" which was received in a manner expressing appreciation. A vocal quartette of male voices brought to the citizens gathered a free rollicking spirit as the group sang the lilting chorus "This world is not my Home."

COURTESIES EXPRESSED.

The courtesies were brought by Mr. Alex Gordon, well known Belleville musician and choir leader of the Bridge Street United Church. In representing the musical forces of the city, Mr. Gordon expressed appreciation at what had been one of the most delightful and spiritually inspiring programs ever presented to a Belleville congregation. Commissioner Dalziel then introduced the finale which was "The Hallelujah Chorus" rendered by the Danforth Songsters in a most expressive and spiritual manner. The Benediction was given by Brigadier A. Dixon.

After the program, Belleville Citizens who were to play host to the individual members of the choir, met their guests near the platform and transported them to their billets where tea was served.

A and note was introduced into the week-end celebrations by the death of a warm Army friend and supporter, Mr. Roger Parks, who passed away suddenly in the balcony of the Church from a heart condition commencement of the Saturday evening program. Mr. Parks had suffered from heart trouble for some time. He had been in his usual health before. Mr. Parks was a brother of the early days of the Salvation Army in Belleville, while a Salvationist, was a Mid-Ontario Intelligencer just a few days ago.

Sunday morning the Danforth Songsters made a visit to the County Home where a short program was presented for the inmates by the Songsters and expressed by its superintendent, Mr. Ken York.

Returning to the Citadel, Commissioner and Mrs. Dalziel were the leaders of a meeting at 10.15, when Brigadier Dixon, who was welcomed as the new Divisional Commander for the mid-Ontario division, with Mrs. Brigadier Dixon, spoke to Salvationists and friends gathered on the topic of Holiness.

MCLEAN SING CHILDRENS.

One of the most outstanding programs of the week-end was presented at Bridge Street United Church in the afternoon from 3 to 4.15 by the Danforth Songsters when A. McLean Haig was chairman and introduced a lively jesus summons sung by the visiting choir. In presenting Mr. Haig, Senior Captain Brightwell referred to the fact that he was a citizen respected by the community and that "The Salvation Army was proud to have him as a member of their advisory board in this city.

In this program were gathered many citizens, including representatives of the Elks Lodge, The Canadian Legion, The Army and Navy and Air Force (of which Senior Captain Brightwell is chaplain) the police force, the fire department, the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. social activities, as well as the Cubs and Brownies and a group from the Stirling United Church with the Rev. A. E. Baker. Some Salvationists from Trenton, Tweed, Picton, Colbourg, Campbellford, Trenton and Napanee were also represented in the audience. Those received the renditions of the Brigade in an enthusiastic manner. Sessional song, "Guardians of the Covenant" was sung under the baton of Thornton.

NUMBER BRINGS APPLAUSE

One again the timbrel party brought applause from the audience with the display of skill and precision played to the background of music by a composite band belonging to the group, which was "Rolling Along The Roll Call." This was followed by a brevier and more spirited vocal number "Glorious Theme of the Light" a rendition by the whole Brigade, under the able direction of Mr. Eric Sharp. Sister Mrs. Leach, the Songster Sergeant for the Toronto Band rendered the scripture reading of the good Samaritan. The following items announced by Mr. McLean Haig, were taped by station CJBQ and broadcast over the air at 4.30 to 5 p.m. in the place of the regular program by the Salvation Army, entitled This is My Story.

Leader Eric Sharp then led the entire group in singing "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" a stirring selection, which brought a most effective response from the recipients. One of the deeply moving hymns expressing the thoughts of Calvary was the song, "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross" to be tune "Olde Immortal Token" a selection well loved by listeners everywhere. The chairman then introduced the Territorial Commander of the Salvation Army in Canada, Commissioner Wm. B. Dalziel, who gave an inspirational and dynamic address on "Brotherhood" basing his thoughts around the Bible Story of the good Samaritan. "Brotherhood is what the nations need more than anything else" stated the Commander in his address. Colonel Roscoe Vandercruyt expressed thanks for the most inspiring talk by the Commissioner, who, he said had given "an eloquent and thought-provoking inspirational address". Other brief remarks expressed and in song the concluding remarks made in the Commissioner's talk, when he reminded everyone to take more heed to the word "our" in the Lord's Prayer. The concluding Item by the Danforth Songsters was the beautiful "Open to Me King" bringing to a close for the afternoon one of the most thrilling musicals ever presented in the city.

CHURCH FILLED

The St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was filled for the evening Salvation meeting conducted by Commissioner Dalziel who led the congregation in singing many hymns of the church and who also led the Salvation Army part of the Anniversary week-end entitled "Fruits of the Spirit". In bringing the message the Commissioner referred to the strength of man, and self. "but we must be guided by the spirit and give expression to the Fruits of the Spirit. We must shed abroad in our hearts," said the Commissioner.

Drawing from his wealth of experience, Commissioner Dalziel spoke of Christian home, the avenue of descriptive memories to the days when he, through the witness of Godly parents had been brought into a knowledge of the Lord. He stressed that it manifest in his own life the Fruits of the Spirit, "This is what is needed in everyone today. Take more attention to the flesh and more prominence to the Spirit of God." Giving stories as illustration Commissioner Dalziel drew the thoughts of those gathered to the realms of higher thinking, when he spoke of the love of God which brought to the individual, the fruits of the Spirit, love, pesse, joy, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, and temperance."

Mrs. Commissioner Dalziel, who accompanied the Commissioner for the anniversary week-end, read the Scripture in the service. The Belleville Band played for the hymns and also rendered several selections during the service.

FESTIVAL FINALE GIVEN

At the conclusion of the Salvation Army, Commissioner Dalziel announced that the Danforth Songsters under the direction of Songster Leader Eric Sharp would present a festival finale right after the evening meeting. This commenced by the group singing a beautiful rendition of the 150th Psalm, the hymn sung by "The Witnesses", was given with brilliance and blessing.

One of the highlights of the evening then took place when the songster leader, Eric Sharp, to the accompaniment of the Danforth Songsters and with Lieut. Lawrenceson at the piano, sang a vocal solo entitled "Jerusalem the City". A male voice quartet then sang with enthusiasm and inspiration the Negro spiritual number. "Roll Along Jordan." "The Kingdom" was the final number brought by the Danforth Salvationists, who were the guests of the Belleville Corps for the 70th anniversary of the opening of a Salvation Army work. Commissioner Dalziel then called on the local Corps Officer, Captain Brightwell, that all would be forgotten, and I believe that many of these two days of celebration of our 70th anniversary will linger for years to come and the memory of which will never be forgotten." The Belleville Band then led the congregation, in the singing of "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," after which Commissioner Dalziel pronounced the benediction.

He was taken to the hospital in Thompson's ambulance, oxygen being administered on the way, but he failed to survive the attack.

Mr. Parks for many years was a Salvation Army officer and served in many corps as far east as Nova Scotia. He took a great interest in the work of the Army although at the present time he was not connected with the work. No later than last week he wrote an interesting article on the work of the Salvation Army in this city during the past 70 years and which was published in The Ontario Intelligencer in connection with the anniversary, that was celebrated over the week-end.

The late Mr. Parks was fond of music and was a member of the Bridge Street United Church choir. At a hobby he was a fancier of Rouen Pigeons and many of his dogs have won prizes at the principal shows throughout the province. He was also a horticulturist of note and his flowers and garden were highly prized and viewed by many.

He was born in Belleville 58 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William G. Parks, and excepting for his residence away from Belleville with the Salvation Army he spent most of his life in this city. He was a kindly man and was highly respected. AUSTRIA RECALLS UPBRINGING

VIENNA (Reuters)—All work in Austrian factories stopped for five minutes this morning as a tribute to Socialists who died in bitter street battles 20 years ago today during a revolt against Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss' regime. Sixty-two men were killed and hundreds wounded in uprisings at Vienna, Linz, Graz and Steyr. Dollfuss dissolved the Socialist party and was murdered five months later by Nazi agents.

44-Year Career As Engineer Ends For N. Williamson

A 44-year career as a railroader was ended here early on Sunday morning for C.N.R. engineer Mr. Norman Williamson, 264 Bleecker Avenue, who stepped down for the last time from the cab of No. 16 passenger train as it pulled in from Toronto.

Since 1919 he has been riding in almost every type of locomotive owned by the Canadian National Railways and from here on in looks forward to riding in passenger coaches for a change.

"Mrs. Williamson and I look forward to doing quite a bit of travelling," he said.

Born on a farm in the Peterborough district, Mr. Williamson found that tilling the soil was not for him and as a young man of 20 came to Belleville where he hired on with the railway as a fireman. Four years later he was classed as engineer and since that time has operated trains in and out of Belleville. He has been on the passenger run since 1941.

He has a definite liking for the steam locomotive and claims that the diesel is the railway power of the future, even for passenger trains, but steam operations will make the diesel satisfactory. He prefers to operate them in a cold weather climate such as in Canada, he feels certain.

NEWS OF ACCIDENT AS ENGINEER

Since becoming an engineer he has never been in an accident while working as a fireman, however, his engineer was killed in a derailment near Newtonville.

"That was the closest call," he said.

Apart from his desire for travel he has been filled he expects to get in a little gardening, while the flower garden which gets a lot of his attention is going to be even better looked after.

Mr. and Mrs. Williamson have two sons, Warren, who is in the insurance business, at North Bay; and Donald, who works at the Dominion Parasite Laboratory in Belleville.

Monday morning's run from Toronto saw the retirement of two crew members of the same train.

A former Belleville man, Joseph Healey, of Bessemville was the last run as conductor at the same time. Mr. Healey left Belleville about twenty-five years ago and will now retire to his fruit farm in the Bessemville area.

TRANSPORT

granted by the board as the result of the application.

The application was made by the Railway Association of Canada, on which all the major lines are members.

CLAIM RATES TOO HIGH

On the opposite side, the application was fought by eight provincial governments, all except Ontario and Quebec. They claimed that rising rates were pricing the railways out of the freight market in the face of competition.

The board's decision was unanimous among members of a three-man panel headed by Mr. Justice Wells, K.C. Kennedy, chief commissioner.

In a series of "supplementary" reasons for the main judgment, the board noted that early in 1953 it expressed concern about the ability of the railways privately themselves out of the market and of railway labor to maintain out of employment.

CITES DECLINING TRAFFIC

Looking at declining rail traffic since 1951, the board said in its judgment:

"There are more strongly than ever of the opinion that the long succession of general freight rate increases made possible by the added cost of labor which is the largest single factor in increased costs of materials, has brought about a loss of traffic by the railways to competing modes of transport . . .

"Thus the long and diminishing returns is now, in the inexorable economic sense, beginning to assert itself.

"We are convinced therefore that, unless the effects of these basic conditions adversely affecting the railway industry in general change markedly for the better, means other than general rate increases imposed on the basis of the past will have to be found in the future if the railways' credit is to be maintained in healthy operating condition."

EDITOR DIES

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Claude Bertram Monteith, 64, a former editor of the Aylmer Express weekly, died recently. He served as editor for 30 years and eight years ago went into the hardware business in Aylmer. He was born in Aylmer and lived there all his life.

Mayor R. Burtt Completes 41 Years With CNR

TRENTON (Special) — When Mayor Ross Burtt swung down from a box car in the downtown yards here Saturday he was the 41st year of railroad officials and a crowd of fellow-workmen and friends waiting to see Trenton's chief magistrate begin a well-earned retirement after 41 years association with the C.N.R.

Brakeman Burtt is 65 years old on Monday. He started with the government rail system in 1913.

ROSS BURTT

His railroad service was interrupted by World War I when he joined the 21st infantry battalion he was awarded the Military Medal for bravery at Vimy Ridge during a gas attack on March 1, 1917. He was a machine gun sergeant during the fighting in France and retired from the army a warrant officer 2nd. class.

His two brothers also served with distinction in the First World War. Fred Burtt was killed by a trench mortar at Lens while Edward, who now lives in Toronto, was awarded the M.C. after being wounded in France.

Mayor Burtt, who was married in 1913 to Eva Vantassel of Trenton, has two sons, Bruce of Trenton, and Victor now serving with the R.C.A.F. on Vancouver Island.

Mayor Burtt, in his youth, was a first class ball and hockey player as well as a better-than-average track athlete. As a hockey referee in these parts he was always known to be fair with his decisions.

Mayor Burtt was elected mayor of Trenton in his three-corner-ed fight for the chief magistracy. He served the town as a councilman for 13 years. He became known as a fearless supporter of the workingman's rights.

Commenting on his association with the railroad, Mr. Burtt said he served "like a good soldier." It's a first class firm to work for and gave us always a square deal. The conditions are good and you get the best companionship in the world. If I had my time over again, I would still go into the railroading business."

From Monday on Trenton will have a full time mayor who plans to devote all his time to town business.

MANY ON HAND

Nearly 50 relatives, railroad friends and C.N.R. officials were at the downtown station on Saturday when Mayor Burtt, mayor of Trenton, went into retirement after 41 years association with the government transport system.

Mrs. Burtt was among the crowd on hand at the platform. She was presented with a dozen red roses by Mayor Burtt's fellow employees.

Denies Asking Editors to Limit Coverage on Duke

OTTAWA (CP)—Attorney-general for the Duke of Edinburgh's whirlwind tour of Canada's suburbs this summer has stirred up an international argument based on an apparent misunderstanding. On Feb. 5 in Ottawa, four-province bid Canadian managing editors conference at Mackenzie, Que., with a special press radio-and-movie show he would be granted no more reporters to outlying spots in the Yukon, Northwest Territories and Labrador.

R. C. McInnes, public relations director of Trans-Canada Air Lines who is working with government officials on the arrangements, said off the record — that only 12 places would be available in the plane to cover Canadian and other news agencies and radio, photo and television services.

But Fred Sullivan, New York trade magazine, in its issue today reported that the Canadian government appealed to the managing editors of Canadian newspapers not to refrain from giving next summer's visit of the Duke of Edinburgh the "full coverage usually customary for royals tours."

WOULD LIMIT COVERAGE

Sullivan quoted managing editor Mr. MacInnes as saying that to encourage the Royal Family to visit the Canadian outposts in person would have to get away from the "full coverage usually given." He added: "The tour arranger said the way editors can help is by encouraging the broadcasters and photographers to cover the story."

In his editorial today Sullivan Publisher said: "We can't recall a similar request in any country during our peacetime. It seems ridiculous to us to ask local newspapers to keep the Duke's own readers about the duke when everything to do with his visit to the newspapers agree to this, or are restrained in their coverage, the readers not only resent it but it is they have not been told and thereby lose confidence in the press."

Mr. MacInnes today denied that he asked the editor to refrain from giving all-out coverage.

ONLY ONE RESTRICTION

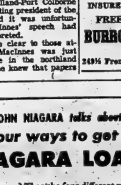
He explained: "We are making arrangements that all possible accommodation would be available in Ottawa, Vancouver and other major points on his itinerary. The whole purpose of my talk to the managing editors was to arrange fullest possible coverage and to point where better transmission facilities would be available than at the isolated points."

T. N. Morrison, managing-editor of the Welland-Port Colborne Tribune and acting president of the conference, said: "The impression that Mr. MacInnes' speech had been misinterpreted.

"It was quite clear to those attending that MacInnes was just short of the use of the isolated plane. Everyone knew that papers

Woman Suffers Sprained Ankle In Collision

A Toronto woman suffered a badly sprained ankle and two cars were damaged in the exact spot almost in a two-car collision at the intersection of Coleman and Moira Streets Sunday evening.



A change in the location of stop signs may have been the cause of the accident. Edward Burkholder, Toronto, a former resident of this city, was westbound on Moira, intending to turn left onto Coleman. He saw a truck approaching the intersection from the west, but expected it to stop in accordance with street stop signs as they were three years ago.

Instead; Moira Street is now a through street, and as Burkholder made the left turn his car collided with the truck driven by Lorne Corbyville. Mrs. Madeline Outred, riding in the respondent car, received a sprained ankle and was taken to hospital for x-ray.

A local taxicab driven by Melvin Yateman, 38 Geddes Street, and a car driven by Earl A. Dozier, R.R. 5, Belleville, collided almost in front of Bell Telephone Cleaners on Coleman St. Yateman suffered a cut mouth, received several stitches. Damage was damaged to the extent of about $600 and the other car about $300.

In another accident on Bridge Street, cars driven by Robert Fitzgibbon, Trenton, and D. Moxam, R.R. 1, Belleville, collided. Damage was not estimated and no one was injured.

Interested could spot men through the north independently. You just can't transport 100 reporters across the Yukon lands the way they were shipped by train for the 1951 royal tour."

OFF THE RECORD

BOTH SINNED AGAINST AND SINNING

W. L. McPherson, writing in the Windsor Star, complains that "while one kind of traffic (vehicular) is being pampered with all the refinements of finesse and practice, another—the way of the lowly pedestrian—is not progressing at all."

Mr. McPherson's complaint is based on the manner in which the pedestrian, crossing an intersection, is harassed by motor traffic turning right and left "into his path as he strikes out bravely with the green light."

The complaint is justified, and as he suggests, something ought to be done about it. A remedial measure is known, he adds. It is a system used in Detroit, where "Walk" and "Don't Walk" directions are employed and where, when the sign says "Walk" "no son of a gun behind the wheel of any kind of vehicle is going to menace you and get away with it."

Mr. McPherson admits that Detroit's throngs are substantially larger than Windsor's but he adds that in this matter of crossing streets numbers are not everything. A principle is also involved. We think he is on sound ground there, and though Belleville's pedestrian traffic may not equal Windsor's, pedestrians here ought to receive the same type of protection which Mr. McPherson is seeking for Windsor citizens.

But, to be fair, one must admit that this is only half of the story. If motorists making turns at street intersections harass pedestrians, it is also true that the motorist is himself plagued by jay-walkers and worse. The latter are those pedestrians who, though they do not sally forth against a red light, are not content to remain upon the curb. Seeking a quick getaway once the light turns green, they crowd a foot or two out onto the street and stand there impatiently. They thus set up a kind of obstacle course for the motorist who, desiring to make a tight-hand turn and facing a green light, finds he must first dodge around the intruders before proceeding to pick his way through the stream of pedestrians legally crossing the street in the other direction.

It is all very well to say that the pedestrian who has the right of way will find that this is of no value to him at his inquest. But it is also true that the motorist who has the right of way may discover that this is of little value to him at his coroner's inquest either.

The unfortunate truth is that both motorists and pedestrians sin and are sinned against at intersections.

CHEERS!

The Ontario Government is to be congratulated.

In its wisdom it has announced a new system of measuring game fish.

In future the official length will be from the snout (or should it be nose or beak) to the tip of the tail.

Previously anglers were required to measure only to the fork of the tail.

The honest angler—which of course includes both you and me—was never able to understand why the tail was not officially considered to be part of the fish.

Some fish have big tails, but the poor angler was never permitted to benefit from the size of the fish tail when he was telling his fish tale. As a result many a fish tale sounded fishy, whereas in fact it was the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, the honest angler having included all of the tail and not merely part of the tail in his tale. Along from now it will make a tall tale a true tale.

But, even for a fish, we seem to be running into too much tail and too many tales hereabouts, which leads us to the conclusion that we have reached the tail of this tale. This tail tale is told.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

A lot of people were intensely interested in Wednesday's liquor vote in the eastern portion of Belleville. Their reasons—and the explanations for the results—varied widely. Some were hard to satisfy—others were easy.

There was, for instance, the prim-voiced lady who, when informed that the "drys" had won, expressed satisfaction, but followed with a query to the marqin. She was told the negative had won by about 250 votes. "Two hundred and fifty votes?" she said. "That isn't very much."

And there was the man who telephoned against a background of music and motion. "Howah the elecahun?" he demanded. He, too, was told the "drys" had won. "The 'drys'?" he said. "Whoopee!"

RED NEWSPAPERS

John Blackmore, Social Credit MP for Lethbridge, has let it be known that he thinks Canadian newspapers are Red-tinged. And darned if he isn't right. The Windsor Star very often uses a red headline on its front page and more recently the Toronto dailies have sported definitely pink-tinted advertising pages. Even the staid old Montreal Gazette went "red" the other day with an auto ad. And the Red-all-through Toronto evening paper not only has a "red streak" edition but proudly labels its final edition "pink" and prints eight pages on pink paper. Canadian papers are certainly getting pinker and redder by the day and it is time Mr. Blackmore to honor the papers by bringing these latest attractions to the attention of the House.

Waste Not, Want Not

(Cali Reporter).

The British, fearful of another winter of fuel conservation programs and shortages, have received a diagnosis of their problem: They're short of coal only because they waste coal.

The Anglo-American Council on Productivity, presenting a study by 12 qualified experts, has found that Britain could save 30,000,000 tons of coal a year, and warm and produce sufficient power by merely adopting available methods of fuel efficiency.

Ironically, this is just about the amount of the annual coal shortage which has plagued Britain since the war and brought "war by coal" and "turn off the light" campaigns every winter.

British industry uses 22,000,000 tons of coal a year in hand firing operations — with the work done by common, untrained labor. It would cost, the council estimated, £12,000,000 to provide mechanical equipment for firing with results in the saving of 3,500,00 tons of coal a year, worth £10,000,000.

Draining London boilermen, is any one of whom, the report says, can save enough coal in a day for a miner on bring from the pit. would save many more tons a year.

Uninsulated factories are the cause of much waste, the report says, British MP, cites the example of one factory that is spending £315 for insulation, cut coal use by the output of three miners and saved £2,000 a year in coal bills. But most British factories don't insulate.

British locomotives, which burn high grade coal, could save 1,000,000 tons a year by using double screened coal, as American railroads do, the report stated. There and many other possible savings in industry, which would repay an new investment in the matter of a year or two—could solve Britain's coal shortage.

'Sixth Sense' Explained

(Edmonton Journal).

The skin of a blind man enables him to "see". This startling statement is made by Dr. Gerald Sockler, of the University of Innsbruck, Austria, as a result of experiments he carried out with an amplifying microphone.

According to Dr. Kohler, acoustic waves below the level of audibility are transformed by the ear into an irritation of the skin on the forehead. This irritation, he says, enables the blind man is able to "see" objects as fine and as far away as a flagpole.

"It seems a pity that the "secret" of the blind man's sixth sense is now discovered, yet somehow this in no way diminishes our admiration for the blind, or for people who are fending for themselves in this highly competitive world.

Freedom's Way Is Dangerous

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

Illinois Secretary of State Carpentier, after his embarrassment over his late ownership of books the Illinois State Library, is looking about for guidance in connection with the number of books purchased with state funds.

Mr. Carpentier will have no better guide than the joint declaration of the American Library Association and the American Publishers Council of June, 1953, which declared in "book burning" directive to the United States' overseas libraries, that "books the wrong people think" issued a memorable statement. Here it declared:

"Books are the major channel by which the intellectual life of mankind is handed down, and the principal means of its testing and growth. Libraries, therefore, have always had the responsibility to assemble the fullest collection of books practicable and to make their support.

"To accept these propositions neither lightly nor as easy generalizations. We here stake our claim to future freedom to read what we will. To do so because we believe that they are good, positive affirmations of variety and usefulness, worthy of cherishing and fighting for.

"We realize that the application of these propositions may mean the dissemination of ideas and manners of expression that are repugnant to many persons. We do not state these propositions in the comfortable belief that what people read is bound to better them. We believe rather that what people read is people because ideas can be dangerous; but that suppression of ideas is fatal to a democratic society. Freedom itself is a dangerous way of life, but it is ours."

These words might well be printed in large type and framed for display in public libraries. Before themselves called on to say what is good and what is bad reading for the American people.

Glen Miller Was an Artist

St. Thomas Times-Journal

The venerable and sedate Library of Congress is at last "in the groove." Its library accepted a collection of musical instruments, including violas, harpsichords, lutes and numerous long since defunct members of the orchestral family. The library has also an imposing record collection of classical music. But the first examination of modern music was marie a few days ago when library accepted with a gift from the wife of the late band leader, Glenn Miller, of recordings of the original Miller band under Miller's personal direction.

Miller has been called the "last of the great dance band leaders." Whether the epithet "last" and "great" are appropriate is beside the point. There can be no doubt that his arrangements are the most inspired and at the same time most artful of any popular music which trusts to arrangements rather than to improvisation for its effect. His knowledge of tonal colors and the combination of instruments to produce them was phenomenal. Never muddy or discordant, Miller's music is masterful and stands up to repeated hearing far better than the run of arrangements. Of course, no music, not even Bach's, can be played or could withstand-like box repetition as it is practised today, and still remain fresh. But Miller's was the music of a lighter type, Miller's arrangements are fresh and they are still fresh and hold the top spot.

Many musical purists will question the validity of this accent on the arrangement in popular music. But considering what Brahms, Mozart and Haydn thought and how Mozart dressed up nursery rhymes, the art of the stylist appears respectable. Miller's art by fault is a musical work of art. In the Library of Congress Miller's arrangements rank high.

It should be pointed out in fairness to Miller that the style he called Miller arrangements were made by more than Miller. They were not by Mr. Miller himself, but there can be no doubt that these works are all due to him. He could have an enormous effect on popular music. Popular music is a form of Twentieth Century culture. There is no reason why the most inspired achievement should not have a niche where so many other aspects of American culture are on record. Mrs Miller was right in giving her bequest and the authorities of the Library of Congress fully justified in accepting it.

Old Stuff From Generals

(Montreal Daily Star)

Lieut.-General Sir Brian Horrocks has said that British boys are losing their sense of humor by their mothers.

The only new touch in the General's statement is the blame he puts on mom. The rest of it we have heard from every generation—and the history books tell us from every generation comes up with the idea that the younger generation isn't what it used to be.

Yet in almost every generation the young people have had to fight a war and we can't recall any in which the British soldier failed to do his duty when the service reluctantly, as mothers should; but they have given battle with the traditional courage with the heroism of young soldiers, but they are blamed for assumed defects.

The most famous example of such a condemnation from the type of soldier sent to him is Wellington's famous remark that the British army was the scum of the earth. He was disciplined for this scum, that carried Wellington successfully through the Peninsular War and defeated Napoleon at Waterloo.

The young men of Britain don't get to General Horrocks before battle. We imagine they like to eat his words when the balloon goes up again. British troops whether or not they have been brought up on a diet of safety first, as the General says, have a habit of turning in a pretty good performance.

Or Would He Say That?

(Fort William Times-Journal)

Someone pulled the signal cord on a train in Arkansas and the train stopped in the station without the conductor. Thirty-five miles further on, the train was halted until the conductor could catch up by automobile. Any railroader can imagine the conductor's remarks when he caught up with the culprit: "Mr. my, you shouldn't have done that, you know."

Personal Health Talks

SHALLOW BREATHING AND THROMBOSIS

A good many people who should know better think coronary thrombosis is some dire happening that calls for investigation by the coroner. Right there and left coroners' juries are set up from the great and the small (acute) close to the heart and distribute blood to the heart wall through coronary arteries. Many accidents occur days or weeks after childbirth.

Dr. Brady.

They received the name coronary thrombosis because of the crown (coronet).

Thrombus is blood clot. Nature's way to stop bleeding and start repair or healing of injury. When bone breaks the fragments bleed, clot forms around the fracture, lays down calcium and builds the callus, new bone.

Sometimes blood clots when there has been no wound or injury, as in vein or artery where circulation is slow or where blood stagnates. This is called thrombosis and may be normal, physiological, or abnormal, disease.

Thrombosis occurs most frequently in the leg, where circulation in the veins slows down or the blood coagulates (clots) because of (1) prolonged confinement to bed, (2) prolonged inactivity (swollen veins), (3) general weakness and exhaustion, (4) infrequent change of posture, (5) neglect of exercise or (7) shallow breathing.

The condition, popularly called "milk leg" is a thrombosis which occurs days or weeks after childbirth.

That's all you need to know or are likely to learn about the serious, frightening signs of the treatment of thrombosis, from me, at any rate. This is a health column, not a medical encyclopedia.

However, it is good for everybody's health to know how to prevent thrombosis.

The best preventive is natural breathing. That's belly breathing. Any one, feeble or vigorous, young or old, physically active or bedridden may and should practice belly breathing at least night and morning, better three or four times a day.

Regular practice of belly breathing helps to correct the bad habit of chest breathing which most Americans have acquired from the misguided attempt to develop pouter pigeon chest, as exemplified in military schools. Chesty breathing is invariably shallow breathing.

To understand how belly or natural breathing improves circulation you must have elementary knowledge of anatomy and physiology — and I'll make it simple in the space available here. So, until belly breathing becomes a habit, the way the heart valves, valves in veins and lymph vessels work, perhaps you will take my word for it, that every time you inflate your lungs (achieve) you pump blood back to the right side of the heart, because it goes to the lungs to unload carbon dioxide and take on fresh oxygen.

Belly breathing preventive is simple exercise, suited, of course, to the capability of the individual.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SECURITY WITHIN OURSELVES

The average human being does not realize his potential power. A great deal he calls upon a reserve that he didn't know he had developed in the hour of need. He is called upon for the ordinary emergencies of everyday living and the more we do call upon that security, the stronger we become and the more peace of mind we create.

Things like fear, worry, and habitual anxiety eat into that reserve of security, and the whole physical structure of our body is gravely affected. An antidote for these forces is the faith that is within us. The least disturbed are those with deep and inner religious convictions. Time and again Christ, in his ministry upon those to whom he talked to "Take no thought for the morrow," and to cast out all fear from their minds.

People who exercise faith in their daily doings live healthiest and happiest. They are constantly building up that security within themselves that they easily distilled. They face trouble, sorrow, and unexpected defects with courage and confidence. They never fail in their hearts.

It would be well for each one of us to early form a philosophy of life, and ignore from the days of live. Naturally this philosophy would have to be formulated according to the individual's own ideas, and one's over-all plan of life. Beyond personal security outward, and so affects, not only ourselves but all about us. We must have a fellow screwiver to be easily disturbed. We must be big in faith (We must put quality into all we do.

To gain security within ourselves we must firmly ourselves against all pretty disturbances and fears so steadily they did not exist—as usually they do not, excepting within the mind God is good to the opulent of mind and heart

THE PASSING OF GRANDMA

Yes, grandma has gone into the discard, along with a lot of other things of furniture. In my youth, grandma was a white-haired old lady with a face and a love like all the family. A great deal of love centered about her; she was a fixture, and a factor indeed to be reckoned with, in late pioneer society.

Today many young people do not know anything about their grandparents, or indeed about any of their ancestors. I recall that when I had a few years only when I displayed to a young man a book which by his distinguished grand father. "Was that my grandfather?" he asked, "or was he my uncle?" And today if grandma does exist she is no longer grandma and more grandmother. She is Nana, or Tante, or Aunt Somebody, Mamma. And she is usually a gay young thing with the latest hairdo.

Not that there is any object to this, for I am a grandpa myself and naturally want to see the young people remain young and attractive as they were when they were girls and boys. But there does seem a bit to have a young man ask me, "Was that my grandfather or my uncle?" when the man in question happened to be an individual of about twenty-one.

I am old-fashioned enough to believe that grandmother count, especially since I am one myself.

Home Rulers Gloomily Watch Hopes Fade

By RANALD MacLUSKEN

GLASGOW (Reuters) — Scottish home rulers are gloomily watching their hopes fade after some fairly spectacular post-war successes.

Three years ago, the question of a separate parliament for Scotland was on every Scottish tongue. Today, if you mention it to the average Scotsman, he shrugs his shoulders and looks bored.

Yet, around 1950, 2 000,000 Scots out of a total population of 3,000,000 signed a covenant calling for home rule.

Then came the affair of the Stone of Destiny.

On Christmas Day, 1950 a group of young Scottish nationalists broke into Westminster Abbey, London, and removed the historic block of sandstone on which ancient Scottish kings were crowned. They took it to Scotland, from where it had been seized by King Edward 1 of England in 1296, and kept it hidden for four months.

DECLINE SETS IN

This was the start of the decline. To many sober-minded Scots who had willingly signed the covenant the invasion of Edward's national shrine was distasteful.

Quarrels among leaders of the covenant movement, with the resignations of some of the most respected and responsible of them, hastened the decline.

The ascent to the throne of Queen Elizabeth brought more wildcat action by extreme nationalists.

Members of a mysterious organization calling itself the "Scottish Republican Army" blew up mail boxes. On June 3—while Elizabeth was being crowned in London—Miss Wendy Wood, 46-year-old nationalist, publicly declared a "Scottish Republic". With a handful of supporters she stood in a public square in Aberdeen reading her "proclamation" to a few amused bus drivers.

KEELHOLSEN PLOT BROKEN

Then, last November, in Edinburgh, four young nationalists were charged with plotting to blow up St. Andrew's House, Edinburgh, headquarters of government departments in Scotland. They were sent to prison for a year for illegally possessing explosives.

Typical of the Scotsman's attitude to home rule today is this comment from a Clydeside shipyard worker: "I signed the covenant because I thought when it would be a guid thing for us to has oor ain parliament. Noo I am not so sure. If these daft laddies who go aboot blowing up things with dynamite got into it and became oor rulers, the country would be ruined in a month."

Shopping Town Being Erected North of Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit, which filled cities with automobiles, is busily at work on a plan to move the cars back out.

The plan is wrapped up in a vast acreage of trees, shrubs and rolling drives, centred by a collection of shops and services in corridors like to think of as a "shopping town."

"Northland" is the name of Detroit's new town. It's a brick and glass dream store community designed by architect Victor Gruen of Los Angeles for the J. L. Hudson Co.

The 125,000,000 cost covers just the buildings and 161 acres of ground. The 80-acre parking lot holds 7,500 cars.

Another 4,500 cars can be added. More than 3,000 people alone will work there, in the three-storey Hudson building centring the project and in the more than 80 shops that have leased space in adjoining buildings.

THE COVERED MILE

More than a mile of covered walks, ringing landscaped fountain courts and malls, connect the air-conditioned shops, Hudson's, whose downtown Detroit store is one of the largest, has set up 56 different departments in its core building at Northland.

There are snack bars, restaurants, a cafeteria, delicatessen and giant supermarket. An underground conveyor belt carries supermarket purchases to a pickup station in the parking lot.

The centre's "life lines"—its service drives for truck deliveries and storage—all run underground on depressed roadways apart from customer routes.

No Deliberate Deficit Financing Says Abbott

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Finance Minister Abbott has tipped the country: No deliberate deficit financing in 1954-55.

That tip was imbedded in his statement in Parliament Friday when he said the cabinet does not believe present conditions warrant adoption of "drastic or large-scale anti-deflationary measures."

For some time the government's "back room" advisers had been debating whether the government should try to meet the possibility of a recession by increasing the money flow through big tax cuts and balancing the 1954-55 budget through heavy borrowing.

This deficit financing in government operations is sometimes used as a weapon to fight deflation. The advisers concluded that this is not the time for such a move, that the recession is not so bad as it has been painted, and apparently the government has accepted their verdict.

NO BIG TAX CUTS

That means Mr. Abbott has decided to squeeze another year out of the "pay-as-you-go" policy. And no big cuts for the taxpayer.

The country's money supply is tightening. Mr. Abbott was reported to have told tobacco growers that when they asked for tax cuts on cigarettes last week.

But the country's general economy is still humming along at a fast pace, notwithstanding a few misfires. A forecast of capital investment for the year, one of the key economic indicators, likely will be made public in a few weeks.

The trade department has tightened its commodities division under the directorship of Denis Harvey, veteran trade expert and wartime naval commander, who has handled the division since 1950.

Pakistan Will Build Pipeline To Carry Gas

KARACHI (Reuters)— Pakistan is preparing to build a pipeline to carry natural gas to the country's industry and save the nation an estimated $22,000,000 a year in foreign exchange.

The gas is bubling up out of the desert at Sui Dera Bugti, in Baluchistan, where it was discovered by the Pakistan Petroleum Company, a subsidiary of Burmah Oil, during a search for oil.

It was found that Sui's proven reserves of natural gas were 2,280,000,000,000 cubic feet, or enough to provide 100,000,000 cubic feet a day for 60 years.

This was a major find for a country which annually requires 200,000 tons of coal and produces only 60,000 tons a year.

Surveys having fixed the general alignment of the 350-mile pipeline, detailed surveying now is in progress. Work on the actual laying of the pipeline will start soon and the gas should be brought to Karachi by May, 1955. The pipeline will be by way of Sukkur, Rohri, Kotri and Hyderabad, supplying fuel for three power stations and three cement factories on the way.

Noranda Mine Strike Settled, Increase Given

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—The six-month strike of some 1,500 miners at the big Noranda mine has been settled on the basis of a company offer of a 7½ per cent hourly increase for the men.

The miners voted 856 to 125 Saturday in favor of returning to work on the basis of a settlement that will give them increases ranging from eight to 13 cents an hour. The agreement will be for one year.

Union and company officials will meet soon to map plans for getting the men back to work.

The acceptance vote of the miners was held after being recommended to them by officials of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL). Eamon Park, national representative of the union, said the strike had been much more than a battle over wages and accused the Noranda company of attempting to destroy the union.

There was no immediate statement from the company.

The union originally asked for an increase of 22 cents an hour in the basic hourly rate of $1.05, reduction of the work week to 44 from 48 hours, pension and welfare benefits and the checkoff of union dues.

Women's Activities

ALBERT COLLEGE WOMEN'S GUILD

The Albert College Women's Guild held its February meeting on Friday, at Holloway Street United Church, on the invitation of the ladies of the church, Mrs. S. E. Larman welcomed the members of the Guild, Mrs. W. H. Finkle, president of the Guild, presided.

The program for the afternoon had been arranged by Mrs. A. May.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. Ralph Morden, who spoke of Doctor Buchman through which the world is passing and said that two thousand years ago Christ had foretold these troubles and had shown that they must be overcome by spiritual rather than material means. Mrs. Morden quoted some of Christ's words to His followers: "Bear ye one another's burdens," "Love one another," and to the rich young man who sought His counsel, He said: "Go sell all thy goods and give to the poor."

When Christ's way is adopted by the people's of the earth, there will be no more bitterness between nations and no more wars.

Mrs. May introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Lyle Jones.

Mrs. Jones gave a delightful review of a book entitled, "Authentic Letters from Upper Canada." These letters were written by settlers, who had come to Canada from Ireland early in the 19th century. In their letters, they urged relatives and friends to join them in the new country. Some of their experiences were most amusing and Mrs. Jones told them with a keen sense of humor which delighted her hearers.

After the book review, Mrs. Jones gave a monologue, "A Conversation on the Telephone" showing the discrepancy between a man and a woman making an engagement for lunch, which was highly amusing.

Miss Madeline Young moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Jones for the splendid way in which she had entertained her audience.

Miss Norma Arkles, Mrs. Clinton MacDonald and Miss Loretta McDougal sang three songs "Bless the Lord, O My Soul," "Waltz of the Flowers," and "Winter Wonderland." They were accompanied by Mr. William Connon. All three songs were much enjoyed.

After the meeting—closed refreshments were served by the social committee with Mrs. Lar-man and Mrs. Finkle pouring tea.

Member of Oblate Novitiate Speaker at CWL Meeting

Mrs. J. E. Boyd, immediate past president, presided at the February meeting of St. Michael's C.W.L. held in the K. of C. Hall, in the absence of the president, Mrs. J. E. Logan. Members from the sub-divisions of St. Joseph's and Holy Rosary parishes were welcomed. Reports were given by the various committee. conveners. The regional meeting held in Picton on February 7, had been very successful and largely attended by the Belleville members. The Sunday evening parties being held at the K. of C. Hall for the young business girls and boys of the parish have proved most enjoyable. Mrs. W. G. Woolford had made 83 hospital visits during January and was thanked for this service. Mrs. C. Burley will be the visitor for February and a representative from Holy Rosary parish will be appointed for March.

Mrs. F. Fitzpatrick gave an interesting account of a meeting she had attended some weeks ago regarding unemployment and the relief situation in the city and that it had been suggested to hold a sale of home cooking in the market building to help raise funds. Two members, Mrs. George Wilson and Mrs. J. C. Baker reported on a meeting they had attended that evening in conjunction with the several women's organizations in the city pooling their interests to assist unemployed families.

GUEST SPEAKER

Rev. Father Murphy introduced the guest speaker, Rev. Father Sheehan, who is in charge of the Oblate Novitiate on Waupoos Island, Father Sheehan in his opening remarks referred to his work on "Waupoos that tight little island out in the Bay of Quinte," and said the Oblate Order was founded in France in 1816 to preach the gospel to poor people. The English-speaking order in Canada stretches from the Annapolis Valley in the east to Vancouver Island in the west, their work consisting principally of parish work, preaching Missions, teaching in St. Patrick's College in Ottawa, and the Indian Missions.

The Fathers are in charge of 17 Indian residential schools in British Columbia, the attendance ranging from 100 to 415 Indian children, and Father Sheehan, who had spent eight years along in these Indian Missions, related some interesting experiences. The Oblates have two kinds of members, priests and lay brothers. Since last August the property owned by the Order on Waupoos Island has been converted into a novitiate for lay brothers and at present there are six brother novices in residence, their work and manner of living as related by the speaker, proving a most inspiring subject. Father Sheehan was tendered a hearty vote of thanks by Mrs. R. Collins.

Rev. Father Brown from Waupoos was also introduced by Mrs. Boyd, and he compared the beauties of Prince Edward County with Ireland, and said he had been coming back and forth for seven years to look after their property on the island. Mrs. A. McFee graciously thanked him. Refreshments were later served by Mrs. McFee and her committee.

Anti Tank Officers Hold Valentine Party

Upwards of fifty couples enjoyed the hospitality of the officers' mess of the 9th Anti Tank Regiment R.C.A. (A.I.L.) at the annual St. Valentine's Day Saturday evening.

Major Everett S. Fairman, regimental second-in-command and Mrs. Fairman represented Lieut. Col. H. E. Warwick, commanding officer and Mrs. Warwick, of Gananoque.

Dancing was held in the prettily-decorated main lecture room leading from the mess proper, music supplied by the Mellowtones orchestra.

A delectable buffet luncheon was served members and guests at 11:30 under the supervision of mess president, Major Jack Clarke.

Karen Masters Queen of Hearts At Sodality Ball

One of the highlights of the winter season, the eagerly-awaited Queen of Hearts Ball, was held on Wednesday last at the Club Commodore. A capacity crowd was present to enjoy the very danceable music of the Commodores, in an appropriate Valentine setting.

Mr. Richard Barrett, as master of ceremonies, welcomed the guests on behalf of St. Michael's Sodality.

During the evening several novelty dances were featured. Winners of the spot dances were: Eleanor Boyce and Bob Alyes; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Green; Barbara Morton and Bob Kitchen; John Trudeau and Barbara Buston. The balloon dance was won by Mr. and Mrs. James McKenzie.

The climax of the evening came with the announcement that the moment had arrived to choose the Queen of Hearts. Gradually dancers were eliminated to the last couple, Miss Karen Masters and Mr. John Garvin. Miss Masters was then proclaimed Queen of Hearts for 1954, and was presented with a bouquet of Amaryan Beauty roses by His Worship, Mayor Bolt. To the strains of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," the lovely queen and her escort waltzed by, and the seated crowd spontaneously broke into the words of the song, and then into a round of enthusiastic applause.

Sodality president, Miss Helen Hudon, and her capable assistants, are to be congratulated on this delightful dance, which is becoming one of the most popular events of the winter season.

White Elephant Sale Held By Neighbors' Aid

A white elephant sale, with Mrs. E. Windover acting as auctioneer, provided an interesting program for the February meeting of the Avondale Neighbors' Aid, and added a substantial sum to the treasury.

This interesting meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. M. Smith, Holgate Road, with 30 members present.

The president, Mrs. A. Daniels announced the appointment of Mrs. S. Lough and Mrs. Thompson to the property committee. A monthly birthday draw, with Mrs. F. Boulton being the February winner, was held.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. L. Reid and Mrs. W. Denyes, who were responsible for the program.

Refreshments were served by Mesdames Foote, Frederick, May and White assisted by the hostess, concluded a happy, neighborly gathering.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HE LIKES MOVIES, SHE LIKES TO DANCE—THEY GO TO THE MOVIES

Is it possible to make an unreasonable person see reason? That is the problem which confronts a very young wife in connection with her husband's attitude on recreation.

She writes:

"I am an 18-year-old wife and mother with a problem.

"Before we married, my husband would take me to dances in our home town, and he seemed to enjoy them as much as I did. But since we married, he never takes me anywhere but to the movies, and never to any but western films. I don't care for movies anyhow, but I go just to please him. If he would only take me to see a picture that wasn't a Western once in a while, it wouldn't be quite so bad, but he won't.

"If I speak of going to a dance, he gets angry and says he doesn't want to see other men hugging his wife, or else he says it costs too much. Actually, it would cost only a few cents more than the movie tickets, and those few extra cents we would spend anyhow buying popcorn and candy in the movies. We go to the movies two or three times a week, and either his mother or my mother keeps the baby, which I'm sure they would do just the same if we wanted to go dancing occasionally. I wouldn't want to go more than once a month.

"Miss Fairfax, I am an easy person to get along with, but I think if I have to go to many more Western movies I will scream. Perhaps you will think I am selfish, as some do, but I think my husband and I ought to take turns being good to each other, don't you?"

To that question, I don't see how there could be more than one answer. Could any reasonable person possibly say anything but "Yes" to it?

SELFISH, UNREASONABLE

But the trouble is, of course that this young woman's husband isn't reasonable. And besides being unreasonable, he is also extremely selfish: unreasonable in refusing to permit her the kind of recreation she enjoys, and selfish in insisting that their recreation should consist solely of the sort of thing he himself enjoys.

I wonder if this young wife has ever tried to talk her problem over with either one of the mothers who baby-sit for them when they go to the movies her husband picks out? Is she referring to either one or both of the mothers when she says that "some" think her selfish because she would like to have her wishes considered now and then? If she hasn't taken it up with one or the other of these two—whichever is broadminded enough to be able to look at things from both points of view—then I think she should do so at once. A little suggestion from someone besides herself might influence this young man.

Something else she might quietly try to arrange would be to have some young couple whom they both like call up some time—I suggest the man call this girl's husband—and suggest that all four of them go dancing together. I can't imagine any young man being so disagreeable as to refuse to go along with such a suggestion from friends, and I think it would be well worth trying.

And one more thing. Might it not be possible for this young wife to try to get her husband interested in one or two other activities in addition to going to the movies or to dance? Must they limit their recreation so narrowly? Aren't there some things that go on in their town in which they could take part so that they would spend occasional evenings enjoying themselves with a group of other young people? To mingle with others of his own age might help very much. One thing that would draw this young husband a bit out of his rut and gradually develop in him a more normal attitude.

All these suggestions are things which might be called an indirect approach to the problem. But can see that to approach it directly either by appealing to her husband's consideration for her, or by arguing and pleading with him to think of her pleasure occasionally, has got this wife nowhere. I hope she will try out these ideas and let me know if any one of them succeeds.

Answers to Readers' Letters

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I am asking you to tell me what is wrong with the following recipe for Mock Angel Food. . . also my recipe for cream puffs which do not seem to puff out and are not hollow.—Joyce M. F.

ANSWER:

I did not reprint the recipes you outlined, nor do I want to criticize them for they may be recipes from food editors that I know. Consequently I will give you my tested recipes for both the products you mention.

MOCK ANGEL FOOD

(Only egg whites are used in this cake—no whole eggs as you mentioned in your recipe.) Sift cake flour and lightly measure 1 1-3 cups and sift it four times with 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt. Slowly and thoroughly stir into them 2-3 cup hot (not boiling) milk—this takes about 2 minutes. Add 1 teaspoon almond flavoring or vanilla. Beat 2 egg whites until stiff and fold into the batter until just mixed—as you describe in your recipe. Bake in greased or ungreased tube pan at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 20 or 25 minutes. This cake is like angel food but not as tender and must be used up quickly as soon as it is cold. If it toughens on standing, it does not rise evenly try raising the temperature to 385 deg. for your oven may be registering a little low.

CREAM PUFFS

One-half cup butter, 1 cup boiling water, 4 medium-sized eggs, 1 cup stirred but not sifted flour. Heat together the water and butter to boiling point, and add flour all at once, remove from heat and stir until smooth and mixture leaves sides of pan. Add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, stirring vigorously until smooth between each addition. Drop by tablespoonfuls on buttered baking sheet, 1 1-2 inches apart, making them circular and slightly piled. Bake at 475 deg. Fahr. for first 12 minutes, then reduce heat to 400 deg. They require about 30 minutes. To test, take one from oven. If it does not collapse all are baked. When cold slit at sides to admit whipped cream or cream filling.

LETTER:

I read with interest your answer to a correspondent concerning her proposed visit to England. I have lived in Canada for six years now and was home in England for seven months in 1951, and believe me there has never been any shortage of herbs and spices. Fresh "pot-herbs" may be bought in most greengrocers all through the year, or canned ones such as we used here, purchased at any time. Canned salmon is in exceedingly short supply—only two allotments per year to the grocer and of course, established customers come first. Canned butter, shortening, almond and chicken, also lard, would be the best things to take, as there is a plentiful supply of dried fruit now. Cakes, mixes, jello powders, all these are plentiful and the candy in England is of far higher quality than any I have tasted here, particularly the distinct specialties such as Windermere toffee, Kendal mint cakes, Doncaster butter drops, to speak of only a few. . . by the way do urge your correspondent to visit Bury Knowe in England, they are so much better and cheaper than here, also sweaters and other garments of wool, particularly children's clothes, but to buy her lingerie, nylons etc., over here, also any textiles etc., of the new fibres, as they are not as well-known in Britain.—Marjorie H.

ANSWER:

Thank you Marjorie. I know this will be helpful to many more travellers than Mrs. Tinling. It was most enlightening to desk-bound me.

QUESTION:

Thank you so much for the nice personal note. I do love those children of yours and enjoy their activities and yours as much as the recipes. One problem that at present is bothering me is this —my husband and I are invited to a pot luck supper at the church. We are new members and I hate to confess to anybody I had never attended one of these affairs before. . . I was told to bring anything. . . what can I take that will be expensive?—Helen F.

ANSWER:

I have omitted some of your letter but your candor is so refreshing Helen. . . . Once I took to a Pot Luck Supper my biggest casserole full of hot scalloped potatoes on top of which I had baked overlapping slices of smoked ham and two 4-inch disks I managed to get a whole pound on. I did this because the servings were small, everybody who wanted to taste could have one and sample the potatoes underneath too. Everybody wants to sample everybody else's contribution. A meat loaf is a good thing too—but be sure it is a beauty—for your reputation stands or falls on this kind of a do. Take what you make the very best, and looks attractive.

HOW TO THANK SHOWER HOSTESSES

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I am to be married soon. Several of my dearest friends have given showers for me in these past weeks. What should I do to show my appreciation for these showers? I am wondering if I should give a present to each hostess?

Hildah M.

Of course you say a most appreciative "Thank you" to the hostess when you are leaving after leaving after the shower. Then a day or two afterward, you should write her a little note of thanks, perhaps enclosing this in a box of flowers or with a corsage. And naturally, when you begin to entertain in your new home, these dear and thoughtful friends should be among the first guests to be invited.

Holland Waits Behind Freshly Patched Seawall

By HARRY UITENBAAK

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Behind its freshly patched seawall, Holland waits.

Sooner day anxious eyes scan the dikes and watch the seas. This is the time of year when the storm-lashed North Sea strikes its heaviest blows. When will the next one come?

Will the dikes hold this time? Or will they yield again as they did a year ago, when hurricane-whipped seas crashed the barriers along the southwestern coast, inundated 400,800 acres, damaged or destroyed 1,500 people, wrought damage of about $300,000,000 in Holland worked feverishly to plug the 67 major breaches and 600 smaller gaps torn out of its dikes.

When the job was finally completed, hundreds of miles of dikes stood in thankful prayer. Sirens wailed, church bells rang and flags were unfurled as the happy news sped through the country: "De dyk is dicht!" (The dike is closed).

But most people realized that their feeling of security was only temporary. Complete safety against the united enemy of dike and sea-level land lies in long-range, expensive plans.

Among these, the experts say, is the need for raising Holland's 1,200 miles of dikes another two or three feet. That would cost about $200,000,000 or more than one-fifth of the country's annual national income.

VARYING DEPTHS

Another plan being worked out by engineers provides for the building of 15 miles of huge diked or dams which would close up three of the big estuaries of the Holland delta. This would cost about $360,000,000 and involve complicated engineering problems since the mouths of the estuaries vary in depth from 60 to 120 feet and the tides have a rise and fall of 11 to 15 feet.

Special squads keep a 24 - hour watch over the new and repaired dikes, which still have to settle.

A communications system has been arranged whereby these patrols, should they spot an emergency anywhere, can flash the word immediately to dike, civil and military authorities. Depots of shovels and sandbags have been set up throughout the southwestern area.

Meanwhile, the country has slowly returned to an almost normal appearance. Of the 85,000 people who were evacuated last February, all but about 11,000 have returned to their homes.

GIGANTIC TASK

Most of the 400,000 acres which were flooded have been pumped dry but some areas still remain covered by a sheet of water. As the last break in the dike on the Island of Schouwen-Duiveland was closed in November, an official said: "All we have to do is pump about 80 billion gallons of North Sea and we have our land back again."

Much of this has been done, but more important the dikes along the 200-mile area which suffered the worst damage last year have been repaired. This, by itself, was a gigantic task.

Some of the breaks in the seawall were 1,500 feet wide — wide enough to float 10 ships the size of the Queen Mary through.

PROBLEMS INCREASING

HARROW (CP) — J. R. Cavers, of Guelph, told Essex county junior farmers research problems of the Ontario Agricultural College are increasing year by year. Mr. Cavers, connected with the department of poultry husbandry at the college, Thursday night addressed the eighth annual meeting of the Essex Junior Farm Club. He said college facilities and the number of persons engaged in research work there are increasing steadily.

CARVED STONES FOUND

KINGSTON (CP) — Mysterious carved stones have been discovered five miles east of here, Wallace Havelock Robb, Canadian poet and historical novelist, says that in his wooded retreat known as 'Abbey Dawn, he has found several stones with carvings similar to those found in Mexico. But no one knows whence they came.

Two Million Square Feet Of Floor to Be Swept Every Day at UN Headquarters

By A. L. GOLDBERG

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)— If you're tired of doing housework in shirt-sleeves, it may help to know of a place that has 2,000,000 square feet of floor to be swept every day and nearly seven miles of carpet to be vacuumed.

Or if your husband complains about washing the windows, tell him here's a building that has 5,400 of the double-lung variety to be washed every 40 days—inside and out.

On the other hand, there's a crew of 335 to do the dirty work —and dirty work it is to keep the United Nations buildings looking clean and shining.

Smoke and acid in the air make it a major project to keep a polish on the eight huge admiral-brass Canada donated for the entrance to the General Assembly building. They're dulled within 24 hours.

Keeping clean the mammoth pool fronting the glass-and-marble skyscraper has become a losing battle. Built with the pennies and nickels of American school children, it's decorated in alternate bands of white and black stones—the latter from the Greek isle of Rhodes. But the soot and dirt made it impossible to keep the white stones white. Now they're going to be covered with a hard white paint in a last-ditch try to make them glisten again.

9,500 PANES OF GLASS

The clean-up job goes on nights and week-ends, as well as on the day when 11,000 visitors, employees and delegates troop in and out of the 39-storey secretariat, the scraper and the world-famed assembly.

The 25-foot-high plate glass window walls in each of the council chambers, conference rooms, delegates' lounges and public lobbies must be washed down with special equipment. There are also 45-foot picture windows in the south end of the General Assembly building and 210-foot high windows in the north and which require constant attention.

Glass doors have to be washed several times a day. There are 9,500 panes of glass in partitions to be done on rainy days.

Nearly seven miles of draperies and curtains have to be cleaned periodically. At least 294,000 venetian blind slats have to be dusted, and 8,000 upholstered chairs need cleaning occasionally.

Much of the UN work is done by hired crews, although the UN may take on its own cleaning work some day.

GARAGES SANDED

But it has on its maintenance staff five upholsterers to patch worn or cigarette-burned furniture covering and broken chair legs and arms.

The floors of the UN underground garages are sanded and cleaned every night to remove all that employees might otherwise track into the other buildings.

Another chore each day is to sterilize 500 water jugs and 1,500 water glasses. Sterilizing tablets or cubes so that every UN delegate will have a glass of cool water in front of him.

The gardeners have to care for 20 varieties of plants inside the building, washing them leaf by leaf, giving them special plant food, moving them in and out of dark rooms. Plants even get sun-violet light to make up for the sunshine they miss. Outside there are 1,500 rose bushes and 163 flowering Japanese cherry trees.

Fifteen Million and Five Thousand . . .

. . . was Canada's official population on December 1, 1953. On December 1st, 1889 . . . the day Mr. A. E. Ames started its business . . . Canada's population was about four and a half million. Much has happened since then. Canada has grown and continues to grow.

It shows up in every part of the economy . . . our population is nearly three and a half times what it was in 1889 . . . Canada now is one of the world's largest industrial nations and ranks fourth in world trade. Financial resources have increased tremendously . . . over five billion dollars are on deposit in savings accounts alone compared with only a few million sixty-five years ago.

This development requires energetic people to work in the woods . . . in mining . . . on farms . . . in industry . . . It requires initiative, courage and capital.

One of the important things about this growth is that Canadians, new and old, are beginning to realize just how rich this country is. And more and more Canadians who want to participate financially in its growth are doing so . . . by going into business for themselves . . . by lending their savings to industry or to public bodies through the purchase of bonds . . . by "buying into" well managed Canadian companies through the purchase of their shares.

When it comes to participating through the purchase of bonds and shares, we can do a good deal to help. We can help you "investigate before you invest" . . . If you like, we can help plan a programme to guide your future investment steps . . . we can help check the soundness of what you now have . . . and, of course, we can help with the actual purchase of securities. It's all part of our business.

Experienced, helpful people are available in any of our offices. You will be welcome whether you call in person or by mail.

By the way, we still have a few copies of a new, interesting booklet, "To Help You Share In Canada's Growth." If you would like one, just let us know.

Oil Company Will Drill From Steel, Gravel, Cement Isle

SEAL BEACH, Calif. (AP)—An oil company expects to start boring into the ocean floor a mile and a half out from this Southern California community in about seven weeks.

Monterey Oil Co. will be drilling from a $1,500,000 steel, gravel and concrete island it is building for the purpose. The man-made island is the first like it on the Pacific coast.

A steel drum 75 feet in diameter and 70 feet tall has been set up on the ocean floor. The ocean is 45 feet deep at this point, so the drum extends 25 feet above the surface. It was laid down in interlocking sections.

The drum, its steel skin more than an inch thick, has been filled with gravel to within five feet of the top. On top of this gravel, concrete is being poured to provide a working platform with the top of the drum.

The outside of the drum is banked with breakwater-type boulders to steady it from the ocean's sway.

After the concreting job is done, "smart and dock will be built alongside the drum on pilings."

"Then we start moving our equipment to the island," said E. E. Fyles, Monterey vice-president. "Our guess is that we'll start drilling some time the early part of April."

Running down through the gravel to the ocean floor are three so-called conductor pipes through which the drill pipes will be lowered.

"We'll build three wells, if the first one is any good," Fyles explained.

Four billion barrels of oil—more than 1-10th of estimated United States reserves—are estimated to be under California's tidal waters.

Congress Party Faces Strongest Test in Elections

By IAN FAWCETT

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — The Congress party which governs India faces its strongest challenge yet from the Communists today when 4,000,000 citizens of the southern state of Travancore-Cochin go to the polls to elect a new state assembly.

It will be the most important election since Britain granted India independence in 1947. The state balloting shows for the first time a line-up of Communists and other left-wingers united in a concerted bid to oust the Congress party, headed by Prime Minister Nehru.

Nehru is confident of the election's outcome and has predicted that his party will win "by a thundering majority."

If Congress does win that kind of majority, it will deal a staggering blow to the Communist set-up in India.

But anything short of that, even a weakened majority, will mean a set-back for Congress. Such a set-back may drive thousands more Indians into the Communist fold and will certainly give the Communist party an incentive for fighting other state elections which are coming up soon.

ELECTORAL PLOT

The threat to Congress is made all the stronger in this election by an electoral pact which the Communists and Socialists have hatched. They have agreed to set aside their political differences and to fight the election together with the sole purpose of ousting Nehru's party.

The contesting parties for the 117 seats in the state assembly are Congress, the united left-wing front (Communists, Revolutionary Communists, and Kerala Socialists) and the Praja Socialists.

Congress is contesting all but one seat, the United Front 35, the Praja Socialists 37.

There are also 47 Independents running.

The political alliance between the Praja Socialists and the Communists is being used by Congress as the strongest plank in its political platform.

Congress speakers have argued in this month's vigorous campaigning that such a loose marriage can only result in an unstable government. The Communists and the Socialists, who have not been particularly leftist in the past, will be unable to agree on a common policy, they assert.

The Communists are basing their appeal on solving the unemployment problem, reducing land taxes and providing wider education. The Praja Socialists are following much the same line.

Terry Sawchuk Tied With Leafs' Harry Lumley In Race For Vezina Trophy

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

TWO IN A ROW!

That victory in Orillia Friday night was no flash in the pan, kiddies, and don't think for one minute that the Pontiacs were slack in their efforts to stop the scrambling Memos in their dying bid for a playoff berth. Saturday night's proved that the Smith-Doran crew are better than an equatorial sun at the moment, for they unleashed an offensive that netted them the biggest scoring jackpot of the season. Gad, men, sixteen goals in two nights, and coming at the tail-end of a four-game week.

The Memos were not to be denied. All of them played good hockey going both ways, with Keith MacDonald coming up with his best game of the season. The fleet winger clubbed himself a goal and his penalty-killing was an outstanding effort. Jake Wade, Vern Goyer and the rest of the crew, including Don Barclay in the nets, turned in a swell performance and were full value for the win.

Two Belleville goalies were at work at the same time, when Shropshire, Pontiacs' goalie, wrenched a knee early-in-the-game. Indian Heads did not bring a spare goalie and Kellie Sarrault was rushed into the breach. The tall blond-haire marked the occasion by whipping two clean-cut goals past him that Lumley or McNeill would have missed.

There is head-scratching going on down Kingston way for the Reddenville crew absorbed an 8-1 shellacking at the hands of the Oshawa Truckmen Saturday night and that puts the Motor City crew on an even keel again with the Peterborough Petes at the head of the class. Both have 46 points with the Ponties and Goodyears tied with 38. Our side has 28 points, seven behind the third-placers.

The Goodyears are here tomorrow night in what should be the most important game of the season for both teams. The Memos must win this one if they want to grab that playoff berth, and Kingston needs it almost as bad. It should be a dilly of a battle with plenty at stake.

"RED MEETS RED"

"Red" Doran will shake hands with "Red" Doran here next Friday night when the National Hockey League Old-Timers clash in their hockey battle at Memorial Arena. "Red" is no relation of "Red" and the only similarity is the color of their thatches.

Jack "Red" Doran was born in this city and is coming to "play in my old home town" where he learned his hockey. His brother, we are told, of Frank "Oliver" Doran who also played hockey here several years ago.

"Jack the Red" played junior hockey for West Toronto before going on to the New York Americans and later the Hershey Bears.

Incidentally Dick Beare informs us that the south end of Memorial Arena is not being reserved for the big game and 400 seats will go on sale on the night of the tussle. The box office will open at 7.30.

GOOD LITTLE TEAM

Rene Fyear's smart little juvenile "C" squad, wearing the colors of Stirling shape up as being one of the best teams of its either in the district or province. Combined a brilliant display before a capacity arena on Saturday to defeat the Campbellford team 11-4 in the first game of their first-round OMHA playdowns. The teams meet in Campbellford tonight.

Gerry and Milton McGhee, puckchasing brothers, flashed fine efforts in the Saturday win with Gerry good for three goals and Milton hitting the bemp a pair. Hermiston and Bobby Palmer also counted twice in a fine effort.

PONTERS HOT SQUAD:

Elzic Anderson's Point Anne squad, which at the moment looks like pole cat of the Trent Valley Hockey League, if statistics to date can be judged a criterion, meet the iron Dukes from Wellington tonight in Memorial Arena. The Ox Pioneers fashioned a neat but scrappy win over the fighting Bata squad here Friday night, edging the Shoemen by a goal with the clock ticking off the final seconds in the overtime period.

Tonight's tilt with the Wellington crew marks the end of schedule play for both teams, with the final game of the season's schedule being played Wednesday night between Trenton RCAF and Bata on the latter's ice.

Playoff dates will likely be named by secretary C. Nobes, of Marmora when the Trent Valley faithful can look forward again to some exciting tussles before the league champion is declared. Marmora Millionaires are at present leading the northern division.

Racks Up Shutout Number 10 As Wings Blank Hawks 5-0; Leafs Tie With Habs, Rangers

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Injured defencemen may help give Terry Sawchuk hockey's most prized goaltending award.

Sawchuk, a sticky fellow with fast reflexes and strong hands, is back in a tie with Toronto Maple Leafs' Harry Lumley for the Vezina trophy, top award for goalkeepers in the National Hockey League. Ever since injuries struck the Leaf defence, Lumley's goal average has been going up.

Sawchuk picked up ground during the week-end as his Detroit Red Wings scored five goals in the first period and walked off with a blank-place Chicago Black Hawks 5-0. It gave Terry his 10th shutout of the 1953-54 season and reduced his mathematical chance the Hawks had for the Stanley Cup playoffs.

LEAD WIPED OUT

Lumley had his lead wiped out when the Leafs were held to a 2-2 tie by Montreal Canadiens Saturday and a 3-3 deadlock by New York Rangers Sunday.

That left Lumley with a goal average of 1.72 a game in 54 starts. Sawchuk is at 1.73 in 55.

There were two other games during the week-end. Saturday the Rangers were blanked 1-0 by the fourth-place Bruins in Boston. The Bruins came back Sunday with a 4-1 victory over the Canadiens.

Sawchuk's shutout by the Wings for the last two seasons, made 38 stops for his shutout. The victory also gave the Wings a three-point lead over the Leafs, who moved into second place with their tie against the Rangers before 12,109 fans.

Gordie Howe scored two goals to lead Detroit scorers. Marcel Pronovost, Glen Skov and Johnny Wilson tallied the other Detroit goals.

Max Bentley's goal at 17.58 of the third period gave the New Yorkers their tie.

BATTLE FROM BEHIND

The Leafs had to battle from behind early in the game. The Rangers went in front 2-0 on Max's first goal in the first period and another by Nick Mickoski in the second. Morrison and Fred Smith evened it up by beating goaltender Johnny Bower in the second period and Tod Sloan put the Leafs up 3-2 in the third.

The Leafs were enjoying a 2-0 edge in Toronto Saturday when Canadiens knotted it up in the score. A sellout crowd of 14,581, the biggest of the season at Maple Leaf Gardens, saw rookie Jean Beliveau and veteran Elmer Lach tie it up for the Montrealers. Ezio Nesterenko and defenceman Tim Horton fired the Leaf goals.

The Canadiens were feeling the loss of goaltender Gerry McNeil, forward Jacques Plante and defenceman Dollard St. Laurent. All three are out with injuries and the Montrealers brought up Jacques Plante to fill in for McNeil. He made 21 stops and had no chance on the two goals that beat him. Canadiens scored three times in Sunday as a crowd of 9,463 fans saw the Bruins score three times in the third period to take the game.

HOWE, FOLEY FOR BOSTON

Doug Mohns, Joe Klukay and Fleming Mackell tallied for Boston in the third period. Goalie Claude Gardner sent Boston into a 1-0 lead in the first frame. Bert Olmstead tied it up on a play with Maurice Richard and Bud Macpherson in the second.

Netminder Sugar Jim Henry turned aside 32 Montreal drives. Plante handled 21 from the Bruins.

At Boston, Leo Labine scored while the Rangers were a man short to give Bruins their victory Saturday. It was Henry's fifth shutout.

A double penalty to Dean Prentice of the Rangers in the second period gave Boston the advantage. Labine took a pass from Dave Creighton and beat Bower with a 25-footer.

One game is scheduled for tonight. The Hawks, who have won only 10 games in 56 starts, travel to Detroit.

Assumption Nips Varsity Hoopsters

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Assumption College Purple Raiders turned back a terrific last-quarter rally by University of Toronto Blues Saturday to score a 59-56 victory in a senior Intercollegiate basketball league game before 1,000 fans.

$2,706.58 in the bank at the end of 1953, it had $5,182.63 at the same time the previous year. A motion by the Sudbury association which would have prohibited a player transferring from one team to another in the same league was defeated.

Guelph Juniors Withdrawn from Ice; Coach Pike Faces Year's Suspension

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Club executives who order their teams to withdraw from the ice in the middle of games are going to get the full wrath of the axe, hockey officials announced Sunday night.

The "get-tough" announcement followed the second incident in three days when Ontario Hockey Association Junior A team quit in the middle of a game.

On Friday, Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts skated off the ice during an interlocking series with Jonquiere Marquis of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association in Jonquiere.

Sunday Guelph Biltmores, on the short end of a 7-2 score, decided it quits with two minutes and 2 seconds of the game with Toronto Marlboros remaining.

All disputes in interlocking games are handled by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. All-Ontario games fall under the rule of the OHA.

Both the CAHA and the OHA are agreed on the penalty. Only the report and evidence is necessary.

CAHA regulations say: "If a team is withdrawn from the ice, fails to go on the ice and start play—within two minutes when ordered to do so by the referee in charge—the game or series shall be forfeited to the opposing team. The manager, coach or official of the club which is responsible for any of these actions shall be automatically suspended for one year from the date of the infraction without the right of appeal."

The game between Marlboros and the Biltmores ended just after a brawl between Marlboro right-winger Gerry James and Guelph's Bill Graham. Jones received a minor penalty for cross checking and a five-minute major for fighting. Graham received a fighting major.

Coach Pike, apparently unhappy with the referee's decision, withdrew his team to the dressing room. Referee Jack Hogan pulled the watch and at the end of two minutes awarded the game to Marlboros.

Tony Gregg, president of the OHA, said from his home in Wingham Sunday night that Pike is certain to get a year's suspension if the referee's report indicates that he refused to allow his team to continue the game.

W. B. George, president of the CAHA, expressed the same sentiments about Friday's game between Richelieu and Jonquiere.

"The suspension is automatic of course. Whoever pulled the Kitchener team off the ice will be suspended."

The abbreviated Guelph-Marlboro contest Sunday was followed by Chatham, Ont., and Stratford, Ont., in an interlocking game with the Reds as Paul Knox and Brian Anderson fired two each for the Collegians. Others went to Jack Caffery, Ken Linseman and Ken Gribbons. Jean Cossette scored the only goal for Trois-Rivieres.

Memos Hand Orillia Decisive 10-3 Drubbing For Second Straight Win

Cling to Last Playoff Hope With Brilliant Exhibition; Pontiacs Goalie Badly Hurt

By ROYD UPTER

Belleville Memos, striving desperately to keep alive their mathematical chances for the fourth and last playoff position in the Senior "B" group, overwhelmed Orillia Pontiacs 10-3 in Memorial Arena Saturday night.

It was the Memos' second victory over the Pontiacs in as many nights. Friday evening they downed them 6-2 in Orillia.

The Memos, going all out from the first whistle, earned the victory as they outfought and outplayed the thoroughly beaten Pontiacs.

The locals, showing an unusual degree of finesse around the Orillia goal, mounted several sustained power plays and made goalie Strophoryk's tenure in the nets completely miserable.

Shropshire had to leave the game with suspected torn knee cartilage at 3.18 of the third period with the score 8-3 for the Memos. Rollie Sarault, sitting out the evening while Barclay toiled in goal for Belleville was loaned to Pontiacs for the remainder of the game.

However, when Sarault went into the game it was already too late for Orillia and the two goals he let past were the result of the same smooth passing combinations that had baffled Shropshire eight times previously.

Referee Moe Walsh and Moon Flanagan ruled with firmness as they doled out a total of 14 minor penalties, 10 of them in the first period with seven of the 10 going to the Pontiacs. The harsh treatment was probably one of the main reasons why the Pontiacs got started out like a war, cooled off somewhat later on.

The game was only a minute and two seconds old when both sides had two men in the penalty box for instance on the penalty plank for hooking, tripping, charging and holding.

PONTIACS SCORE FIRST

Bruno Favero opened the scoring for Orillia at 4.06 from Ross Chuk and Grigg at 1.37. Big Vern Goyer, who was a tower of strength on the ice all evening took a pass from DesRoches at 8.32 seconds later and fired a shot past Shropshire out of the net shovelled in the equalizer.

Keith MacDonald rapped in Duke Doran's pass out from the corner at 4.01 and Vern finished off a neat passing play from Jake Wade and Erwin Duncan for his second goal at 6.14. DesRoches netted in the Pontiacs second goal at 13.20 with a shoulder-high drive from the blue line that clinched over Barclay's glove, rolled down his back and bounced off the big lip of the net. The chopped up, ragged first period ended with the Memos in front 3-2.

However, perseverance paid off at 9.32 in the second period when Orillia's Richardson steered Erwin Duncan's rebound past Shropshire.

With Orillia on the 58.4 second penalty Duke Doran scored from Erwin Duncan and Jake Wade three minutes later, with Shewchuk off for clipping. Day rifled home a pass from Rip Ring to put the Memos in front 6-4. Ed Duncan scored on a pass from behind Erwin at 18.20 and the period ended with Belleville in front 7-4.

The Memos showing lots of team spirit and drive, were all over the Pontiacs in the third frame.

SARAULT TAKES OVER

The third period was not three minutes old when Wood scored the Pontiac fifth goal on a pass from McCrone. Duke Doran, set up beautifully by Pete Jones in front of the Pontiac goal faked Shropshire to his right and then rifled the puck into the lower left hand corner. Shropshire was injured on the play as a player sprawled over his outstretched leg and was assisted from the ice.

After a 15 minute delay Sarault came out to tend the twine for Orillia but was unable to prevent goalie Wade and DeGray as the Memos poured on the steam until the final whistle.

Duke Doran, with two goals and two assists, played an outstanding game for the Memos. Vern Goyer had two goals and an assist, Pete Jones three assists, the Doran brothers each had a goal and two assists, Wade, MacDonald, Day and DeGray counted the others in turning in superb two-way efforts.

Favero, Wood and DesRoches scored for Orillia in a lack lustre Pontiac performance.

QUEBEC (CP)—Manager Curly Davis of Kitchener Greenshirts said Sunday a letter of protest has been sent to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association in connection with a disputed, interlocking, first-period goal scored here with Jonquière Marquis of the Quebec Junior Hockey League.

The letter was addressed to CAHA president W. B. George of Shreveville, Ilo contents were not immediately known but the Ontario junior league team is expected to protest the goal, awarding a decision by referee Ken Mullens not to replace a goal judge.

Kitchener denied the Marquis set at about the same time as an identical blew in the Dutchies' goal. Long asked Mullins to replace the judge behind the Kitchener net, but the th official competent.

Long, who faces a possible one-game suspension under CAHA rules for calling his team off, was coaching the Greenshirts Sunday when they lost 7-3 to Quebec Frontenacs.

The Tarlton four beat Stan Sarjeant's Orillia rink 10-6 in the final Saturday after a seven-game round robin ended in a tie.

BANTAM

Gord Vaughan notched the winning goal for the Hawks with just ten seconds to play on a pass from Gary Lewis, his second assist of the morning. Bowbotham and James were the other two goal-getters while Quinn drawing lead one helper. Galpin and Kvarda scored for the Habs with assists for Kverda, Anstiss—and Lucas.

Cameron led the Rangers to victory with two goals, while Alyea and Kerniah had all single-tons. Caddick assisted on two.

The Bruins took an early 1-0 lead in their game only to have Bernard Boulter score three goals in a row for the Leafs. They came back to life in time to bang in the two tying goals and that's the way it ended. Brennan and MacDonald had assists for the Leafs while the Bruin scorers were Boomhower, Hill and Thornton. Moreen had two assists and Fuller one.

PEE-WEE

Herb Pointer had a pair for the Hawks with Benn and Moore also scoring. Duggan had one assist. Ted Romsky and Durrant each scored for the Canadians.

Jim Sheridan notched all three of the Wings' goals in their win while Follwell and Lattimer hit the bemp for the Rangers.

The Bruins were led by Jack Boulter claiming two markers, while Lewis and Westfall got the others. Potter and Westfall had assists. Everett Keller scored for the Leafs.

Movie Column

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jane Russell has declared her independence and signed up for what could be the best role of her career.

The bodacious brunette was swimming under water in the RKO tank when I saw her this week. She came out of the water, shed her breathing tank, swim fins and goggles and announced that she also has dispensed of her Hughes connection with Howard Hughes.

As of now, she is a free agent, although she might sign a one-picture-a-year deal with RKO. She has some arrange that she will not be able to find work. Silly girl.

She is all set for one of the leads of "Gigi and Lolly," which William Goetz will produce for a Columbia release. Her leading man will be none other than Clark Gable. Betty Grable will play Miss Adelaide and another top star is destined for the role of Nathan Detroit. Bob Hope maybe.

"But the interesting part is that my husband will follow Bill Goetz around like a bird dog during the production, asking him why he does this and why he does that," she added. Her husband is Robert Waterfield, formerly of pro football. The reason for his apprentice-ship is that the Waterfields have formed their own production company, Russ-Field.

Gilbert Roland, Jane's co-star in "The Big Rainbow," also has plans of his own. He is anxious to begin work on "Blood on the Horns," the story of his bull-fighting father. He already has a script from Niven Busch, who wrote "Duel in the Sun."

Horse Sense Bridge

BY SAM GORDON
The Bridge Athlete

Bridge has a way of repeating itself in unusual plays. The cards or the distribution may be different. But the general plan of operation falls into the few familiar categories.

The vast majority of contracts can be handled by the simplest principles of play. A small percentage, however, are in what most players consider the difficult class.

Among those classed as difficult is the 'squeeze play. This is merely an operation that is used against an opponent who is trying to protect two suits. He is squeezed into unguarding them.

There was the deal shown here:

NORTH

♥A 5

♣K J 4 3 2

SOUTH
♠A Q J 5 3
♥K 2
♦A 5 3
♣9 6 5

The south player became declarer at a small slam contract of six spades. The opening lead from west was his singleton diamond. It looks as if declarer must lose two clubs.

With no seeming way of saving the club losers otherwise, the squeeze plan of play is the only hope. Timing and preservation of entries are always essential to the success of this type of play.

Diamond ace in south hopped up on the first trick. Return of a diamond and ruffed high in dummy. A trump entered south. Again was a diamond ruffed high in dummy and a trump got south in again.

On two more trump rounds, dummy flung a couple of clubs and the west hand was left with three clubs and three hearts. A club from south was finessed with the jack and lost to the east queen.

If east returns a diamond, south will ruff and west is squeezed. Actually, east returned his lone heart that south king won. Now the last trump was led by south and west is in a squeeze.

If he gives up a club, declarer gets two clubs and heart ace. If west gives up a heart, declarer gets two hearts and club ace. A squeeze will yelp when it pinches the other fellow.

Stirling Defeats Campbellford 11-4 In Series Opener

Paced by the McGee brothers, Gerry and Milton, who scored three and two goals respectively, the Stirling juvenile "C" entry defeated Campbellford 11-4 Saturday night in the first game of their goals-to-count series.

The game was played before a capacity-packed arena in Stirling. The second and third game of the series is scheduled for Campbellford tonight.

The Stirling youngsters flashed into a four-goal lead in the first period and added three more in the second before the Campbellford team found the net. They struck for three more in the third period before the visitors came to scoring life and banged home three goals in a row before Parks fired home the final Stirling tally in the dying moments of the game.

Gerry McGee spearheaded the Stirling attack with a trio of markers with brother Milton good for a pair. Fermiston, Bobby Palmer, were also good for two each with Ross Parks and Knapton also scoring.

The game was cleanly played with Referee Bill Mulholland and Ralph Vandervoort handing out but four penalties.

Doer was the best for Campbellford, scoring two goals and getting an assist. Garvey and Scott scored the others.

AT THE BELLE—Clark Gable and Ava Gardner are the stars of Mogambo", M.G.M.'s thrill-packed Technicolor romance, filmed in Africa on a spectacular safari. Grace Kelly is the other woman in the flaming jungle love story. The picture opens today at the Belle. It's the first time at a regular theatre that Clark Gable and Ava Gardner, a Cavalcade of Stars combination, have appeared together.

AT THE CAPITOL—June Allyson, winner of more national and fan magazine popularity polls than any other Hollywood personality, makes her latest appearance on the Capitol screen in M.G.M.'s Technicolor musical "Battle Circus" in which she co-stars with Humphrey Bogart. Miss Allyson is pictured behind the Korean front. And on the same program in color by Technicolor "Summer Stock" starring Judy Garland, Gene Kelly, Phil Silvers and Marjorie Main. See both at these M.G.M. hits on our Giant Curved Screen.

AT THE MCCARTHY—Edward G. Robinson, a menace in 3-dimensions, gives John Forsythe and Marcia Henderson the shock of their lives in Universal-International's "The Glass Web" now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Kathleen Hughes, fourth member of the all-star cast, plays the siren whose wiles lead to murder.

AT THE CAPITOL—Marjorie Main co-stars in "Summer Stock", M.G.M.'s color by Technicolor musical with Judy Garland and Gene Kelly. On the Capitol screen opening tonight. The raucous voiced Miss Main has one of her hilarity-high roles as a farm cook who has designs on the romance of Judy and Gene. Also co-starring are sterling Hollywood players and June Allyson. Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, FEB. 16, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Be steady in procedure; avoid emotional outbursts, hasty action. Being impulsive gets one into "hot water" often. Today needs calm reasoning and intelligence.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Because familiar work may seem most fruitful and easiest to handle, do not neglect other worthy interests. You may do wonders with new materials, in fields, with new contacts. Try.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — A test day, both personally and in business. Check yourself as well as others. There are always possible ways of improving, eliminating waste time, material.

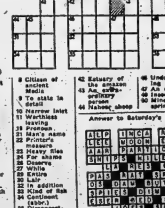
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Today's influences lean toward mental rather than physical activities. Be alerted to all moods in professional, business or home matters for they can change without warning.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Less interesting and responsive to some than to others. You will be smart to be cautious albeit cheerful. Greatest achievement possible in routine matters, home and social affairs.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Duties and emergencies have the green light. Adherence to right principles are as important as ever today. Be appreciative of gains.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Trying to assess today's values may find you out on a limb if you don't look well below the surface. Be sure you're right before you're positive.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)— Aim as high as you can but remember your capacities and limitations, too. If effort fails short, you will at least have gained knowledge, advancement through worthy endeavor.



November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Exaggerating the scope of your ability may be unintentional, but it could be harmful and set you back considerably. Know what you are about and concentrate in order to succeed.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Planetary aspects similar to Scorpio now. However you Capricorn natives are often more economical, and this quality should be stressed now. Analyze well before acting.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Personal matters may dominate your day and influence your follow - through procedure. Study schedules and be informed on each item or problem for best results.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Most business and work-a-day tasks present some problems. Handle with firmness, composure and your usual efficiency. Then your chances will be better, results more satisfactory.

YOU BORN TODAY usually like the arts, science, organization work. You can reach high attainment applying self consistently. If you "go along with the crowd", there's no telling where you will go. It is up to you, to formulate plans carefully. And you can be a guide to the success of others, too. You can be stubborn and persistent, but are generous and untiring. Strike a happy medium; your ideas with those of others,

Art Critics Defend $20,000 Collections But Some Belittle Paintings of Canadian Cities

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Art critics across the country have come to the defence of a collection of contemporary Canadian art that cost more than $20,000 to buy.

But a few lined up behind the detractors of the $20,000 group of paintings.

The collection, scenes of 22 cities from St. John's to Victoria, goes on display today in Amsterdam. The reception has been good in most Latin American and European capitals where the paintings have been shown but they were panned in Stockholm and belittled by a critic at home.

The paintings were collected by the House of Seagram, a Montreal liquor firm, and sent on a 30,000-mile tour. Canadians had a glimpse of the paintings at a brief pre-tour display in Ottawa last spring but most people saw them only later this year when they will be shown in the cities the pictures portray.

POSTCARD ART

The Swedes last month called the paintings "brightly colored post cards" and said they were a "shot in a "whisky monument."

Henri Masson, Belgian-born Ottawa painter who considers himself "a near-modernist impressionist" called the collection "a major publicity stunt" and "a farce." The 67-year-old artist said his own paintings have been shown in Canada, used the word "modern" and called the collection "calendar picture" in an address before Ottawa's Richelieu Club.

The reply from Canadian artists and critics was prompt. Pitot of Montreal, president of the Royal Canadian Academy, was that the collection is a good one. The 2,500 paintings are good. Some, however qualified that the collection was considered the paintings "commercial" and not representative of Canadian art.

Mr. Pitot, whose society co-operated with Seagram in assembling the collection, said the artists chosen were "the most prominent among the most eminent in Canada."

"Therefore, when an individual in Ottawa in an address to the Richelieu Club uses such phrases as 'scandal,' 'a farce,' and this address is publicized throughout the country, it is a great disservice to the whole profession of painting in Canada," he said.

HAS TWO PAINTINGS

Mr. Pitot has two paintings in the collection, Sherbrooke and Kingston. The artist is a member with two is Franklin Arbuckle of Montreal, known for his drawings and illustrations, who painted Ottawa's Parliament Hill and the Vancouver waterfront scenes.

It took more than 18 months to organize and complete the collection. The average artist's fee was $1,000.

The House of Seagram remained out of the controversy but a spokesman said the firm has been interested for years in development of Canadian culture.

"It's most certainly worth an amount of money put into it," he said.

Samuel Bronfman of Montreal Seagram president, wrote a foreword for the booklet that accompanies the collection. He said the object of the tour was to carry abroad some glimpses of Canadian landscape and skyline and to promote understanding of Canada.

ESTABLISH RAPPORT

The foreword does not discuss the quality of the art but expresses the hope that the paintings will "establish a bond of familiarity with our urban life, and thus evoke a closer rapport between ourselves and the peoples of the world."

A. Y. Jackson of Toronto, whose painting of St.-Urbain's is part of the collection, said the idea behind it "was fine, because it's encouraging thing in every way."

Outside the circle of contributors Miss Norah McCullough of Regina, executive secretary of the Saskatchewan division of the Federation of Canadian Artists, said she had not seen the collection but thought the idea behind it was good.

"We have no wealthy art patrons today and subsidies from big firms are necessary," she said.

SOME COMMERCIAL ART

In Halifax, Cmdr. C. A. (Tony) Law, president of the Nova Scotia Art Association, said: "there were some paintings on the commercial side but these were offset by the work of other Canadian painters."

Jerrold Morris, curator of the Vancouver art gallery, said if the collection were sent to Vancouver he would display it.

"If any firm has taken the trouble to become a patron of artists, it is a good thing," he said.

John Sloan, director of Montreal's museum of fine arts, said he had not seen the collection but "artists usually welcome" assistance and Seagram's collection represents Royal Canadian Academy art by established painters."

Calgary, which Mr. Masson will visit later he teaches art at the Banff school of fine arts next July produced a little debate of its own on the merits of the collection.

Ken Ritchott, a member of the Alberta Society of Art whose work was recently shown in the national gallery's "Canadian painting, 1953" said Mr. Masson "is absolutely right."

"COMMERCIAL ASSIGNMENT"

Illingworth Kerr, president of the Alberta society, and vice-president Maxwell Bates, agreed that the collection is a "commercial assignment" and that it was "wrong indeed to send it to Europe to represent Canadian art."

Wes Irwin, professor of Calgary's Allied Arts centre, said many of the paintings are "undistinguished, commercial and uninteresting."

Mrs. Marion Nicoll, art teacher at the Alberta University of technology and art, said there was "no reason why conventional works of art should not tour as representative of Canadian art." J. D. Turner, owner of Calgary's Grosvenor gallery, thought Mr. Masson's remarks in bad taste.

Another Calgarian, A. F. Key, director of the Allied Arts Centre, said "the collection is a credit to provided it represents just scenes of Canadian cities. But should it represent mid-20th-century Canadian art, it is a failure."

When Mr. Masson, in an interview, amplified his remarks, he singled out three painters, Mr. Jackson, Jacques de Tonnancour of Montreal and Goodridge Roberts of Digby, N.S. He distinguished them from the rest whom he termed "mostly commercial artists and second-rate painters."

Other contributors and cities they painted:

Frederick B. Taylor (Windsor), Fraser-Anne Johnston, wife of Mr. Arbuckle (Charlottetown), Rayner Beament (Hull), Lorne Bouchard (Quebec), Jori de Marchi; A. J. Casson (Hamilton), William Winter (Winnipeg), R. York Wilson (Regina), Charles Comfort (Edmonton), all of Toronto; Clare Rice (London), Lemoine; Walter J. Phillips, (Victoria), Winnipeg; Evan MacDonald (Saint John), Goulet; A. C. Leighton (Calgary), Calgary.

J. S. Hallam of Toronto, who painted the scene of his own city, died last year.

Only 4 Disloyal Of 130 Dismissed As Security Risks

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States treasury department has informed Congress that out of 130 employees it dismissed or forced resignations in 1953, four were found to be "disloyal persons" under standards since scrapped.

The information was given to the House of Representatives appropriations committee, which published it today, by Elbert P. Tuttle, acting security officer for the department, which has about 77,000 employees. The committee was considering the department's budget request.

A man doesn't have to be disloyal to be classed as a security risk, Tuttle said.

In a separate report on the customs service, whose 8,000 employees have superior records to the United States, it was disclosed that six persons were dismissed last year as security risks. Customs commissioner David B. Strubinger said that apparently none had had "contact" with Communists.

CONTACT INDICATED

"At least the records indicate there was no contact," Tuttle said. "Contact has been a previous membership to such an extent we felt it was a definite security risk," he said.

Tuttle gave the information about the treasury department security dismissals under repeated demands from Representative J. V. Dem. (R-Pa.).

A number of Democrats in Congress have charged that Republicans have sought to give the impression that most of the 2,200 persons the administration says were dropped from the federal payroll last year were in security or program were subversives. Democrats claim a big majority of the 2,200 resigned or were fired for reasons other than loyalty and that many of those were simply transferred to other government agencies.

Gary said he objected to lumping all "security risks" together and that "many employees, applicants and persons with other objectionable traits in the same category. There is a big difference between a man being an alcoholic, which is a disease, and being a Communist, which is a traitor," he said.

Gary said he believes the people are entitled to know how many of the 2,200 "security" cases involved Communists. Instead, he added, the public has been given the impression that all 2,200 were disloyal, which "is not true."

NO COMPARISON

Tuttle said there was no way of comparing the rate of security dismissals under the Eisenhower administration with those under the Truman administration because "the whole basis of approach is different."

Under the Truman loyalty standards, he explained, disloyalty to the United States was the only grounds for dismissal.

The four "disloyal persons" he mentioned, he said, were found to be disloyal under standards of the Truman program. The Eisenhower program did not take effect until last September.

The new procedure, he said, provides that "if a person is deemed to suffer from disability or frailty so that it is not clear that it is to the best interests of the United States to retain him there are those frailties may cause him to be a risk in the future, he is subject to dismissal."

Royal Navy Will Begin Attempts To Raise Wreckage

PORTO AZZURO, Elba (Reuters)—In two days the Royal Navy will begin attempts to raise the twisted wreckage of a British Comet jetliner lying 400 feet under the Mediterranean efat of this Italian island.

British aviation experts hope the wreckage may yield a clue to why the airliner exploded in mid-air 25 days ago, shortly after leaving Rome airport, and plunged into the sea, killing all 35 persons aboard.

The salvage operations will begin Tuesday will be complex. First the navy vessel Barbill will lay moorings in the centre of a small triangle where during the last week eight major pieces of the jetliner's wreckage have been sighted. The area is about five miles south of Elba's unsandy point.

Then the salvage vessel Sea Salvor will anchor exactly over the main section of the Comet and try to hoist it up with mechanical grab suspended from a line. The line will comb the sea bottom with 200 steel nets 295 feet long and 30 feet wide.

If necessary the naval engineers will drag the battered hulk into Stella bay, where the depth is only about 50 feet. In shallower waters divers can actively join in the delicate work of raising the wreckage.

British aviation leaders hope to get the wreckage to the surface as fast as possible, since this will increase the chances of solving the mystery of the third fatal Comet crash in aviation history.

MOTORIST KILLED

THOROLD (CP)— Edward Tatarnic, 28, of Grimsby was killed near here Sunday when his car failed to make a turn on the highway and struck a tree. Police said Tatarnic died of a broken neck. He was returning to his home in Grimsby after paying his parents a visit on their 40th wedding anniversary. Thorold is about five miles south of St. Catharines.

Head of Union Fears Depression

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—H. A. Chappell of Ottawa, national president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and other Transport Workers (CIO-CCL) said Sunday there are more than 800,000 persons unemployed in Canada at situation that has all the earmarks of leading to another depression.

"I'm not saying it's going to happen," he told some 30 Niagara District CBRE members gathered for a week-end school. "However, the preliminaries are just the same as in 1929."

He said Production Minister Howe and Finance Minister Abbott "both admitted there's a bit of a problem, but it's not big enough for the government to take any strong action."

"These autocratic and bureaucratic individuals tell us there's nothing to worry about and 1954 is going to be a nice year. I just wish I had the confidence in the immediate future they have."

WHAT A DAY!

What a misery. It can't be on those days when you are feeling way below par. How slowly the hours drag by. When you feel lonely and sluggish and seem to ache all over.

And how unnecessary it all is, very often.

Most times that dull, logy feeling is the direct result of constipation and kidneys not working properly. You head something more than a simple laxative in these times. You need Kruschen Salts.

Millions the world over have learned the benefits of Kruschen . . . the salts that are like those in the waters of famous Mineral Springs. Acting in two ways at once, laxative and diuretic (to stimulate kidneys), Kruschen helps rid the body of waste matter. It goes right to the cause of that miserable, skiddish feeling that constipation brings about.

Get some Kruschen today. Less than half a teaspoonful can make you feel better all day long.

Houston, Home of Thousand Millionaires, Growing Rapidly

By SAUL PETT

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Houston is the fastest growing big city in the United States. From 1930 to 1950, Los Angeles' population more than tripled but Houston's more than quadrupled.

Today, Houston has 953,000 people. It has, somebody said, about 1,000 millionaires. It is a town with about 4,000 air-conditioned Cadillacs.

The city rises abruptly out of the Texas flats about 50 miles from the Gulf of Mexico. Galveston, right on the gulf, had a built-in natural port. But one day in 1915, while Galveston's back was turned, Houston completed a 50-mile deep water channel to the gulf.

Today, the port of Houston handles shipping tonnage second only in volume to New York. It is said to be the world's greatest oil port and one of the greatest for cotton, too.

Within a 200-mile radius of the city, say the experts, more wealth is taken from the ground than in any other area of equal size in the world. Some 370 oil fields gush more than 200,000,000 barrels of oil a year. Other fields produce millions of cubic feet of natural gas. Houston also has a huge refining and petro-chemical industry.

COLORFUL CHARACTERS

One of the city's millionaires, Jim West, oil and cattle man, is said to own 30 cars, including 11 Cadillacs; four planes, and two ranches—one of 90,000 acres and one of 180,000.

In his dress, Jim favors a 10-gallon hat, a diamond - studded Texas Ranger's badge and a huge gold buckle for the belt that holds his two guns. He likes to play on at night, cruising around town with city police. He also is fond of tossing around silver dollars in public and watching people scramble for them.

Physically, Houston is difficult to describe. There are trees dripping Spanish moss to suggest the old south and royal palm trees to suggest the tropics. There is busy main street with its smart, modern shops.

There are the Negro and Mexican slums and the exclusive River Oaks section, where most of the millionaires live and where the country club costs $10,000 to join.

Because the town has grown so fast, the crime rate is high but not as bad as the loosely-applied tag, "murder capital of the country," might imply. Houston's brothels were closed three or four years ago, including one with an attached 12-car garage.

Any report on the city must also include the fact that a survey by the Houston Post found that a "miasmic fear of communism" has permeated the city.

On one occasion, the American Friends Service Committee, has some difficulty arranging a meeting here because someone said the Quaker organization was harboring Communists. Others cried that visiting Rhodes scholars must be carefully watched because, it was alleged, they advocated union with England.

WOUNDED GUARD SLAIN

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—An unknown assassin fired three shots through the ground-floor window of a hospital at Nyeri Thursday night, killing an African home guard recovering from wounds inflicted by Mau Mau terrorists, about 20 patients in the ward saw a hand holding a pistol thrust through the window. Before they could give an alarm the shots were fired and the victim fell dead.

Standard Base Prices of Steel Remain Intact

CLEVELAND (AP)—The sharp drop in scrap steel prices during the last seven months is helping the steel industry offset much of the price concessions and freight absorption that have resulted from slack demand, Steel magazine says Sunday.

Standard base prices of steel remain intact, the weekly metalworking journal reports, and quoted its price composite of finished steel unchanged last week at $113.91 a net ton.

But, Steel adds:

"More and more price extras are being reduced or waived. Freight absorption by mills is increasing, premium base prices are continuing to fade, and steel jobbers are making price concessions and offering free services to attract customers."

U. S. Steel Corp. announced a $6-a-ton cut in quality extra or rimmed steel, and a number of other producers will follow suit. Steel says. Several eastern rollers of narrow, cold-rolled carbon steel strip cut their premium base prices $2 to $4 a ton.

Steel production last week held unchanged at 74 per cent of capacity, yielding 1,764,000 net tons.

Vietminh Claims Victory in Laos; French Silent

Reds Say They Won Battle 5 Miles from Luangprabang

SAIGON, Indo-China (CP)—The Communist invaders of Laos today claimed their troops had won a victory over French Union forces only five miles from the royal Laotian, pagoda-studded royal capital of the state.

The Vietminh rebels' radio claimed their troops had captured the French commander of a Laotian battalion in battles for villages near Vamban, north of the capital. The Communist-led troops overran the villages, the broadcast said.

There were no French communiques on the situation at the capital, where King Sisavang Vong's Laotian subjects have erected defence barricades in a defatnished effort to thwart a Vietminh invasion from the thickly-wooded hills surrounding the city.

FRENCH ADMIT SUCCESS

But on another front, the French announced today their forces broke the siege of their garrison at Indochina fortress of Dien Bien Phu to drive encircling Vietminh troops from nearby hill positions. French High Command they inflicted "heavy losses" on the Communist-led enemy and admitted "appreciable losses" on their side.

By this attack the French seemed to indicate that they are going to carry the battle to the 36,000 rebels who have been threatening, but never yet pressing home, a full-scale, all-out assault on the heavily-fortified French post just north of the Laos border.

Gen. Rene Cogny, French commander in northern Indo-China, apparently tired of waiting for the Vietminh to attack the fortress, sent out 6,000 to 7,000 men against the rebels strongly entrenched in the hills surrounding the French Union position.

GUNS BLAST AWAY

As the infantrymen hacked their way through the jungle into the hill positions, French mobile artillery blasted away for hours. French fighters and bombers joined in with heavy strafing and napalm bombing of the Vietminh concentrations.

Whether the French action would force the Vietminh into decisive battle remained to be seen, however. But hopes ran high among the French, who consider the northwest corner of the new military significance than the capital.

RUSSIA WANTS TO REVIVE TRADE WITH CANADA

Commercial Attache Joining Embassy

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Soviet Russia wants to revive trade with Canada — a trade that now is virtually non existent.

Ambassador D. S. Chuvahin, who arrived here in October, told a group of parliamentary press gallery correspondents Monday night that his country is ready to start negotiations right away.

He said a commercial attache will join the Russian embassy staff here shortly to handle all details if Canadian authorities are willing to negotiate.

In this connection, he said Soviet authorities "regard favorably" a statement last Jan. 4 by Trade Minister Howe that Canada is willing to enlarge trade with Russia.

Mr. Chuvahin, genial, frank and affable, is the first Russian ambassador since 1945 when the ousted Soviet envoy, Igor Gouzenko, created a furor by revealing Canadian authorities documents which resulted in the espionage trials of 1946. Last month Russia appointed John C. Watkins, former minister to Norway, as ambassador to Russia.

AMBASSADOR NOT INVOLVED

Georges Earabin, previous Soviet ambassador, left Canada before the spy ring broke. A subsequent Canadian investigation said he was not involved. He now is ambassador to the United States.

Correspondents representing 16 newspapers and news agencies met the ambassador at his home by special invitation.

Mr. Chuvahin said the first time a Soviet ambassador had initiated a press conference and the correspondents were given no indication of the subject matter in advance.

Mr. Chuvahin read a brief statement to the effect that his country is ready to do business with Canadian importers and exporters.

OTHER TRADE SOUGHT

He declined to reply to questions on any subject other than trade and he also refused to discuss barter trading payment. Such questions would be answered by the trade attache.

However, he said Russia can sell Canada "kerosene and other petroleum products, cotton and probably many other commodities."

Russia would be ready to buy freighters, tractors, agricultural machinery, butter, meats, rawhides, and other commodities. She might buy any some wheat if that were desirable to maintain a good trading relationship.

For many years there has been virtually no trade between the two countries.

In the first nine months of 1953, Canada exported $469 worth of commodities to Russia and $128 worth in the corresponding period in 1952.

'Orchid Paradise' in Stone Is Found By Explorers in Huge Kentucky Cave

By ED EASTERLY

CRYSTAL CAVE, Ky. (AP)—The sight of "an orchid paradise" in stone has rewarded the men and women explorers who for years have been penetrating the lower level of Kentucky's crystal cave.

And the spectacle of a mile 300 feet below the earth's surface, is believed to be only a sample of the wonders hidden in the wilderness of unexplored passages.

The National Speleological (cave study) Society, now fully manned by explorers and scientists, spent three miles inside the cave entrance before they stopped in exploration on the third day of its seven - day expedition. The search was put on to round out the data.

The room of enormous flowerlike formations in Aragnon is on the edge of the uncharted area and had been observed before by only a few explorers.

William Burke Miller, an NBC reporter accompanying the expedition, described it as "an orchid paradise and the ceiling" and "the most beautiful sight any of us had ever seen."

The stone flowers "hung in clusters of indescribable beauty and their colors ranged from pure white to rose-pink.

They covered the centuries in a regular fashion, receiving moisture in a circular room 18 feet in circumference and five feet high.

Joe Lawrence, 27-year-old leader of the expedition, arrived at the outpost at midnight Monday night to take charge of the push into unknown areas.

Scouting teams still are searching for a way to the cave's lowest room No. 2, which must be six hours farther in the cave.

The teams are equipped not only for crawling but have mountain climbing gear for scaling down which rise to a height of 50 feet and for descending pits as deep as 100 or more feet.

At many spots the explorers found written on the walls the name of Floyd Colling, who discovered the cave in 1917 and was killed by a rock fall in 1925 while seeking a new entrance.

Within another day, however, they expect to put their names on walls never before touched by man.

West to Ask Reds to Ease German Border Restrictions

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

BERLIN (AP) — The Western ministers may propose to Russia immediate steps to make life more bearable inside divided Germany by lowering barriers between the Eastern and Western zones, it was learned today.

Such an easing of border restrictions is considered one positive gain which might be salvaged from the wreckage of Big Four efforts here to unify Germany and make a German peace.

American officials said Foreign Minister Molotov probably would be asked to agree to a meeting at once of the chief commissioners of Russia, the United States, Britain and France for the purpose of removing or lessening barriers between the Communist East and Free West.

Points that may be taken up include:

1. Reopening of internal crossing points. This would facilitate especially travel between Berlin and the Soviet zone.

2. Elimination of the "death zone," a quarter-mile-wide strip of plowed land on the Soviet side of the East-West zonal frontier. Any person caught in that area without permission is liable to immediate gunfire from Communist police.

3. Restoration of telephone and mail service lines between divided East and West Berlin.

One line of reasoning is that if the European Defence Community, now awaiting French approval, is at the bottom of the pile, the position of the West will become so strong that Russia will give up hope of ever taking over West Germany, and may then be induced to consider a reasonable German unity program.

In this connection, it was pointed today that the Big Four conference in Berlin in January-last three weeks here.

It is not known, however, what damage Foreign Minister Molotov may have done to the plan for a European Defence Community Treaty, soon to be brought up for ratification by the French parliament.

In what was doubtless his major speech of the conference, Foreign Minister Bidault Monday analyzed the Soviet package deal for a European security pact which would ban German rearmament, push United States assistance out of Europe and make Russia the sponsoring power of a "collective security" for the Continent.

Bidault turned it all down. He denounced the proposals one by one as not contributing in any big way to peace.

There remains the question whether the Western Foreign Ministers can pull out of the conference some hope of wrecking the Soviet peace struggle this year. This may come up Wednesday night, on the eve of Foreign Minister Molotov's departure for Russia.

Opposition Criticizes Premier's Words on Road Irregularities

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Legislature warmed up Monday by opposition charges of "handcuffing" the public accounts committee in its investigation of alleged irregularities in the Port Williams division of highways.

The address will be given by Arthur Leslie, Progressive Conservative member for Niagara Falls. His motion will be seconded by William D. Jones, LPC—Essex River).

The motion will open general debate on the throne speech read at the opening of the legislature last Thursday by Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt.

The motion was one in a body Monday as Premier Frost made a statement after John Parker (C—Addington) tabled a special committee's report nominating the members of the public accounts committee. In so doing, the premier said he was merely complying with a request before the courts it has been decided "that to safeguard several civil interests and rights, disclosures should be made only in court."

"NO WHITE WASH"

He said the question of limitation of powers of enquiry of the public accounts committee will be left in the committee's hands.

Premier Frost and Leslie clivver said Mr. Frost was "not pulling the wool over your eyes."

"He is simply moving forward in a smart political move which seems to smother the situation."

He said the premier had "not only handcuffed the committee but it can see an astute political move."

He said that due to heavy work in other committees, members may not be able to give their full attention to the whole question.

"And a groveling group of government members of the committee could overrule any objections."

Following the address the committees were named. The committees are expected to hold its first meeting today.

Premier Frost and members of the government tribute to Agnes Macphail, former member of the Legislature for York East who died Saturday.

Queen Dedicates Monument To Australian-U.S. Friendship

CANBERRA (CP)—Queen Elizabeth today unveiled a towering monument dedicated to the United States for helping to defend Australia during the second World War, and spoke of the "great goodwill" between the British and American people.

The 358-foot stone column dominates the skyline of Australia's federal capital. It tops the city's tallest buildings, which are about 100 feet high.

The Queen was accompanied by the Duke of Edinburgh. U.S. ambassador Lewis Douglas attended the ceremony as did Australia's governor-general, Sir William Slim and Prime Minister Robert Menzies.

The Queen said Australia especially remembers the "timely and generous aid which flowed from the United States when the battle in the Pacific raged close to these shores. That aid was given with out reserve of human life or wealth."

SINCERE, AFFECTION

The mutual respect and affection, and unity of thought and purpose between the British and American peoples "will always give pause to those who may think to disturb the tranquility of the world."

The memorial was planned by the Australian-American Association and built with £83,000 contributed by Australians and £50,000 subscribed by the Australian government.

It is an eight-sided aluminum pillar, flared at the top of which is a sphere and an eagle with wings raised. It is 49 feet high.

When the Queen unveiled the memorial she uncovered a tablet with the inscription: "To the people of the United States of America during the war in the Pacific 1941-45. From Elizabeth II. February 16, 1954."

"To these men and women to whom we dedicate this place made our alliance flourish," said the Queen.

RESPECT NOT ENOUGH

"But our respect for them and our thanks are not enough. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work they have so nobly advanced."

The statue of the man who first used these words, President Abraham Lincoln, stands in London along with that of President Roosevelt to bear witness to Anglo-American concord.

When the Queen finished, she stood erect and still as a band played the U.S. national anthem.

Amos Peaslee, United States ambassador, in reply said "the United States of America accept this tribute from the Australian people with gratitude and humility."

UNEMPLOYMENT HOTLY DEBATED IN PARLIAMENT

2 Want-of-Confidence Motions Before House

OTTAWA (CP) — Rising unemployment in Canada has prompted two motions of want-of-confidence in the government. The government, however, has assured employment will return to normal by spring.

The motions were proposed Monday in the Commons by the Progressive Conservative and CCF parties.

Progressive Conservatives suggested a parliamentary committee be investigate the unemployment and recommend remedial measures.

The CCF motion said the situation is serious and asked the government to "immediately take action to "prevent further economic distress."

The motions touched off a daylong debate on the issue. It will continue today. As amendments to a government motion to have the House go into committee to consider departmental estimates, they were technically non - confidence votes.

The unemployment debate, first in the Commons in years, followed meetings between labor leaders and the government in which the labor leaders suggested that unemployment may be as high as 500,000.

UNEMPLOYMENT INCREASE

Labor Minister Gregg said Monday that at Jan. 31, 354,000 persons were looking for jobs through the government's National Employment Service, 186,000 more than at Dec. 10 and 140,000 more than a year ago.

The bureau of statistics estimate of unemployed was 280,000 at Jan. 24, 400,000 more than in mid - December and 93,000 more than a year ago.

He said the 524,000 figure is too high for the actual number of unemployed. He made no estimate of actual figures, but said the present situation is due mainly to seasonal factors and to those temporarily between jobs for reasons other than the cold weather.

Acting Prime Minister Howe said he hopes employment will return to levels of the last several years by the season opens.

The government was taking the situation seriously, but, contrary to reports, had taken a temporary slowdown in the pace of building, which has coincided with the winter slack period."

INVESTMENT TO INCREASE

Mr. Howe said investment was expected to reach $8,800,000,000, a three-per-cent increase over 1953, and added: "Canada's exporters could expect "another good year" and the high level of jobs in the export industry should continue.

"I think the situation should recognize that it is not the time to seek larger wage increases. Workers should join with industry in the transition from the "Korean peak" to the "normal" peacetime economy."

Howard Green (PC—Vancouver Quadra), who proposed the party's motion for a Commons committee, said unemployment is a serious problem and now should be faced.

Traffic Stalled, Schools Closed, Homes Flooded

Six Families Had to Be Evacuated from Flood Areas

TORONTO (CP) — Two persons were drowned and more than 300 persons have been driven from their homes in Ontario as heavy rains and mild weather caused creeks and rivers on a flood rampage.

Arthur Lawrence, father of five children, was drowned in Callahan's lake near Sault Ste. Marie when a tractor plunged through weakened ice. A companion, Donald Emerey, fought his way to safety.

At Winona in the Niagara peninsula, Mrs. Lily Pfeiffer, 74, was drowned Monday when he was swept under a wave as he in a swollen creek a few yards from his home. His body was recovered.

In Highland Creek valley a few miles east of Toronto, four families were marooned for an hour Monday in a house they had entered before the flood began. An ice jam broke upstream, raising the water level around the house to three feet. They were rescued by men in a rowboat.

Four other families in the same area also were flooded out. They were taken to higher ground in tractors, trucks or by wading through the flood waters.

TWO SCHOOLS CLOSED

At Stratford, two schools were closed when their basements were flooded and furnaces failed. More than two inches of rain fell in the area in 24 hours.

A half-inch of rain was general through most of southern Ontario. But mild temperatures melted more than 24 inches of snow.

At Pickering near Toronto, Duffin's creek overflowed its banks onto Highway 2, flooding it 15 inches deep. Traffic had to take a five-mile detour for three hours.

One family on the creek banks was evacuated by canoe. The flood spread after ice blocks jammed at a bend in the creek, forcing the water back and over the road.

DETOUR AT OSHAWA

At Oshawa, school children were forced to detour about five blocks when Harmon creek overflowed into a street.

The Humber river at Nobleton about 25 miles north of Toronto was also reported in flood.

Mrs. Ethel Sutherland's river overflowed its banks and covering flats for 500 yards at 8 a.m. today. Three miles of Highway 48 from Strathroy north to Parkhill was under water Monday morning.

PARK 10 FEET UNDER

In mid-town Strathroy, flood waters rose to 10 feet, provoking Alexandra Park, home of Strathroy doctors, was under 10 feet of water.

Urges Churchill Make New Move To Seek Peace

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Herald today urges Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill to make a new move in trying to bring about an understanding between East and West.

The four-power Berlin conference has failed to ease a single European problem, the Labor newspaper declares in an editorial.

"It is unthinkable that the finality of failure can be accepted. All eyes in this country will now turn towards Sir Winston Churchill. Two questions will be in people's minds.

"1. Can Sir Winston—whose offer to meet (Soviet Premier Malenkov) had the support of this nation—now speak up and give the world a new, constructive lead?

"2. How will this reverse in Berlin affect the prime minister's political future at home?

"It is no good looking backwards, Berlin has failed on Europe. Let the government tell or how it proposes to go forward."

100,000 Houses May Be Built This Year Says CMHC Officer

MONTREAL (CP)—F. S. Secord, vice-president of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, said today more than 100,000 houses may be built in 1954.

He also proposed amendments to the National Housing act to ease credit facilities and encourage construction but shortages of serviced land and high building costs may prevent activity in certain areas.

Mr. Secord said the 46th annual convention of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, Mr. Secord said: "There is land enough of serviced land—lots with utilities laid on—in many areas to permit some expansion had already pushed to city boundaries and beyond in order because of failure to keep pace with demands of builders.

Mr. Secord said cost increases in 1953 had resulted chiefly from higher labor costs. He believed a five-per-cent cut in construction cost could bring a five-per-cent increase in building in 1954.

The lumbermen also heard from J. E. Jenkins of Ottawa, chief of the Forest Products Laboratories of Canada, who said wood has come to the cross-roads.

He urged a careful and broad appraisal of material be undertaken by the failure of wood to keep its place in traditional markets and urged increased use of wood products.

W. J. Leclair, secretary-manager of the Canadian lumbermen's Association, said higher production and a fall in buying by the United Kingdom led to softening in the lumber market, production fell by 3.3%.

During the year Canadian sawmills produced 8,900,000,000 board feet of which nearly 3,600,000,000 were exported to the United States, with purchases totalling 1,450,000,000 board feet, mainly for chief importer of Canadian lumber.

British buying was off, but at 600,627,000 feet was better than had originally been expected.

He said the outlook for 1954 is promising. Production would be cut back as markets were cut back as markets were expected to improve, especially at home where expanded building activity increase demand. Prices should remain firm.

WILL PUBLISH REPORT ON CITY'S FINANCIAL STANDING

A request for a resume of the auditor's report of the city's financial standing to be published each year in the newspaper was made to city council last night by Mr. Carpentry.

It was pointed out that such a report had been published in recent years. Any citizen had the right to come to the city hall and read the full report, but the report was so voluminous that it was difficult for the average citizen to go through it. Because of this council has decided to have made many friends who will learn with deep regret of his death.

Mosquito Control Question Waits Cost Estimate

The lowly mosquito came up for discussion in city council Monday evening when Alderman George Hyde moved that an amount of $1,500 to be placed in the year's estimates, to provide for spraying of marsh areas to control the pest.

Despite the fact that Mr. Hyde urged that council should not immediate decision on the matter, his recommendation to provide $1,500 in the budget was laid over to allow an expert opinion to be secured regarding the best manner of mosquito control and its probable cost.

"I feel very strongly about this matter," said Alderman Hyde as he introduced his motion for provision of $1,500 in the estimates. "I don't know whether it's 1,500 mosquitoes, or whether mosquitoes can be controlled for $1,500 but some money must be provided for in the budget."

He said he had written for information on mosquito control methods and it was thought advisable to go ahead the necessary spraying would be done annually. He said that the money was provided.

He referred to a personal advertising campaign conducted recently which he received 96 replies, 93 of which favored spending $1,500 the money for mosquito control.

But Mayor J. Bob thought 96 people in a city of 14,000 was a small section of the city taxpayers. He thought that $1,500 would be "a good money" insofar as mosquito control was concerned.

Alderman all cost spraying would not cannot afford to throw $1,500 on an experimental basis.

Alderman Argue said if $1,500 was spent mosquito control would do any good it would be well worth while. But according to one authority on the subject known as the mosquitoes in Belleville came from swamps in Thurlow and Sidney. For effective control these areas would also have to be sprayed and to cover such a wide area would be too costly. He recommended that consideration be given to how force council could intelligently deal with the matter.

Although Alderman Hyde pointed out that any delay would simply mean that breeding has developed for another year council agreed that a recommendation as to the value of mosquito control measures before any action was taken.

Wants City Employee Fired For Taking Part in Election

A city employee reported to have taken a personal part in the recent liquor vote in the annexed area of the city came up for discussion in city council last evening with one employee demanding that council ask for the man's resignation.

Mrs. Erle McCabe, who said she was interested only from the standpoint of a taxpayer, wanted to know if Mr. James Matthews, city market and weigh scales attendant, had received permission to take the day off to take part in the election.

She was told that Mr. Matthews had not asked for permission, but that he had hired a man to take his place at the weigh scales for the day.

HIRED MAN FOR DAY

"Since the only concern is that the taxpayers don't like to point out that Mr. Matthews hired a man to take his place for the day," said Alderman Tompkin.

"My question is still not answered," replied Mrs. McCabe. "The man was not hired by the city."

There was a lengthy and spirited discussion as to whether any city employee has the right to city employees taking a personal interest in elections with Alderman Tompkin declaring that if there was no policy, it was time one was set.

Mayor J. Bob questioned the legality of a city employee taking part in an election. City Solicitor R. A. Pringle said he had always been of the opinion that a city employee could not take part in an election. "It possibly would be well if we did know of no law against it," he said.

Alderman Moxam felt the question was not one of legality. "It's a question of fair play. Should the day off without permission," he said.

NO PERMISSION ASKED.

Alderman C. D. Tice as chairman of the Property Committee, and Clerk-Comptroller H. D. Bateman said no permission had been asked by Mr. Matthews.

"Thanks. That is what I wanted to know," said Mrs. McCabe.

But Alderman Temple took exception to the fact that a man should be criticized for taking part in an election. "If that is the case then true democracy is gone," he said.

"That is just what I don have to—to see that democracy is carried out," replied Mrs. McCabe.

Alderman Counsytown concluded with the statement that a member of the local police department had worked in the interests of Frank S. Follwell during a recent election.

To this Mrs. McCabe replied if this was the case the police officer had done so of his own free will and without her knowledge.

MOTION TABLED.

Alderman Duffy tabled a motion calling on the executive committee to bring in a recommendation regarding city employees participating in an election other than in an official capacity. He said the recommendation was a simple request for a declaration of policy.

Alderman Safe said he did not see how the city could stop an employee taking part in an election and Alderman Thomas was of the same opinion.

"This is a free country," he declared. "I can't tell any of my employees how to vote and I don't think the city is in any different position."

"I feel strongly about this matter," he went on. "Mr. Matthews has a right to vote as he pleases, a right to work for whom he pleases. If I were living living outside the annexed area had kept out of the election it might not have been the case. I voted and that it was."

Alderman Duffy said his recommendation had been misconstrued. "I was not referring to any particular election, but simply asking that a policy be established, both for employees and council."

Alderman Reid also felt some sort of policy should be established. "It is a matter between the city and participates in an election how can you maintain jurisdiction?" he asked.

"I don't intend to allow Mr. Matthews to take my job away from me tonight," ruled Alderman Bradford, Chairman of the committee, as he called for the vote.

The motion to have a recommendation brought in regarding city employees taking part in elections was carried on a vote approving were Mayor Both, Alderman Bradford, Clarke, police chairman, Duffy, Hyde, Keegan, Moxam, Reid, and Smith. Opposing were Alderman Safe, Temple, Thomas and Tice.

Kitimat-Kemano Hydro Project Shown in Film

"Man With a Thousand Hands", a motion picture film depicting the planning, organization and progress of the Kitimat-Kemano Hydro Electric Power development 400 miles north of Vancouver, was shown at the noon luncheon of the Rotary Club in the Hotel Quinte, Monday.

The development is a work project which includes the damming of a mountain pass to create a man-made lake in the shadow of towering mountain walls and the reversing of the draining river's course to harness hydroelectrical power developed descent of the aluminum industry, at Kitimat some 60 miles from Kemano.

The indispensable value of the heavy machinery used in the development is admirably depicted throughout the film. Produced by Associated Screen News Limited Montreal, the picture was presented locally by Harold Meyers, manager of Truck and Farm Supply.

Mr. Meyers revealed at the conclusion of the picture that the conveyor equipment being used on the development is a product of the Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Co., Ltd., in this city and that he was personally presented at the meeting. Bert Houston was presented with a rose by Court Miller.

The vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Meyers by G. B. Scott. He was introduced by Frank Murray.

River Being Used As Garbage Dump Says Ratepayer

Strong objection to what was termed the "disgraceful" condition of the Moira River as result of its being used as a garbage dump, was heard in city council Monday evening.

Ed. A. Kellaway, Bridge Street grocer, made a personal appearance before council to bring the matter to the attention of the city fathers. He said the motto appearing on sign boards at the entrance to the city referring to this as "Belleville the Beautiful" apparently had no more meaning.

"It is disgraceful that people should use the river as a garbage dump," he said, referring to piles of cans and other refuse to be found lying at the river bank.

Alderman Tice said he had brought the matter to the attention of the sanitary inspector some days ago, while Alderman Moxam noted that Mr. Kellaway had brought his attention to the matter. He said the sanitary inspector and the fire chief had investigated the river Monday afternoon.

The matter was dropped at this point with council taking no further action.

Three Transports, Truck Damaged, Drivers Injured

Highway traffic was a bad one night in the Belleville area Monday night as three transports and a truck came to grief in three separate accidents. Three of the four drivers involved were admitted to Belleville hospital with injuries.

Emil Clarke, 43, of St. Stephen, N.B., driving a stripped-down truck of coals, which he was transporting to New Brunswick, suffered head injuries, as did Oral Ernest, 302 Seventh St., Toronto, driver of a Husband Transport.

The accident occurred shortly before midnight on No. 2 highway near the Montreal Farms west of Belleville. Details of the accident were meagre but both trucks received extensive front end damage. The cab of the transport was almost completely demolished, the truck turning over up in the north ditch, while the other truck went into the opposite ditch.

$7,000 DAMAGE.

The third truck driver transport driven by Gerard Reed, Montreal, was damaged to the extent of about $7,000, when it went off the highway at Bayside and turned over. The accident took place on the Bayside road.

Mr. Reed told police that he was forced off the highway by an approaching truck. The driver was taken to Belleville hospital, where he was treated and suffered arm lacerations and would undergo X-ray to check for possible fractures.

At the railway crossing near the Quinte Sanatorium a car driven by a Kingsway transport driven by Bob Ferguson of Montreal turned out of control and into the ditch when the "fifth wheel" attaching the tractor to the trailer broke apart. Both the tractor and trailer went into the ditch, the latter turning onto its side. The driver escaped injury.

Three Homeless After Fire

Mrs. Evelyn Clapp, South Church Street and her two children, Joan 11 and Ruth, 9, are homeless today following a fire which Monday afternoon swept through the small home despite efforts of firemen.

Mrs. Clapp was alone in the house when she spotted the fire overhead in the attic. She ran next door to summon the alarm.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started from a stovepipe that ran through the attic. The interior of her home was almost completely gutted by the blaze. Furnishings and personal possessions were also lost. A trunk containing clothing and a small amount of cash was saved. The two children were in school at the time of the blaze. Loss including fire damage to the home and household furnishings amounted to an estimated $1,500.

A Victoria Avenue family lost their entire home by fire when a smoke damaged late yesterday afternoon when food on the kitchen range caught fire. Firemen said the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Sullivan was badly smoked up as result of burning food.

Also yesterday afternoon fire-

Boswell Street Area Survey Authorized

The city engineering department will make a preliminary survey of the Boswell Street area and report on the railway tracks to determine the feasibility of sending the property leading into the city to relieve traffic congestion on N. Front Street.

Alderman Art Keegan as chairman of planning said this survey would be to obtain elevations and drainage levels and would cost approximately $100. He said it would be advisable to be prepared to proceed with another survey leading into the city if at any time this should be necessary.

Alderman Tice reminded the council the highways department had never told city officials what the route of the four lane highway east of the city would be or when the extension would be constructed and he urged such information be secured. Alderman Reid agreed that the city was not in a position to say where the highway was going and suggested the city have the $100 and forget about the survey.

"I am sick and tired of coming to council and having planning ideas thrown out," shot back Ald. Keegan. "Here we are with our heads in the sand. For a lousy $100 let's have the survey and plan to relieve traffic." The motion to have the survey conducted was carried.

Council Asked To Continue Rent Controls

A request for the city to take over rent controls when they are relinquished by the province March, 2nd, was placed before council yesterday by Alderman Robert Temple.

The alderman said there was a feeling prevalent that rents would get out of hand, when controls were lifted if there was not continuation by the city. He said that rent controls were in place in the spring and summer and if controls were continued until September 30th the housing situation would then be relieved.

He said that it would cost the city money to set up a rental office but the city has a duty," Mr. Temple said.

Alderman Duffy agreed the rent continuation had merit but said that it be tabled to afford an opportunity to determine the cost.

Alderman Moxam took the same attitude holding that a rental office was "unreasonable," he said, "if they are not, let the tenant go to court as the landlords have had to."

"If there are no controls the tenant cannot go to court," returned Alderman Temple.

Alderman Bedford said the matter was far too big for council to handle at this meeting and suggested they refer the matter to the executive and finance committee for investigation and report on the probable cost of setting up a rental office.

Two Notices Of Motion Made By Alderman

Notices of motion calling for the electors at the next municipal election to vote on the question of reducing the number of city aldermen from the present 14 to 10, and also on the question of a city manager, were made to council last night.

Alderman Countryman presented the two notices of motion, stating that in such matters two weeks' notice had to be given to council. There was no discussion.

When last night's council meeting lasted until midnight, Alderman Duffy declared that no alderman could do justice to city business after working all day and then try to do business for the city.

After a four-and-a-half hour session, Mayor Sills declared that councillors had been exhausted since nine o'clock, "it's getting to be more to hold afternoon meetings, but I am in favor of them," he said.

He said he would bring in a motion at the next meeting to revert to afternoon meetings.

City Solicitor Gives Opinion On Convenant

The possibility that the Belleville Properties Ltd., headed by Clarence Campbell, must fulfil the covenant to renovate the old county buildings into a modern hotel is required under the terms of his sale application was made by city solicitor, A. J. Ellis, at city council, Monday evening.

Alderman Ald. East Bridge street, wanted to know if the covenant was registered with the deed, and the solicitor said no.

He was told by the city solicitor that it was registered and was registered with the deed. This, however, did not relieve Mr. Coonahan from fulfilling his covenant which called for erection of a hotel until which time a $100,000 erection of an additional block of model units costing $65,000, and renovation of the old county home into a hotel at a cost of $150,000.

Mr. Cole also asked council to give consideration to the presentation of a brief to the Ontario Legislature asking for a new system of municipal financing to relieve the heavy burden of taxation.

Hourly Rated P.W. Employees Get No Increase

Hourly rated employees of the city public works department will receive no pay increase this year, all last night's council meeting Alderman Bruce Smith as chairman of the public works committee brought in to introduce a recommendation calling for hourly rated employees of the department to receive a four cents per hour increase. He failed to get a seconder for his motion and the recommendation was ruled out of order.

Mayor Sills noted that the matter had been brought up at a previous meeting and had been voted down.

Earlier in the year a request for pay increases for hourly rated employees of the department had been referred to the budget meeting. However, the public works budget had been passed without a seconder for the requested pay increase.

Under council regulations for a matter to be reintroduced it must have the sanction of two council members who opposed it. When no seconder for the motion could be found, the recommendation was withdrawn.

Pet Cockatoo Cleared of Blame

MATLOCK, England (AP) —A pet cockatoo named Cocky was formally cleared today of any connection with the death of his mistress, Mrs. Minne Fletcher, 74.

A coroner said that Mrs. Fletcher died of natural causes after collapsing in her cottage last Sunday.

Cocky, whose beak and claws were gory when the bloodstained, unconscious woman was found on the floor, lived in freedom, had apparently pecked at Mrs. Fletcher after she collapsed. The woman died without regaining consciousness.

Child Dies On Way to Hospital Following Injury in Fall

TRENTON (Special) — The four-year-old daughter of a Brighton township farmer died in a police car on the way to the Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto yesterday, following an injury from a fall on the ice near her uncle's home on Sunday.

Elsie Dunkley, who would be five next month, suffered a fatal concussion when her feet slipped out from under her as she stood by her father's car on alighting from the vehicle. She was with her parents and her two older brothers on a visit to Mrs. Dunkley's husband's place on the county 17.

Deeply saddened by the sudden twist of fate, the child's father, James Dunkley, related that his only daughter cried for a few minutes after she hit the ice. "In the morning," he continued, "she left her cot and came and got in bed with us. She seemed normal, although she complained of a pain in the head and shoulder."

Mr. Dunkley, a township worker, left the house as usual apparently satisfied his daughter was well. Mrs. Dunkley noticed her little girl playing about the house at 9.30 a.m.

Suddenly the child complained of sickness and she collapsed. Then she lapsed into a coma. In the meantime Mrs. Dunkley tried frantically to reach her husband who was working someplace in the township. Mr. Dunkley did return he learned that his daughter had been rushed away to hospital in Toronto.

Today the grief stricken mother is under sedatives confined to bed at her mother's home at Colborne. The other children: Ernest, eight, and Franklin, six, stayed close by the side of the shocked father as relatives made arrangements for their little sister's funeral.

Operating Surplus For 1953 Council $25,964 is Report

Whatever the 1954 city tax rate will be, it will have been reduced by over a mill as result of a city operating surplus of $25,964, most of which will be applied to lower this year's mill rate.

This was pointed out at the regular meeting of city council Monday evening by Alderman Wilbur Countryman, who, as chairman of finance, stated that whatever criticism there might have been of the 1953 council's decision to add $100,000 erection of an additional block of model units costing $65,000, and renovation of the old county home into a hotel at a cost of $150,000.

Mr. Cole also asked council to give consideration to the presentation of a brief to the Ontario Legislature asking for a new system of municipal financing to relieve the heavy burden of taxation.

Whatever the 1954 city tax rate will be, it will have been reduced by over a mill as result of a city operating surplus of $25,964, most of which will be applied to lower this year's mill rate.

This was pointed out at the regular meeting of city council Monday evening by Alderman Wilbur Countryman, who, as chairman of finance, stated that whatever criticism there might have been of the 1953 council's decision to add to the classification for criticism of the financial department.

Many of the city departments had ending the year with a surplus, while others had exceeded over-spent their budgets. The net result was a surplus of nearly $26,000 on the year's operating. $18,363.24 of which would be used to reduce this year's tax rate. The amount of 1953 surplus to be used to reduce this year's tax rate was cut by $7,661, which will apply against commitments for 1955.

Estimates for 1953 set expected expenditure at $4806,164.00 for city departments, while the actual amount expended totalled $4704,-213.59, showing a difference of $25,938.31.

Estimated receipts from sources other than taxation differed only $28.25 from estimate, there was considerable variance in some of the departments.

For instance the board of works grant at $31,000 was $11,000 more than was counted on while $7,541 more was received in tax penalties and arrears than was budgeted for. Against this was an amount of $14,000 expected from the sale of the old fire hall, a sale which did not materialize.

Among the bigger items going to make up the year's surplus of close to $26,000 was the board of works which spent $12,746 less than was expected, the parks department which had a credit of $10,-000 and the building inspection account which was $8,301 less than was budgeted for.

Alderman Angus Duffy complimented Alderman Countryman on the report. "It shows that even though we budget for a certain amount, we do not spend all the money unless we have to," he said.

Alderman Countryman expressed the same thought. "Just because money is provided for in the budget does not necessarily mean it will be all spent," he said. "What is left over applies against the next year's mill rate."

INDECENT LITERATURE

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Cape Breton county council has approved a report of its law amendments committee urging federal legislation asking for a strict ban on indecent literature. The resolution asks for appointment of a provincial board of censors.

EDITOR FINED

ACCRA, Gold Coast (Reuters)— The editor of the newspaper Cross Nationalist, Osca J. W. Tsedze, Thursday drew a £150 fine or 12 months in jail after pleading guilty to criminal libel charges. The charges concerned two articles referring to British Governor Sir Charles Noble Arden Clarke.

18 New Recruits Admitted To RCSCC 'Quinte'

At a colorful swearing-in ceremony, eighteen new recruits were officially admitted to the ranks of Unit HQ Training Centre "Quinte" last night. This number brings the personnel strength to 75 and four officers, 21 short of the maximum strength permitted by officialdom.

The ceremonies, which were held in the "ship" on the harbor front, were conducted by the sea cadet corps commanding officer, Lieut. Harry MacKenzie. A large crowd was present which included parents of the new "ordinary cadets" and others.

Following the "swearing-in" the corps was inspected by Dr. Jack Guthridge, chairman of the Belleville Zone (2) of the Navy League of Canada. Among others present were Capt. H. W. Wills and William H. Judge, house chairman of the Navy League.

In a brief post-ceremony address, Lieut. MacKenzie outlined the aims and objects of the sea cadet corps, the value of its training, and very briefly what is required by the organization.

The fine bang of the corps was on hand and made a pleasant surprise. The organization which has reached a high degree of self-taught efficiency fell, some time ago it needed an "honorary bugler" the glockenspiel. As official Navy does not supply these instruments, the band members "chipped in" and bought one themselves. Last night they were informed that a well-wisher and admirer will furnish another.

Last week when the band underwent a semi-official inspection by Lieut. Commander K. W. Wood RCN, eastern Ontario area officer, Toronto, he was asked to play several selections. Official approval was evidenced in the fact that every member was made a "qualified bandsman" on the spot.

Eight applications have been received for the proposed Wernettes division of the corps.

Tenders Will be Called For Industrial Garbage

City council will call for tenders for the collection of garbage from industrial plants in the city, it was decided yesterday at aldermen.

The decision by council came with the approval of an amendment to a recommendation submitted by Public Works Commissioner Clarke, collector, to pick up garbage from industrial plants commencing March 1st, the increase in the cost to the city to be determined by the board of works in April.

Alderman Countryman declared that the recommendation submitted by the works committee was hardly worded and gave the committee carte-blanche authority to decide on the amount to be paid to Mr. Smith. The same opinion was held by Alderman Duffy who said the matter should have been up for decision at this meeting.

FERMYS ESTIMATE

Alderman Smith said the recommendation submitted by the works committee was the only logical one under the circumstances as by the present garbage collector working in the collection from industrial plants in regular runs was the only way an accurate estimate of the additional cost could be arrived at.

Mayor Both agreed that tenders should be called for but said that there was still time if collections were to commence March 1st. Alderman Countryman said "there was still time and the amendment calling for tenders be put" and it was carried.

Voting for the amendment were Mayor Both, Aldermen Clarke, Countryman, Duffy, Hyde, Keegan, Reid, Sale and Temple. Opposing were Aldermen Bradford, Moxam, Reid, Smith, Thomas and Tice.

Residents Present Cases With Respect to Zoning

It was "standing room only" at the city council chambers last night as residents of the Parkwood Heights area appeared before council in a body to present their case with respect to changes in the city zoning by-law which will be up for approval at a hearing of the Ontario Municipal Board on March 4th.

Every seat in the council chamber was filled and the overflow crowd was forced to watch proceedings through the open doorway leading to the city hall stairway as recommendations regarding the by-law were discussed by council.

The recommendations were the result of a public meeting called last week by the planning committee, which passed the motions on to council for approval.

Charles Sinclair, Elmwood Heights resident, acting as spokesman for a majority of residents in the area, said that they had requested a press for construction of similar type buildings in the Parkwood area. He said they wanted only residential construction in the area and wished to be sure that their case would be presented to the municipal board hearing on March 4th.

Recommendations passed by council last night, as amendments to the zoning ruling out apartment buildings in the area. Other amendments to the zoning by-law will call for a double side yard for one-storey dwellings instead of the present three feet and will include four-unit home occupation for gain.

COULD BE MODIFIED

Mr. Sloan said the taxpayer he represented merely wanted a six-foot side yard to give maximum privacy for the dwellings but agreed this could be modified due to the fact there were 40-foot lots in the area.

Another Parkwood Heights resident, Mr. Robert Clarke, said consideration should be given for establishment of a commercial area in the near-end area, "while we necessary," he said, "to provide an equalized balance of assessment. Otherwise schools and other services would be too costly for the people to bear."

It was pointed out that residents of the area had requested there be no commercial area in the Parkwood Heights district and it was felt that this was the wishes of the majority should prevail.

Alderman Moxam urged that a business area be established in the Bingham-Victoria district. Such an area could serve both the Parkwood Heights area and also the local district. He said it was a mistake to plan large residential areas without business section and urged that vision was needed to correct the unbalance, which otherwise results.

Alderman Keegan as chairman of planning noted that according to the present by-law business construction was ruled out in this particular area.

As each of the recommendations called for amendments to the zoning by-law came up for decision, they were explained on a large scale map by city building inspector Dave Barker.

TWO GROUPS WILL USE OLD FIREHALL

Two women's organizations, one formed to assist handicapped and the diamond group, will be able to give assistance to unemployed families, will be allowed the use of the old firehall on Front street.

Requests from the two organizations were brief in the extreme were dealt with by city council Monday evening with the decision to allow both groups to use the firehall. Division of the building as it will be used will be determined by the two groups concerned.

TRICKS IN HOUSE-TRADES

There are, they say, tricks in all trades.

The trouble is that the housewife and the house-husband have so many trades that they rarely have time to learn half the tricks.

C-I-L Ova, published by Canadian Industries Ltd., has employed Louise Lamothe in an effort to remedy this situation. Her "Household Hints" contain a number of suggestions which should prove invaluable.

Perhaps most home-painters have discovered the best way to paint stairs so that the family is not marooned upstairs or down or forced to face life with stained soles. Just paint every other step and, when these steps are dry, paint the remaining ones.

But how many painters know how to avoid those annoying spots that appear on windows and glass? The trick is simple—just rub soap all over the panes and then any paint on the glass can be easily washed off after the painting job is done.

Do you get more paint on your hands than on your work? Even good "amateurs" have that difficulty when painting a ceiling. Again the remedy is simple—punch a hole in a paper plate and fit the brush handle through it.

Does gooey soap distress you? Set the bath soap on a cellulose sponge and it will dry out quickly, while the soapy sponge is fine for cleaning the tub after bathing.

Nosey neighbors? Paint your screens black on the inside and white on the outside. Nobody will be able to look in—but you will be able to look out and, of course, that isn't being nosey, is it?

HOW ABOUT THE CONTROL GROUP?

The city fathers of Eston, England, tried an experiment.

They decided that children have destructive impulses, breaking things just for the fun of it.

So they undertook to give the children a playground where these destructive impulses could be given a brisk work-out without any real harm being done. They put a truck and a van in the playground and told the kids to wreck them. Two months the youngsters tried. They finally finished the job.

Then, not unnaturally, the youngsters looked around for new worlds to conquer. And at hand was the playground itself. It was ripped asunder.

The Eston city fathers decided to close the playground permanently. Now that may have been the right decision, but it was certainly reached for the wrong reason. If that playground fence remained untouched for eight months, until the truck and van no longer offered an outlet for destructive impulses, it would appear that the Eston councillors' idea had merit. If it ended in failure, was not that the fault of the council in failing to replenish the supply of legitimate wrecking material?

The right way, what about the control group? Surely this experiment was not undertaken without a chance to compare the results with the wreckage wrought by a group of children who had no opportunity to vent impulses on a truck and a van? We should be very much surprised to learn that the score for the control group in eight months was less than one playground fence.

NICE GIRLS IN NASTY ROLES

One of our contemporaries is concerned about nice, refined girls playing roles which are anything but nice in the movies.

"It is hard to understand why a really nice young girl (or mum) will put herself into such a role, at least knowingly," it complains.

One wonders whether, if this rule had been in force in Elizabethan times, Shakespeare would have attained fame. He might have had difficulty discovering an actress who possessed the right mixture of ruthless and ambitious to qualify for the role of Lady MacBeth. And what nice man, or nasty man either for that matter, would have volunteered to play the role of Shylock? Where would Shakespeare have discovered a shrew to be tamed?

Of course, it may be argued that court reports indicate that Hollywood is equipped to handle almost any role. Nice girls who would be embarrassed by the adjectival "B-girls" are much too busy playing blushing (and first-time) brides. Their real-life night club playmates are, of course, firmly entrenched as the sirens of the screen's strong silent type. Under these circumstances, any attempt to keep sweet young things out of nasty roles would almost inevitably lead to a complete break-down of the entire movie industry.

IS THERE A DUCHESS IN THE HOUSE?

The government-owned B.B.C. recently came up with the greatest advance in the television industry since the invention of the cathode tube. The beautiful Duchess of Rutland, dressed in a magnificent evening gown, was paid to sit before the TV cameras holding a book and saying not a word. The stunning duchess was a smashing success. The whole thing was senseless. It is hard to imagine anything more pleasing to almost everybody than the picture of a beautiful woman, richly gowned, sitting silently in repose. It is to be hoped that the idea spreads, with all possible speed, to the TV producers in Canada and the United States.

Sealing Days Almost Over

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

These days must be strange indeed to the old timers. Their world seems to have been swept aside before new ideas and new ways of doing things that have practically gone. Ships with sails have all but disappeared. There is not quite so much excitement and adventure on the Grand Banks these days, and a whaler is a rare sight in the northern waters.

But nothing is quite so sad to old fishermen as the demise of the sealing fleet. Only one vessel will go out from the Newfoundland port of St. John's this year, and there will be no observance of the traditional first opening of the seal hunt on March 12.

The end of sealing ships has been coming steadily. Oil and skin prices have dropped so low that sealing is now a very small outfitting of ships. Besides that, hunting seals on the ice floes is dangerous. Last year sealers were five ships in the hunt. In 1949 there were 15 ships and 4,000 men on the vessels. And in the years before, the annual operation was described as a separate operation, the Greenland Seal, the Hooded Seal and the Bearded Seal were the popular species, and the "sea cows" were so rarely considered that in just 20 years after their discovery they were extinct. It is not often realized that in those early days the seal provided meat, fuel, oil, leather, fertilizer, fur, clothing, light and heat.

Even the most wary, the grey and common seals killed now are taken for their pelts. All seals are protected during the breeding grounds or on floating ice. Between the Magdalen Islands and the Atlantic-Arctic area used to kill from 600,000 to 700,000 seals a year. Newfoundland and Labrador vessels normally accounted for 250,000 of these.

The one ship from St. John's and two or three others from the Maritimes will not sail, except where near that number this year, the sealing industry will be dead as an end to organized hunts. While some Nova Scotia fishermen engage in the passing of an era, the young fishermen of the north Atlantic coast will have to do some more thinking about how they can keep scientific wards from damaging their equipment.

Year of Horse Began Feb. 3

(New York Times).

With the appearance February 3 of the first new moon following the winter solstice, the approximate date of the Chinese New Year, the most 500,000,000 people. Most of them will live about the year 4652 Chinese calendar were a mockery to the rising of the sun. Nothing escapes the attention of the Taoist astrologers and the New Year in the Taoist calendar. The Confucian Analects have either been ignored or misinterpreted. The Bible alone or discredited, so has Communism. They do not even know the ancient and spiritual meaning that the beginning of the new year should be held by the Communist party.

While followed by a period of festivities, the first day of the new year in China was predominantly a time for prayer and for the veneration of the family circle. These traditions are anathema to the present party line, intent upon destroying faith in all but their materialistic idols and on perverting family loyalties into a blind devotion to the monolithic state. However, for the people of Formosa and South Korea (where the Chinese New Year is also cele-

Hawk or Eagle In Living Room

Christian Science Monitor

A bull in a china shop is a familiar phrase, though an infrequent sight. But what of an eagle in a living room—or was it a hawk?

The policemen whom Miss Grace Gastagnetta of Wood-Ridge, New Jersey, called in early one morning after she had been awakened by a loud noise, and the Wood-ridge patrolmen had to resort to a picture of an eagle in a dictionary in order to identify Miss Gastagnetta's unwanted guest.

What pleases us in this incident is its illustration of the blurry line between the wholly improbable which at any time may enliven the routine of daily living. We have had beta fly down our chimney, sparrows fly in our windows, and chandeliers. But an eagle (or perhaps a hawk)! What vistas of possibility that opens up! Who knows? Perhaps we shall one day find a bear in the pantry, a stag in the powder room, or a sheepish wolf

Film Fame Finishing For Hepburn

(Winnipeg Free Press).

The films made by Ramon Novarro 30 years ago, today are museum pieces. Ramon, at 54 years of age only the film specialists would remember him. And in many circles he now would only be a name — dimly and uncertainly remembered.

Yet Mr. Novarro was one of the great lovers of the early screen. He starred in such films as The Pagan, The Arab, Ben Hur, Scaramouche, Romance, Call of the Flesh, etc., etc. In his day, when he went among crowds of public, fainting females followed him, obstructing traffic and otherwise behaving much as today's bobby-soxers behave over the present crooners and crooned.

The other day Mr. Novarro arrived at London, Ontario, by train and registered without arousing so much as a flicker of interest. Newspaper men went to interview him, but a private dinner the survivors of the Pagan Era Club was held. 30 years ago numbered its members in the thousands. Nineteen survivors turned out to greet the greying film actor, now a plump 54 and still a bachelor. London scarcely noticed Mr. Novarro. Of

Inflation— It's Wonderful

(Carleton Place Guardian)

Once there was a farmer who raised corn, and a man who raised hens but no corn. The hens said "no corn, no eggs." So the man agreed to work for the farmer one day a week for $3 a day. And the farmer agreed to sell corn to the man for $1 a bushel.

They pay each other off every time with the long green. The farmer paid the man $6 and the man paid the $5 back to the farmer for the five bushels of corn which he wheeled home in his wheelbarrow. After a while, the man said to the farmer, "Everything's gone up, and I regret intensely to inform you that I can't work for less than $6 a day."

The farmer said, "I understand. But you must understand that everything's going up with me, too, and I regret intensely to inform you that I can't sell you corn for less than $1.20 a bushel." So the man got $6 a day, and $1.20 a bushel paid the farmer for the five bushels of corn. Both of them are "Happy days are here again."

By and by the man said to the farmer, "Things have gone up still more, and I will have to have less than $7.50 a day." The farmer agreed that was fair, but told the man that corn had gone up still higher with him. He would have to get $1.50 a bushel for the corn. The man agreed that was fair, and both said, "Happy days!" After that the man was getting $7.50 a day. The farmer was getting $1.50 per bushel for corn, and the hens were getting five bushels as always.

And so things went until the man got $12 a day and the farmer got $2 for a bushel and the man gave the farmer $10 a day. And the hens kept right on laying, even on Wednesdays. And the man's wife, "Ain't it wonderful! . . . $10 a day!"

And the farmer told his wife, "Ain't it wonderful! . . . $2 a bushel!" And the man of the farmer voted for the politicians; and that is how to "stop inflation."

The man got three times as much for the eggs, but paid three times as much for his shoes, "and the music went round and round."

Guernsey Cow Goes to Party

(Manchester Guardian)

Had an American tourist chanced to drop into the Blue Bell at Cockington the other day recently and found a cow in the public bar being offered a pint of beer (which she declined) he would have had an interesting story to tell his friends back home on the odd customs of the English.

But she was an unusual cow — one Sherman Delilah, 6½ years old, a Guernsey owned by the London dairy show—and she was attending a staff party given by the show's manager for the winning some 85 awards with his prize-winning herd during the year.

ebrated) and for the more than ten million overseas Chinese — the opening of Southeast Asia and the inhabitants of the Chinatowns of this and other countries—February 3 was a happy occasion. As the year of the horse replaced the year of the serpent in the annual cycle of the Chinese zodiac it was a time for fireworks, parades and omens, but, also a time for renewal of devotion.

Strength for the Day

THE OLD SATURDAY NIGHT

Yesterday I spoke about the passing of grandma and observed that it left a void in many homes, particularly of her name, was a circumstance disconcerting to behold.

Today I should like to register another passing, that of the old Saturday night. It was a wholesome institution, more valuable than the present Saturday night which is very often characterized by boisterous and rowdy conditions in general. The old Saturday night was a time of family gathering, and which I am sure this younger generation knows nothing about.

In the old days nobody ever went so see his girl on Saturday night. That would have been inconceivable. Saturday night was a time when the boys met together the stores were all open, and the banks also. The streets of all villages and cities were crowded with people just walking about or standing in little groups and visiting, or looking in at the shop windows, or going into the stores and making purchases and visiting with the clerks and customers. Then by considerably everybody would be piling on the streetcars, for the old Saturday night leaves within a half hour. The streets of most villages had small cities were deserted by nine o'clock. It was a peaceful, restful night's sleep and were up in plenty of time for church the next morning.

Saturday evenings stand out in the memory of many of us as among the most pleasant seasons of youthful

Personal Health Talks

EDUCATED BELLOWS (1)

It is a well established therapeutic principle that belly breathing (natural breathing) prevents thrombosis in general medicine, surgery and obstetric practice. This has been recognized for twenty years or more, but a good many physicians, surgeons and obstetricians have evidently not yet learned about it.

Dr. Brady.

With possible exceptions, the nature of which I can't conceive at the moment, every medical, surgical or obstetric patient confined to bed for more than 48 hours should do the belly breathing exercise three or four times a day and once in the night if awake. Besides belly breathing as an exercise, beginning not longer than 48 hours after major operation or childbirth, doctors today require patients to get out of bed and walk about. This is done by being made, beginning 36 to 48 hours after major operation or childbirth. This has not only prevented thrombosis (clotting of blood in veins) and other complications but it has expedited healing and prevented loss of body tone and consequent flabbiness which often is so much to be desired.

As many many readers have reported that the practice of belly breathing on retiring helps them get to sleep at once. Others say they drop off before they can finish the sentence.

Others say it warms up their feet and it is hard to get to sleep if you feet are cold.

And I mean inflations.

The belly constitutes the front and side walls of the great body cavity called the abdomen which contains, for one thing, the diaphragm, which is the right side of the heart, whence it goes to the lungs for oxygenation. Belly breathing is call this booster pump action of prostatic healthy respiratory action of the thorax"—but for Pete's sake don't mention this to your doctor.

THE KNITTERS

Watching a woman knitting always gives me a sense of relief that woman's character—at least on the beautiful side of it. Nine out of ten times you can wager that she is doing it for someone she may be some member of the family, or friend. Many a one has been knitting for years in the service. A sweater, a pair of gloves, some warm sox, or a muffler.

Many of these knitters do beautiful work. Some of them do unbelievable, the home table, or perhaps for a spread to make the family room attractive. It's most always for others, however, that all that time and energy are spent.

I have often watched these knitters with the needles and have been amazed at their skill and speed. They do it so easily and without mistakes that it often wonder what they are thinking about as they work away, hour after hour. Probably they are thinking of the time when the job is finished and visualize themselves packing it up neatly and wrapping it for mailing to some distant place, and then awaiting the thrill of appreciation that is sure to follow. That is the great joy of life—appreciation.

Fingers are wonderful things! They respond to the slightest thought or suggestion. Fingers are everything to the violinist, the piano player, or anyone dealing on many another instrument. They are everything to the artist, the typist, the weaver of rare rugs, but millions of knitters would be bereft of every ambition without their fingers.

We are all familiar with those good grandmothers knitting, and deep in my heart I say a God-bless-you to her. She was a faithful old soul, most knitters. Many, many of them are mothers.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A friend of mine was taken to hospital the other day, and soon the word was spread that he had to have a serious operation. He was told that he must stay in bed for days before the surgery and his cronies rallied round. They brought him sent him flowers, books, magazines, fruit and the run of gifts taken to sick folk. During visiting hours each evening, his room was a concourse of men and women, all loaded with goodwill.

One of his visitors were some who came considerable distances. The one who came farthest was the editor of a small town weekly. He brought no gifts, not even a wispy of the latest issue of his paper. But he sat and had a long and friendly chat with the patient. He was delighted to have a visitor come a hundred and forty miles just to see him, and was touched over the jumps.

When he was seeing his immediate family just prior to going to the operating room, he said: "The last book I got this week was old Bill, the publisher, coming all the way to see me."

"Oh," said the doctor who was in the room, "I'm sure he'll be glad to give a pint of blood for you."

"A pint of blood!" exclaimed the patient.

"Yes. He was a country editor, friend of yours? Before he left, the word was spread that he was short of blood, and had the nurse put your name down."

This is something in the line of gifts to bring a friend in hospital, but we all realize what those generous souls who donate blood regularly do for those in need for other blood banks. But the idea of paying a visit to a friend in hospital and then to give him a check and draining off a pint of blood as a gift seems to be a strange, lonely and old-fashioned tone in it that might, in time, catch on and become fashionable.

More fashionable than flowers, magazines and fruit. It is a gift to a friend that could, hardly be more personal.

Testimony of Rifled Files, Ring, Enlivens Hearing

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—James Roosevelt, who says documents were missing from his files after his estranged wife broke into his office last August, was to resume the stand today at a hearing on her petition for support.

The thing is to determine whether the eldest son of the late president Franklin D. Roosevelt is able to pay $3,500 a month demanded by Mrs. Romelia Roosevelt. She seeks the sum for herself and their three children pending trial of their separate-maintenance suits.

Mrs. Roosevelt contends her husband is worth $2,000,000; he claims he is $78,000 in debt.

One of her lawyers, Arthur E. Schifferman, Monday introduced a torn document referring to a $2,500 trust payable on demand to one Irene Owens.

Schifferman told reporters that this was the Gladys Irene Owens whom Mrs. Roosevelt named with two other women as co-respondents. Mrs. Roosevelt, 36, accuses her husband of infidelities with 12 women. The lawyer said Mrs. Owens formerly was employed by one of Roosevelt's insurance firms.

QUESTIONED ABOUT RING

Schifferman also questioned Roosevelt, who was on the stand the entire day, about a $5,000 diamond ring purchased last November. Roosevelt, 49, claimed he bought it for his wife, but one of her lawyers said it was not her size and she never received it.

The torn paper, pasted together under transparent sheets, was in longhand and signed by John K. Sloan, Los Angeles lawyer. The document said the lawyer was holding in trust $2,500 payable to Irene Owens.

Roosevelt testified he put the money in trust "to try and safeguard some of my possessions which I believe were being tampered with." He said the money was for his own use and that Sloan has repaid the entire amount.

Asked by his lawyer, Samuel R. Picone, why he had placed the money in trust, Roosevelt replied he had lost confidence that his wife would not withdraw the entire amount from a joint account they previously had.

MALAYS ASK ELECTIONS

KUALA LUMBUR, Malaya (CP) Malayan political leaders Sunday decided to petition Britain's high commissioner, Gen. Sir Gerald Templer, and the Malay sultans for federal elections this year.

Lower Freight Rates For Lumber Requested

OTTAWA (CP)—Lumber producers on Canada's west coast have protested that high freight rates largely are responsible for their being pushed out of traditional markets in western Canada by competitors in central B.C.

The British Columbia Lumber Manufacturers' Association made the complaint Monday before the board of transport commissioners in an application requesting lower freight rates on lumber shipped from the B.C. coast to points between Calgary and Fort William and Port Arthur. The application is being opposed by the Southern Interior Lumber Association of B.C.

Council Favors Discontinuance Of Bus Agreement

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — City council Monday night recommended that the joint passenger franchise agreement between the city-owned London-to-Port Stanley Railway and a bus line be discontinued.

A two-year agreement with Eastern Canadian Greyhound Bus Lines is nearing its end. Under the agreement Greyhound pays the London and Port Stanley Railway 10 per cent on all bus tickets sold on the Port Stanley run.

London taxpayers last December voted down a proposal to sell the electric railway's passenger business to Greyhound. Council members who favored abolition of the bus agreement said the vote also indicated the ratepayers want the agreement terminated.

Father of Five Children Drowns

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Lawrence Lamont of this city, father of five young children, was drowned Monday at Callahans lake, a mile west of Echo, 130 miles north of here on the Algoma Central Railway line.

Lawrence, an assistant logging superintendent with Gillet Logging Company, was a passenger on a tractor which was crossing the lake and went through the ice. The tractor operator, Donald Emery, was rescued.

May Question Foster Parents On Baby Racket

MONTREAL (CP) — A commission may visit New York City soon to interview foster parents of children allegedly purchased on Montreal's black market, it was learned today.

The commission would include a judge, representatives of the crown and counsel for those charged in connection with what police have described as a $3,000,000 international racket in baby adoptions.

A source close to the investigation said the commission would be used to collect evidence from couples, returned by police to have paid from $2,500 to $10,000 to obtain babies of unwed mothers.

It was understood that some New York couples have been reluctant to appear in courts here to testify but have expressed a willingness to appear before a registry commission.

SCAN MATERNITY HOMES

While the multi-angled investigation followed activity, police turned their attention to shady maternity homes in the Montreal region, believed to be supply sources for the black market operators.

Police Monday reported 22 "baby mill" scattered throughout the city which they said were serving as a source of supply of illegitimate children for king's adoption racket.

They admitted there may be others not yet uncovered.

Police said the "mills" looked like private homes, but were used to give shelter to unmarried mothers.

Trained physicians were on hand and free care was provided unmarried pregnant women if they agreed to sign over their babies for immediate adoption.

Some girls also drew sums varying from $40 to $50.

A police spokesman said officials still are baffled about the way girls are directed to these homes. A few were said to have been approached by agents of the baby ring months before birth was due.

SEEK KEY WITNESS

No arrests were made Monday but police were reported searching for a key witness, believed to have been in with the gang since 1949. Police declined to name arrests are likely, but said they now are concentrating on building the prosecution case against two Montreal lawyers arrested last week.

They are Louis Glazer, 32, and Herman Buller, 37, are out on bail pending preliminary hearing Friday. Three women taken to headquarters for questioning have been released. All three, police said, gave them valuable information.

Neil van Allen Displays Great Talent as Pianist

(By EUGENE LANG)

For the second time within a space of four years one of Canada's most talented and versatile young pianists, Mr. Neil van Allen, displayed his highly competent musicianship at his chosen instrument, the piano, before an audience of music lovers collected from this city and surrounding district, as he appeared in the Collegiate auditorium here yesterday evening. Born in this city twenty-five years ago, Mr. van Allen began his serious music studies in Halifax upon moving there at the age of ten. He studied in Toronto from 1941 to 1949, then journeyed to London, England, for tutorship under such renowned piano pedagogues as Sydney Harrison and George Woodhouse.

On British soil he appeared widely for three years in the dual roles of recitalist and soloist with orchestra, appearing one year ago in the famous Wigmore Hall in a performance that was acclaimed by critics and public alike. Both in England and in Canada he has been heard frequently over the radio as pianist and has been noted for his playing of contemporary piano compositions. Numerous scholarships have come his way to further his musical career, and since his return to Canada he has been appearing extensively throughout Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes. Sponsored here last evening by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Belleville, Mr. van Allen showed a solid musicianship and technical command of the piano that definitely rates him as one of Canada's finest young pianists, destined to have a most brilliant career in years ahead.

OPENS WITH 'CHACONNE'

To open his recital Mr. van Allen chose Ferruccio Busoni's grandiose transcription of J. S. Bach's immortal "Chaconne". This slow stately dance of Spanish origin was originally written as the final movement of the four-movement suite for violin by Bach, but Busoni, along with other 19th century composers and editors, replaced each violin form as merely a springboard for something far grander in final conception. Thus, we have a work of extreme pianistic difficulty, yet never once does the piano degenerate to mere technical display at the gamble of losing sight of the tragic grandeur of expression that achieves the work from beginning to end. Mr. van Allen poured a nobility of thought and feeling into this marathon theme and variations in the playing of it, letting Bach speak as the inspired creator of the composition over the splendid embellishment and ornamentation that Busoni wrought into his arrangement of it. In other words, Mr. van Allen did not use his technical facility as a springboard for ostentation, but used his powers of musical mentality first, his technique at the keyboard second in his marvelous playing of this great classic.

The Sonata in C Major (K. 330) of Mozart was the second number that Mr. van Allen so deftly performed. In this delightful composition by the prolific Austrian, a pair of hands were brought into use—hands that compelled the instrument to bring forth glittering scales and crystalline arpeggios, hands that did not unduly pound the keyboard but seemed to subtly caress those black and white elongated ivory projections known as piano keys all the niceties and polished clarity that was possible to extract from this work of grace and charm.

CONTRASTING NUMBERS

"The Maiden and the Nightingale" of Granados was given a performance of heavily charged sensuality and serenity, as a direct contrast to the rhythmic abandon and frenzied verve of the terrifically technical proportions of Ravel's "Alborado del Gracioso." This latter number showed the fluidity of technique and the full tonal colourations of the artist to great advantage, wherein he used his brawn and brain to its utmost.

Tchaikowsky's brilliant "Dumka" was masterfully played, as was Mr. van Allen's first Canadian performance of the "Carousal" of the modern English composer, Jacobson. The latter number was strictly new to these ears, thus it might be possible they did not hear all that supposed to be heard, but to say one thing—there were certainly a lot of notes to listen to, reaching, wherein he used his brawn and brain to its utmost.

Ladies Auxiliary Of Hasty Pees Holds Meeting

The Hasty Pee's Ladies' Auxiliary met on Thursday night in the Church Street Armouries, with sixteen members present. Final arrangements were made for the Valentine Dance. New members, associate members and friends. When the business of the evening was over the president, Jeanette Toms presented a brooch and earring set to Mabel Galbraith, a gift to show gratitude for her wonderful work as secretary-treasurer for the past two years. Mrs. Galbraith was happily surprised and voiced her thanks in her own charming way.

At the final meeting in January a happy evening was spent at which time Edna Hobbs was presented with a table lamp in appreciation for a job well done as president for 1953. Mrs. Hobbs in her gracious manner thanked the ladies and invited all to visit her and see the lamp in her home.

This was followed by a few games of euchre with the prizes going to Ruth Kelly, Minnie McFarlane and Pearl Herron.

A delicious pot-luck supper was served bringing this delightful evening to a close.

Calgary Women Taking Course In Hobby

CALGARY (CP)—Ever feel like heckling your partner on the way he does those repair jobs?

A group of Calgary women are taking a night course in woodworking which will put them in a position to handle with authority.

At the Institute of Technology of Art, the women are learning to turn out tables, lamps, bookshelves and other household furniture. It is a 72-hour course with classes of two hours each, held twice weekly.

Why do women take such a course?

"I'm taking the course for the fun of it, and because I think it's a good idea to be able to use hand tools properly, and know something about machine tools," says a doctor's wife.

ADDED ABILITY

"I think most of the women in the class are taking it so they can either heckle their husbands' efforts during the right way, or failing that, so they can do the jobs themselves," the woman added.

Another "student" explained: "I have been an amateur cabinet maker in Victoria and I want to finish as much as I can myself, particularly the interior. I want to change it around a lot so it will fit in with our new home."

"One of my women friends built her house herself, so I guess a lot can do it, another can. I just wish I had started the course a long time ago."

A sister and brother team, Dorothy and Raymond Blust, have taken up woodworking as a hobby.

"We both want to make furniture for the house," said Dorothy. "I am working on a set of floor lamps and my brother has a cedar chest and an end table on the go. We are having a lot of fun out of it, too."

Laziness of Women One Of Chief Assets of Industry

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (CP)—Talking with assorted business men, I've decided that the laziness of women is one of the chief assets of industry.

In fact, the top brains of science and finance are constantly at work to make us even lazier.

We are encouraged to buy automatic washing machines, electric dishwashers, electronic devices for watching the baby, cooking the roast or opening the garage doors.

We are pampered by food companies which do all our cooking for us. We can buy anything from chicken pot pie to French hors d'oeuvres in frozen food packages, ready to heat and serve.

All we need to become a champion cake baker is a package of one of the popular cake mixes. Biscuits and rolls, that Grandma used to labor hours to make, are ours in a package.

My most recent observation on the economic importance of being lazy was with a big, genial Irishman named Dan Mahony, a merchandising executive for Lily-Tulip Cup Corp. Naturally he thinks it's a crime to have to wash dishes and believes everybody should use paper cups, plates and containers.

"No woman ever really enjoyed washing dishes—that's for sure. And today's trend toward backyard dining, barbecues, patio parties and TV snacks is right up our alley."

GET RID OF IT

The trend of the times is toward making practically everything disposable—and we've already gone a long way toward that goal.

Already you can serve a full-course dinner on disposable dishes, bake in disposable pans, store your leftovers in paper cartons, dress the baby in disposable diapers, mop up shiny tables with paper towels, wipe your nose with a tissue handkerchief and even go swimming in a paper bathing suit.

In the future we may all be dressed in disposable clothes, which can be tossed in the incinerator when soiled.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BE CONTENT TO WAIT AWHILE FOR SERIOUS ROMANCE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am over 17 years old and am going to business.

The boy with whom I was going steady moved to another state a year ago, and since then I have been seeing him only four times a year. Now he is planning on going to college still further away, and I know that will mean I will see him only on my occasional visits his four year's college course.

He has told me he loves me and asked me to wait for him, and while I love him too, do you think that, under the circumstances, I should wait for him?

N.D.J.

If you follow my columns at all regularly, I'm sure you must know that, in my opinion, it is most unwise for boys and girls to tie themselves up to one individual while in their teens. As I see it, the time for the teens for the young pople to have many friends of both sexes, instead of just one "steady" because that is the only way anyone can learn how to judge character and to know themselves. By that I mean, to know all sorts of different people well enough to understand what sort of person is most suited to and most compatible with one's own self, and this sort of judgment is the most important thing in making a wise choice of whom to marry.

This being my opinion, I can only say that I would consider it much wiser for you not to tell this boy you will wait for him, but that both of you feel free to go out with others for the next few years. If your feeling for each other is of the kind which lasts and is lasting, you will gradually find it out and later on want to be engaged. If it is not that sort of feeling, you will be content just to consider yourselves good friends and not expect anything more of each other.

SHALL SHE INVITE THIS PROFESSIONAL MAN TO HER DANCE?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Our Alumnae Association is having a dance, and I would very much like to ask a young dentist to be my escort.

might feel it better not to turn his am wondering what the proper approach would be, and inasmuch as he is in the professional field, I feel a little afraid my invitation would not be accepted. If I do invite him, should I write or phone him, and also should I pay for the tickets?

I am 32 and he is 35. — Carole

Dear Carole:

If you know this dentist socially, it seems to me it would be quite in order for you to ask him to your Alumnae Association dance, and of course since it is an organization to which you belong, and he evidently doesn't, you should pay for the tickets. Why not phone his being "in the professional field" should have any bearing on whether or not your invitation is accepted, unless your only acquaintance with him is that he is your dentist, in which case he might feel better not to turn the professional relationship with you into a social one.

If you do already know him a little note, tell him your Alumnae Association is having this dance and that you would like to invite him to go with you if he is free on that night, that would be the proper way to go at it.

I hope things will work out nicely, and that you will have a fine time at the dance.

LETTERS AND ANSWERS SENT THIS YOUNG MAN VERY IMMATURE FOR HIS AGE?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 18, and the boy I love is 20. He is always teasing me about other girls because he knows how jealous I am. Then, when he teases me, I get very angry and we start a quite a lot, and it upsets me very much. My mother said if we didn't stop arguing all the time, I would have to quit going with him, and I couldn't stand that.

Could you please tell me what I could do about my jealousy, because I am afraid I will lose him if I don't get over it?

M.C.

Did you ever stop to think that you might perhaps be a little fearful that you, as a teen-ager, are a little young for a boy who has turned 20, and so he might eventually drop you for some girl closer to his own age? If people are really sure of themselves in relation to another person, they don't get upset and jealous, but can just laugh off teasing of this kind, knowing it doesn't mean anything. The fact that it upsets you so much makes me suspect that you're afraid you may not be able to hold the young man's interest.

It's not very nice of him, of course, to keep teasing you and trying to make you jealous. But why play into his hands by giving his the satisfaction of seeing how seriously you take it? If you paid no attention, he'd soon get tired of it and stop it, so in short, you simply encourage this childish streak in him, by acting like a child yourself. I'd advise him that you're too mature to bother with such nonsense, but you could try begin to see that the whole thing is pretty childish and he'd better be his age, too.

Which, brings up the point if he really is his age, he would be finding girl friends in the same age group, instead of looking for them in high school. The interests of a normal young man of 20 should be quite different from the interests of a 16-year-old, and if they aren't, I would strongly suspect he is a very immature individual indeed.

'Julia Works Wonders...'

By Mary Moore

Two or three weeks ago I mentioned in this column that I would mail a release of the January 1953 entitled "Julia Works Wonders for Four" on $15.00 Per Week" to a reader who was requesting suggestions for making her small food allowance stretch further.

Prompted by my mention of it I received so many letters from other readers for this release that I had to make a new printing. The new printing includes all of Julia's letter, and this is it:

"Dear Mary Moore—I manage to stretch $15 a week for four and think I'm doing wonders at that, make my own bread . . . 4 loaves each in headcheese tins which I cadged from the butcher (I took him a loaf of homemade bread to thank him for them). The bread is made from your "Simplified White Bread" recipe . . . I use cooking oil to keep it moist because it is simpler than fat. Also I use all the flour Wicky Cake. I "butter" our loaves with margarine when they come hot from the oven.

"I use margarine wherever other economy—and it agrees with all our skins. It is harder and lasts longer; we can get along on a nail brush at the back of the bath for a week with margarine . . . I watch for 2-for-something sales of cake mixes. I find 3 cake mixes for 49c are more economical than I can mix up . . . at Christmas my grocer sold me a goose with torn skin on shoulder for 30c a lb. At New Year's I got another at 15c lb.—the last one he had and I had to pick out some pin feathers but it was worth it.

"Often he has a last week's hare that he trims for me and sells for 5 or 7c. per lb. less. I get a beef bone with fat and no meat for nothing and with a very little meat for 10c. He frequently has boiling chickens for 37c per lb. When stuffed and rubbed with bacon fat and cooked slowly at 300 deg. it is as nice or nicer than any "roaster" . . . I buy 2 dozen pullet eggs from my egg man at 49c per dozen now.

Here are some of our menus on $15 per week:

BREAKFASTS—

Orange or tomato juice, or squeezed oranges with 1-lemon added to the pitcher; oatmeal or Wheat or wheat flake cereal hot, with milk and sugar, scrambled eggs or omelette or bacon or boiled egg; cocoa or milk, coffee; toast and honey or homemade jam.

LUNCHES—

(For husband and daughter to carry) 2 slices homemade bread sandwiches or egg, meat or fowl; celery and cheese; 2 soda biscuits; apple or gingerbread cake or cookies. (My daughter takes a milk ticket for milk; my husband eats heat water and make coffee at work.)

LUNCHES—

(At home when husband is on nights): soup, biscuits, cheese, shredded lettuce, bread, fruit and cake or cookies or graham wafers, tea and milk for son.

Often soup is made from canned tomatoes and milk. We love lentil soup and a 28-oz. can lasts 2 meals for all 4. Don't forget the baking soda in tomatoes, and don't let soup boil for an instant after adding milk . . . it has a better flavor if seeds are left in and margarine is added to pan first before adding tomatoes and is allowed to sizzle a little with a little onion in.

Today for lunch we had soup and homemade bread and pan cakes with honey, boiled meat, sugared honey crepe hot water pudding and sliced piece of margarine). We also had salad.

Here is my week's supply of meat bought today: 3 lb. riblets (cheaper than spareribs but delicious barbecued), 15c per lb.; 2 lbs. pork liver 25c lb.; 1-2 lb. bacon (Olds 1-2 lb.), soup bone 10c, 1 blade roast $2.81 at 55c lb. This was large but lovely, so we had some in half and froze half in freezer for next week. We will have lamb with Mint Sauce one meal, liver will do two meals, riblets 1 meal, bologna 1 meal (sometimes I get it to last it and serve with fluffy mashed potatoes), 2 meals and maybe the soup made very hearty with perhaps the roast cod or small bit of liver if any left; soup mix will be added, lentils and bits of celery and carrots. The meals I have mentioned were all specials at the store and that's why prices are quoted (Note from M.M.: These are 1953 prices. The present-day cost of meat is somewhat lower in 1954.)

"I've a birthday cake column as long as I've been married. Then I could only bake scalloped potatoes, macaroons . . . so you've turned out another good cook in your circle. — Julia"

Anyone can see that it isn't my column that deserves the credit — that Julia girl has savvy and determination, and a sunny disposition.

I hope Julia sees this repeat and writes to me again.

Beauty

THE DAILY BATH HELPS BEAUTIFY THE COMPLEXION

Are you hipped on the subject of bathing?M Do you love to relax in the tub, scrub your body until it tingles, and smell pretty while you do it? If so, you are obeying the first law of beauty which is scrupulous cleanliness. Find a girl who would rather miss breakfast than her bath and you will find a pretty dolly who always looks as fresh as May morning.

Many a muddy complexion or a blemished skin can clear up under the soap-and-water-and-friction treatment that is the essence of the daily ritual. Have a rousing scrub-session each day. No lessing in and jumping out!

If the beauty budget permits, get yourself an array of fragrant bath toiletries. Go to the cosmetic counter and "shoot the works." Even if you wind up with only castare soap for the whole family, it's fun to make a production of it.

Bath salts are used not only for their fragrance. They soften the water, make the bath more cleansing. There is a small handful of them in your first turn on the hot water, so they quickly dissolve.

The dusting powder of the same scent. After you have used a well-soaped brush way down to your little pink toes, after you have had a rinsing shower and a rub down, fluff on the powder.

Buy large bath towels. Small ones are no fun to dry yourself. Wash clothes, too, should be large and heavy if they are to be satisfactory.

Don't economize on toilet soap. Get the best. You may prefer it perfumed or without so odor, but the main idea is to get a soap that is bland and that lathers quickly.

The guests, including ladies from Stirling, and members of church groups at Carmel, Rivoli Valley and Mount Pleasant paid their tea tickets to Mrs. Earl Bailey, treasurer.

During the program Mrs. Arthur Fryer, Carmel, played the piano, Miss Marlene Carlisle sang two selections, and Mrs. Jeffery sang "Rose of Tralee" and "I'll Take You Home Again Kathleen," with Mrs. Herb. Davis as accompanist.

The guests were invited to the tea room by Mrs. Clifford Lanning and Mrs. Harold Martin.

ATTRACTIVE SETTING

The dining table was laid with a snowy linen cloth, centred with a silver basket of hot house roses and buds and a canopy of white lace doilies with red heart motifs and ferns.

Two sets of candelabra with tinted red candles and white feline servitelles added to the attractiveness of the setting.

At one end of the table was the silver service and Mrs. J. Hough, Miss Della Caldwell and Mrs. L. B. Thompson poured at various intervals.

The waitresses were Mrs. Harry Vandervoort, Mrs. Elmer Post, Mrs. Harry Smith, Mrs. Jack McCaughen, Mrs. Lorne Wilson and Miss Ruth Elliott.

These ladies served sandwiches, various relishes and a variety of one-dish cookies along with tea.

Those who replenished the plates were, Mrs. S. Elliott, Mrs. Frank Wood, Mrs. J. Hough, Oliver Stapley and Mrs. Harvey Pitcher.

The bake table set up in the den was convened by Mrs. E. Munroe with Mrs. Dora Leury and Mrs. Sid Williams as assistants.

The booth provided everything for a quality meal, homemade bread, pies, cakes, rich dairy butter and farmers' cream. There were piles of lemon, apple, raisin, date and berry; chocolate layer cakes with luscious frosting numerous white cakes interspersed in Valentine pink, banana cake, loaf cake, cup cakes iced in pink and white, ice-box cookies; a large variety of drop cakes, delectable tarts; an assortment of mustard and plain pickle, peach conserve, grape jam, etc. The ladies in charge were busy parcelling up the fine food for eager buyers and well over thirty dollars was realized from the bake sale.

Approximately 125 ladies attended the tea and the proceeds including the sale of articles of necessary funds for the supply department to carry on during the winter months and the coming months.

The tea was nicely convened and very successful and St. Paul's W.A. group can well be proud of their venture.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHAM

AN INVITATION PROBLEM

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

1. My husband and I would like to invite four couples on a very special problem. About two years ago we built a new house, and about six months ago we became parents after a wait of many years. When we moved into our house we did not have a housewarming, but now we would like to have an "open house" so that our friends can see not only our house but our new daughter also. We would like to have a cocktail party on Sunday afternoon, from 4-6, for approximately 85 guests. My problem is the invitations. My husband thinks it would be satisfactory to use our Informals—on the front of them cards are our names, for example Mr. and Mrs. William Hall—and on the inside write:

Who: Will and Sally

When: March 7th

What: Cocktails

Why? "Open House"!

This form does not seem proper to me, and I wish you would give us your opinion.

2. I also plan to serve punch, in the punch bowl, in the home who do not care for alcoholic beverages. Would it be necessary to write this information on the invitations?

S.

1. I'm not very enthusiastic about this form of invitation. . . . particularly the "Just Because," and I have two such wonderful reasons for this party! I do agree with your husband that it is best to use your Informals for the invitations.

I suggest you write you new address on the front of the card, in the lower right corner, with your telephone number in the lower left corner, if you wish. Be sure to include the day, as well as the date — and don't omit the hours.

My suggestion: a short, cordial note reading:

Dear Kate,

You and Joe will make us very happy if you will come to a party here on Sunday, March 7th, 4-to-6. ..to greet our new house, and our new baby daughter, Dorothy. Do say 'yes'!

Devotedly,

2. Not necessary to write on the invitations this information about serving non-alcoholic drinks. . . today this plan is taken for granted. Also, if you invite to a "party" instead of to "cocktails," you would take the accent from the serving of alcoholic drinks.

TO BE INVITED TO SIT AT THE BRIDAL TABLE?

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

Besides the maid of honor and best man, we are having six bridesmaids and six ushers at our formal church wedding. We are to have a special bridal table. Three of the bridesmaids and two of the ushers are married. Is it absolutely necessary that the wives be seated (told) for me to invite the husbands of the bridesmaids and the wives of the ushers to sit at the bridal table? — Georgina M.

No, this is not necessary. . . it is not customary. Of course you would like the husbands to be especially wish to, but it is generally taken for granted that only the members of the wedding party are seated at the bridal table. This applies to the reception the harmony of attire worn at the ceremony.

Mrs. Virtan welcomed all and took charge of the business. The secretary, Mrs. Orval Stratton called the roll and gave the minutes of the last meeting which were adopted as read. Several letters were read, expressing thanks for baskets of fruit at Christmas and for cards sent at that time. Mrs. Virtan expressed thanks for the card from the W.A. and to all who sent cards to Mr. Virtan when he was in the hospital.

A letter was received from Mr. McLean Haig for the $30 donation to the Hospital Building Fund. A donation of $10 was made to the March of Dimes fund.

CHATTERTON W.I. MEETS

The February meeting of the Chatterton Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Bloor.

The meeting opened with the singing of the Institute Ode and the Mary Stewart Collect. The business was conducted by the president, Mrs. Mitts.

The convener, Mrs. Mitts, gave a talk inspired by the month's motto, "Don't try to create a community spirit, rather work together for great ends and the community spirit will come of itself."

Mrs. Reid, the district president, was the guest speaker and enlarged upon the community spirit theme of Mrs. Mitts' talk.

THIS UP PROGRAM

Mrs. Reid suggested that a tidy up program would add much to the beauty of our community and should include the cutting of brush and the practice of care in the disposal of refuse while motoring or picnicing. She also suggested upon seeing a youth program and taking an interest in the activities already organized in the community. Mrs. Bloor served refreshments in keeping with a Valentine motif.

Funny Stories Going Rounds Behind Curtain

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Probably people have joked about their government ever since they set up their first one.

So it's a relief to know the same thing still goes on behind the iron curtain, even though the jesting may be grim and dangerous.

Anyone who escapes from a Communist-controlled country is asked, among other things, what stories are going the rounds. For example:

A Soviet officer was explaining to a Czech peasant how Russia could deal with the United States. "We could pack 20 atom bombs in 20 leather suitcases," he said, "and distribute them all over America."

The peasant looked doubtful. "What's the matter?" asked the officer. "Don't you believe we Russians have 20 atom bombs?"

"Oh, I wasn't thinking of that," the peasant said. "I was just wondering where you'd ever find 20 leather suitcases."

A TOUGH DAY

Then there was the secret police agent who went out to discover what the people really thought of the Communist regime.

The first day was tough. Nothing but complaints. Finally he found a laborer who spoke highly of the Communists.

"People can say what they like about the Communists," the laborer said, "but as far as I'm concerned, I'd rather work for them than anyone else."

"Fine, fine," said the agent. "And what type of work do you do?"

"Me?" said the laborer. "I'm a grave digger."

All Stamps Sold

CAIRO (Reuters) — Ex-king Farouk's collections of Egyptian stamps brought a total of more than £78,000 at the auction sales which ended here Monday night.

Sales by the Egyptian government of the deposed monarch's collection of stamps from the rest of the world are due to open Wednesday.

The last batch of Egyptian stamps sold for about $46,000 to K. Bileski of Winnipeg who was also among the highest bidders Sunday.

Bileski paid $7,500 for a unique collection specially prepared for exhibition at the Paris and Brussels philatelist congresses in 1949.

CANADIANS AT SHAPE MEET TOURING PRIME MINISTER

In Canada, Catherine Clausen, Vancouver, and Madeleine Hart, Winnipeg, would never, in the normal course of events, meet a prime minister of Canada. But, employed at SHAPE headquarters in Paris, they found themselves introduced to Mr. St. Laurent during his visit there. The prime minister reviewed Canadian troops in Germany before continuing to Italy as part of his world tour itinerary. (Central Press Canadian).

Capital Spending $5,800,000,000 In '54 Says Howe

OTTAWA (CP) — Government and private industry will spend an estimated $5,800,000,000 this year—three per cent more than in 1953—on new construction, machinery and equipment.

Trade Minister Howe Monday gave the Commons a preview of a government survey of planned capital spending this year during a general debate on unemployment. He said the full report of the survey will be made public soon.

Spending on new construction, he said, will be an estimated $2,865,000,000, a six-per-cent increase over last year.

He gave no figure for spending on new machinery and equipment, which he said will be down by three per cent. But on the basis of his percentage it would total $2,935,000,000.

The latest comparable government figures for 1953 are those estimated last July. They estimated total capital investment last year at $5,564,000,000 of which $3,478,000,000 was for new construction and $2,085,000,000 for new machinery and equipment.

SPENDING HIGHER

He said new capital spending by business and investors in 1954 will be four per cent higher than last year, and their spending on new construction would be up six per cent.

(Estimates for 1953 were $4,784,000,000 for non-government capital investments, including $2,763,000,000 for non-government spending on new construction.)

The total of capital outlays by federal, provincial and municipal governments is expected to remain about the same as last year, Mr. Howe said.

(Estimated capital expenditures in 1953 by the three governments were: Federal $533,000,000; provincial $239,000,000; municipal, $196,000,000.)

Mr. Howe added:

"This projected volume of capital spending has far-reaching significance for the trend of economic activity in 1954. Expenditures on new capital goods account for about 23 per cent of total production in the economy. Prospects of a further increase in the capital expenditure programs means that in over-all terms this important sector of demand will be more than maintained."

Crown Attorney Says Inquest Will Be Held

SARNIA (CP)—Crown attorney S. A. K. Logan announced Monday an inquest will be held, probably next week, into the death of Louise Blackhall in a hotel room here last October. She was found shot through the abdomen with a .38 calibre revolver which was on a table.

Mr. Logan said: "I have no doubt in my mind that the woman's death was suicide but because of all the publicity and rumors that surrounded the case, I feel we must hold an inquest."

He said the two men who found the woman dying have moved out of the city but "they haven't vanished."

"If we can locate them we'll call them in for the inquest but we'll hold the inquest whether we find them or not," he said.

Two handwritten notes were public.

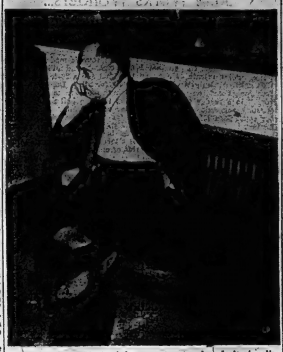
Hastings County Farm Forum

The five forum meetings to talk about "What Grade, Madam," were: Brookdale (13), Foxboro (9), Hazzard's (19), Melrose (13) and River Valley (17).

The first question asked: "Are there any products in your area that are not sold to the consumer by grade and which you think should be?" Melrose says: "Cheese, beef and poultry sold to the local butcher are not graded." Hazzard's think cheese and bacon should be graded. River Valley says that products grown and sold in small quantities prove impractical to grade and stress that they should be as good in the bottom of the container as on top. Foxboro would like to see milk pooled and paid for according to grade which should raise the quality. Brookdale believes cheese should be sold by grade and dated. "Does a grade means what it says?" Eggs (grade A) have been purchased in a large groceteria in Toronto and not fit to use—also same with potatoes.



As to carrying the grade through from producer to consumer—this cannot be done with pork and other cheese. Product reaching the consumer in the same state as it leaves the producer should have the grade carried through, such as cheese, poultry, eggs.

Sometimes improper merchandising causes a deterioration in food from producer to consumer —this depends a great deal on the quality of the store.

In order to have definite standards for grades it is necessary to have inspectors—the cost of which reacts on the producer. Melrose thinks it a good plan to ask for the removal of the red and white cellophane paper wrapping on bacon, as it certainly makes a lot more lean meat show up on the outside that is not on the inside when opened.

The forums were unanimous in asking that the "guide" keep on coming.

House Members Pay Tribute To Miss Macphail

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of the Commons Monday paid tribute to Agnes Macphail, first woman member of the Canadian Parliament, who died Saturday.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, (PC—Hamilton West), one of four women in the Commons, said Miss Macphail had been "an inspiration to all women" and made it possible for other women to seek elective posts and to play a greater part in Canadian public life.

Miss Macphail, who sat for 19 years in the Commons and five in the Ontario legislature, was "a courageous figure who lent color and substance" to Canadian politics.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF party leader said all parties, despite differences of opinion, held Miss Macphail in high regard for her sincerity of purpose in promoting penitentiary reforms.

Citizenship Minister Harris, who unseated Miss Macphail in 1940 in Grey-Bruce, said she was held in admiration for her intelligence and sincerity. She was "an outstanding advocate of causes which needed an advocate."

Eisenhower Resists Pleas U.S. Get Into Indo-China War

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower was described today as standing firm against increased urging from both France and Britain for broader United States participation in the Indo-China war.

The president is said by informed sources to have told Republican congressional leaders that the only manpower commitments he intends to make are for 200 armed-services mechanics already sent to Indo-China, plus permitting civilians to volunteer to fly French planes. Shipments of U.S. material are reported being stepped up.

The president told a press conference last week that he could not conceive of a greater tragedy than for the United States to get heavily engaged in an all-out war in that area.

Informed sources said the president has indicated that because of their interest in Malaya British leaders have joined the French in urging more U.S. help for Indo-China's anti - Communist forces. This conceivably could include naval and air units.

STRATEGY REVIEW

Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and state undersecretary Walter Bedell Smith were to face Senate foreign relations committee members in a closed session today in what could develop into a searching review of U.S. military strategy as it affects foreign policy.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said in an interview that he believes members of Congress need to know more about the administration's "new look" military program.

Johnson is not a foreign-relations committee member but some Democrats on the group are known to share his views.

SWAN RESCUED

OSHAWA (CP) — A white swan Friday was freed from ice on Oshawa harbor after being caught fast for 13 hours. The 25-pound bird was caught in thickening ice about 100 yards from shore and was at first thought to be dead. However, Ross Bennett broke the ice with a rowboat, got the bird and freed it in open water.

Formation of Phone Authority Proposed in Bill

TORONTO (CP)—Formation of an Ontario telephone authority to regulate and advise approximately 500 independent telephone companies operating in the province is proposed in a bill introduced in the Legislature Monday.

The bill, a complete revision of an act which has remained untouched since 1919, would improve the service provided to 264,000 subscribers by the independents. It is based on the recommendations of the Ontario hydro commission's rural telephone committee, set up in 1951.

Under the act, the authority would regulate rates, order construction of alteration of plants to provide adequate service, set up bookkeeping standards, arbitrate disputes and establish training schools for personnel.

24-HOUR SERVICE

Any telephone authority decisions would be subject to appeal to the Ontario appeal court. The act would provide public ownership of telephone systems by rural municipalities.

All systems would be required to give 24-hour service. At present some 6,000 subscribers receive only part-time service.

The act also would provide a maximum $50 fine or 30 days in jail for anyone who refuses to give up the line for an emergency call.

A similar penalty is provided for use of "indecent, obscene, blasphemous or grossly insulting language."

A person is also liable for a maximum fine of $50 or 30 days in jail for revealing content of a conversation not intended for that person, in other words eavesdropping who gossip. This applies to telephone company employees as much as the general public.
